Moon Ship 74,750 Miles In Space

Destination Of Space Craft Is Said Uncertain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's "Pioneer" moon rocket shot into space Saturday on an epoch-making flight that broke the barrier of gravity for the first time but failed to find a path to the moon.

Less than 15 hours after its predawn launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Air Force rocket had streaked 67,830 miles into unlimited space - a new altitude record for a man - made vehicle.

But the Defense Department said the Pioneer had veered too far off course to reach the "near vicinity" of the moon and go into the hoped - for orbit. Its ultimate destination was uncertain.

MILESTONE

The Pioneer ranks with Russia's Sputnik I earth satellite as a milestone in man's attempted conquest of space.

The latest position report, almost a third of the projected 225-000 - mile trip to the moon, indicated the rocket might be slowing down or perhaps striking a course more parallel to the earth.

Shortly after it roared off the Canaveral launching pad at 4:42 a. m. EDT, the Pioneer was clocked at 25,000 miles an hour. by 7:47 p.m., it was making about 3,000 mph.

Between 4:47 p. m. and 8:09 p.m., the rocket covered some 2,650 miles.

Nevertheless, the "Pioneer" was regarded as a tremendous scientific achievement and a giant step for the United States in the race for space.

It was the first man- made object to break the bonds of gravity and it had climbed higher than any previous man made vehicle.

The history - making Pioneer was fired from its Cape Canaveral, Fla., launching pad at 4:42 a.m. EDT.

After studying reports from tracking stations, the Air Force concluded the Pioneer had gone too far off course to come within 50,000 miles of the moon, the proximinity needed for a successful moon shot.

The odds were 10 to 1 against this achievement, and Air Force scientists were uncertain of the rocket's ultimate destination. They said it would depend on the still unfired fourth - stage "retro rocket" which originally was intended to give it the boost into orbit.

The projectile zoomed skyward at 25,000 miles an hour shortly after the launching, with all three rockets firing in sequence. The first stage, however, apparently flew straight up too long before

Nike Hercules Launchers Are Fixed In East

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — U.S. Army missilemen installed the first of their Nike Hercules launchers on a mountaintop near Taipei Saturday and began assembly of the atomic - capable ground-to-air rockets.

Across the Formosa Strait, meantime, the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu braced for an anticipated resumption of Chinese Communist attack when the Red ceasefire ends Sunday midnight.

UPI Correspondent William Miller reported from Quemoy City that soldiers and civilians will go into their underground tunnels, caves and dugouts early Sunday night.

American and Chinese military authorities said the big guns, troops and supplies which poured into Quemoy during the weeklong lull in the Red "artillery blockade" had made the islands stronger than ever.

Radio Moscow Tells Of Shot

LONDON (AP) — Radio Moscow made its first mention of the American moon rocket in a brief broadcast this afternoon, five hours after the launching.

An English-language broadcast beamed to southeast Asia said a Pentagon spokesman had announced the launching of the rocket, "which continues to fly in the direction of the moon."

Didn't Kill Wife; Scared Dozen Women

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The man who threatened to kill his wife has announced that he never intended to carry out the threat. But he scared a dozen women.

The man originally wrote anonymously to Sheriff Owen W. Kilday early last week, saying he would call the sheriff's office at 2:30 a. m. Friday to give the victim's name and would then carry out the death threat at 3 a. m.

But nothing happened. Friday the sheriff received a letter apparently from the man, saying he had never intended to murder anyone and that he had only wanted a "witness" to his wife's infidelity.

GOOD WITNESS

"What better witness can a man have than the sheriff himself?" the man asked in his second letter.

In the first letter he had averred that his wife, the mother of his three children, had left him and was expecting a child by another man.

After a report of the letter was published, more than a dozen women inquired at the sheriff's office. Five of them said they answered the description and circumstances of the letter-writer's wife. Officers investigated four husbands but failed to find one who had made a threat.

In the second letter, the writer said, "Now you know how many men are in my position and what might happen if the law isn't enforced. I understand that adultery is a crime as well as a sin."

GRAVEL DISPUTE

Long Warns Demo Party On Ouster

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Gov. Earl Long warned the national Democratic party Saturday it's hard enough to raise party funds in Louisiana without the fuss over national committeeman Camille F. Gravel Jr.

The committeeman without a state lost his job Wednesday when the Democratic State Central Committee booted him out for his support of the national party stand on civil rights.

National chairman Paul Butler immediately sprang to the defense of Gravel, high in party councils, saying he would remain despite the state ouster.

And Gravel insists he will not resign under any circumstances.

Long, who opened the gates for the Gravel ouster by segregationists by permitting the central committee to be called into session, broke his silence after the party action.

"If the national Democratic party is anxious to keep the party together," Long said, "it is hard to understand why it would recognize a man whose thinking is out of line with that of a majority of the Democrats in Louisiana."

Long saved the national party's face in Louisiana when the state bolted to the States Rights cause in 1948. After States Rights Democrats blocked a place on the ballot for the Truman-Barkley ticket,

Reds Extend Best Wishes On Moon Shot

LONDON (UPI) — A Soviet official in London Saturday extended "all good wishes" to the United States on the launching of a moon rocket — and promptly began discussing Soviet successes in the space field.

The spokesman, a diplomat at the Soviet embassy, said the Russians "are not particularly interested at this juncture in efforts to probe the moon's orbit.

(His remark did not jibe with comments by Soviet scientists in Moscow after the launching of Sputnik I on Oct. 4, 1957. At that time, several Russian space experts said they were working on a rocket flight to the moon.)

"The Soviet Union, having got rockets back to earth with dogs aboard," he said, "is concentrating at present on the problems of exit and re-entry into the atmosphere and the effects on metal and life."

This was a reference to the Soviet claim last August that two dogs had been fired into space and successfully returned with no ill effects.

'GREAT INTEREST'

The Soviet diplomat added that the Soviet Union was "watching the American activity with great interest."

Throughout the day, however, there was no comment from the Soviet Union itself.

The first mention of the American moonshoot by Radio Moscow came in an english-language broadcast beamed to southeast Asia at 9:30 a.m. EST.

The broadcast, not heard in Russia, quoted a United Press International report from Washington on the successful firing.

Western European scientists cheered the launching of the rocket as a milestone in man's conquest of space.

Kenneth Gatland, vice chairman of the British Interplanetary Society said a successful orbit around the moon would mark "the crowning achievement of modern science."

Prof. H. S. W. Massey, chairman of the committee which directs Britain's rocket research program called it "an extraordinary feat."

FROM MOON SHOT

Rich Dividends Will Be Reaped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The moon rocket Pioneer launched from Florida in a major scientific achievement Saturday will not come close to the moon but still may return rich dividends in space data.

The Air Force, which had hoped to put the tiny craft within 50,000 miles of the moon, confirmed Saturday night earlier indications that the rocket had strayed from the planned course.

On the basis of the latest analysis of data received from the Pioneer's position in space at 4:45 p.m. (EST), the Air Force said it will not reach "the near vicinity of the moon."

A short time earlier it had been reported that at 3:47 p.m. EST Pioneer had reached an altitude of about 65,000 miles.

MISS TARGET

The Air Force announcement did not define what it meant by the "near vicinity of the moon. But it seemed certain that the Pioneer would miss its target by more than the 50,000-mile figure which the scientists had aimed for.

The Air Force said project scientists were making analyses to determine the best time to fire the fourth stage retro rocket in the payload "to provide a final path that would continue to provide the most valuable scientific data."

If the Pioneer had been successful in reaching the vicinity of the moon it had been planned to fire this rocket so as to slow it down and perhaps enable it to go into orbit around the moon.

"By interrogation of the command communications system, position and velocity data, radiation, micrometeorite, magnetic field measurements, internal temperature levels, and Pioneer spin rate data have been received on a continuous basis," the Air Force said. "The TV camera has not yet been activated."

Lofted from Cape Canaveral, Fla. at 3:42 a.m. (EST), the 85-pound space craft electrified scientists around the world by hurtling far out on its trail - blazing trip through the celestial void.

Twelve hours after starting its flight, the moon rocket was about 65,000 miles out in space and slowing down rapidly, although that was expected. Its three-stage takeoff zoomed the rocket up to a speed of about 25,000 miles an hour to tear it loose from the earth's main gravity field.

Unemployment Compensation For Vets Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new unemployment compensation program for veterans with peacetime military service goes into effect Oct. 27.

The Labor Department announced Saturday several states have signed agreements to participate in the plan and said the others are expected to sign before the effective dat.

The program is based on a new law passed by Congress. Its purpose is to help servicemen and women adjust to civilian life by providing some money to live on while looking for a job.

Benefits will be provided for weeks of unemployment after Oct. 27 on the same basis as idled workers are paid benefits under state unemployment compensation laws. These benefits presently average about $31 a week.

To be eligible the ex-serviceman must have started military service after Jan. 31, 1955, the official end of the Korean War, or if he started service before then cannot have been discharged before Oct. 27, 1958.

States will act as agents of the federal government in distributing the benefits. They will provide jobless protection to the estimated 2,800,000 present members of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, bringing the number of workers with unemployment insurance to 45 million.

States and territories which had signed participating agreements with the federal government by last Wednesday included:

Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Texas.

Fire At Tallulah Claims 2 Lives

TALLULAH (Special) — A predawn blaze swept through a 4-room Negro home here yesterday, killing two occupants, rendering the house practically a total loss, and causing slight damage to an adjoining two-story garage apartment.

Fire Chief Whit Erwin identified the victims as Clarence Bell, Jr., 22, and his son, Flozell Doyle Bell, age 4.

Death was pronounced due to suffocation but both Negroes also suffered burns, the chief added.

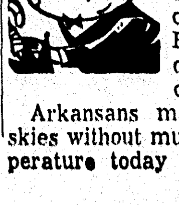
Erwin said he believed the fire originated with a cigarette.

Other occupants of the flat, which was owned by Lonzo Williams, Negro, were the Cleve Stuart family, Alberta White and John Hooper.

The alarm was received at 4:20 a.m. and firemen battled the blaze until shortly after 5 a.m.

Hazy Skies Seen For Monroe Area

Hazy skies and slightly cooler temperatures are forecast for the Monroe area today and tomorrow.



Readings yesterday were 75 and 58, compared with Friday's 76 and 62. The latest pollen count available is Friday's recording of 199 grains per cubic yard of air.

Arkansans may expect cloudy skies without much change in temperature today and tomorrow.

'Fantastic' Possibilities Are Advanced

Might Hit The Moon 10 Years Later

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Pioneer, history's first moon rocket, might not even come close to the moon Monday but might hit it 10 years later.

The rocket might even orbit the moon indefinitely to welcome the first satellite of a satellite in our solar system.

Or the moon might "jar" the rocket, losing it in outer space forever.

These are but a few of the "fantastic" possibilities say scientists of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory.

Almost perfect precision in launching and timing would be needed to have the rocket circle the far side of the moon as planned, they point out.

ROCKET AIMED

Launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 3:42 (EST) Saturday morning, the rocket was aimed at a spot in space the moon will occupy in approximately 2½ days, about noon Monday.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, associate director of the Smithsonian observatory, says launching of the rocket, whether it gets near the moon, is already a "stupendous" achievement.

The rocket might orbit the moon and the earth a thousand times for the next 10 years, he says. Eventually the rocket might succumb to the web of the moon's weak gravitational pull, or the six times stronger tug of the earth.

If Pioneer travels too fast in its celestial rendezvous with the moon it could miss altogether or be deflected "back" towards the moon, circle the satellite and orbit back towards earth making a figure-eight pattern in space.

Final Hours Of Red Cease-Fire Are Waited Out

TAIPEI (AP) — Nationalist China waited out the final hours of the Communist-proclaimed seven-day cease-fire in Formosa Strait.

Under the silent Red guns, the Nationalist garrison on Quemoy has been solidly strengthened by new troops, heavy cannon and more supplies than it had before the firing began Aug. 23.

Evacuation of up to an estimated 6,000 civilians from Quemoy and Little Quemoy to Formosa was in its final stage late Saturday. The stream of refugees—mostly elderly persons and children was attempting to beat the Sunday midnight deadline, when the firing might resume.

For the third straight day cargo ships, including two merchant freighters and two LSTs—landing ships tank—stood off Quemoy beach and pumped ammunition, oil, barbed wire, blankets and foodstuffs into the island. Those waiting to be evacuated boarded the cargo ships after supplies were unloaded.

Nationalists officials have repeatedly expressed the belief the Reds will start shooting again when it suits them.

REASONS GIVEN

Why Is America Trying For Moon?

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) —Why are we reaching for the moon?

We will find no life there. On that, all scientists are agreed.

The moon has no life-giving atmosphere. It is too hot for survival on its bright side and too cold on the dark side. An eternal curtain of dust hangs over the orb.

But a trip around the moon, even by a robot satellite, would mark man's first linkup of the planets, a scientific stride rivaling the harnessing of the atom.

Furthermore, reconnaissance of the moon would unravel secrets of our own beginning.

The moon and earth have traveled in space together since the creation of the solar system as we know it. Many scientists believe that they sprang into orbit from the same solar explosion, two vast chunks hurled into perpetual juxtaposition more than 200,000 miles apart.

But the earth, due to its greater density and retention of heat, became molten at one point. The heavy metals sank to the center and hardened into an inaccessible core. A thick crust of sand and rock formed around it and the minerals found in this crust are, relatively speaking, rare.

Many astronomers, but by no means all, believe that the moon shook off its solar heat and never melted. Therefore it conceivably

'Pioneer' Veers Too Far Off Its Course To Moon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force reported Saturday night that the Pioneer moon rocket had climbed to an altitude of 74,750 miles above the earth as of 8:45 p.m. CST.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—America's moon rocket hurtled through space Saturday night on an epoch-making flight, but the Air Force disclosed the "Pioneer" payload will not reach the "near vicinity" of the moon.

Although the lunar probe is well beyond 65,000 miles from earth, the Air Force said it veered too far off course to come within 50,000 miles or less of the moon-the proximity needed for it to be a successful moon shot.

The Air Force said scientists were not seeking to determine the best time to fire off the small "retro" rocket carried by the lunar probe. This rocket, mounted ahead of the probe "package," was intended to kick the Pioneer into the moon's gravitation field.

GREAT STRIDE

The television camera carried aboard the Pioneer had not been activated, the Air Force added.

Man's first great stride toward the stars was taken early Saturday when the Pioneer broke free of the earth's gravity pull and headed thousands of miles farther into the unknown between the planets than any man - made object before it.

Despite the fact the payload did not reach its goal of orbiting the moon, free flight through space was achieved for the first time in history.

The Air Force Ballistic Missile Division in Los Angeles, in the latest report on Pioneer's position, said the 75-pound payload had traveled 45,300 nautical miles from the earth. If it follows a proper course it should arrive in the vicinity of the moon late Monday afternoon.

Even in the chilly hours before dawn, when knots of observers tipped off by the "cape grapevine" began arriving on the beach there was the sense that this was to be an historic day.

Jury Trying To Decide On Liquor Case

ABERDEEN, Miss. (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury tried Saturday night to reach a verdict in the liquor conspiracy trial of six persons.

The jury returned to the courtroom for instructions three times before taking supper and going back for further deliberation. The case went to the jury at 4:14 p.m.

The government pinned much of its argument on testimony by informer Floyd Leahman and his wife, Margaret. Counsel for the defense hammered at the couple's testimony as a major part of their case.

Accused of conspiring to violate federal internal revenue liquor laws were Urmond Floyd Bond of Handsboro; Ramsey Cameron of Hancock County; Mrs. Joyce Humphries and her father, Isaac Kelly of Mobile, Ala.; Wesley Ladner of Harrison County, and Buck Wagner of Forest. They were among 14 named in an indictment.

TESTIFIED

Leahman testified under questioning by the government that he has a criminal record including attempted smuggling of aliens and theft of government prop

He claimed he became an informer for the government soon after beginning work for Al C. Roberson of Handsboro, named in the indictment but not yet on trial.

He said Roberson was a supplier of whisky and most of those named in the indictment were

Accord Reached On Commodities For Area Needy

After a final conference Friday with agricultural officials in Washington, Congressman Otto E. Passman said in Monroe, Saturday, "it was definitely agreed that surplus food commodities will be distributed to distressed families in the fifth district."

Passman pointed out that "many farm families in the district are suffering severe losses in their cotton crops as a result of recent gushing rains."

The congressman said the commodity distribution program will be put into effect on Nov. 1 or shortly thereafter.

Commodities presently available for the program are dry milk, cheese, corn meal, rice, flour and butter.

The same officials who handled the program during a previous emergency will handle it during this emergency, Passman said.

Passman declared that he would continue to work unceasingly to see that the program is effective in helping "unfortunate citizens who need this type of help." He said the program would eliminate "much hardship in the district."

Passman returned to Monroe Friday night after a round of conferences with agricultural officials in Washington. Earlier, he had completed a Far Eastern inspection tour.

'Pioneer' Veers Too Far Off Its Course To Moon

hardware, took to the skies right on the target schedule—at 3:42 a.m. EST—the feeling grew that it couldn't fail.

Up and up, borne by a blazing gold ball of exhaust, climbed the big white moon bird. As it reached several thousand feet the deep throb of its main stage rocket engine reverberated down the beaches.

Far into the dark, clear night the glow traveled until Pioneer appeared to take a place among the stars. Then, just before it vanished after two and a half minutes of flight, a blue glow bathed the pinpoint of exhaust. This marked the ignition of the second stage, and separation of the first which fell far out at sea from a height of 50 miles.

Even the three successful Explorer satellite launchings and the one good Vanguard had not set the beach so abuzz. Veteran observers, many of them missile workers at the cape, slapped each other on the back and exclaimed, "Boy, wasn't she a beauty!"

Two hours after launching, with Pioneer already thousands of miles on its way, Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of the Air Force Missile Test Center here, had his day.

Some 120 reporters and photographers broke into spontaneous applause when the handsome general, wearing an open collar, ap- four top officials of the moon shoot.

The press remembered how Yates had stood aside when the Army scored with its Explorers and the Navy with the Vanguard. He also had been the man in the middle of some notable Air Force failures, especially the first moon rocket that exploded only 10 miles away Aug. 17.

With Yates were Brig. Gen. Ossie Ritland, deputy vice commander of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division; Dr. Robert Bennett, of the Space Technology Laboratory (STL) on the West Coast; Dr. Louis Dunn, president of the STL, and Dr. Abe Silverstein, director of the space development of the new National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which had overall control of the project.

Dunn gave the first hint that the moon rocket might not be spinning out right on course. He said that the first stage "programmed high," meaning that it did not roll over to the northeast as soon as expected, and that the desired velocity — reported to be 25,000 miles an hour — was not quite obtained at the point of escape from the earth's gravity clutch.

But, whether they reach the moon or not, the test directors showed obvious satisfaction that they had made the big breakthrough.

The rocket already had achieved one of its three main goals—"proper powered flight performance" — from its three main stages. The second stage, a modified version of the Navy Vanguard second stage, was still an "experimental device" before today. The first stage was the Air Force's oft-tested Thor intermediate range ballistic missile.

The third stage had never been flight tested, but being a solid propellant device less complicated than the volatile liquid fuel rockets, the designers were pretty sure it would work. The third stage also was from the vanguard program, an advanced version of the solid-fuel rocket that shot one tiny satellite into orbit.

Another main goal was to obtain scientific data on the 221,000-mile flight to the moon and about the moon itself. The third goal was to achieve enough control over a rocket's trajectory to place the scientific payload in the vicinity of the moon, say within 40,000 miles where it could orbit the lunar sphere.

For its faraway mission, undreamed of not so many years ago, the payload contained 39.6 pounds of instruments. These included an ion chamber to measure cosmic radiation that has become the main hazard in proposed manned space-travel; a magneometer to assess the moon's magnetic field, a crude television scanner which could send back an idea of what the moon's always hidden dark side looks like, and a device to measure the density of meteorite particles encountered on the journey.

A final punch in the payload was a so-called "retro" rocket forming the core of the doorknob-shaped robot. This was to be fired if and when the Pioneer moved close to the moon with the idea of easing it into an orbital path.

Why Is America Trying For Moon?

could hold vast treasures in mineral deposits close to its crater-pocked surface.

Instruments aboard a satellite approaching within even a few thousand miles of the moon could probe its dust-shield and, by taking magnetic readings, indicate the composition of the moon's surface.

If the moon, like the earth should have put a crust around its metallic core, that crust would be more like the one originally created than the crust of the earth has been since the dawn of history. The surface of the earth has been deluged, covered by sandstorms, eroded and distorted by earthquakes over the centuries.

The moon in its eternal airlessness, has stood in space like a hothouse—or an ice house, depending on which side you look at it.

For that reason, man has taken great care in his first reach for the moon not to contaminate it. The moon rocket was not supposed to strike the moon face-on, but there was a possibility of lunar collision with the robot or its third stage. So the moon rocket got an ultra-violet ray bath to sterilize it before launching.

Hard Rains Pose Texas Flood Threat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hard rains in its watershed sent the Rio Grande on another rise Saturday and posed flood threats to Brownsville and Matamoros in the Lower Valley.

Heavy rains fell above the big Falcon Reservoir along the lower Devil's River, a tributary that meets the Rio Grande near Del Rio. This water sent the boundary stream to a 15-foot noon crest at Eagle Pass.

Downstream, Laredo had 1.62 inches and Falcon itself 1.81. The Weather Bureau said high stages could be expected along the Rio Grande from Langtry to Falcon.

This prompted the International Boundary Commission to increase releases from Falcon from 23,000 to 26,600 cubic feet a second—and still the reservoir picked up 30,000 acre-feet of water Friday night.

The Brownsville Weather Bureau said the river below the dam would reach flood stage of 18 feet by Monday at Brownsville and precautions should be taken there and in neighboring Matamoros in Mexico. The river at Brownsville stood at 17.7 feet Saturday.

Rio Grande City braced for a stage of 15.1 feet Sunday and 15.6 feet Monday. Mercedes expected 21.8 feet Sunday and 22 feet, one foot above flood stage, Monday.

Falcon itself was a gargantuan lake sprawled over 96,912 acres. The reservoir held a record 3,258,280 acre-feet of water.

Elsewhere, rains fell at such scattered Texas points as Plainview, Lubbock, Midland, Waco and Brownsville.

Plainview measured only .10 inch but it stopped cotton and grain Sorghum harvest.

The cool front that had embraced all the state sent temperatures as low as 57 in the afternoon at Wichita Falls. Before dawn Saturday, the mercury dipped to 43 at Dalhart high in the Panhandle.

Other rainfall for 24 hours ending at 6 p.m. Saturday included Abilene .24 inch, Austin .69, Brownsville 1.04, Corpus Christi .14, Laredo .95, Midland .63, San Angelo 13, San Antonio .75, Waco .23, Wichita Falls .18, Beeville .01, Cotulla 1.37, Junction .34, Big Spring .20, Del Rio .14 and Llano 1.30.

Maximum temperatures Saturday ranged from 64 at Waco to 87 at Laredo.

U.S. To Have Auto Grand Prix For First Time

PARIS (UPI) — The United States will have an automobile Grand Prix like those of the European countries for the first time in 1959, the Sports Committee of the International Automobile Assn. announced Saturday.

The committee, meeting here, said that the U. S. Grand Prix using the formula No. 1 (up to two and a half liter without supercharged engines) would take place on the Sebring, Fla. race track next March 22.

The Americans will thus open the racing season since the Argentine Automobile Club has declined to organize its Grand Prix next year because of the financial side of the operation.

The second grand prix, also rating for the world driving championships, will be the Monte Carlo one on May 10. The Indianapolis 500 race, also rating for the title, will take place on May 30.

The following day the Grand Prix of the Netherlands will be run in Holland, thus preventing competitors from taking part in both races.

gravity out in space slowed the rocket down after this initial burst of speed, however, and at the 65,000 mile distance it was down to a velocity of approximately 3,000 miles an hour.

The smooth precision of the Air Force launching, after failure of the first attempt two months ago, drew cheers from scientists around the world. Prof. Alfred Lovell, in charge of the world's largest radio telescope at Jodrell Bank, England, called it "an amazing achievement" even though the rocket was off course.

The huge Jodrell Bank telescope was one of several tracking stations that zeroed in on Pioneer's epochal flight to heights never before achieved.

Pleads Guilty To Miss. Robbery

LAUREL, Miss. (AP) — Two Laurel men pleaded guilty to the armed robbery of a football stadium ticket booth Sept. 10 and were sentenced to seven years each in state penitentiary.

Charles Edward Webb and Denver Hickson, both in their 20s, begged the mercy of the court and circuit Judge Lansford Casey pronounced sentence immediately.

The men were charged with holding up the ticket booth and fleeing with $115. Hickson was identified as the gunman and Webb as driver of the get-away car.

Rocket Tracking System Worldwide

By JACK LEFLER

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—A worldwide tracking system swung into feverish action today as the moon rocket shot into space.

Picking up signals from the moon-bound missile's powerful transmitter, far-flung stations relayed the information to an awesomely complex data reduction center in Inglewood.

From the center is coming the world's first lunar travelogue.

The hub of the tracking network is operated by the Air Force ballistic missile division.

Its ears are ground tracking stations at Manchester, England; Singapore; Hawaii; Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., and Millstone Mountain, N. H., and nine widely scattered minitrack stations of the Naval Research Laboratory.

The Hawaii and Singapore stations were built especially for this project.

The Manchester station uses the huge radar telescope at Jodrell Banks which recently tracked the Vanguard satellite at distances up to 2,500 miles.

These ground stations are receiving telemetry data from the rocket. They record it on magnetic tape. Information on the missile's position is transmitted to the Inglewood headquarters. Tape data will be sent by plane.

A 40-member team headed by Lt. Col. Donald Latham and Dr. G. E. Mueller mans the Data Reduction Center of Space Technological Laboratories here.

As the messages come in from the tracking stations, mathematicians take the individual reports, convert the various time designations to a standard figure and check for errors in transmission. Then the figures are transferred to computer punch cards.

Now the lightning-fast IBM electronic digital computer takes over. It is the heart of the entire operation.

It digests the facts and figures and produces the answers in rows of figures.

These figures tell the experts where the rocket is in relation to earth and moon.

The data center has two-way contact with each of the five principal stations. These points communicate with each other by conference calls.

The Naval laboratory's minitrack stations are at Ancon, Peru; Antigua, Leeward Islands; Antofagasta, Chile; Cotopaxi, Ecuador; Grand Turk, Bahamas; Johannesburg, South Africa; San Antonio, Cuba, Havana, Cuba; Woomera, Australia, and Santiago, Chile.

They transmit their reports to the Air Force Missile Test Center, Cape Canaveral, Fla. The information is relayed to Inglewood.

The rocket has a small television-type, infra-red scanner to relay pictures back to earth. The five major tracking stations are equipped to receive this transmission on magnetic tapes.

Experts say it will take a lot of analysis before a picture of what the rocket "saw" can be constructed.

Everyday Life Art Elements Show Theme

COLUMBIA (Special) — Art in everyday life was the theme of the third annual Caldwell Parish Art Festival held yesterday in the Community Center here.

There were over 500 entries in the painting and crafts categories of the event as well as several entries in the seven divisions of needle work.

DISCUSSIONS

During the judging of the entries, visitors to the festival—conceded to be the largest of its kind in the state — heard talks by Miss Jeraldine Beck of Shreveport, who spoke on writing for publication; Judge V. M. Mouser —the value of libraries; Robert H. Evans of Monroe — family participation in art; Amos Lee Armstrong — compiling and illustrating family histories; Beuford Jacka, Monroe — architecture and history; a dramatic reading by Lallage Feazel, and a slide lecture on art in European travels by Miss Elizabeth Bethea, head of the Art Department at Louisiana Tech. A style show directed by Mrs. Wooten Morris and Mrs. Jim Sherman was held following the noon hour.

Using five abstract paintings as examples, Robert Evans, Monroe industrialist explained how he and his family had been brought into closer contact through the search for something pleasing to put on the walls of a new home.

Moon Rocket May Assume Earth Orbit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Scientific checks on the progress of the moon rocket indicated Saturday night that instead of flying straight out into space it may be assuming a path more in orbit to the earth.

The rocket gained only about 2,800 miles in distance from the earth between 3:47 p.m. EST and 7:09 p.m.

In midafteroon the rocket was about 65,000 miles out in space and in the latest reports its position was figured at 67,830 miles in space.

The difference of about 2,800 miles was by far the smallest gain in altitude of any of the position reports released by the Air Force.

Officials at the Pentagon speculated that this might mean that Pioneer was beginning to flatten out into a position more in orbit to the earth rather than continuing its flight directly into outer space.

Statistics On Rocket To The Moon

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla (UPI) — Vital statistics of Saturday's moon rocket:

Total weight—52.2 tons.

Total height—88.1 feet.

First stage—Standard Air Force Thor intermediate range ballistic missile; weight more than 50 tons; thrust approximately 150,000 pounds; liquid fuel.

Second stage — Modified Vanguard second stage as used in Thor - Able tests with addition of high spin rockets. Liquid fuel ignites automatically on contact with oxidizer; weight more than two tons, thrust about 7,500 pounds.

Third stage — Advanced Vanguard third stage; solid fuel engine, stage together with payload covered by streamlined nose cone cover to be jettisoned after second stage separation; weight more than 400 pounds, thrust about 2,500 pounds.

Payload—Contains solid propellant "terminal" rocket (termed the fourth stage by the Air Force) in nose to brake vehicle when approaches lunar gravity; instrumentation package contains batteries, telementry, ion chamber to measure radiation and electronic scanner. Telementry includes measurement of meteorite density, earth and moon magnetic fields and thrust chamber of terminal rocket to determine if it fires; weight of payload 85 pounds; instruments, 25 pounds, thrust of terminal rocket 3,000 pounds.

REWARD OFFERED

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Dr. Themistocles Dervis, Greek Cypriot mayor of Nicosia, Thursday night offered a $14,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the gunmen who shot and killed an Englishwoman and wounded another in Famagusta last week. It was the first time in Cyprus' crisis that a Greek Cypriot official has appealed to the population to provide such information.

Gravel's Re!noval

The removal of Camille F. Gravel as national Democratic committeemen from Louisiana came as no surprise either to those who opposed him or to his supporters. The vote had been closely predicted in advance, Mr. Gravel's backers saying they would be pleased to get 32 votes for his retention. They fell two votes short of that number, the vote being 69-30 for removal.

Probably the person most hopeful that he would remain in office was Mr. Gravel himself. He made a dramatic plea and apparently was so convinced of the justness of his position that he thought he might sway enough votes to enable him to hold onto the office. There was no indication that his talk changed any votes, so firmly were the opinions of the members of the Louisiana Democratic executive committee fixed in advance.

Mr. Gravel's principal plea was that he had a right to his own beliefs on what is morally wrong or right. This contention was not challenged and in a free country such as the United States it could not well be challenged. The committeeman's right to his own beliefs was conceded but that was as far as it went.

It happened that Mr. Gravel's beliefs were directly contrary to those of a big majority of the state committee. This being true, he could hardly expect the committee members to want him to represent them on a matter considered so vital in the south. If an officeholder's opinions differ greatly from those of his electors or constituents, he faces the choice of espousing the wishes of those whom he represents or of turning that task over to some one else. He has a free choice, but he must not expect to continue to be the envoy of the people whose opinion he opposes.

Mr. Gravel contended after the vote that the ouster means nothing and that the national Democratic committee will not accept the Louisiana committee's action. Opponents dismissed this argument, asking, "If Gravel doesn't represent the Democrats in Louisiana, who can he represent?"

The showdown will come in December when Jett M. Talbot, Bernice businessman, who was elected to succeed Mr. Gravel, presents his credentials to the national committee.

The move to oust Mr. Gravel drew support from nearly all of the various political factions in Louisiana. Those supporting the ouster included:

Gov. Earl K. Long, whose supporters on the committee went almost solidly against Mr. Gravel; W. M. Rainach, segregation leader, who is almost always at odds with Gov. Long; N. B. Carstarphen, Caddo parish Democratic leader and former state committee chief, who always is on the opposite side of the political fence from Gov. Long; Leander Perez, Plaquemine parish czar and bitter enemy of Long, and Sam Jones, former governor, who also is opposed to Long.

Rep. John Sidney Garrett of Haynesville, who introduced the motion to relieve Mr. Gravel of his duties, said the committeeman "has been tried, convicted and condemned of treason by the words of his own mouth. In his integration views he does not represent the people of Louisiana. His job was to represent the people of this state, not to come back here and tell the people he represents the national Democratic party. We have given him a year to get in step with the people and defend, rather than destroy, our customs and traditions. He has not done so."

This statement about sums up most of the opinion on Mr. Gravel's position.

Russia's Joker

As usual, Russia seems to be holding a joker in its proposal for an international agreement to end atomic firing tests. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said Russia is planning to continue the tests until the number of firings made by the Soviet Union equal the number of firings made by the United States and England combined.

This is Russia's "nice way" of saying that country intends to continue its atomic advancement while the United States and England stand still. It wants an equal number of tries so that it can equal both the United States and England in atomic know-how. One trouble with this plan, however, is that if each test produces a certain amount of knowledge, Russia would know more than either the United States or England. That is the kind of agreement that nation is looking for—one that will give it an advantage.

There is the further proposition that an equal number of tests might not give an equal amount of knowledge, since Russia has the advantage of having stolen or acquired a good deal of information from the United States and England and might, therefore, be able to make better use of the tests than did those countries in the earlier stages.

The whole thing is a little like sopping up molasses with hunks of cornbread. First you have a little too much molasses and then a little too much cornbread.

If we wait until the amount of knowledge and the number of experiments on atomic power come out exactly even, we will never reach an agreement to end the tests, especially if Russia wants knowledge and tests equal to the combined total of two other countries.

There is one good thing about Russia's lion's share proposals for ending the tests. It probably means that the United States won't be lured into a tricky agreement, as it might be if Russia should offer what seemed to be a fairer proposition.

What reason is there to think that either nation would not use atomic bombs if we were to go to war?

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Conservative Republicans Are Supporting Knowland

Much depends upon the next election, for it is a forerunner of 1960 when a new President is to be elected. The Democrats believe that there is a trend toward them and that they will carry both New York State and California which in practical terms could eliminate both Richard Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller as Republican possibilities. It is now generally taken for granted that Nixon will be nominated on the Republican side, but it is also assumed that if Nelson Rockefeller is elected governor of New York in 1958, he will seek the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

Republicans are anxious to elect William Knowland as governor of California because that will arrest the trend in that state toward the Democrats. The conservative Republicans are anxious to have Knowland elected because he represents constructive thinking in the United States. Also, if Knowland is elected governor of California, there can be no question as to Nixon's nomination by the 1960 Republican convention.

The Republicans are also anxious that Senators Barry Goldwater and George Malone should be re-elected to the United States Senate because they represent the kind of Republicanism which regards New York as a warren of confusion.

Enormous sums of money are being poured into Arizona and Nevada to defeat these Republicans. Much of that money comes from New York and some from Washington. It is labor money and liberal money, often contributed by bankers who have not yet discovered that they cannot control the United States through their enemies any more than through their friends. Although occasionally they can effect a fix, the smart politician stays away from them because Wall Street is like a sieve where everybody knows what everybody else is doing. Anyhow the combination of labor racket money and Wall Street money often hurts a good man. It did Senator Pat McCarran.

The campaign in most parts is too costly and too dull. The reason is television. Party workers are not too excited about television because they like to be seen by a candidate, to shake his hand, to hope that he will remember each one. Television is cold light in a smoke-filled club room. The voter might listen to a politician on television but that depends somewhat on what else is on. Nevertheless, television is now the fashion and it is very expensive and politicians find it troublesome to raise all the money they need for it.

This not only affects the great men who are running for governorships or for the United States Senate, but also the local candidates who in the growing cities find it difficult to ring door bells and kiss babies but who nevertheless hope that they can reach the eyes and ears of their constituents.

As there are few issues to discuss, all candidates resort either to ad hominem arguments or to dodging the issue. For instance, the bankers and the big industrialists generally favor peace at any price because they fear that they will be eliminated in the next war by the ferocity of government controls. However, the course of events is so rapid and decisions have to be made so quickly that no one has the time or inclination to bother to ask their opinions. Perhaps one reason that John Foster Dulles is not too popular among the Wall Street bankers and the cafe society repeaters of "well-informed sources," is that he, who for decades professionally advised these men, has no time or inclination to listen to their advice. The Wall Street mind no longer plays a great role in American politics.

In the peculiarity of the 1958 campaign, these are factors that need to be considered. Issues have been eliminated. Of course, the South has segregation, but it also has a one-party system. It is difficult to distinguish between a so-called liberal and a so-called conservative in either party, except that when a candidate's liberalism conforms to a certain pattern, he is likely to be endorsed by the ADA (Americans for Democratic Action), a Social Democrat group that infiltrates both major parties. No great foreign issues have arisen among the parties, except that the Democrats say that the Republicans do everything all wrong and the Republicans still believe that the Democrats are responsible for Soviet Russia stealing the atom bomb.

So what is there to talk about?

Illegal Narcotics In U.S. Continue Major Problem

Despite Congressional investigations, continuous crackdowns by law enforcement agencies and new laws to curb its evils, illegal narcotics in the United States is still a major National problem.

While the dope situation may not be hopeless it is certainly desperate and shows no signs of improving.

In terms of dollars the cost of fighting the dope menace runs high. In terms of human misery the cost is incalculable. We have 60,000 drug addicts in this country -- more than all the western Nations combined. And since World War II traffic in illegal narcotics has tripled.

Tragically, 13 per cent of all the addicts in the United States are under 21. Equally startling is the fact that 50 per cent of all crime in U. S. cities can be traced to drug addiction.

This vicious problem is being attacked on many fronts but the results are not too heartening. There are only two Federal hospitals for treating addicts — at Fort Worth, Texas, and Lexington, Kentucky — and they are doing all they can. But at best they can only handle about 1,500 addicts together.

There are two distinct schools of thought on how to lick addiction. One group, relatively small, believes that narcotics should be legalized. In this way the addict could come out of hiding and receive proper treatment and rehabilitation, they say. This also would eliminate the criminal aspect of the problem since the peddler would have no customers and the addict would not have to steal or commit other crimes to get money to buy drugs. But a much larger and equally vocal group feels this would only pamper the addict, simply make it easier for him to perpetuate the habit.

Federal Narcotics Commissioner Harry J Anslinger holds no brief for the dope peddler or pusher. Only stiff prison sentences — or even the death penalty in extreme cases — will wipe out traffic in illegal narcotics, he believes. He points to a number of cities where penalties have been increased and the traffic has gone down proportionately.

Congress felt much the same as Anslinger in 1956 when it passed a bill providing a no-parole 40-year sentence as the maximum penalty for dope peddlers on their third conviction. This same bill calls for the death sentence for anyone convicted of selling narcotics to a person 18 years old or under. No one so far, however, has been handed such a sentence.

The 1,000 - bed U. S. Public Health Hospital at Fort Worth has facilities for treating about 500 addicts and as many neuro-psychiatric patients. At Lexington about 90 per cent of the 1,200 beds are set aside for treatment of addicts. Since it opened in 1935 Lexington has treated more than 55,000 addicts and Fort Worth has handled more than 11,000 in its 20-year history.

Extremely discouraging is the fact that less than 15 per cent of the addicts who have been treated at these hospitals remain free of the habit after they are discharged. One out of every three addicts returns for another "cure.' About 40 per cent of the admissions to Lexington and Fort Worth are repeaters. This is one of the disheartening aspects of the problem for if a cure can't be found in a hospital where can it be found?

About two - thirds of the addicts admitted to the two Federal Institutions go there on their own volition and the remainder are committed. But only 25 per cent of those who go voluntarily remain for the recommended minimum treatment period of four-and-a-half months. A recent study shows that 50 per cent of the remaining 50 per cent leave before a month has passed. This is hardly enough time for doctors to study their individual problems let alone help them to break the addiction. Only the one-third admitted under court order are forced to stay in the hospital for the prescribed course of treatment.

Hospital officials say many addicts have been in and out of the Fort Worth and Lexington hospitals as much as 20 and 30 times, but never staying long enough at any one time to be cured of the addiction. This is expensive for the hospital and does little for the addict or his community.

One of the shortcomings in the federal program is the absence of a follow-up system for supervising addicts after their release from the hospital. When the Senate investigated the narcotics situation it was discovered that hospital authorities know nothing of what happens to two out of three discharged addicts.

Narcotics officials believe the period immediately after an addict leaves the hospital is just as important as the time he spends in the institution. Reason for this is that the addict is subjected to the same forces which caused him to use the drugs in the first place. Improperly supervised he can easily fall back into his old habits and the vicious circle is begun all over again.

Views Of Our Readers

FAVORS MAJORITY

Editor, World:

I think the time has come for the American people to assert their right for a majority rule in government. Although the executive branch, the Senate and Congress knew that polls taken were 65 per cent of the people were against foreign aid and the mail was 10 to one against they ignored this and only gave a small cut, and, according to the Congressional Record three Louisiana Congressmen voted for foreign aid.

And again we see the majority rule ignored by the decision of the Supreme Court, the Justice Department, and the President himself by enforcing these decisions on the people. Gov. Faubus ran on a ticket against forced mixing of the races and was not against mixing them where it was found that a majority of both the white and Negroes were for it. As we all know, he was overwhelming elected, and in the Little Rock school district where a majority of both the white and Negro voters rejected forced race-mixing. The Supreme Court demands that the President enforce their decision on the people and he agrees. Heretofore we have only known of minority rule in countries ruled by dictators. This should give us a clear picture of what is to come.

And in order to get rid of this confused and dangerous situation we must remove the cause. We should demand that our government sever diplomatic relations with Russia and her satellites and abolish the UN and UNESCO, where the Communists operate unhampered under the guise of diplomatic immunity.

And we should remind the Senators and Congressmen that they are not elected by the executive branch of Government, the lobbyist or by votes of foreign nations, and that we expect them to pass some bills that will correct the present situation, with no loop holes.

Such as curbing the powers of the Supreme Court and to protect the union dues paid by the members from graft and waste by dishonest officials, also pass the bill introduced by Ralph W. Gwin, which would get the Government out of competition to private enterprise. It is estimated that the sale of surplus enterprises owned by the government would bring 50 billion dollars. This applied on the national debt, would reduce the interest on this amount, and private enterprise would pay taxes whereas we have to pay taxes to support them.

The warning flag for higher taxes has already been raised by Senator Bush, a modern Republican, and more will follow, unless we let them know that we expect them to cut out the waste in Government agencies and abolish other agencies where they duplicate others.

116 Rescued At Sea Brought To Hong Kong

HONG KONG (UPI)—The U.S. cruiser Helena, flag ship of the mighty 7th Fleet, arrived here Saturday with 116 passengers rescued in a "spectacular" helicopter airlift from a Norwegian ship that ran aground on a reef in the South China Sea.

All but one of the survivors were Chinese, en route to Singapore after visiting relatives in Communist China. The exception was an Englishman who boarded the ill-fated 3,405 - ton motorship Hoi Wong at Hong Kong before it went to Red China.

The Hoi Wong ran aground Monday on the Bombay Reef near Paracel Island about 400 miles south of Hong Kong. Hong Kong tugs made two futile attempts to free it before the skipper called for American aid.

In response, the Helena broke off gunnery practice in Subic Bay in the Phillipines to race to the rescue. Steaming at top speed, the cruiser reached the stricken ship Friday.

Vice Adm. Frederick N. Kivette, commander of the 7th Fleet, said two Navy helicopters made 27 flights to pick up the passengers and ferry them to safety aboard his flagship.

"The rescue was spectacular," he said during the Helena's four-hour stopover to disembark the passengers. "It certainly was the biggest helicopter rescue anywhere."

NYLON AND HOGS

LONDON (UPI)—The authoritative British medical journal. The Lancet, said Friday that hair brushes with nylon bristles might be one cause of baldness. It cited cases of persons losing hair who said they used brushes with nylon bristles and that hair growth returned to normal when they switched to old - style brushes with hog bristles.

Mercury Leads Road To Heaven

The relationship between mercury poisoning and pink disease (acrodynia) came to my attention recently when a 2½ year old English tot acquired the disorder from mercurized lawn sand. The material had been spread on the lawn to kill unwanted moss. Several days later, rain washed the treated sand into the earth.

Meanwhile, the child played on the lawn and naturally put everything into his mouth, including the weed killer. The youngster developed symptoms of acrodynia, a condition that is rare in this country since the use of teething powders and worm medicines containing mercury became obsolete.

Pink disease was well named because the tiny victims develop pink, painful hands and feet along with a scarlet tipped nose and red cheeks. They perspire profusely, become extremely irritable, rub their hands and feet because of intense itching, and bury the face in a pillow to shut out light that hurts their eyes.

The manifestations become progressively worse unless the disorder is brought under control. Skin ulcers form, teeth and nails loosen, and pulse and blood pressure increase. These youngsters are thoroughly miserable and, unless given help, do considerable damage to the skin and nails.

The situation may persist for months or even a year or two. This was true before mercury was suspected as the cause. Bal is a good antidote, provided treatment is started early.

The tot needs a good nurse to apply soothing lotions and encourage eating so that strength will be maintained. Sedatives foster sleep and liver extract and vitamin B hasten cure. The outlook is good and the majority recover completely, with no residual deformities or abnormalities.

MOUTH CANKERS

Mrs. R. writes: My 16 year old son has repeated canker sores in his mouth and throat. Four to five come at a time, usually the size of a dime. He tried eliminating fresh fruits from his diet but this has not helped. Have you any suggestions?

Reply

This is a stubborn problem because the cause of these lesions is not known. Neither is there a treatment that works in all cases. Two new remedies are worth trying. One is the application of an antibiotic such as tetracycline. The other is a tablet containing hydrocortisone, dissolved slowly in the mouth. The latter was used by two Oxford physicians on 52 patients, with encouraging results. Prescriptions will be needed for both remedies.

HYSTERECTOMY

Mrs. K. writes: Is hysterectomy done only for cancer?

No. Most women undergo the operation because of fibroids of the uterus. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on hysterectomy.

PAINTING AND PREGNANCY

Mrs. Y. writes: Are pregnant women particularly susceptible to the fumes of paint?

Reply

Yes — and to many other unpleasant odors. Pregnant women are likely to be squeamish and easily nauseated.

RAISED METABOLISM

F. T. writes: Can a plus 26 basal metabolism cause shortness of breath?

Reply

Yes, provided the increased metabolism is adding to the work load of the heart.

RUBELLA IS BETTER

Mrs. K. writes: Is three day measles the same as German measles?

Reply

Yes. The technical name of this infection — rubella — is preferred because German measles is entirely different from ordinary measles.

Two Shades Seen In Republicanism

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. — It takes all kinds, not just both kinds. Here in the green-and-golden Shenandoah Valley, the GOP is sending up two U. S. Senators — both conservative but unequally so.

Chapman Revercomb, 63, is courtly and a little ponderous. But he has a rare political appeal. It is the pleasant gift of bestowing his own sense of dignity upon every man he meets. Revercomb could be called the Leaning Tower of Fundamentalism. He believes in all the established virtues of politics and philosophy, but he bends with the prevailing winds. Once an upright and nearly inflexible conservative, he has acknowledged the strength of the left-blowing tempest and found some sound authority in it.

"I'm going to vote liberal or vote conservative, depending on what's good for the country," the Senator told me in this city. "For a man to be hidebound is not to give the best public service, and not to meet the challenges of the times."

Domestically, Revercomb thinks it is all right for the Federal Government to move in on local education, building the schools and subsidizing the teachers and students, and to take over from families and localities the care of the aged and ill. Federal spending on public works is the right way to stimulate the economy, and the Federal Supreme Court (rather than State legislatures) has the final say on eligibility to practice law. In foreign affairs, Revercomb has become a reluctant convert to entangling alliances, to emergency-always aid and to deficit spending.

Revercomb is a Modern Republican, but he is far from being immoderate in his modernity. On a number of key votes which involved aiding Communist Yugoslavia and Poland, defining the Supreme Court's jurisdictional powers, and protecting American industries in foreign trade, he voted against the Administration. There's not any doubt that he yearns for "normalcy" and would be an Old Guardsman in a different phase of history.

Jack Hoblitzell, the junior Senator at 45, is the short, spare, unyielding ramrod of conservative principles. Where Revercomb bends with the wind, Hoblitzell stands like a buffer against it. He has worked since college days on civic committees to improve schools, prisons, public financing and State responsibility. He does not love teachers, students and old folks any less than Revercomb. He has probably given more time and energy to them. But Hoblitzell is against hollering "Uncle" over every local problem. He's for every community supporting its own to the limit of its ability. Despite these strong convictions, the junior Senator is no man of malice.

"My Democratic opponent, Jennings Randolph, is a good fellow and a fine gentleman," Hoblitzell told me. "But he was a New Deal Congressman who voted for TVA, NRA and in 1946 for drafting the railroad workers. I'm against him on all these principles, and I want to stand or fall on the points I'm making. If I get licked, I want it to be on principle, because I won't fish for votes on both sides of the issues. As to Organized Labor, I don't complain about its political activities. But I complain and strongly condemn the business interests for a lack of political activity. Let's take this fight to the voters."

Both of the Senators think that President Eisenhower is dead right in his armed support of the American position in Lebanon and Quemoy. Both voted together on nuerous points of Fundamentalism in the last session.

Each is a man of the highest character. Each represents a characteristic shade of Republicanism. It would be instructive if the November results were a true measure of the public response, but no science is more inexact than politics. The election will reflect personalities as well as issues, completion as well as ideology.

Senator Revercomb, a two-time State-wide winner, is up against a Democratic stripling, Congressman Bob Byrd. Senator Hoblitzell, a fill-in appointee of young Governor Cecil Underwood (R), is a small businessman of undeniable merit but he has never been to the polls as a contestant. Against him goes a seven-term and once-defeated Congressman in Jennings Randolph, a businessman, too, and a Statewide personality.

Who can predict how the many balls will bounce?

Warning: Don't Put Your Arm Out A Car Window

BATON ROUGE (AP) —Don't stick your arm out the window of a moving auto.

Hardy Lee Branton last night found out the terrible truth of this advice.

Branton's left arm was broken off between the elbow and shoulder by a passing pickup truck last night. Police said it happened on State Route 44, 3½ miles below Gonzales.

The 38-year-old Convent man was treated at Baton Rouge general hospital.

Officers said Branton was driving south, while the truck driven by Joseph O. Cloautre, 56, Gonzales, was northbound when the two vehicles swideswiped.

Destination Of Space Ship Is Said Uncertain

tilting at an angle to the earth.

This pointed the remaining stages at too high an angle to reach the vicinity of the moon.

No one seemed able to answer a question about the fate of the rocket if it continued on into space.

The Pioneer's payload, a 39.6 pound package of scientific instruments, was equipped, among other things, to take a crude TV picture of the face of the moon always turned from the earth.

But even if it failed in its mission of orbiting the moon and scanning that body's unseen side, Pioneer had made history.

Besides escaping the strong pull of gravity and achieving a record height, its other instruments were sending back vital information that will help pave the way for space journeys by man himself.

Announcement that the rocket was definitely off course came at 3:05 p.m. The Pentagon said it might take "the next few hours" to determine its exact course.

A too - high trajectory would mean the moon already had passed the point of rendezvous when the robot arrived there.

If the course and timing were right, the rocket was to drop into an orbit around the moon when the last of its four stages — a retro - rocket — was fired late Monday by radio signal from Hawaii.

At that time the moon would be 222,250 miles from earth. It was 223,000 miles away at Saturday's launching.

The rocket payload contained 39.6 pounds of scientific instruments.

The Defense Department said some of the early data beamed back showed that the total radiation level encountered as of 11:47 a.m. had not exceeded four roentgens per hour. A roentgen is a unit of radiation. Atomic industrial workers are permitted to receive no more than three-tenths of a roentgen per week.

Launching of the moon rocket at Cape Canaveral went off without a hitch.

When Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of the Air Force Missile Test Center at the Cape, appeared for a news conference some two hours after launching, some 120 reporters and photographers broke into spontaneous applause.

The 12:45 p.m. announcement said:

"The Pioneer was about 52,000 statute miles above the earth at 11:47 p.m. EST.

"Another first has been achieved in this historic flight in that scientific data is being reduced and almost simultaneously distributed for use."

But even if Pioneer failed to achieve an orbit around the moon, its history - making flight free of the earth's gravitational pull put the United States a giant stride forward in the race into space.

The achievement came one year and one week after Russia beat this country into space by launching the first earth satellite.

At Ann arbor, Mich., Prof. Sidney Chapman, head of the International Geophysical Year, hailed the feat as "a great achievement and a considerable step towards putting a man on the moon."

At the time of firing, the moon was 223,700 miles from the earth. Late Monday, when Pioneer is supposed to reach its goal, the distance would be 222,500 miles.

The Pentagon said all the scientific instruments aboard Pioneer were "operating extremely satisfactorily."

"The collection of information on the magnetic field of the earth, the number of micrometeorites being encountered in flight, the radiation intensity and the internal temperature of the Pioneer are being continually received," it said.

An hour after the rocket was launched, the Pentagon announced Pioneer had broken free of the earth's strong gravitational grip.

Five big tracking stations around the earth and nine Minitrack stations kept up with Pioneer's progress. Their data was funnelled to the space technology laboratory in California.

The tracking during the early part of the robot's flight was done by England's Jordell Bank radio telescope at Manchester and by the Millstone Hill radar station in Massachusetts.

A great feeling of exultation swept the Defense Department as it became certain the rocket had fired successfully and was on its way.

Air Force Chief of Staff Thomas D. White called the feat "this most significant milestone in man's penetration of the space frontier."

The White House said President Eisenhower, spending the weekend at his Camp David, Md., mountain retreat, was not awakened to be told of the successful launching. But press secretary James C. Hagerty said the President was kept "fully informed" later in the morning by Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, White House staff secretary.

After the launching, the Pentagon disclosed that additional instruments had been put into Pioneer to measure radioactivity along the entire course to the moon rather than only in the vicinity of the moon.

It also disclosed that the satellite was thoroughly sterilized with chemicals and radiation before firing. It said this was done "in an attempt to prevent contamination of the moon's surface" should Pioneer hit it directly.

Episcopalians Elect 'Middle Of Roader'

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The Rt. Rev. Arthur C. Lichtenberger, 58, of St. Louis, Mo., a "middle of the road churchman" Saturday was elected presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

He was elected on the third ballot at a secret session of the Episcopal House of Bishops. His election, by a majority vote of the 146 bishops, was ratified a short while later by unanimous voice vote of the House of Deputies, lower chamber of the Episcopal General Convention which is holding its triennial meeting here.

He will assume the church's highest office Nov. 15, succeeding the Most Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill of Boston, who has reached retirement age. Under church law, a presiding bishop remains in office until age 68.

MISSIONARY

Lichtenberg, a native of Oshkosh, Wis., has been Episcopal Bishop of Missouri since 1952. He previously had served as a China missionary, rector of parish churches in Cincinnati, Ohio, and Brookline, Mass., dean of Trinity Cathedral in Newark, N.J., and professor at General Theological Seminary of New York.

At a news conference following his election, he described himself as a "middle of the road churchman", meaning that he tries to steen a middle course between "high church" Episcopalians, who lean toward Catholicism in ritual and doctrine, and "low church" Episcopalians who are aggressively Protestant in orientation.

Lichtenberger was one of three bishops whose names were proposed for presiding bishops by a nominating committee. The others were the Rt. Revs. Everett Jones, 56, of San Antonio, Tex., and Harry Kennedy 57, of Honolulu, Hawaii.

Six other candidates were listed on the ballot by nominations from the floor earlier this week. They were bishops Stephen F. Bayne, 50, of Seattle, Wash.; Austin Pardue, 59, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Richard S. Emrich, 48, Detroit, Mich.; Oliver S. Hart,, 66, Philadelphia; Noble Powell, 66, Baltimore, Md.; and Henry Louttit, 55, of Miami, Fla.

Registration In Miss. Told

ATLANTA (UPI) — The U. S. Commerce Department said Saturday that about one in every three residents of Mississippi had a motor vehicle registered in his or her name this year.

The department said there were 665,000 vehicles registered in Mississippi and the state has an estimated population of 2,185,000.

Set My Evenings Free

"As soon as I open my mouth
They know that I hail from

And then the fun begins.
As experts in racial relations
Who've been South for week-

Dissect my section's sins.
"With a wit that's sharp and

They attack the Rock that's

Bring them a Faubus to slay
While a zealot loudly preaches

Recovering

Mrs. Paul Martin reports that her husband, executive sports editor of the News-Star—World who underwent a major operation last week, is making a good recovery. She wishes to thank all who have been so kind to him in his illness. They have done so much, she adds.

Also Grover Dunn, of the printing department of the same papers, is fast recovering and all have been most kind and considerate of him. Thanks are extended by his family. Both men are on the fifth floor of St. Francis Hospital.

Award

A. D. Jackson, one of several paper mill employees who received 25-year service awards recently, probably has a distinction over most other persons employed that long. Jackson, who lives 611 North Fourth street in West Monroe, worked 25 full years in the local paper industry without losing a single days work due to illness.

Jury Trying To Decide On Liquor Case

contacted by himself while working with Roberson.

Government agents and Mrs. Leahman backed various parts of his testimony.

The defense attacked Leahman's testimony as that of a man with a record whose word could not be relied upon.

Leahman claimed on the stand that he delivered whisky for Roberson and made various contacts for him.

Mrs. Leahman testified she and her husband went to Wagner's home, spent some time there and she described the house and its furnishings. She said also Mrs. Wagner sold beer in cases and cans from a storeroom to persons who called at the house.

Wagner, his wife and Wilbur Walters, who described himself as a Baptist supply pastor and Scott County native, testified for the defense.

Wagner denied he knew any of the other persons indicted, other than James Clarence Crimm, who lived nearby. He said he may have seen one of the others when the man called at his home asking directions to the Crimm home. He disclaimed any knowledge of Roberson or any contact with him.

Mrs. Wagner testified they own a light green 1955 Ford car, and denied they had a blue and cream 1956 Ford brought into testimony. Walters backed up her testimony about the car owned by the Wagners and gave character testimony for Wagner, whom he said he had known all his life.

Suffocates In Pile Of Cotton

DREW, Miss. (AP) — Jimmy Godwin, 10, suffocated in a pile of loose cotton Saturday while his parents were in New Orleans to attend the Mississippi - Tulane football game.

Coahoma County officers said the boy was dead when friends found him in the cotton pile.

Neighbors said he and his playmates were warned against playing in the loose cotton but Jimmy crawled back into the pile to retrieve money he had dropped.

Long Warns Demo Party On Ouster

Long summoned a special legislative session so the national party could be restored.

He supported Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson in 1952 and 1956.

"It takes quite a bit of money," Long said, "to keep the party going in the various states and to meet the quota of the national organization.

"This is, at best, not an easy task," he emphasized, "particularly in a state where there is no two-party system at the parish and state levels.

"Were Mr. Gravel to step aside, a committeeman in good standing probably could go a long way toward accomplishing this important goal in raising party funds."

Long reiterated he has nothing personal against Gravel, saying he had "turned against both the colored and the white people of this state, playing one against the other."

The governor cautioned national Democratic leaders, "the Democratic party ceases to be democratic when it attempts to force a state to keep as committeeman a man rejected by the majority."

Gravel was the top national party link with the state Democratic machinery. He accuses segregationists of planning to yank state machinery away from the national party.

Segregation leaders, including the new committeeman Jett M. Talbot, last week denied third party leanings.

With Gravel removel within the state, the governor, traditionally head of the state party, represents the only political power in the Louisiana party standing in the way of an all-out break with national ranks.

No Comment On Rocket By Tass

MOSCOW (AP)—The official Soviet news agency Tass Saturday distributed without comment an account of the launching of a moon rocket by the United States.

The small American colony here which long has listened to Soviet accomplishements in the field of space, was jubilant at the word of the rocket firing. The news quickly spread among the Americans after radio reports of the launching were received.

Negro Is Shot In Neck Here; Suspect Sought

A fight in the 1300 block of Thomas Street last night sent a 23-year-old man to Conway Memorial hospital with a bullet wound in the neck.

Leroy Richards, Negro of Atkinson Street, was shot in the neck by another Negro who weilded a pistol, police said.

The shooting took place shortly after 9 p.m., and Monroe police were summoned immediately.

Richards was rushed to the hospital, bleeding at the mouth, but apparently no veins or arteries were hit by the bullet.

Police said that the man who wounded Richards fled. An intensive search for him was underway last night.

Large Ship Is Launched In Mississippi

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (UPI)—One of the largest ships ever built on the Gulf of Mexico was launched here Saturday and film and shipping magnate Spyros Skouras said it would "keep the American merchant fleet the most modern on the seas of the world."

The 32,000 - ton super - tanker S. S. Saroula slipped down the ways of the Ingalls Shipyard after Skouras' daughter - in - law, Mrs. Spyros S. Skouras, christened it to bear her maiden name.

Skouras said his family would "continue to build American flagships in American yards." He said the Skouras family was dedicated to do so.

An Ingalls spokesman said the Saroula was the first of two super - tankers Ingalls has under construction for Skouras shipping line.

Fire Destroys Residence Of Local Family

A Negro family lost all their possessions yesterday in a fire which gutted their home at 3409 Church st., in the Booker T. addition.

Adele Gibson, her daughter, and several grandchildren were away from the house, when wiri[illegible] in the ceiling of the front bedroom which whipped through the five-room structure.

Engine Companies No. 2 and 5 were summoned at 11:2[illegible] a.m., but were unable to return to their stations until 2 p.m.

Capt. Eugene Wilhite, of No. 5 company, and Capt W. W. Greer of No. 2 explained that firemen were kept busy checking through the entire house, after the flames were out, to make sure that no smouldering embers were left under any of the charred furniture.

Firemen said that the house was a mass of flames when they arrived.

"All the residents were away and the house was locked. Adele Gibson returned before the fire was out, and told us that the ceiling wire had caught fire two or three times before, but someone had always been home to put it out," Capt. Wilhite stated.

She carried no insurance on her possessions, and said that the owner also had no insurance.

The fire was confined to the one building, located approximately 200 feet away from other houses.

Candidate For Ala. Governor Gives Views

FAYETTE, Ala. (UPI) — Birmingham attorney William L. Longshore Jr., Republican candidate for governor, charged Saturday his election is the only way Alabama can "get really clean, honest and efficient government in Montgomery."

Longshore spoke at rallies at Fayette, Vernon and Double Springs in a three-county tour Saturday as he stepped up his campaign against Atty. Gen. John Patterson, Democratic nominee for governor, and Marvin Jackson, Montgomery former short order cook, an independent candidate.

"The only way we are ever going to get really clean, honest and efficient government in Montgomery is by making a complete change of political parties, thereby establishing the strong two-party system," he said. "It's been done in other states and I say we can do it in Alabama."

Longshore has particularly campaigned against Patterson and his suggestion of a possible tax increase and school bond issue.

"I don't believe that the people of Alabama will support a tax increase or a bond issue until they are reasonably certain that the service, for which the tax or bond proposal is to support, is necessary and that the money can't be raised by saving elsewhere in government," Longshore said.

Longshore said "everywhere I go I hear the same distressing story. People tell me they actually feel sick when they think about how our state government has degenerated over a long period of time.

"I can well understand how they feel because I get the same feeling myself."

Suicide Ruled In Ala. Death

PRATTVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — A 60-year-old cotton mill employe died Saturday of what was described as a self-inflicted bullet wound in the temple.

Coroner Carlos B. Gates ruled the death of Dewey Barber of Prattville a suicide. He said Barber died of a bullet wound from a sawed-off 12 gauge shotgun.

The coroner said the victim was found lying across the doorway of his bedroom this morning by his daughter. He was fully clothed.

Gates quoted neighbors as saying that Barber suffered from ill health and had been unable to work for several months because of a "nervous breakdown."

To Accept Bids On Construction

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The State Highway Department said Saturday it will accept bids here Oct. 28 on an estimated $5,500,000 in highway construction projects including two sections of the interstate highway system.

The two interstate sections listed called for 1.1 miles of bituminous surfacing in Hinds County on Highway 55 near Highway 51 and Meadowbrook road in Jackson and grading of six miles of the same highway in Panola County between the Yalobusha - Panola County line and Courtland.

Reds Charge Theft To U.S. Attache

MOSCOW (UPI) — The official newspaper of the Communist youth organization Saturday accused an American military attache of stealing a letter of "military significance" from a Soviet workman.

At the same time, newsmen were summoned by the Foreign Ministry to a conference and exhibition designed to prove Soviet charges that the U.S. Air Force sent balloons over Soviet territory for military reconnassiance purposes.

The alleged theft of the letter by Capt. Joseph Ulatowski, assistant military attache at the U.S embassy, occured in Tiflis Oct. 2, according to an article in the Komsomolskaya Pravda.

The newspaper said the captain made off with a letter received by Ibram Isaviev, a 25-year-old stone mason, from his brother in the army.

It said the envelope bore the stamp of a military post office and the number and location of the brother's unit.

The newspaper said Ulatowski and Col. H. A. Philips, the Canadian military attache, were in the Tiflis post office when Isaviev received the letter. The American picked up the letter and walked away while Isaviev wasn't looking, it said.

Isaviev ran after Ulatowski who refused at first to return the letter but then gave it back and said he had taken it as a joke and asked him not to report it.

When the Russian called police, Ulatowski told them he took the letter by mistake and offered to apologize. He refused, however, to sign a statement admitting the "theft," claiming diplomatic immunity, it said.

The youth organ published a letter from Isaviev denouncing the two officers as "insolent crooks," and a picture of Ulatowski "so that the people. . .can take measures to protect their property."

The U.S. embassy did not comment on the charge and there was no immediate official confirmation of the story.

COLUMBUS DAY

Observance Comes At Crucial Period

By LYNN GARRETT
Staff Writer

With the launching of the American moon rocket, the country is paving the way for exploration of unknown areas much as Christopher Columbus, less than 500 years ago today sighted land near where we now have our base of operations.

The Genoa sailor, after much work and effort, finally obtained three ships and a crew of 88 men as he set out on his voyage to the New World Aug. 3, 1492.

Criminals and "broken men" were offered indemnity to serve on the expedition, but Columbus was hard put to find enough adventurous men.

At last he had obtained 52 men for the Santa Maria, and 18 each to pilot the other two vessels, the Pinta and the Nina.

Three days after the start of the voyage the Pinta lost her rudder and by Sept. 17 the men began to murmur nervously. The variation of the compass made them confused and frightened for it was the first time they had observed the westerly variations of the magnetic needle.

DIFFICULTY

By Sept. 20, they were sure land was near but when they failed to find it Columbus had difficulty in stopping a mutiny. Five days later, and again on Oct. 7, cries of "land" went up but were proved false.

Finally, on Oct. 11, the crew of the Pinta fished up a cane and a board and the Nina spied a branch covered with berries. The excited explorer and his faithless crew were reassured that land was near.

History records the time of the official sighting of land in the New World as 2 a.m. Oct. 12, 1492. The crew kissed the ground with joy and begged pardon for their doubts.

Columbus made three other voyages before his discoveries were complete in November of 1504. He died two years later when he was 55 years old.

Only a little more than 450 years after his death — not a long time in terms of history— the land he discovered spawns the World Series, split-level homes in the suburbs, a 40-hour week, hot dogs and most importantly, a rebirth in scientific interest with Outer Space as the target.

Columbus would no doubt be surprised at the developments, tossed off here as simply part of Americana.

Crack Hanna To Head Private Schools In Ala.

MOBILE (UPI) — Brig. Gen. Walter J. (Crack) Hanna of Birmingham was named head of the private school corporation Saturday which would take over Alabama's educational system if the public schools are ordered to integrate.

Democratic Atty. Gen. nominee McDonald Gallion, who announced the group's formation Thursday, said Hanna would be chairman of the board of trustees.

The 58 - year - old Hanna, head of a steel plant, worked closely with Gallion in 1954 when he headed the Phenix City vice cleanup as adjutant general under the then Gov. Gordon Persons. He is in line for command of the National Guard's 31st (Dixie) Division.

Gallion emphasized in his statement Saturday that the corporation would be run by private individuals and state officials would have no authority over its operation. He said an endowment fund would be started soon.

"Cetainly there is no intent to "rock the boat", said the 45-year-old Gallion, "but if anyone thinks we can stick our heads in the sand and our troubles will go away, he is simply whistling in the dark."

He said other board members will be announced later and they "will represent outstanding leadership in the state."

Gallion said the private school group would be named "The Alabama Education Fund Foundation."

"There has been apparently some misunderstanding regarding the purposes of this organization," he said. "It is strictly a private citizens group having no connection with the present state administration or the forthcoming state administration."

"It is simply a means of getting together some of the best brains and talent in the state to study the situation and make whatever plans their wisdom dictates," he said.

Negro Minister Faces Charges In Tennessee

MEMPHIS (UPI) — The Rev. C. H. Mason, Negro minister here, was charged Saturday with aiding and abetting prostitution.

A warrant obtained by police charged that Mason allowed Howard S. Smith, 27, his brother-in-law, and a Chicago night club singer to unlawfully live together in his home.

The Negro singer, Edna Smith, 30, told officers she was Smith's common - law wife when she was arrested Friday on charges of forging checks worth $162 on Mason.

Smith had been arrested on forgery charges earlier and released on bond. Smith and the singer also were charged with aiding and abetting prostitution.

Mason came into the news here when he was the first Negro to move into a formerly all - white neighborhood. Mason's church was destroyed by fire of still unsolved origin, and he has reported that several crosses were burned on his front yard.

Monroe Man, 20, Is Injured In Collision Here

A 20-year-old Monroe man was hospitalized yesterday after a motorcycle he was riding was demolished in a collision with an auto.

Carl Barfield, Route 3, Milhaven Road, received arm injuries in the accident at South Second and Orange Streets at 12:33 p.m. yesterday.

He was taken to St. Francis Hospital, where X-rays were taken, and he was admitted. He was in satisfactory condition last night.

Monroe police who investigated said that Barfield, driving a motorcycle owned by Rufus Hilton, 1604 Alabama St., was going north on S. Second.

They said a car driven by A.A. Perkins, 65, of 3703 Polk St., pulled out into the street, partially blocking it and Barfield slid into the car when he attempted to turn and skidded on gravel.

Perkins was charged with reckless driving, officers added.

Extensive Grass Blaze At Selman Field Is Halted

Fire engine sirens wailed and the dogs howled, as firemen were summoned to an extensive grass fire behind the dog pound at Selman Field yesterday.

The blaze was reported at 1:55 p.m. and Engine Company No. 7 captained by Robert Hawthorne roared to the scene.

With the yipping of the dogs in back of them, and the wind fanning the flames away from the pound, firemen waited it out until the fire burned to a ditch where they were able to get it under control and extinguish it.

Court Session Cancelled Here

Tomorrow's session of West Monroe City Court has been cancelled.

Judge Jasper Jones gave notice that the Monday court would not be held this week.

Regularly, court meets on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Myles was booked on charges of disturbing the peace and fighting.

JAILED

Two Monroe Negroes, who told police that they were "just playing," were arrested and placed in the Monroe jail yesterday on charges of drawing and displaying dangerous weapons, and aggravated battery.

B. B. Van Buren, 49, of 602 North 11th St. was arrested in the 1100 block of Breard St., and charged with cutting Jessie Phillips, 38, Negro, on the arm with a knife.

College Of Cardinals Meet Set

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The College of Cardinals will meet Saturday, Oct. 25, to begin the election of the successor to Pope Pius XII.

A group of 16 cardinals already at the Vatican decided on that time in a meeting in the Apostolic Palace.

The choice will be made in balloting behind locked doors of the Sistine Chapel by all the Roman Catholic Church's 55 cardinals able to attend. Votes of a two-thirds majority plus one are required for a decision.

Smoke signals from a chimney thrust through a window of the chapel will let the world know of their progress.

Under this ancient system, black smoke from a fire of burning ballots and damp straw tells of a round of inconclusive voting. White smoke from burning ballots and dry twigs means the election of a new pope.

The conclave will come 16 days after the death of Pope Pius and 12 days after his burial next Monday in a marble sarcophagus beneath St. Peter's Basilica.

Any one of the cardinals may be elected to succeed him. Or the papacy may go to a prelate who is not a cardinal.

He may be Italian, American, Armenian, French or one of a score of other nationalitise.

All the popes have been Italian with one exception. The exception was Holland's Adrian Cardinal Dedel, as Pope Adrian VI in 1522. But for the first time in many years Italian cardinals at the conclave will be in the minority.

Most prominently mentioned among non-Italians is bearded Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian, Russian-born patriarch of Armenia. He was chosen by Pope Pius last June to succeed the late Samuel Cardinal Stritch of Chicago as proprefect of the Congregation for Propagation of the Faith.

Also often mentioned have been Norman Thomas Cardinal Gilroy, a 62-year-old Australian; Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, 74, French-born dean of the College of Cardinals; and Crisanto Cardinal Luque, 69, archbishop of Bogota, who is Colombia's first cardinal.

The names of Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, and Paul Emile Cardinal Leger, 54, archbishop of Montreal, have cropped up too in speculation about non-Italians who might be elected.

LITTLE THEATER

Much Interest Seen In Season Opener

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

With other attractions diverting some attention in the Monroe area, there was still good attendance at Little Theatre's "first play first night" of the season Friday.

The broad — sometimes broadside — humor of Gore Vidal's "Visit To A Small Planet" met with general approval, and it appears the local live theatre is off to a good start on its 27th season.

In line with the financial success, President Julius Cahn, Jr. pointed out the memberships remaining numbered slightly more than 100, which means the organization is not far from a sellout.

The first volley in what proved to be a rather heavy-handed satire on today's tensions and basic emotions was fired by George Brian and Mel Jones, who, as military man and news analyst respectively, sized up the flying saucer situation.

The writer's lines ranged from all-too-true jabs at the military services to just such a farce as the "little people" landing at the same moment a television program was proving them a cause of mass hysteria.

With such variety in the written comedy, this writer felt the lines as spoken Friday night got on a bombastic level and stayed there. New characters entering during the first act — the television-newsman's family, played by wife Kitty Smith, daughter Tavie Kenny and her boyfriend, Norman Jones—gave that portion of the play sufficient balance.

SPOOFER

The visitor, Bill Hatten, who stepped out of a flying saucer looking for the Civil War took charge of the stage for the last two acts. Was he a Shakespearean fool speaking lines on the Sgt. Bilko pattern? He had plenty which was true and funny to say about his "hobby" — the people on earth. Here again first night pressure afforded too little in the way of a change of pace. Constructive note: that "dialogue" with the cat "Rosemary" would be one spot where the audience could get to know a man from space better through more reflective underplay.

GOOD COMEDY

Bill Brodie as the military aide, Aubrey McKeithen and Don Robinson as two television technicians and Bill Haddad as Delton 4 — he finally got the space man back into space — rounded out the roster of players.

Visit to a Small Planet proved to be good entertainment on its first night, and will no doubt improve during its run on the local boards. It is a fresh play; in fact, Selman Field Playhouse is one of its first runs off Broadway, so don't miss this one.

SAUL PETT

Writer Of Book Faces Problems

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most effective ways for a newspaperman to lose grace among other newspapermen is to write a book.

The reason is simple. The rest of us talk all the time about writing a book. But being men of great talent, vivid imagination, and easy rationalization, we never do.

Thus, Dick Newcomb of The Associated Press has dismayed his old friends. He not only talked about writing a book; he actually wrote one. To make matters worse, he wrote a good book, and it was published. It is now a best-seller. How unfriendly can you get?

His book is "Abandon Ship," a taut chronicle of the sinking of the cruiser Indianapolis late in World War II.

What makes Dick's defection even more painful is that all along he had the excuses the rest of us had for not writing a book. Such as: "Too tired at the end of a working day." And: "My family demands too much of my time." And, best of all: "I got no place to write."

Dick had no place to write, but he cleared and laid claim to the starboard side of the basement of his home in Haworth, N.J. His wife Alice was told that henceforth she would be confined to the port side, the side with the oil burner, the washing machine, and surplus family junk.

"It worked out fine," Dick says, "except in the winter when she violated our territorial agreement. She hung wet clothes to dry over my desk."

His desk was a sheet of plywood stretched over two sawhorses. His filing cabinets were grocery cartons and the cinder-block basement wall where he soon spread out with huge charts of the Pacific and blueprints of the Indianapolis.

The book took 2½ years for research and writing.

"Apparently," he says, "I was fated to finish it. Every spring I thought I'd have a grand excuse not to finish it. Every other spring the basement used to leak. But in the time I worked on the book it stayed dry until two weeks after I finished the final draft."

How does a man who spends eight hours a day working, two hours a day commuting, and supposedly the rest of his time appeasing a wife, two high school daughters and a house in need of repair—how does such a man write a book?

"It's easy," Dick insists. "You work nights. First you have dinner. Then you do your daughter's geometry. Then you get your wife well situated with the evening paper, a TV program, and a tall drink. Then you disappear into the basement until, hours later, a voice yells down from the master bedroom 'Hey, Zola, it's midnight!' "

Now that the book is written and selling, Dick has other problems to cope with. Most people have inflated ideas of best sellers. The author of a best seller has a hard time convincing others that the east wing of Ft. Knox is not involved.

"The children," Dick says, "are convinced they're going to get their own cars, and my wife is convinced we're getting a new house, and I'm still worried about making payments on the old car and the old house.

"Relatives think I'm hoarding my fortune. Friends think I'm greedy for not retiring and giving my job to someone who needs the money. And every time I buy a new hedge clipper or rake, a neighbor says: 'You're smart, Dicky boy. Live it up while you can!' "

Integration Is Hard Financial Blow To South

NEW YORK (AP) —The battle over integration is making it harder and a bit more expensive for Southern school districts to finance new buildings and improvements by selling bonds.

Investment bankers say the controversy over racial integration, and the prospect of long drawn-out and costly litigation constitute a threat to the blue chip ratings of these tax-exempt bonds. They also maintain there is a possibility sometime in the future of a refusal by citizens to pay taxes in a district where the schools are closed.

Legal experts tend to minimize the possibility of a school taxpayer strike. They point out that practically all school bonds are general obligations of the issuing community and must be paid off through taxes regardless of what happens to the schools. Many of the bonds are backed by the "full faith and credit" of their states.

Miss. Surgeons Win Awards

CHICAGO (AP) — Five Mississippi surgeons were named Friday night as fellows of the American College of Surgeons at the close of the annual five-day clinical congress.

Fellowship, entitling recipients to add "FACS" after their names, is awarded to specialists in a branch of surgery.

Says Columbus Couldn't Get Into U.S. Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —Christopher Columbus couldn't be admitted to the United States as a resident if the explorer were alive Rep. Hugh Scott (D-Pa) said Saturday.

The Italian immigration quota is too heavily oversubscribed said Scott, who is running for the Senate from Pennsylvania.

"Tomorrow the nation will celebrate Columbus Day," he said. "But Columbus was a native Italian. If he were alive today, we would probably welcome him as a visitor, but not as a resident.

Train Guns On British Policy

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The government controlled press Saturday switched its main propaganda guns from the United States to Britain and accused her of "preparing another Suez."

For months the press has attacked the United States with accusations of "conspiracy after conspiracy" in the Middle East.

The sale of two British submarines to Israel was the takeoff point for Saturday's charges.

Darbar Planned

A special Darbar is planned Monday at Castle Hall following the regular meeting of Monroe Temple No. 1, Pythian Sisters, set for 8 p.m.

Special plans will be made at the Darbar for the ceremonial slated for Friday. The ceremonial will honor Imperial Maharani Hazel Brands of Detroit, Mich., who will visit Swami Santha on that date.

21 La. Dairies Plan Attack On Milk Law

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Twenty-one Louisiana dairies are asking court permission to side with the state in an attack on the orderly milk marketing act.

The firms petitioned district court here Friday to intervene in the suit filed by Schwegmann Bros. Giant Supermarkets of New Orleans.

The Schwegmann suit named Agriculture Commissioner Sidney J. McCrory defendant.

The milk producers and processers argued the milk marketing act protects them from economic destruction by organizations strong enough to sell below their own costs and engage in other unfair competition for an extended period of time.

A suit similar to Schwegmann's was filed here Thursday by Food Town, Inc., of Baton Rouge, a supermarket chain.

Both suits claim the 1958 marketing act is unconstitutional and deprives them of valuable property rights.

The dairies' suit claims "large corporations have to be regulated in the manner provided" in the statute and the Legislature acted to protect small and independent processors of milk in adopting the act. The Legislature, the suit said, is right in exercising the police power "to prohibit unfair and discriminatory practices by which fair and honest competition is destroyed or prevented."

EIGHTH WEEK

Market's Record Drive Continues

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's powerful drive to record highs continued this week.

It was the eighth week of uninterrupted advance, the fourth of historic peaks.

Volume of 19,104,940 shares was just a bit below last week's 19,227,870, the biggest total in nearly a year.

The market went to new highs for the first two days then milled unevenly for two days as cross-currents of profit taking and reinvestment canceled each other out. On the final trading day the market roared ahead to another new high on the year's heaviest volume 4,610,000 shares.

The Friday session was sparked by a one-cent boost in copper prices by major United State producers, reports of surging steel production and new evidence of heavy stock purchases by mutual funds. The 250-million-dollar One William Street Fund published its holdings for the first time. Traders were drawn to buy issues favored by this huge institution.

Some concern that the Federal Reserve Board might take further restrictive action on credit was in the wind when the market stalled Wednesday and Thursday. A published unofficial report that the "fed" was not planning anything on that line for quite a spell restored confidence on Friday.

Fundamental to the market's continued strength, was that there was planty of money for investment. The mutual funds and other institutional investors were grabbing stock at the slightest sign of weakness. Those who held stock were unwilling to surrender it and pay a big capital gains tax. Those who wanted stock were eager, afraid they had "missed the boat."

Dog Wrecks Car While Owner Is In English Court

SHEFFIELD, England (AP) — Peope stopped and blinked on the sidewalks here when they saw a car apparently being driven by a dog. The car traveled 50 yards, brushed against a bus and ran into a wall. An Alsatian sat behind the wheel.

The owner, Robert Griffin, 46, told Magistrates' Court Friday he parked the car and left the dog inside. He added: "he must have seen another dog in the street and jumped, knocking off the brake."

But the magistrate fined Griffin 3 pounds ($8.40) for failing to set the handbrake.

MANY WEEP

Final Tribute Paid To Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A sorrowing, 20-foot wide stream of humanity flowed through St. Peter's Basilica Saturday in final tribute to Pope Pius XII. Many wept at his bier.

Hundreds of thousands from many lands filed shoulder-to-shoulder past the body of Roman Catholicism's 261st supreme pontiff, to be buried late Monday in a marble sarcophagus in the grottos beneath the basilica.

The 262nd pontiff is to be elected by princes of the church in a Conclave opening Saturday, Oct. 25 at the Sistine Chapel. The 16 cardinals now at the Vatican set that date for convening all possible members of the 55-member College of Cardinals to name the successor to the man known as the pope of peace.

Draped in brilliant red, all that was mortal of Pope Pius rested on a six-foot high catafalque surrounded by 24 lighted candles.

A golden bishop's miter on his head glinted in the candlelight and some of the sunshine that streamed through the windows of the basilica's massive dome.

The opening of the side doors at dawn to admit the public signaled the beginning of a nine-day period of mourning to include daily requiem masses in the basilica. The first was conducted by the titular archbishop of Porfireone, Peter Canisius van Lierde of Liege, Belgium. Requiem masses will be celebrated around the world Sunday.

Men, women and children filed into the cool, hushed basilica from bright, warm sunshine. Fountains played in St. Peter's Square. Souvenir shops around the square did a rushing business selling post cards picturing the late pope.

Inside there was a scarcely audible murmur — the shuffle of many feet and an occasional whispered comment.

The 16 cardinals who decided on the funeral arrangements and the date for the electoral conclave also ceremoniously broke the fisherman's ring which was the symbol of the authority of Pius XII over the world's half billion Catholics.

It was a gold band engraved with the likeness of Peter, the first pope, and the name of its wearer. It was removed from the Pope's hand in his death chamber at Castel Gandolfo Thursday.

A new fisherman's ring will be placed on the right hand of the next pope immediately after he accepts election from the Conclave of Cardinals.

With the likely exception of three in Communist countries—Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski of Poland, Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary and Alojzije Cardinal Stepinac of Yugoslavia—and a few who are too infirm for the journey, most of the 55 present cardinals are expected to be on hand. There were 15 vacancies in the college when Pope Pius died.

From the moment the conclave opens, the cardinals will be immured and isolated in the strictest of secrecy through as many ballots and for as many days as are necessary to choose a new Pope.

For centuries a two-thirds vote of cardinals present was required to choose a pope. Now, in a revision introduced by Pius XII, it requires two thirds plus one additional vote.

Speakers Are For Retention Of Ark. Taxes

CROSSETT (Special) — Crossett's present educational standards depend on the retention of the present sales tax and in the success of the new assessment program, according to three speakers this week.

Speaking before three of the parent-teacher organizations, John Henry Allen, vice president of the School Board, Herman Quinn, GACE County Chairman, and M. H. Russell, superintendent of schools, pointed out that not only the building of the new high school and the Calhoun Cafetorium, but also the progress made in the past several years are in jeopardy.

REASSESSMENT

If the taxpayers do not accept the reassessment program and do not support Act 19 in November, the school district will suffer a great financial loss, the three men said. The total estimated receipts of the Crossett School District will be $717,270.71 if the district's assessed valuation equals $15,000,000, as expected in the property reappraisal.

The estimated expenditure of the district for the next year is $699,570.00. This includes $33,600.00 for serving a bond issue of $500,000. If for some reason the assessment remains at $12,788,332, instead of $15,000,000, the income for the district will be only $648,399. It is apparent that the new buildings will be eliminated.

Should the voters of Arkansas fail to pass Act 19, it would mean that the district would lose an additional $63,282 in revenue.

Stands Trial 2nd Time On Rape Charges

LAUREL, Miss. (AP)—Theldor Lang, 55-year-old Negro school teacher sentenced to life for raping a white woman, stands trial for the crime again Monday, this time contending a fellow convict is guilty.

The State Supreme Court ordered a new trial after Lang's attorney showed that the 1954 rape could have been committed by Leroy Moody, 26-year-old Negro who resembled Lang physically.

Moody is serving life for raping another white woman. He pleaded guilty to the crime for which he was sentenced but denied the Lang rape.

After Lang was sentenced, officers found Moody's fingerprints in the home of Lang's victim and Moody's wife had a ring stolen from Lang's victim.

Dist. Atty. Grover Doggette has withdrawn from the case on grounds he believes Lang innocent.

Circuit Judge Lunsford Casey appointed Forrest County Dist. Atty. Danny Dabbs to replace him during the trial.

Judge Casey also refused to permit court-appointed atty. Ronald Brown to withdraw on grounds he represented the rape victim's husband in a lawsuit and would have conflicting interests.

Soviets Charge U.S. To Keep Troops In M-E

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Soviet delegation to the U.N. General Assembly charged Saturday that there are plans to keep U.S. troops in Lebanon beyond the Oct. 31 deadline set for their withdrawal.

In a public statement, the delegation noted that U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge wrote U.S. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold Wednesday that the United States expected to have all American forces out of that country by the end of October—"barring unforeseen circumstances."

"This reservation," said the statement, "shows quite unequivocally that even at present there are some people in the U.S.A. who have not yet given up plans to continue the occupation of Lebanon by American troops."

Boy, 16, Admits He Killed His Father, Mother

OMAHA (AP)—The bodies of an Omaha business man and his wife were recovered from shallow graves at the rear of their home Saturday after their 16-year-old son told police he had killed them and showed officers the graves.

The victims were identified as William Arnold, 42, manager of the Watkins Products Co., here and his wife, Opel, about 40. Police said their 16-year-old son, Leslie, admitted he killed his parents Sept. 27 after an argument about the use of the family car.

He and his 11-year-old brother, James had been staying in the house since that time.

The boy was reported to have told neighbors his parents were on a vacation, but an employe of the firm, said Leslie had told him his father was called out of town unexpectedly.

CAPITOL CORRIDORS

130 La. Cities, Towns To Share In Tax Income

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana cities and towns, 130 in all, will share an extra million dollars in state tobacco tax revenues with first quarterly payments starting within 10 days.

State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell said today his staff has just completed the figures after 130 of the state's 240 municipalities hurried in with new population figures to meet an Oct. 1 deadline.

"Gov. Earl Long has certified the new population figures," he said.

Under a 1958 law, cities can submit new population totals to form the basis for a larger slice of the state revenue.

And in the first glimpse of the growing population, Lake Charles showed the largest gain with a 19,455 increase. The three largest cities—New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Shreveport—have not counted heads yet.

Big gains were spotted in the industrial areas.

All 240 municipalities are eligible for a standard share in the taxes during the currnt fiscal year which began July 1.

But the 130 rushed their census taking to benefit with the first quarterly payments. It's up to the others to count their populations later.

According to the new population figures, Tugwell said, received from the 130 municipalities, $882,616 will be added to the annual distribuiton this fiscal year. On top will be another $200,000, approximately, in expected surplus. Before the 1958 law allowed latest population figures to be used, the annual distribution had been tied to the 1950 federal census.

All municipalities shares are figured according to population categories, at the base rate of $2.50 per person for cities of 100,000 or more, $3.50 for 25,001-100,000, $4 for 10,001-25,00, $4.25 for 2,501-10,000, $4.40 for 1,000-2,500, and $4.65 for towns with less than 1,000.

After the base payments are provided, any surplus remaining in the 37½ per cent total also is distributed.

"For the first time last fiscal year," the state treasurer said, "we were able to give all municipalities the top base rate of $4.65 per person because of a surplus."

City officials will be happy to know that Tugwell estimates all should get pretty close to the higher per capita rate again this year.

The way Tugwell sees it, Baton Rouge and Shreveport, which haven't submitted new population figures but plan to, could gain an extra $45,000 each this year in an estimated $4 per capita allowance for them.

New Orleans, which hasn't indicated whether it will attempt a census, would change the entire state picture should it decide to try.

At the moment, however, Tugwell estimates Baton Rouge and Shreveport could remain in the $4 level, with municipalities in the 25,001-100,000 bracket remaining at $4.25 per capita, those in the 10,001-25,000 bracket at $4.40 and all smaller communities remaining at the top base rate of $4.65.

Alexandria, in the heart of Louisiana, reported a new population of 42,298, up 7,385. Bossier City announced 26,005, up 10,535; Lafayette 34,345, up 804; Lake Charles 60,527, up 19,455; Monroe 49,383, up 10,811, and New Iberia 27,033, up 10,566.

With these higher populations, Alexandria this fiscal year will receive a $161,366 share of the state tobacco revenues, instead of the previous $133,193; Bossier City $99,209 instead of $67,449 Lafayette $131,026 instead of $127,958; Lake Charles $230,910 instead of $157,452; Monroe $188,396 instead of $147,152, and New Iberia $103,130 instead of $71,796.

In the 10,001-25,000 bracket, Houma doubled its population to 22,680. It doubled its $50,161 share to $98,884. Crowley showed a new population of 15,434, up 2,650, becoming eligible for $67,292 a year instead of the $55,738 last year.

Other population gains: Bogalusa 24,713, up 7,005; Kenner 13,926, up 8,391; Thibodaux 12,197, up 4,467, and West Monroe 15,003, up 4,701.

In some smaller communities, Amite 3,173, up 369 in population; Baker, 3,357, up 2,595 for the fastest growth of all; Denham Springs 5,753, up 3,100; Harahan 7,485, up 5,091; Leesville 9,401, up 4,713; Rayne 8,093, up 1,485; Sulphur 9,997, up 4,001; Colfax 1,954, up 303; Gramercy 2,043 up 959; Jackson 1,723, up 723, and Oil City 1,453, up 1,031.

All reporting so far showed growth.

Gulf Oil Blasts Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gulf Oil Corporation, Pittsburgh, has branded as completely erroneous charges that a seven-company international "cartel" including Gulf, controls world oil prices.

The allegations were made recently by President O. A. Knight of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, in the AFL-CIO industrial union department's quarterly, The Digest.

Knight asserted among other things that Gulf, Standard Oil (of New Jersey), Standard of California, Socony Mobil, Texas, and two foreign companies have destroyed "free trade" in oil by manipulating world prices and dominating state production control agencies.

"It would seem by 'free trade' in this instance," a Gulf spokesman said, "he (Knight) means 'competition' because he says that oil is dominated by a worldwide cartel consisting of five American companies and two European companies. This is an old accusation which has been thoroughly discredited."

The spokesman cited a recently published study by Leonard M. Fanning, editor of World Oil Policies, listing 200 American companies searching for oil in foreign countries.

"If the so-called seven-company cartel dominated world oil, the spokesman said, "by no means would they have permitted such an enormous number of companies to enter into competition with them, mostly within the past five years . . . in the marketing of foreign oil, more recently there has been a rise of other companies, such as Petrofina, which are growing rapidly and taking a share of the world oil market, apparently without hindrance by any dominating group of companies."

To Knight's charges that price-fixing has abolished the law of supply and demand and that crude oil prices are determined by arbitrary state production controls, the spokesman replied:

"This is completely erroneous as shown by the fact that foreign crude oil prices are lower than those in the United States. If the foreign oil cartel were powerful enough to control prices, it most obviously would control the prices of foreign crude before it would be able to control the prices of U.S. crude.

"The record is open in the numerous public bids for supplying oil to foreign countries such as Argentina, that the competition between the international oil marketeers is bitter. In like manner, it is open for all to see within the United States that petroleum prices are not controlled, because every citizen sees around him the frequent gasoline price wars.

He further asserted that "oil prices respond very quickly to changes in supply and demand" and added that since the first of 1958 "we have counted in the oil journals 142 reports of decreases in crude oil prices as opposed to only 17 increases, the net result being a decrease in the overall price of crude estimated to be about 8 cents a barrel."

Says Prices are Sensitive

The spokesman said that oil product prices are even more sensitive and that "by no stretch of the imagination" could it be held that they do not respond to the forces of supply and demand.

Knight also claimed the 27-member Interstate Oil Compact Commission "coordinates the regularoty authorities of various major producing states which limit production to maintain prices."

"On the contrary," Gulf declared, "the commission is a voluntary association of state officials, authorized by Congress and investigated by the Department of Justice. Its purpose is to prevent waste of oil and to conserve these resources for the use of the American people. On Oct. 6, 1957, Attorney General Brownell reported after an investigation that there were no signs of the commission being controlled by 'dominant' industry groups."

Urban Traffic Congestion Is Topic Of Talk

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —A public transportation expert said Saturday the answer to the problem of urban traffic congestion is the balanced use of both the private automobile and public transit facilities.

Many cities, said Jesse L. Haugh of San Diego in a statement, have succeeded in speeding up transit service by designating certain street lanes for bus use.

Haugh is president of the American Transit Association which opens its 77th annual meeting here tomorrow.

He said appreciable reductions in transit running time had been shown by bus lanes in Baltimore, Atlanta, Chicago and Cincinnati.

The idea was first tried out in Nashville by Mayor Ben West and the innovation was a success from the outset, Haugh said.

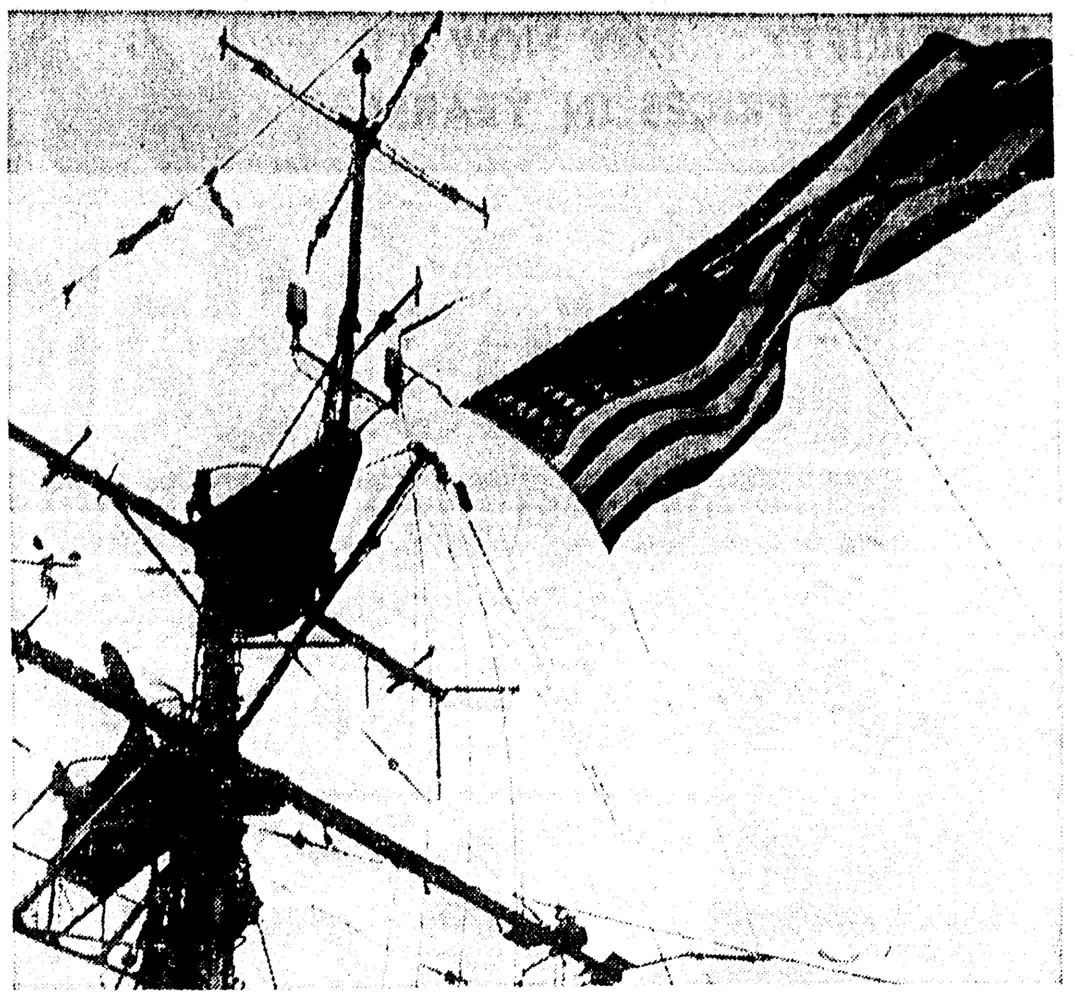
"Excluse bus lanes also help speed up other vehicular traffic, thus benefitting all users of the streets," the transit leader said.

"Greater use of public transit in urban areas is the most available, practicable and least costly method of reducing traffic congestion," Haugh said "and more people will be encouraged to ride buses and street cars only if we can offer them faster service than they now get."

About 1,000 transit delegates from the U.S. and Canada and representatives of manufacturers who supply the industry are expected to attend the convention.

FIRST CANE GROUND

PLAQUEMINE, La. (UPI)—The first batch of sugar in the state kicked off the milling season here Friday. Andrew W. Dykers, executive secretary of the Louisiana Sugar Cane Exchange, said the mill is Wilbert's Myrtle Grove. Most other mills are expected to follow suit this coming week.



AND OUR FLAG WAS STILL THERE — A large American flag is hoisted on mast of landing ship dock Fort Marion as vessel enters Quemoy harbor with supplies for Chinese Nationalists. The oversized flag was flown so that American ships could be easily spotted by observers from the Chinese Communist mainland. It was on this trip by the Fort Marion that the Reds announced their cease fire. (AP Wirephoto)

To Try And Patch Up Ike, Demo Split

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will meet Sunday with Chairman Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a move to heal a split between President Eisenhower and powerful Democrats over administration Formosa policy.

Green, one of the sharpest critics of the President's military support of Chinese Nationalist forces on the embattled Quemoy and Matsu islands, is smarting under a letter from Eisenhower a week ago in which the Chief Executive asserted that attacks on his policy "embolden our enemies and make war almost inevitable."

Dulles personally asked Green to come to his home for the Sunday conference, outcome of which would have repercussions at home and abroad.

The statement was reported to have alienated Democratic members of the Senate and House Foreign Policy committees upon whom the President must depend for cooperation in the international field.

Green, in a statement to United Press International Saturday, made it clear he does not intend to hold his fire against the administration unless somebody can convince him he is wrong. He also rejected the presidential argument that criticsm heartens enemies of the United States.

"I do not see any reason why we should not criticize," he said by telephone from Providence, R.I., where he was attending a Brown University meeting. "It's one of the privileges of democracy."

The senator added, however, the administration appeared to be taking a "more realistic" attitude by indicating its willingness to try to get Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to pull some of his forces off Quemoy if the Chinese Reds put into effect a dependable ceasefire.

FORMER OFFICIAL ARRESTED

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI)—Police have arrested former Defense Minister M. A. Khurho on black marketing charges, it was disclosed Friday. There were no details.

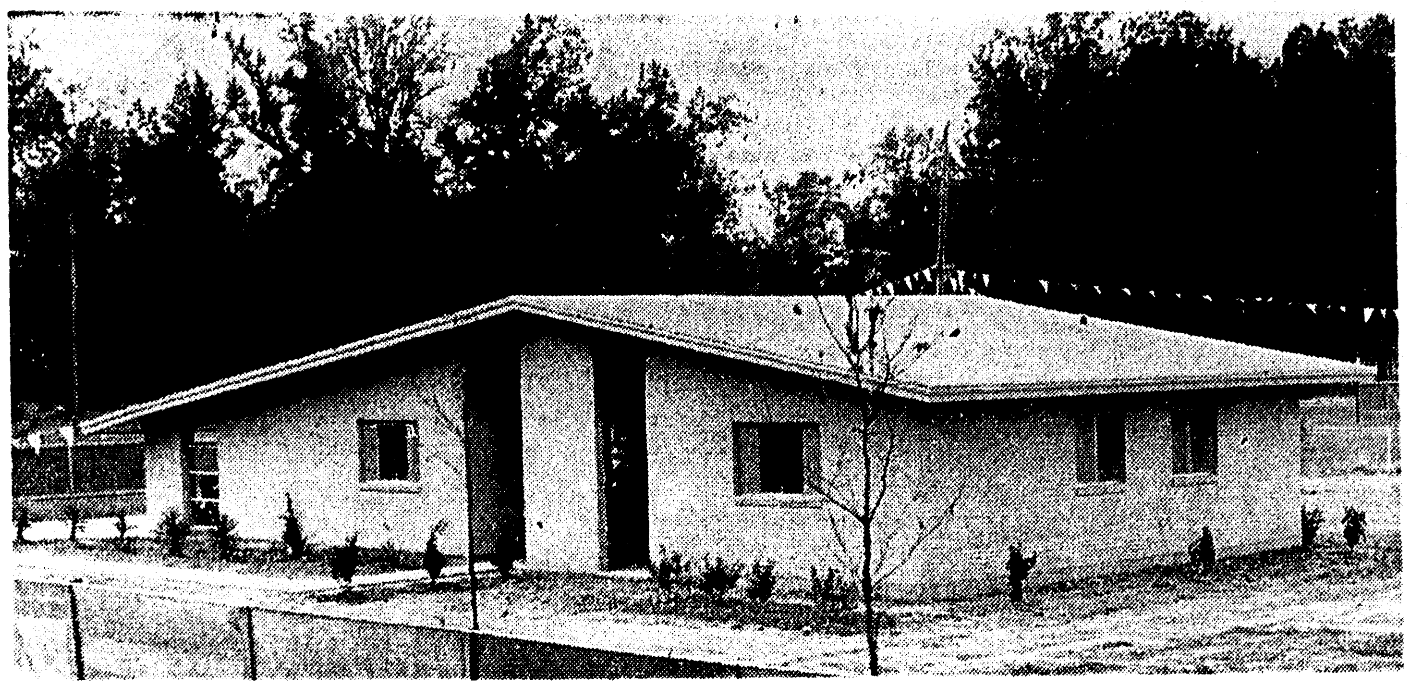
Medallion Village To Be Opened At 1 p.m. Today



THE SHAMROCK — Largest and most completely furnished in the most modern of manner at Medallion Village is this version of a home for the future. It is electrically equipped throughout.

SHOWING TODAY

Magnolia Builds 'Home Of Future'

The first Medallion Village in the South and probably in the nation was constructed for its showing to the public here this afternoon by Magnolia Builders and Supply, Inc., a local firm specializing in providing "Live Better Electrically" home with hidden assets.

The village is located on Fink's Hideaway Road just off Sterlington Road and will be formally opened at 1 o'clock this afternoon showing the ultimate in modern medium - priced three bedroom homes. Each is specially furnished and contains all the electrical features any family could desire,

Phil Duncan, vice president in charge of construction, and Jim Roberts, vice president in charge of sales for Magnolia Builders worked in cooperation with radio station KNOE and Louisiana Power and Light Company, along with a number of suppliers and service firms.

Each of the five houses, named for famous hotels, was specially landscaped by local garden clubs with the design of each house in mind. College Heights Garden Club planned and supervised the location and planting of shrubbery for The Hilton; the Sun and Sand Garden Club, for The Shamrock; Bayou DeSiard Garden Club for the Palmer House; Patio Garden Club for The Drake, and Welcome Garden Club for The Blackstone.

Prices on the houses contained in Medallion Village range in price from $14,500 to $20,000 and any of the five can be constructed anywhere in Northeast Louisiana by Magnolia Builders, either on land already owned by the buyer, or on lots provided by the contractor.

Arrangements can be made to secure government assistance in financing for non-veterans, veterans and aged persons.

Each of the houses is of brick veneer construction and include such features as large paneled kitchens, range hoods, extra large ceramic tile baths, glass sliding tub enclosure, built - in dressing table, large carports, central heating, all - weather entrances, large storage space, 20 - year bonded roof, concrete driveways, aluminum windows and screens, attic fans, spacious closets, copper pipe throughout and terriflex floors throughout.

Although the houses are on paved streets and are provided with plenty of soft water, school bus service, Louisiana Power and Light electricity and service and United Gas Corporation service, there are no city taxes to pay.

JAMES ROBERTS

PHILIP DUNCAN

Medallion Village provides city living with a country atmosphere.

Free rides for the children and refreshments for all visitors will be provided during the showing, and a special parking lot has been arranged for the afternoon. A large circus - type tent has been erected in which are displayed many of the appliances, equipment and much of the workmanship which have gone into the Medallion Village homes.

Specially trained representatives of all the participating agencies will be on hand to explain the many features and attractions of the homes.

In addition to Duncan and Roberts, other officers in Magnolia Builders and Supply, Inc., are L. M. Ray, president, and A. J. Gentry, secretary - treasurer.

Magnolia Builders has been in business for the past eighteen months or so, constructing high-type, medium priced homes throughout Northeast Louisiana and central and east Mississippi. In all their work, the officers and craftsmen of the company have done their utmost to project their thoughts into the future, trying to give the people today what they will want tomorrow. In this and other respects, Magnolia has succeeded in providing better homes for less.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

Wiring is the basis for a modern home. Once it is sound and sufficient, the rest follows naturally. Modern electrical wiring such as found in the Medallion homes is not to be confused with "code requirements." "Code" wiring is safe wiring, but it does not necessarily provide sufficient electrical capacity to serve present or future needs of the home.

Medallion Village, a dazzling display of five "Live Better Electrically" homes constructed by Magnolia Builders, Inc., and sponsored by radio station KNOE, will be opened formally at 1 o'clock this afternoon on Fink's Hideaway Road at a location considered to be one of the best and most attractive residential sites in the Twin Cities area.

According to Philip Duncan, vice president in charge of construction, and James Roberts, vice president of sales for Magnolia Builders, everything has been done to make this one of the most comprehensive showings of modern homes ever held in the area.

Electrical circuits and lighting plans were designed by Louisiana Power and Light Company engineers, and each house is so completed as to meet the stringent specifications for the "Medallion Home" title.

Each of the three — bedroom houses has a built-in all-electric kitchen and all have central heat and air conditioning. Nearly $1,000 worth of plants, shrubs and trees have been set out around the houses.

Each dwelling will show a minimum of three telephones, with the planning for phone locations having been done by representatives of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Kitchens in the Medallion Village homes feature such built-ins as automatic dishwashers, ice makers, laundries, ovens and ranges, many of these are included in the price of the houses, with some being offered as optional equipment.

The houses are located on Fink's Hideaway Road just off Sterlington Road, with signs directing the public to the site having been placed on Sterlington Road. There will be no charge to the public to visit the village. Free refreshments will be provided and free pony rides will be available to children. Also, a nursery has been set up for the toddlers.

Each of the houses will be carefully furnished to give visitors an idea of the extent to which the builders have gone to provide homes with the utmost in comfort and convenience.

A huge tent has been erected on the site so that visitors may see displays of brick, insulation, air conditioning equipment, electrical circuits and workmanship that went into the houses.

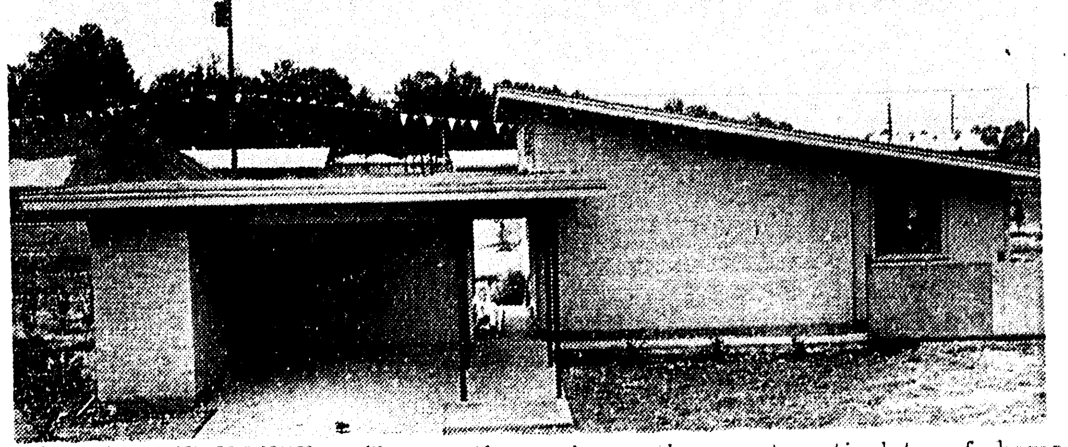
The houses have been given famous hotel names by the builder. Largest is the Shamrock which features a two - car garage, sheltered patio, a chain-link fence and sprinkler system. The others are the Hilton, Palmer House, Drake and Blackstone.

Registration for a new Tappan range worth $600, and an RCA Whirlpool air conditioner worth $250 starts today, along with that for a freezer full of food from the Rich Food Plan of Central Louisiana. The drawing will be held on next Sunday, October 19.

Suppliers for Medallion Village include the Appliance Center, John H. Bradley Tile Company, Sears Roebuck and Company, West Monroe Air Conditioning, Interstate Electric, Sunlighting and Fixture Company, Century Block and Brick Company, Hargus Insulation, Monroe Hardware, Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, Smith Venetian Blind Company, Letterman Painters and Decorators, Farmerville Lumber Company, Monroe Concrete, Roach Nursery.

THE LAMP IS LIT

Around 1000 B.C. someone got the right idea of adapting the wick — of vegetable fibre — to lamps. It was burned in a saucer-type vessel holding olive or nut oil. The idea caught on, and the early Jews, Greeks and Romans made good use of this method.



THE PALMER HOUSE — True to the fame of the famous Chicago hotel for which it was named, the Medallion Village "Palmer House" is certain to please the most articulate of home buyers. (Staff photos by John Fogleman)

AT MEDALLION VILLAGE

Electric Living In Home Stressed

The days of the electric light switch and other button-type electrical control devices found in homes are numbered, and a new trend is under way to do away with this longstanding symbol of America's constant effort to live better electrically.

This is the conclusion reached after extensive study by experts in the field who have decided that one of the best ways to present their findings is through means such as cooperating in the opening of new electrically-equipped homes for public inspection and demonstration.

Such an occasion is being marked today with the showing of Medallion Village located on Fink's Hideaway Road just off Sterlington Road, and the electrical industry's "Live Better Electrically" Medallion Home program in the Twin Cities area is represented by Louisiana Power and Light Company.

Medallion Village, made up of five of the latest type new homes designed for modern living, will open at 1 p.m. today, landscaped, furnished and prepared in all respects for pleasing appearance.

Louisiana Power and Light Company, Magnolia Builders Supply Company and radio station KNOE are combining to make this presentation.

In the research to determine what makes better living in a home, the electrical industry has arrived at these basic elements:

An electric range, plus at least three other major appliances, such as refrigerator, freezer, electric washer, dishwasher and all the complimenting appurtenances.

Lighting according to standards of "Light For Living" as outlined by the American Home Lighting Institute. This includes a high level of overall illumination plus special-purpose lighting for work and recreation areas.

Wiring taking in full housepower considerations in accordance with requirements of local electric utility, to include built-in extra capacity for future needs and expansion.

The "Live Better Electrically" Medallion Home program is a nationwide promotion of new homes, the electrical contents of which are guaranteed to meet the high standards set by electric utilities. The Medallion is described as a symbol of quality — the buyer's assurance that the home contains the very best in lighting, appliances and wiring.

The extent to which Medallion Homes can make for better living is almost unlimited. Medallion Homes, according to Louisiana Power and Light Company, feature a variety of comforts almost too numerous to be listed.

Among these are electric heating for the home, living "on the beam" with the modern radio-intercom, newest electric ranges which ease cooking and cleaning chores, dishwashers amazing to behold, quiet, dependable refrigerators, and electronic ovens.

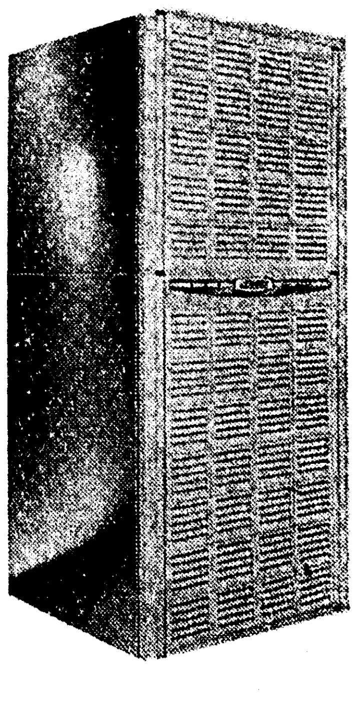
Working closely with Magnolia Builders and KNOE, Louisiana Power and Electric Company has equipped the five new homes in Medallion Village with what it thinks is the ultimate in better living facilities. In order to demonstrate the many features of electrical living will be Sandy Holt who has contacted the home economics classes in local schools, including Northeast State College, with invitations to visit the showing.

CLEVER CHINESE

The ancient Chinese took advantage of natural resources centuries before the Christian era when they brought natural gas to the surface from beds of rock salt 1,500 to 1,600 feet deep, conveyed it through bamboo pipes and used it for lighting salt mines and homes.

The American Pilgrims lighted their cabins with Betty lamps. This was a metal receptacle with a wick lying in a slot and protruding from one side. The fuel was fish oil.

West Monroe Air Conditioning Co. Is Proud To Announce That They Furnished And Installed The ALL ELECTRIC CENTRAL AIR CONDITIONING & HEATING (by LENNOX) In The All Modern Medallion Homes



YOU GET . . . OUTSTANDING ECONOMY and QUIETNESS with the LENNOX HEAT PUMP

Where others have left off, Lennox picks up and continues in heat pump design. These Lennox units bring new quietness, versatility, dependability and economy to the heat pump field.

Using only air and electricity, they produce all the delightful benefits of year around central heating and cooling.

3 UNITS TO CHOOSE FROM

VERTICAL INSIDE UNIT

The floating "Sulky" blower, acoustical lining and low resistance coil add up to whisper quietness. The basic unit consists of blower section and a matching coil section. Resistance heat section is optional. The rigid cabinet has rounded corners, handsome louvered front and pleasing two-tone gray enamel finish. Return air can be taken in through the bottom or low to the rear.

OUTDOOR UNIT

This is the outdoor unit which contains the compressor. By locating this remotely, bulk and sound are cut from the indoor unit.

With their big coils and floating blowers, these units have made a name for quietness and thrift. The discharge hood on top results in air being received and discharged on the same side of the cabinet. Thus it can be tucked in corners, "aimed" in one desired direction or easily concealed by flowers or shrubs. It can even be built into a garage or carport wall!

HORIZONTAL INSIDE UNIT

Ideal for quiet installation in attic or crawl space . . . or suspended from a ceiling! This horizontal unit consists of a blower section and a coil section. A resistance heater section is optional. An attractive diffusing head with adjustable vanes and a return air grille are available for a "free delivery" and return application. Blower is famous Lennox "Sulky" type. All moving parts are mounted on a frame which floats on rubber cushions. There's none quieter. Large "Hammock" style air filter provides twice the normal filtering capacity.

Handsome neutral gray cabinet has gold colored trim, round corners, rigid construction and acoustical fiberglass lining.

Baruch Owes Knowledge To Classical Education

Perhaps the reason that Bernard Baruch, in his 89th year, is so much wiser than most men is not that he is more experienced but that he has read more history and that his education was classical. He still sometimes reads Latin and Greek for his amusement and edification.

The man who assumes that history began when he was born will, of course, never learn that there has been a long chain of events which composed his environment, both natural and historical. Without a profound knowledge of history, it is hardly possible to grasp what is going on at this moment, certainly not what is occurring in so many different parts of the world.

Every day, one hears opinions about war and peace and what should be a good line of defense for the United States, although history teaches that there is no good line of defense and that a nation makes its stand when it has a possibility of winning and does not wait until all the advantages have accrued to its enemies. This we did in 1945 when we permitted Soviet Russia to win our war with Nazi Germany and again in 1948 when we permitted Soviet Russia to gather all the advantages of our war with Japan in which the Russians did not participate at all in any realistic way.

Our current difficulties stem from these two errors of judgment, one of which was the result of an administration seeking to please the voters, particularly the mammas who wanted their sons home as soon as possible, and the other was due to extraordinary bad judgment and an utter disregard of historical factors. A decade later, the errors stand out clearly.

Now we are capable of making another error with regard to where to resist the Soviet Universal State because politicians are more concerned with the cowardice of high standard of living people who refuse to grasp the essential historic fact that it is usual for low standard of living peoples to seek to grasp the benefits from high standard of living peoples if they can. And it is not unusual for high standard of living peoples to become soft and unpatriotic and self-centered and to seek to preserve their private fortunes at any cost. Usually, they lose their private fortunes by war or revolution.

In this congressional campaign, which is so crucial historically, there are practically no arguments, debates or discussions. This is a rare moment in our history. The nation is suffering because of an inflation which is producing a debased currency. A flight of capital is occurring which started as a form of income tax evasion and has developed into an investment in industries abroad which compete with ours to our detriment. Congressional investigations have disclosed that many labor unions which are in control of vital national industries and services have fallen into the hands of corrupt and abusive men who have used them for national harm.

These are but a few questions that should be but are not discussed in this canvass to elect a new Congress. The career of Jimmy Hoffa may have disgusted some, but it has not stirred the nation to indignation. It is true that William Knowland in California and Barry Goldwater in Arizona have raised some of these issues but most of the candidates are talking about nothing, just uttering sound, and what is more startling is that neither the people nor the press seem to care much that this election, at a time of an historical crisis that can lead to war, is a mumbling and fumbling affair about nothing that makes any sense. Are we stupid or have we lost our sense of country?

It is a question that sooner or later will need to be answered in the blood of our sons. For if we have lost our sense of country, our feel for the country, then the enemy will take full advantage of our weakness, as enemies always do of weak nations. If it is more important to protect a private fortune than it is national dignity, then we may find ourselves without dignity and without fortunes.

And this election campaign, thus far, would indicate that the reason candidates avoid taking stands on issues is because the people do not take a stand. The candidates reflect the times which is an era of laissez faire, of anything goes.

To Usher In International Week At N.O.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —A public flag raising ceremony Sunday will usher in "International Week" in New Orleans — a week-long festival to promote world trade and friendship.

The flag raising ceremony will be presided over by Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison.

The celebration of mutual international flavor is a community wide endeavor supported by civic and business leaders for the week Oct. 12-18.

During the festival New Orleans' main thoroughfare, famed Canal Street, will be converted into a giant showcase of foreign goods and special exhibits in the store windows.

Also the city's central business district will be filled with public entertainment by foreign musicians, singers and dancers, performing daily in their colorful native dress from special platforms.

From street parade, display and dancing, the festivities will lead up to a luncheon on Friday, Oct. 17, honoring foreign ambassadors and a hotel dinner and formal dance Saturday evening climaxing the week of events.

Ambassadors of thirty nations have been invited.

"Our objective," said Leon Godchaux II, chairman of the festival's steering committee, "is to stimulate widespread interest in foreign goods and products and demonstrate the leadership of New Orleans in promoting the healthy, two-way trade which we believe is vital to our national economy as well as to the welfare of the friendly nations of the world with whom we trade.

"In doing so we hope to focus attention on our city as a great world port and trade center. And at the same time we feel that we shall make a contribution to the cause in international good will and understanding."

The week will mark the tenth anniversary of the International Trade Mart, a huge center for foreign nations' trade activities.

There also will be two formal dedications during the week, the new Louisiana Supreme Court Building in the Civic Center and the $65,000,000 Mississippi River bridge at New Orleans which was opened last April.

ALUMINUM BOOST

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Reynolds Metals Co. announced it plans to boost aluminum production at its San Patricio plant by two million pounds per month within the next 30 days. The increase at San Patricio will bring production there to 14 million pounds a month, or to about 90 per cent of capacity.

Tight-Lipped Silence Kept Before Firing

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Right up to the last minute, the Air Force kept a tight-lipped silence on unofficial advance reports that the second U.S. moon rocket shot would be attempted before dawn today.

But several thousand persons swarmed the beaches for miles south of the missile test center to watch the blazing take-off of man's most ambitious attempt to reach out in his universe.

Many came before midnight to stake claims on parking places from which they had unobstructed views of the 88-foot missile. Bathed in the glare of huge searchlights. The rocket was clearly visible to beach watchers eight to 10 miles distant.

By 1 a.m., nearly three hours before the appointed blast-off time, a steady stream of autos clogged the causeway road linking Coca Beach and Cape Canaveral with the mainland town of Cocoa. license tags showed they came from all parts of the nation.

Fires dotted the beaches through the night as many prepared suppers.

EXCEPTION GRANTED

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The sacred College of Cardinals Friday broke with tradition and gave extraordinary permission for the saying of funeral masses on Sunday for Pope Pius XII. Ordinarily requiem masses are not said on Sundays.

INVALID CREDENTIALS

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The death of Pope, Pius XII caused considerable administrative activity and problems. Msgr. Emanuele Clarizio, the first papal internuncio (representative) to Pakistan, was unable to leave for his post in Karachi. His credentials, signed by Pius XII, no longer were valid. According to apostolic law, all acts and provisions by a pope are invalid if they are not executed before his death.

Cost Boost At Hospital Is Reported

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Board of Trustees of State Mental Hospitals reported Friday that increases in United Gas Corp. rates have boosted costs to the hospital at Whitfield by $43,320 annually.

The rate increase was put into effect by the firm in 62 communities this year. The rate increase was instituted under bond pending a decision on the request by the State Public Service Commission.

The firm sought a $1,764,000 annual increase.

Seth Hudspeth, director for the Mental Hospital Board, told Commission Chairman Norman Johnson Jr. that Whitfield patients are deprived of $86,540 worth of services because of the increase.

He said the mental board will meet Tuesday to appeal for commission rejection of the rate increase.

Hudspeth said the appropriation for the 1958-60 biennium has been made and no provisions can be made to take up the added costs during the next two years, except by reducing services.

The commission continued its hearing Friday, with company witnesses undergoing cross-examination.

E. L. Anderson of Shreveport, La., operating vice president for the Louisiana-Mississippi division of the company, testified that 16 northwest Mississippi towns pay 47½ cents per MCF for gas, while towns south of the area pay 25 cents. He said the higher rate was a result of having to buy gas from Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. at 32 cents to resell in the section.

He said industrial customers bought the gas for 40 cents per MCF.

Anderson said the rate increases cost residential users from $1 to $2.50 a month, but that this does not jeopardize small home ownership.

Anderson said that while industrial rates are 40 cents per MCF in Mississippi, they are 17, 18 and 21 cents in Louisiana. He said this would not be a decisive factor in industrial growth.

Anderson was noncommittal to a commission suggestion that rates should be raised in Louisiana and lowered in Mississippi to equalize consumer cost.

He also said company earnings for the first six months of 1958 were higher than either for the full 12 months of 1956 or 1957.

ON FAR EAST

Council Requests Action By U.N.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic Advisory Council called on the Eisenhower administration Saturday to take the Far Eastern crisis to the United Nations for a solution.

It also urged a U.N. program of self-determination for Formosa, the island bastian held by the Chinese Nationalists.

The council, set up as a between conventions voice of the Democratic Party, issued a foreign policy declaration apparently intended to bridge the varying view points expressed by such council members as former President Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson.

Both Truman and Stevenson, the twice-defeated presidential nominees, approved the statement along with such other party leaders as Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

The statement offered no judgment on the dispute — which has divided even Democratic leaders— as to whether the United States should help defend the Quemoy and Matsu islands against a Chinese Communist attack.

It did assail the administration's foreign policy, described as "six years of leaderless vacillation," and defended the right of the Democratic opposition to criticize that policy.

The 24-member council said U. S. action should not prejudice current negotiatons with Communist China over the offshore islands and should recognize treaty pledges to the Chinese Nationalists.

But then, it said, this nation "should submit the breach of peace in the Formosa area to the United Nations for action, seeking a definitive solution to the perennial threats to the peace which exist there."

The council said that after consulting other governments the United States should ask the U.N. for recommendations to:

—"Secure and stabilize the whole Formosa area in such a way as to prevent aggression from any source in any direction".

—"Secure to the people on Formosa the right to determine their own future."

The council did not detail its ideas about self - determination for Formosa or suggest how the U.N. should deal with Communist China, which is not a member.

In its attack on administration foreign policy, the council said the administration had "led us to the brink of isolation from our allies and to the brink of having to fight a nuclear war inadequately prepared and alone."

Ask Suggestions To Improve La. Election Laws

Members of the Police Jury Association will be queried next week on their suggestions for improving Louisiana election laws.

W. A. Breedlove, secretary of the Association, stated yesterday that Sen. John J. Petre of New Orleans has invited such suggestions with the idea of clarifying any conflicts and ambiguousness in the election laws.

The recommendations will be forwarded to the joint legislative committee on election laws.

Breedlove stated that letters of inquiry will be sent out to all officers of the association, members of the executive board, and secretary-treasurers of police juries, asking for their ideas on improving the election laws.

"Too liberal" absentee voting laws are being mentioned as one of the places where improvement is needed.

TEXT BOOK REVISION

BERLIN (UPI) — The Soviets are revising the principle textbook of Communism to eliminate "false" Stalinist theories, the East German news agency ADN disclosed Friday. ADN reported a speech by N. I. Shatagin, deputy director of the Institute for Marxism - Leninism of the Soviet Central Committee, at a meeting in East Berlin Thursday of representatives of Marxist institutes. Shatagin said the book, "A Short Course in the History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union" was being revised by a "collective" of writers.

Bishop Mourns Pope's Passing

POPE PIUS XII
by
MOST REV. CHARLES P. GRECO, D. D., BISHOP OF ALEXANDRIA

The passing of Pope Pius XII has cast a pall of sadness over the whole Christian world.

Pope Pius was universally loved and respected as a great churchman and world leader. When word spread that Pope Pius was gravely ill, messages of sympathy and of prayers were received at Castel Gandolfo from many heads of state, like our own President, Queen Elizabeth of England, the President of Italy and others and from people of every walk of life in practically every country of the western world.

In every Catholic Church throughout the world prayers were offered for him. The Protestant Episcopal Church convention in Miami paused in its deliberation to pray for Pope Pius.

As the news of his death was broadcast to the world from Rome flags were ordered to fly at half-mast, church bells tolled and glowing tributes poured in from all over the world. The secular press announced the Pope's passing with streaming headlines and devoted vast amount of space to the life of the great Pope who has gone to his reward. Radio and television networks carried programs of the Pope's life and accomplishments. Protestants and Jews joined Catholics in their sorrow and offered unstinted tributes to Pope Pius.

But in the church there is deeper mourning and sorrow. The Church has lost her intrepid leader, her amazing teacher, her kindly father, her divinely constituted head. He was an unrelenting fighter for the church's right to teach and carry on the work of Christ in the world, as witness his conflict with Hitler, Mussolini and atheistic communism.

His almost daily pronouncements, to audiences, conventions or in encyclical letters, on practically every subject affecting human welfare, were carried by the press and radio to all parts of the world. He has been the most quoted Pope. And his fatherly love was manifest in his messages to the church and in the audiences in which he received more than ten million people, Catholic and non-Catholic, during his reign of 19 years. He spoke to them in seven or eight different languages.

He was a truly modern Pope. He more than any other sought to suit the church's discipline and ministrations to the needs of the time, and brought Christ's teachings to the level of every man.

To make it possible in his fatherly solicitude, for the teeming millions of Catholics all over the world to assist at Holy Mass and receive Holy Communion with even greater frequency than before, as the best antidote to secularism and to foster closer union with God, he allowed evening mass and eased the fast requirements for Holy Communion.

His saintliness was evident in his daily life and remains an inspiration and example to all. He was another of our great modern saints, and we feel certain it will not be long before the process of his canonization will be instituted in the church.

As the Pope of Peace he worked indefatigably and devoted his whole lifetime to peace and to heal the wounds of war. "Opus Justitiae Pax" was his motto. "Peace is the work (or fruit) of Justice." He was the champion of the downtrodden and provided assistance to the victims of war and oppression all over the world.

He had a deep affection for America. The only Pope to have ever visited the United States, he loved America, with her freedoms, her way of life, her generosity; he showed his love in many tangible ways and he hardly held an audience with an American group without expressing this love.

But anything and everything we can say about Pope Pius XII has already been said in even more glowing terms by important people in the world, by press, radio and television.

But I like to remember Pope Pius in little things, the intimate personal glimpses of him coming out of some of the twelve audiences I had with him.

In an audience, after my official business was completed, I asked His Holiness to grant me the honor of posing with him for a picture.

"Ah," he said, "you like to have a 'pitcher'."

I must have smiled at the pronunciation and the Holy Father remarked it.

"Oh, did I say it wrong?" he asked.

"Yes, Holy Father. It's picture, not pitcher."

"Oh, picture, picture. "Now" he continued with a twinkle in his eye, "When you go back to your Diocese you can tell your people that you corrected the Holy Father."

In my last audience with Pope Pius, a few weeks ago, at the end of my ad limina report the Holy Father reached for a handful of rosaries and handed them to me. He must have seen through me with his small, deep seated, but piercing eyes and asked: "You want some more?" "Holy Father, I can use all you give me." So he picked up two more handfuls and gave them to me with a sweet angelic smile. These are now precious gifts, treasured relics which came from saintly hands.

When we parted I felt that was the last time I would see Pope Pius XII alive. He had started the audience by telling me that he did not feel too well. And he looked it, exhausted from nearly 20 years of generous, unstinting service to the church and to the world, as the Head of the Catholic Church.

The great, the kindly, the genial, the saintly Pope Pius XII is now history. He was one of the greatest and holiest who sat on the chair of Peter these past twenty centuries.

Negro Girl, 4, Is Victim Of Assault Here

A four-year-old Negro girl was brutally beaten and raped early yesterday morning. Her parents were awakened from sleep to find the child crying and screaming in her bedroom.

She was rushed to St. Francis hospital, where surgery was necessary to close a laceration on her face. She had been beaten about the mouth, face and head.

By 6 last night, Monroe police had picked up and [illegible] eight suspects, but all were released.

The offense, which carries the death penalty upon conviction in court, occurred in the pre-dawn hours.

Police, who were summoned to the hospital when the child arrived there at 6:30 a.m., began immediate investigation. Officials said that several detectives are working on the case, and an intensive search is being carried on for the guilty man.

The little girl could not be questioned yesterday, and late last night no details on the offender were available.

Police said that the girl slept in the same room with a seven-year-old sister and a six-year-old brother.

First reports said that the youngster had grass and dirt tangled in her hair, leading to the possibility that she was taken from the house and then returned after the offense was committed.

Area Negroes said that a similar offense happened last week, and that an eight-year-old Negro girl was assaulted at that time. Monroe police, when queried, said that they had no report of any other child-rape this month.

The youngster was "doing fine' last night at the hospital.

Urge Proposal To Suspend Atomic Tests

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States and 16 other countries sponsored a formal proposal Saturday that the U.N. General Assembly urge suspension of nuclear weapons tests during the coming Geneva talks on that subject.

Their resolution, handed in here Friday night and made public Saturday, rivals Indiana and Soviet proposals whereby the Assembly would call for immediate cessation of such tests, even before the talks began.

The Indian and Soviet resolutions were submitted a week ago for consideration in the disarmament debate in the Assembly's first committee, started Friday.

But some delegates already were predicting that the U.S.-backed resolution eventually would win out over both of them. They noted that the committee had upheld its essential point in a procedural vote Thursday.

That day, the group voted 50-9 with 19 abstentions for a U.S. motion calling for it to debate disarmament, reduction in military budgets and cessation of nuclear tests all together.

The vote, with only the Soviet bloc in opposition, eclipsed a Soviet motion to have the committee put cessation of tests first on its agenda and debate that separately.

EDDIE LIEBERMAN

Revival Set At W. Monroe 1st Baptist

An eight-day revival opens today at the First Baptist Church in West Monroe, according to Dr. Jaroy Weber, pastor.

Filling the pulpit for the occasion will be the Christian Jewish evangelist, Eddie Lieberman. He will deliver his first sermon today at 10:45 a.m.

Evening services were scheduled for 7:30 throughout the period of the revival. Morning services were set for 9:30 Monday through Friday.

Special music will consist of the 90 voice choir of the church, three pianos and organ, and six trumpets and tympani for special effects. Music will be under the direction of Jack Day.

Eddie Lieberman, the evangelist was reared in an Orthodox Jewish home. He attended Jewish schools of training and was a member of a Jewish Synagogue.

At 19, Lieberman was placed behind bars of the Federal prison in South Carolina. It was here he was given a New Testament and as a result was converted to Christianity.

In 1947, he entered he evangelistic field and since that time he has been busily engaged in this larger ministry. His campaigns and Bible conferences have taken him across America, Mexico, Europe, South America and Argentina. He has been invited to preach in Japan.

Dr. Weber and members of the congregation of the West Monroe First Baptist church have extended an invitation to the public to attend the revival.

Church School May Gain In Subsidy Move

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

A potential powderkeg involving church-state relations lies almost unnoticed in the Southern moves to subsidize private education.

Authorities said the legal ramifications, striking a sensitive point in American history, could ultimately put church-run parochial schools in line for tax money.

"The situation could bring the whole church-state issue into full cry again," said the Rev. Niel McCluskey, a Roman Catholic education analyst.

"It seems obvious to me that you can't take state funds and help those in some private schools and deny it to those in others," said the Rev. Dr. Claud Nelson, a Southern-reared Protestant specialist on church-state relationships.

About 90 per cent of the approximately 5½ million private elementary pupils at present are in Catholic schools. Lutherans and some other Protestant bodies have sizable parochial enrollments.

The Very Rev. Msgr. Frederick G. Hockwalt, director of the Education Department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, said any Southern plan for supporting private schooling would bring a reassessment of parochial school status.

"Our board hasn't taken up this question officially yet, but I'm certain we'll have to review it," he said. "Whether we would accept any support is a moot point, depending on the circumstances."

In modern times, Protestants and Jews generally have opposed government aid to parochial schools, while many Catholics have favored it in limited forms. All three groups, however, include influential exceptions to the pattern.

The differences arise from varying interpretations of the First Constitutional Amendment, forbidding any law "respecting an establishment of religion"—the so-called church-state separation provision.

In this connection, the Southern maneuvers for private schools, boiling up in Arkansas and Virginia and simmering in other Southern regions, has produced some ironic twists.

The effects, if eventually successful on a long-term basis, were seen as possibly leading to more Protestant - sponsored parochial schools — perhaps with tax or related help.

Eisenhower To Dedicate Church Center

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Eisenhower will give his official blessing in person today to a major milestone in interfaith cooperation—a "United Nations of Religion" under construction in New York City.

Eisenhower will wield one of six silver trowels to be used to cement in place the cornerstone of the 29-million-dollar, 19-story interchurch center, a stone and steel building rising in the shadow of famed Riverside Church and overlooking the Hudson River.

The building is due for completion in 1960. It will house religious organizations representing more than 40 million members and activities ranging around the world.

EVEN LUNCH ROOMS

It's biggest tenant will be the National Council of Churches, representing 37 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox church bodies. There also will be office space for the foreign and home mission boards of several denominations and headquarters of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. the Hymn Society of America and various other church groups.

The building will contain 10 high-speed elevators, a 500 -seat cafeteria and a lounge, a manuscript room, a chapel-auditorium, meeting rooms and other facilities, including an underground garage and small rooms where employes of church organizations may eat lunches brought from home.

The building will be modern—and sometimes modernistic — in decor and will be air-conditioned throughout. Potted plants will be used for decoration and colors of drapes and furniture will be bright. Acoustical ceiling, fluorescent lighting, resilient tile floors and painted plaster walls will make the building cheerful and quiet.

Most of the organizations that will move into the building now occupy old, low-rent offices on lower Fourth Avenue, between 14th and 28th streets, and neighboring side streets.

ROCKEFELLER GIFT

The National Council of Churches conducts its activities in eight separate buildings. When it moves, all of it 700 employes will be under one roof for the first time, occupying four floors.

The move in 1960 Uptown to Morningside Heights will mark the culmination of a 20-year effort to establish a national headquarters for churches and a central home for their cooperative enterprises.

The interchurch center will have illustrious neighbors, in addition to Riverside Church. Among them will be Columbia University, Barnard College, Union Theological Seminary, Jewish Theological Seminary, Juilliard School of Music and International House. The Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine is not far away.

A pedestrian tunnel will connect the new building with Riverside church and its new annex across the street.

The interchurch center is being built on a block-side site between 119th and 120th streets made available by John D. Rockefeller Jr. The ground was broken at ceremonies last Nov. 1.

Rockefeller gave the non-profit Interchurch Center, Inc., a 99-year lease rent free. He also provided 2 million dollars toward the cost of the building and financed the extra expense of a limestone exterior so the center would be in harmony with the neighboring institutions.

The participating religious agencies put up 5-million dollars toward the construction and New York Life Insurance Company made a $12,650,000, 30-year first mortgage loan.

Ouachita Life Extends To Ark.

N. Mantrozos, president of Ouachita Security Life Insurance Company, has announced an expansion of the company's operations into Arkansas.

"This is an extremely important step for the company in that it opens up a very large and almost untouched market in Southeast Arkansas," Mantrozos said. "That area in particular is within easy reach of our center of operations in Monroe."

He declared that with the opening of operations in Arkansas OSLIC's expansion in the future "should be even more impressive than in the past 20 months during which we have put over $8 million in business in force in Louisiana. We already have an annualized premium income of more than a quarter of a million dollars," Mantrozos said.

Ouachita Security Life officials cited the state of Arkansas' approval of the company as added evidence of the company's soundness and honest operation. "we submitted to and passed rigid inspection in Arkansas," Mantrozos said.

RETAIL SALES OFF

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Department reported Friday that retail sales fell 1.7 per cent from August to September. The September total was $16,324,000,000. The drop was calculated after allowance for seasonal factors. September sales were down 2.1 per cent below a year ago. From August to September, sales at durable goods stores dropped 1.3 per cent while sales at other retail stores slipped 1.9 per cent.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: If the Lord knows our sins, why should we confess to Him? How do you confess, and how do we know if He has forgiven us?
P.F.

ANSWER: Confession of sin is not to inform the Lord. You are right, He knows about our sins before we confess them. The reason we are told to confess our sins to God is because sincere confession shows God we are truly repentant. If we just tell our sins to God, that is of no purpose. As we have said, He already is aware of the evil in our hearts. But if ni a repentant, contrite spirit, we confess our sin to God, the Bible says: "He is faithful and just to forgive our sin, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

Many are sorry for their sins, but are not sorry enough to forsake them. True confession implies the forsaking, the giving up, of any wrong in our lives. "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts", says the Bible, "and he will abundantly pardon."

Many are sorry that their sins have caught up with them, sorry that their sins have brought sadness, sorry that their reputations have been ruined by sin. But true repentance means that we are through with the practicing of sin. As a way of life, we forsake it, and turn to the Lord. When God sees that a person intends to do this, He wipes the past out, and gives a clean spiritual bill of health to the repentant ones.

AUTUMN HERALDS FEVERED OPERA WORK

Art World Sheds Summer Lethargy

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP)— The Renaissance is here again — the annual renaissance.

With summer, slowest of all the music - ballet - art - book seasons, at last out of the way, the busiest one, autumn, has arrived. The lights are out, the audience is set, the curtain rises, and New Yorkers are off on what may be their most important, most thrilling and best times since the war.

Two leading groups, the Metropolitan Opera and the New York City Ballet, are celebrating anniversaries. The Met, 75 years old, will have a birthday party and then a gala opening Oct. 27 with the famed Tebaldi in "Tosca." The ballet company, 10 years old, has just finished a short teaser session in City Center in preparation for a longer later stay.

But there is other ballet, too. American Ballet Theater has attracted its generous percentage of balletomanes to the Met. A Broadway theater has offered, too briefly, "Ballets: U. S. A.," a program of four Jerome Robbins numbers. It featured his "N. Y. Export, op. Jazz," with the Ben Shahn settings. Premiered at the summer festival in Spoleto, Italy, shown again at the Brussels fair, it is one of the most dynamic, impressive works in the entire native repertoire.

And there is other opera. New Yorkers have already seen "Murder in the Cathedral," the Ildebrando Pizzetti - T. S. Eliot work brought down from the Empire State Festival in Ellenville. They are enjoying their own New York City Opera at City Center. The company is adding two numbers to its eminent roll of works, Richard Strauss' "The Silent Woman," in an American premiere, and Britten's "Rape of Lucretia."

An innovation which the music world watches with great interest is the hopped-up Thursday night program which initiates the New York Philharmonic's weekly series. Under the direction of the new conductor, Leonard Bernstein, and later guest conductors in turn, these are informal, super-duper dress rehearsals. Bernstein may stop the whole show whenever it pleases him to explain to the audience in the hall, or the TV audience if available, what's going on, or what's going on that shouldn't, or what's not going on that should — "wrong note, can't hear that drum, put your heart in it, my score says a rest." It's a sort of new angle to the do-it-yourself fad; now the audience will listen in on the conductor as drillmaster and pedagogue.

Bernstein also inaugurates a season - long program schedule based on the works of American composers, among them Chadwick, MacDowell, Ives, Ruggles, Varese, Gershwin, Barber, Piston, Foss, Rorem. Whether it's the fresh Broadway zip, or simply the new conductor, or the survey of native composers, the Philharmonic reported a record-breaking pre - season ticket sale.

Almost before the fall curtain rose, literary honors went to two books, each by a native - born Russian, one of them Boris Pasternak for "Doctor Zhivago" and the other, Nicholas Nabokov for "Lolita." Reviewers wrote a lot about the politics in "Zhivago" and the sex in "Lolita," but in a sense all this was beside the point, which was, that these were outstanding literary achievements.

Publishers always make October and November their big months in preparation for Christmas sales, and they are already up to their eyes in the lists not for the coming winter but the spring. In all these fields, fall is the culmination of no end of hard behind-the-scenes work in the preceding spring and summer. The Philharmonic, with a week's tour mainly in New England before opening its regular New York season, began rehearsals almost a month ago. But it had no sooner ended its 1957-58 year than it lined up fund - raising drives, drew up prospectuses and arranged subscription lists to be all set when Labor Day came. This may be its last year in Carnegie Hall before the move, perhaps in two years, to the new Lincoln Square quarters.

The Metropolitan Opera's chorus has been rehearsing for a month, general manager Bing beginning his ninth year has been back at his desk for several weeks after his annual European visit, and the orchestra was alerted to start work as soon as union negotiations were completed.

The Whitney Museum of American Art started the new year under a new director, Lloyd Goodrich. The Guggenheim kept busy in temporary quarters, principally with its International Awards, but Director James Johnson Sweeney, after a signal triumph on the lecture platform in Brussels, prepared for an early move to the new egg - cup shaped building erected by Frank Lloyd Wright. The Metropolitan Museum lined up a survey of American art and Homer and Gauguin shows. The Museum of Modern Art after a summer spent rebuilding and redecorating after its disastrous fire, was going to exhibit Miro, Arp, photos, design and architecture.

A spectacular fall program was planned by impresario Sol Hurok. His "International Festival" began last month with the Grenadier and Scots Guards; and in the course of 1958-59 he will show 500 artists from abroad in the Met, Carnegie and Town Halls, the Hunter auditorium and two theaters. Among his attractions are the Chicago and Pittsburgh symphonies, the Old Vic Company, the Theatre National Populaire and Spanish and Russian ballet.

The Little Orchestra Society begins its 12th season in Town Hall with the first New York performaace of an 18th century mask for dancing and singing by the English composer Thomas Arne. The works of four composers will be featured: Norman Dello Joio, Morton Gould, Ernest Bloch and Aaron Copland.

There are novels due soon from David Dempsey, John O'Hara, Nevil Shute, Han Suyin; Field Marshal Montgomery and our General Albert C. Wedemeyer are writing about their roles in the war; James F. Byrnes writes about politics; Aline Saarinen writes of art collectors.

GETTING READY—The Metropolitan Opera chorus rehearses for new season which starts with its Oct. 27 performance.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Well Into Fall Publishing Time

By FRANCIS FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

We are now well into the fall publishing season and a great variety of new books are being released each week. There are titles among our most recent additions French poet Rimbaud. His was a to appeal to every type of reader. The most significant novel of the week is "The Day on Fire" written by James Ramsey Ullman and suggested by the life of the French poet Rimbaud. His was a strange and unusual life and one that would certainly appeal to a writer of Mr. Ullman's ability. It is an arresting story and one for the discriminating reader. Josephine Lawrence has the special gift of selecting the sort of a family situation which might happen to anyone and making a good story out of it. Her people are as real as your next door neighbors, presented with humor as well as understanding. Her latest novel is called "The Ring of Truth" and deals with the adventures of a young woman who went to New York in search for adventure and love. This is Miss Lawrence's twenty - second novel and her many readers will be eagerly waiting for it. Another story of present day life is "Venus in Sparta" by Louis Auchuncloss. This is the story of a man who had made a success of his business life, but failed in his personal life. It is written with feeling and discernment and promises to be very popular.

For the mystery readers, there is a new title by Erle Stanley Gardner called "The Case of the Calendar Girl." It is another Perry Mason story and is certain to be well received.

A very fine novel of the Revolutionary War is "Brother to the Enemy" written by Bart Spicer. It is the story of Benedict Arnold and his desertion of the American cause and how it affected his men. It is also the story of one man, whom Washington sent to bring him back and how he fulfilled this mission. Another story of our past is "The Crossing" by Clay Fisher. This is the story of the great southwest at the time of the Civil War. It is also the story of young Jud Reeves and how he became a man. Martha Ostenso has written a number of very fine novels dealing with life on the farms of the midwest. Her latest book is "A Man Had Tall Son." It is the story of Luke Darr and his family. It shows how a man can make many mistakes and think he is doing the right thing. It is a powerful book which moves swiftly to the preordained climax.

In the field of non - fiction there are some very readable new books. Bellamy Partridge has written an informal and colorful story of auctions and auctioneering from Colonial times to the present, which he calls "Going, Going Gone." Anyone who has ever had auction fever will want to read this book and those who haven't will get it. One of the outstanding American humorists of our day is S. J. Perelman. A new book by him is always welcome, especially a book of 650 pages called "The Most of S. J. Perelman." If you want a good evening's entertainment, don't miss this.

One of the most literate of present day American scholars and probably the expert on the subject of American literature in Van Wyck Brooks. His latest book is called "The Dream of Arcadia" and is concerned with American writers and artists who lived in Italy in the years from 1760 to 1915.

It is well written and will appeal to many readers. A perfectly charming travel book is "Mention My Name in Mombasa" by Maureen and William McGivern. This deals with the adventures of an American family abroad and there is a laugh on every page.

Your Ouachita Parish Public Library is ready to help you— whatever your need for knowledge, pleasure or entertainment. If you are not taking advantage of our resources, you are missing a wonderful opportunity.

BEAUTIFUL STORY

Ordinary Qualities Are Replaced Here

SIDE DOOR TO HEAVEN. By Alan Gillies. Holt. $4.95.

Harley Freeman is nine when this fine first novel opens, and married, a veteran, a father and a reasonably settled man when it closes. In between, he has wonderfully grown up, fallen in love, been frustrated, learned to hate, confronted tragedy, understood his own lacks, and arrived at a workable compromise with the unpredictable adventure called life.

As a child he has a club foot, and by a course of treatments it is at last corrected. But that may have been even less of a handicap than his family — a supercilious mother who would drive a man to drink, a father who has in fact been driven and seems unlikely ever to find his way back, a brother Claude who will be his unworthy rival all his years, and a tragic sister Violet.

Regarding the mother as being unbearable as she finds him, the father has a friend named Maybelle, and one closer, Miss Lily, right across the side - yard hedge. The boy senses disturbances at the older age level though without ever understanding much about them till the family finally breaks up and he and Claude move to the country to live with relatives, among them young cousin Irene. Independent, original and entirely lovable as a girl and an adult, she remains the central figure opposite Harley, and unhappily opposite Claude, too, for the rest of the story, though the hero will take Catherine for wife.

The jealousies that split the Harley - Claude brotherhood so savagely, the petty feelings that sour Catherine and Harley's mother, the love remembered so dearly by Harley and the uneasy awareness of it that disturbs both his wife and Irene's husband, the rich, well meaning and interfering Grecca — all these attributes, emotions and personages come smash together in some final climactic pages that give this novel more scenes of action than it has had in the first four - fifths of its long course.

But this is not a novel to be cherished for action, climax, sex or any of the conventionally spectacular qualities supposed to go into the make-up of best sellers. This is, rather, an uncommonly beautiful story of steady, rich, fruitful, simple, daily living, told with the heartfelt warmth. Instead of the flashy surface attractions, this has the central essential substance — the dreams, the family talk, the picnic, the swim, the choir practice, the rooming house, the parting, the loving reunion.

BOOKS

United Press International

Exodus, by Leon Uris (Doubleday): A novel of heroic proportions about the birth of the new state of Israel. The author is most effective when he writes of the Jewish heroes and heroines who escaped from persecution in Europe and the Orient to endure further hardships in establishing their own long - dreamed - of nation. Running through the novel is the strange love story of a young Israeli leader and an American nurse who was drawn into the struggle for Israel's freedom both by curiosity and compassion.

The Hot Half Hour, by Robert L. Foreman (Criterion): The adventures of a solvent but honest advertising man in the often-explored jungle that includes the turgid rivers of Fifth, Park and especially Madison Avenues. In a way, this is also a timely how-to-do-it book showing how to rig a quiz program on TV without ever actually telling a contestant anything. The author is an executive in one of the biggest agencies and knows his way around the quiz shows.

The Land Behind God's Back, by A. Den Doolaard (Simon & Schuster): Montenegro vanished as a state when it became part of Yugoslavia at the end of World War I, but the land is still peopled by the same fiercely free men who fought Turks, Albanians and Austrians about 80 times in five centuries to preserve their independence. Vuk (Wolf) Crnojevich was one such man and this is his story — fact embellished with the poetic hyperbole common to hillfolk. A. Den Doolaard (meaning "the wanderer") is the pen name of a Dutch novelist who has lived off and on for years among the mountain people who are the characters of this story. This is an inspiring story of heroism in harshness and victory in defeat.

PASSENGERS RESCUED

HONG KONG (UPI)—The U.S. cruiser Helena Friday helped rescue 131 Chinese passengers from the Norweigan vessel Hoi Wong which ran aground Monday on the Bombay Reef about 450 miles south of here, the ship's agents reported. The agents said they did not know whether the Helena would transfer the passengers to another freighter standing by or transport them directly to Singapore. The Hoi Wong was en route to Singapore from the Red Chinese port of Swatow.

Russia's Niki Adopts Family

NIKI. By Tibor Dery. English version by Edward Hyams. Doubleday. $2.95.

Janos Ancsa, distinguished engineer, early Communist, and civic - minded worker in Hungary, according to this short novel, has a job in Budapest but for lack of room must live in a distant suburb. There a small female dog, mostly terrier, likes the smell of him, the sound of his voice, the way he lives, and adopts him.

Of course the Ancsas think they adopt her. But recognizing the female wiles of Niki as being fundamentally common to females of all species, Mrs. Ancsa knows Niki is flattering them and acting coy out of innate wisdom, and realizes it is not they who decide to admit the dog, but the dog herself that decides to move in.

Ancsa, in his 50s, is an uncompromisingly honest individual who has not the tact to cover up for a party official who cheats. This gets him into trouble. He and his wife settle in a small city apartment, he is sent to jobs less and less important and farther and farther away, and one day he does not return. He has been arrested — Dery himself is now in prison for his role in the Hungarian revolution, and his story about a prisoner's return home, published in this country a few months ago, was an unbearably beautiful expression of this tragic experience.

But along with Ancsa and his wife, Niki suffers. She has been free. The Ancsas believe she has as much right to independence as man. There is a magnificent condemnation of tyranny:

"The abuse of power, baleful vice of kings, leaders, dictators, directors, heads of departments, secretaries, shepherds, cowherds and swineherds, heads of families, pedagogues, elder brothers, of old and young in whatever, this stench, this sickness, this source of infection, peculiar to man and unknown in any other carnivore, even the bloodiest, this curse and blasphemy, this war and cholera, was a thing unknown in the Ancsas' house."

We see little Niki's happiness, we see her pine away. "It's the want of liberty that's killing her," Mrs. Ancsa believes. The dog that leaped so frenziedly, loved her master and mistress beyond all reason, chased the hare and played with the ball, at last must wait too long at the door for the familiar step she will never hear again. Dery is so wonderfully unsentimental, and so deeply moving. This is a little masterpiece as a dog story, and a little masterpiece as a legend of the liberty cherished by al living things.

Constant association with a fine piano in their own home will develop and maintain that interest. -THE ARTS-

BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Constance Bennett has been moving profitably around the country since last October at the head of one of those touring companies of "Auntie Mame" and has found some firm opinions about a star's life on the road.

The lack of real theaters is a definite drawback, she feels. High school and college auditoriums serve in their fashion, but they are not conducive to the best presentation of a play. They don't provide the "feel of theater."

The critics west of the Hudson are quite fair, Miss Bennett reported. However, in places where where there are no established critics, the member of a newspaper staff who may be assigned to do a review often feels ht has to lean over backwards to be tough in what he imagines is the critical tradition. (The verdicts of the New York critics are always more generous over a season than the verdicts of the paying public.)

"Matinees should be abolished," said Miss Bennett.

She doesn't mean only on the road either. They place too much of a strain on the actors, she pointed out. Also she feels that many members of the women's groups which contribute much of the matinee to attend more out of compulsion than because of any real love for the theater.

The star said she discovered that audiences outside of New York are extremely hep and will not settle for anything but the best in the matter of actors and presentation. With movies and television easily available, the people aren't going to spend their money for the mere privileges of looking at live actors.

So far, Miss Bennett has been most delighted by the audiences in Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Denver, Kansas City and Chicago.

She said her most rewarding experiences have been with students of the drama at various colleges. Often they travel many miles to see the play and then visit her backstage to discuss the possibilities of an acting career.

Miss Bennett looks forward to weekends on the road because they give her a chance to relax. To gain more time for rest, she gets into a plane after a Saturday night closing and flies to the next engagement, thus saving a lot of time that can be devoted to sleep until Monday.

The star manages to live up to her reputation as one of the nation's "best dressed women" despite the hectic life of the road.

"I had one trunk for the spring and summer seasons," she explained. "Another was recently packed for me and sent out from New York with my fall and early winter things."

The major part of her wardrobe consists of slacks and sweaters of many different materials and colors.

"They're ideal for wear while walking to and from the theater," she said, "and comfortable for lounging, as well as being smart for casual day and evening wear.

"And speaking of 'best dressed,' I have certainly seen hundreds of women in my travels who know how to buy and wear clothes."

Irish playwrights won't be able to complain about not getting a hearing in New York this season.

The latest product of the Emerald Isle to win a local sponsor is "The Heart's a Wonder," and if that doesn't ring any bells, you may know it better as J. M. Synge's world - famous "The Playboy of the Western World."

And plays by Sean O'Casey and Brendan Behan will be here soon.

"The Heart's a Wonder" is "Playboy" in a musical version arranged by Nuala and Mairin O'Farrell. Lester Osterman, playwright Lillian Hellman and Arthur W. A. Cowan have acquired an option on the American rights and hope to bring over the original Irish company for a local premiere early next year. The production is now a London success.

"The Heart's a Wonder" is not a musical in the usual sense of an original score, dance routines, etc. The Misses O'Farrell have not tampered with the Synge text; they have simply arranged for the interpolation of certain traditional Irish airs to which they have fitted special lyrics when necessary.

Incidentally, a revival of "Playboy" in its original form has been doing well in a small off-Broadway theater, the Tara, since last May.

O'Casey, who has had many lean New York years — almost a forgotten man until recently — will get three productions instead of the two anticipated earlier.

The added starter is a revival of his "The Shadow of a Gunman" one of his early works dealing with "the trouble." This is scheduled for production at the Bijou Theater Nov. 19 as an Actors Studio presentation under the guidance of Cheryl Crawford and Joel Schenker.

Which One Will Go to College?

They're bright kids. Many of them are qualified for a college education. Unfortunately some of them may be turned away.

Why?

Many of our colleges are overcrowded today. By 1967, when these youngsters are ready to enter, applications are expected to double. On top of that, low salaries are forcing too many gifted teachers to leave the campus for greener pastures.

It's not a very bright picture. Something must be done to change it before it's too late. Help the college of your choice today. The rewards will be greater than you think.

Published as a public service in cooperation with The Advertising Council and the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association.

TENSE DRAMA — Russ Tamblyn threatens John Drew Barrymore with a switchblade knife in a scene from "High School Confidential," controversial drama of today's youth, produced for M-G-M by Albert Zugsmith. The film starts today at the Star Drive In.

ATTILA — Violence overwhelms the screen in the giant Technicolor thrill drama, "Attila," starring Anthony Quinn as the terrible Hun and Sophis Loren as a power-hungry, pleasure-made darling of a decadent empire. The picture starts Thursday at the Jim Theatre.

$58 MISSING

DETROIT (AP) — Common Pleas Judge Harry J. Dingeman recessed his court and went to his chambers to write some checks. He discovered his check book and a wallet containing $58 were missing. Police were investigating the apparent theft.

PIGS EAT BETTER

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) —A Cornell University study showed the average U.S. pig of today eats better than his ancestor.

Three pigs from the same litter were fed rations commonly used in 1910, 1930 and 1958 as part of an experiment at the department of animal husbandry at Cornell.

The 1910 menu added 25 pounds to one pig during the 67-day test. The pig fed the 1930 ration gained 44 pounds, but the pig with the modern menu put on 105 pounds.

DAVID NIVEN plays Phileas Fogg, the intrepid adventurer in Michael Todd's production of "Around the World in 80 Days."

Greatest Show Is Showing At Jim Theatre

Michael Todd's Academy Award winning "Around the World in 80 Days begins a special engagement at the Jim Theatre. The Technicolor comedy adventure hit not only garnered over 80 world wide awards and honors, and five Oscars but holds a host of records in motion picture annals.

Featuring David Niven, the hilarious Mexican comic Cantinflas, Robert Newton and Shirley MacLaine, "Around The World" holds the record for the most stars — 48 — ever to appear in a picture, each playing a role germane to the show. Some of these luminaries are such favorites as Marlene Dietrich, Frank Sinatra, George Raft, Red Skelton, Ronald Colman, Charles Boyer, Fernandel, Buster Keaton and many others.

Another record for "80 Days" is the most people photographed in separate world-wide locations: 68,894 persons (all on the payroll) in thirteen different foreign countries. A record-breaking 74,685 costumes were designed, made and - or rented to clothe this spectacular cast.

Also for the record, the Todd production traveled the most air miles to make the show — 4,000,000; it used the most sets — 140 actual locations as well as the stages of six Hollywood studios plus those in England, Hong Kong and Japan; and it used the most properties ever employed in a film.

To cap the list, "Around The World in 80 Days" has become the world's most honored show. No other film ever received as many awards and honors. Aside from the five Academy Awards, over eighty top-flight honors have been bestowed upon it by organizations, critics and even governments all around the world.

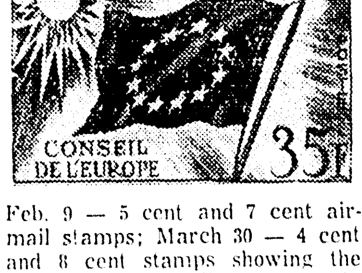
7-Cent Airmail Special Stamp To Be Released

The small sized embossed 7-cent airmail envelope will be the only one released at the ASDA Stamp Show in New York Nov. 21. The new envelope will be similar to the 7-cent "Jet" airmail stamp issued July 31 in Philadelphia.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may submit orders to the Postmaster, New York 1, N. Y., plainly indicating name and address. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 7 Cent Air Mail Envelope." The cost for each will be 8 cents. This naturally includes the price of the envelope.

France has issued a set of three new stamps dedicated to the Council of Europe. Each stamp is of the same design showing a flag with 12 stars. A bright sun shines in the upper left corner. The values are 8 franc, 20 fr and 35 fr. Also issued by France was a 15 franc depicting a view of the beautiful Chateau De Foix.

The United Nations Postal Administration has announced a tentative stamp progr[illegible] 1959.



Feb. 9 — 5 cent and 7 cent airmail stamps; March 30 — 4 cent and 8 cent stamps showing the New York City Building at Flushing Meadows; May 18 — 4 cent and 8 cent stamps honoring the Economic Commission for Europe Sept. 21 — 5 cent airmail postal card and 7 cent airmail envelope; Oct. 23 — 4 cent and 8 cent stamps honoring the United Nations Trusteeship Council; Dec. 10 — 4 cent and 8 cent Human Rights Day stamp.

Reports from Hungary reveal that a set of sports stamps has been issued. Some of the designs show a table tennis player, Greco-Roman wrestlers, water polo player, high diving and a swimmer.

Haiti has issued seven new stamps dedicated to the International Geophysical Year. There will be only four designs, however, since three are repeated for airmail. Depicted will be the head of a U. S. satellite, an Antarctic scene showing penguins, a modern observatory and an ocean exploration scene.

To the Millions of Americans Who Helped Design the 1959 Ford Family of Fine Cars

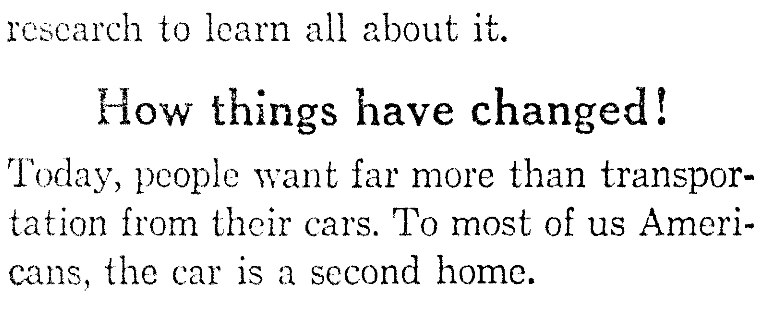
A message from Henry Ford II, Benson Ford, and William Clay Ford on the philosophy behind Ford Motor Company's 1959 models —soon to be shown by 8,972 dealers all over the country.

FOR 55 years our family has been in the business of making automobiles for the families of America.

First in our grandfather's and our father's time, and now in our own, we've been associated with the evolution of the American car. We've watched our cars and our ways of living change each other.

Through all these years we've tried to learn the simple secret of success in the car business: Give the people what they want.

Of course, when our grandfather decided to find out what people wanted, it wasn't very hard. People wanted low-priced, reliable transportation. You didn't have to do much research to learn all about it.



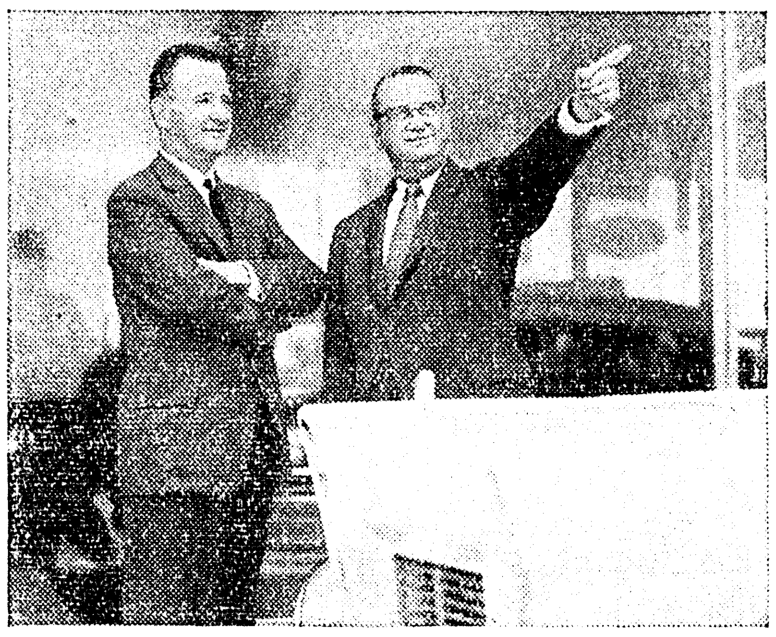
Henry Ford II, President of Ford Motor Company, talks about the '59 Ford with foreman Nicholas Metropoulos at assembly line of Rouge plant.

How things have changed!

Today, people want far more than transportation from their cars. To most of us Americans, the car is a second home.

We are the most mobile people on earth. We live in one place, work in another, send our children to school in a third, and enjoy our recreation in a fourth. We think nothing of going fifty miles to dinner, or across the country on a holiday. Is it any wonder Americans make such great demands upon our cars—or have so many ideas about them?

How do we find out what these people want—and what their ideas are? At Ford Motor Company we consider car-owner research one of our most important assignments. We do our best to find out what you like, why you like it, what you need and want, what you take for granted in a car, and what you don't care about.



Benson Ford, Vice President and Chairman of Dealer Policy Board, gets local picture from Lincoln-Mercury dealer Fred Jones, Tulsa, Okla.

We ask questions by mail, in person, and by telephone. We get suggestions from a farmer in Arkansas and a housewife on Long Island, a salesman in Arizona, and an Ohio teenager who just got his driver's license.

A host of new ideas

Our dealers across the country will soon be showing you the completely new 1959 Fords, Edsels, and Mercurys. Together with the improved 1959 Lincolns, Thunderbirds, and Mark IV Continentals, we believe they're the most beautiful cars we've ever made. Their styling is crisp, functional and well proportioned—every line with a purpose.

Our '59 cars are designed around people.

You'll find, for example, such things as wider doors to make our cars easier to get into and out of, even for ladies in the new tighter skirts; more leg room for the person in the middle, with the hump in the floor cut way down; and, you'll find all of our new cars—both V-8's and 6's—are more economical to operate.

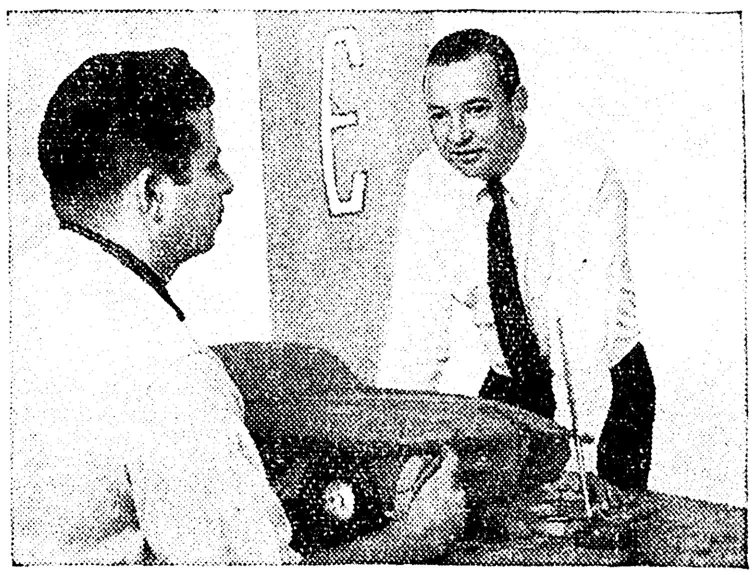
You'll notice all kinds of ideas to make riding safer and easier, more comfortable and convenient—from greatly enlarged window areas to bigger luggage compartments.

Never before has our company devoted so much time, thought, effort and money to finding out, and finding the way to give you the things you want in an automobile. And we make a car for every price range, from about $2000 to over $7000. The choice you have is almost unlimited.

6 different makes—60 different models

In the 1959 Ford Family of Fine Cars, we will offer 6 different makes—the Ford, Thunderbird, Edsel, Mercury, Lincoln, and Mark IV Continental. In these 6 makes you get a total of 60 different cars.

And if that's not enough, you can pick from so many different colors, interiors, trims, and other choices in each model that it takes an electronic brain to count them.



William Clay Ford, Vice President, Product Planning and Styling, works here with Edsel stylist Deno Taglioli on 1962 designs.

We believe you will find, in the 1959 Ford Family of Fine Cars, the car designed for you. In a sense, it was designed by you—designed by you and millions of other Americans.

Speaking for the entire Ford Motor Company—its 273,457 stockholders, its 150,000 employees and its 8,972 dealers all over America—may we invite you to see our new cars before you buy? Watch for announcement dates in your newspaper.

Autumn is Outdoors

Winter and spring bring cold and rain, and summer makes the cool indoors attractive. But fall means outdoors in the South. What could be better than a ride, a walk, a hayride or wiener roast? Off for a canter at the H. W. McSherry place are left to right, Kathy McSherry, Paula Neal and Susan Bendel. The McSherrys often join them for a ride.

A "must" with the youngsters, come that first crisp tang in the air, is a hayride. About to depart on the first one of the season is the Beaux and Belles Club of North Monroe Junior High School. Among the obviously happy, are Janet Noland, Charlotte Berry, Sandra Cloninger, Betty Bray, Penny Nichols, Frank Eason, Kathleen Cochran, Marilyn Massey, Bobby Taylor, Herb Kilpatrick, Gretchen LaFrance, Richard Kiper, Steve Updegraff and Tommy Sparks.

At left: Fall is the time for a walk where leaves are outdoing Technicolor with every shade of gold and crimson. A path in Forsythe Park beckons to two seniors of Neville High School, Suzonne Kellogg and King Stubbs.

The men spent the afternoon skeet shooting, while the ladies played bridge . . . The supper table was covered with a brown domestic cloth handpainted around the skirt with pumpkins, cattails, and wheat. The centerpiece was of dried materials used with acron squash, pumpkins, and a figure of a mallard duck. A spaghetti supper was served, with a choice of German chocolate, spice, or lemon pound cake for dessert. Twenty couples attended.

For October 12, what could be more suitable than these words about Columbus from Rosemary and Stephen Vincent Benet's "Book of Americans":

There are lots of queer things that discoverers do
But his was the queerest, I swear
He discovered our country in One Four Nine Two
By thinking it couldn't be there.
It wasn't his folly, it wasn't his fault.
For the very best maps of the day
Showed nothing but water, extensive and salt,
On the West, between Spain and Bombay.
But Columbus was bold and Columbus set sail
Thanks to Queen Isabella herself
For he said "Though there may be both monster and gale,
I'd like to find out for myself."
And he sailed and he sailed and he SAILED and he SAILED,
Though his crew would have gladly turned round
And morning and evening distressfully wailed,
"This is running things into the ground!"
But he paid no attention to protest or squall,
This obstinate son of the mast,
And so in the end, he discovered us all,
Remarking, "Here's India, at last!"

Poppyseed, Cinnamon

The finest poppyseed comes from Holland. Use it to give extra flavor to buttered noodles.

Stick cinnamon is the actual bark of a tree grown in the East Indies.

Dried Peaches

When you buy dried peaches you may be getting those from the freestone or clingstone fruit. One pound of the dried fruit represents six to seven pounds of fresh peaches!

Blueberries

Frozen blueberries, in 10-ounce packages, may be had in some food markets. Use them in recipes that call for (and have been tested) with both the fresh and frozen variety.

HOT BURGERS

NEW YORK — Chiliburgers make good eating indoors or out. Combine a can of chili con carne with beans and a cup or two of grated American cheese. Add a little burgundy wine and heat slowly until the cheese melts. Serve over grilled hamburgers on toasted buns.

CLOTHES QUIZ

Alterations -- For Newest Fall Fashion

By BETH BLAIR

Making over clothes which you have worn so much you've tired of them is a time-honored hobby for some and a necessity for others. Consider the change of a neckline or sleeves in an old coat or dress for a new look. Would an old dress yield a good skirt or blouse top? Think about alterations and see if you don't come up with some good ideas. A reader writes—

> Dear Miss Blair:
> I have a beige cashmere coat which is a few years old but still good. It has straight lines with small shawl collar and sleeves with cuffs which they used to wear. Would it be difficult to change the sleeves so as to bring the coat up to style and how would I go about this?

Your idea to alter the sleeves in your cashmere coat would make it a little smarter and if you do not sew very well, I suggest you have a good tailor do the job. Generally, you would begin by removing the cuffs. Then decide upon the length you wish—about wrist bone is a good length for the tapered sleeve you wish. Then pin the sleeve to the narrower width you want—on inside seam—and check in full-length mirror to be certain it is right. Baste the sleeve and lining (which can be slightly narrower than the sleeve itself) and check once more. Sew by machine, press seams before turning under at the wrist and stitching by hand.

Declarer was faced with an interesting percentage problem in today's hand.

With a holding of 10 trumps but lacking the king, declarer's best play is the finesse "where all things are equal," for it will win more times than the drop. But declarer in today's hand was justified in departing from this principle because refusing to finesse offered him a better chance to fulfill his contract.

There is no clearly indicated strategy for South to follow in the auction. Normal practice with hands of this type is to preempt with a bid of four, but South decided to "walk" the hand in the hope of running into a double.

West opened a low spade and the continuation was ruffed by South. The problem of restricting his losses to but one more trick was quite involved. He could try the heart finesse and if that succeeded he would have a reasonable chance of losing only one diamond trick. Or he might abandon the finesse in hearts, relying entirely on the diamond suit.

Declarer first cashed the king of diamonds and then led the queen of hearts in the vague hope of coaxing a cover, but when West played low, he went up with the ace. If he should try to finesse and fail, a heart return would put him in a highly tenuous position because then he would have to find East with specifically th queen and two other diamonds.

Declarer then played a diamond from dummy, intending to finesse, but when the queen showed up his difficulties were over. He next cashed the jack of diamonds and whether or not East used his king of hearts he was able to ruff a diamond in dummy to bring in his contract.

The declarer had had a choice of two wagers. He could bet on the drop of the king of hearts or the diamond finesse, and he could bet on the heart finesse or Q-x-x in diamonds on the right. It will be seen that he picked the winner.

Questions And Answers

BETTY LENAHAN ANSWERS

Q—The draperies in my living room and dining room have a modern design in charcoal, rose and turquoise on a white background. One sofa is upholstered in rose, the other in a black and white tweed, two TV chairs in plastic with a pattern in black and gold on a white background and the dining room chairs in turquoise. The corner table and dining room furniture are in a blond finish and the coffee table is black lacquer. What colors would you suggest for the walls, wall-to-wall carpeting and throw pillows for the sofas?

A—Pink would be a good color for the walls of your living room and dining room and you might get the wall-to-wall carpeting in gray and the throw pillows in turquoise and charcoal.

Q—We have remodeled an attic room for a nursery for our three small boys. We have papered the ceiling with wide red and white stripes with a scalloped border to simulate a circus tent and painted the walls pale blue. The draperies are dark blue denim hung from red and white striped poles and the studio beds are grouped together and covered with dark blue denim trimmed with red fringe and heaped with pillows of various shapes and colors. All the furniture, including the toy cabinet and shelves is painted dark blue and the cabinet and drawer interiors are red. What colors would you suggest for the floor covering and bedside rugs?

A—Why not get the floor covering in your nursery in white and the bedside rugs in red?

Q.—I would like some help in choosing colors for my living room walls and a new rug? The draperies are turquoise and white, the three-piece sectional sofa is turquoise, one chair is gold and the other is raspberry red. The tables are blond and the accessories are black, brass and white milk glass.

A.—You could achieve a cool, pleasing effect in your living room by painting the walls off-white and getting the rug in a black and gold tweed.

Q.—We are remodeling our kitchen and would like some color suggestions. We are using knotty pine paneling on the walls of one section of the room, also knotty pine cabinets and we have selected red coverings for the snack bar top and drainboards. What color would you suggest for the floor covering, and color and type curtains. There is a triple window facing south which gets a great deal of afternoon sun. On the east side and part of the kitchen, which is the old unit, the walls are plastered, which are not painted yellow, can you advise us on to another color?

A—Red would also be a good color for the floor covering as well as the snack bar top and drainboards in your kitchen. Cafe curtains would be a good idea as they can be easily arranged to shut out the sun and you might get them in an all-over provincial print in yellow, red and green. I advise painting the plastered walls a soft shade of green.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIS LAMAR MULLICAN

Mullican-Terrell Marriage Vows Are Exchanged

The marriage of Bess McCoy Terrell and Willis Lamar Mullican, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mullican of Baskin, was an event in the Riviera Room of the Penn Hotel

The Rev. James T. Horton performed the double ring ceremony. Decorating the altar were palm leaves and cathedral candles in an arch design, and baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by Oscar Daves, the bride was dressed in a pink lace sheath model with portrait neckline and long tapered sleeves. She carried a crescent shaped bridal bouquet of orchids.

ATTENDANT

Mrs. Conley Thornhill served as the bride's only attendant. She wore a beige lace dress complemented by a corsage of brown orchids.

Miss Paula Ray and Miss Charlotte Frantom served as candlelighters. They were dressed in pastel ballerina models. Frank Parker, Jr., rendered the pre-nuptial music and served as organist for the evening. E. M. Wooten sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer." Russell Ray, Jr., served as ring-bearer.

Richard Thomas Simons served the groom as best man. Ushers were Conley Thornhill and Norman E. Foreman.

Mrs. Daves chose to wear for the wedding, a lace dress with a corsage of roses. The groom's mother chose to wear a blue lace dress with a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

After a honeymoon on the Gulf Coast the bride and groom will be at home at 1004 North Fifth Street in Monroe.

GUESTS

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy McQuillin, Baskin, Louisiana; Mr. and Mrs. John S. Terrell, Shreveport, Louisiana; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Mullican, Jr., Baskin, Louisiana; Capt. Anastatia Cotter, Fort Lee, Virginia; and Major Joel Roth, Brooke Army Hospital, Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

RECEPTION

The reception was held in the penthouse of the Penn Hotel.

Miss Marca Smith attended the guests in registering in the bride's book.

The bride's table was overlaid with an exquisite cutwork cloth, and featured the three-tiered wedding cake. The silver punch service was attended alternately by Mrs. Lucretia Gibson and Mrs. Russell Ray. Mrs. Norman E. Foreman attended the traditional cake services.

REHEARSAL SUPPER

The Terrell - Mullican rehearsal supper was held in the Riviera Room of the Penn Hotel on Friday evening. Besides the honored guests, attending were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mullican, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Daves, Rev. James T. Horton, Mr. Frank Parker, Miss Paula Ray, Miss Charlotte Frantom, Russell Ray, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Russell G. Ray, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Thornhill.

The bride and groom chose this occasion to present personal remembrances to their bridal party.

Miss Brown Is Honored At Tea In Colvin Home

Mrs. Charles Colvin was hostess at a tea Thursday in her lovely home on Bayou DeSiard, in honor of Miss Barbara Brown, bride-elect of George Brown of Crowville.

Receiving the guests along with the hostess and honoree were Mrs. Jennie Thompson and Mrs. Ray Purcell, Sr. Registering the guests was Miss Maxine Brown, sister of the honoree.

PINK

Pink, being the color scheme, was used in the flower arrangements and decorations throughout the reception rooms. A candle tree was placed beside the fireplace in the living room, and the coffee table held a mass arrangement of varied blossoms. Placed in crystal containers in the den were pink roses.

The dining table was overlaid with a white cut-work cloth and held as a centerpiece, a container of chrysanthemums, flanked by burning pink tapers. Miss Ann Edwards presided at the silver punch service.

Noted in the room where the many useful gifts were displayed, were also decorations of pink.

Miss Brown was lovely for the occasion, in a dress of red, sheath in style and accented by a corsage of white carnations, a gift of the hostess. Mrs. Colvin chose to wear a white lace model with a pink corsage at her shoulder.

Calling between the hours of eight and ten o'clock in the evening were Mrs. Geneva Thompson, Mrs. Ray Purcell, Miss Maxine Brown, Mrs. Ollie Mae Lewis, Mrs. H. F. Bryan, Mrs. John W. Brown, Mrs. M. B. Brown, Mrs. John A. Smith, Mrs. Adams Causey, Mrs. W. B. Corry, Mrs. A. T. Brown, Mrs. Robert B. Boyd, Mrs. Carlo Sciara, Mrs. H. M. Smith, Mrs. J. C. Garrigus, Mrs. Ida Mae Mason, Mrs. Jack Edwards, Mrs. Elva Grantham, Miss Ann Edwards, Mrs. Walter Beal, Mrs. Edmond A. Guyton.

Apple Slices

You can get canned apple slices packed with or without sugar; read the label to find out whether spices have been added when you are using hem in a recipe.

Bananas

It's a good idea to buy green-tipped bananas that are free of bruises and let them ripen—become speckled with brown — in your own home at room temperature.

MINNEAPOLIS — The nation's No. 1 secretary says a boss' effectiveness is due largely to his Girl Friday. The nation's No. 2 man agreed.

Mrs. Genevieve B. Bell of Portland, Ore., who was named the "Secretary of the Year," and Vice President Richard Nixon appeared at the annual meeting of the National Secretaries Association.

"If the boss succeeds, the secretary will, too," Mrs. Bell told her fellow office workers. "Of course," she added, "secretaries are dependent on the man behind the desk."

Nixon agreed that secretaries are " indispensable," but he warned that "a good secretary must not only be technically proficient but must have a sense of diplomacy. A good secretary can be smarter than the boss, but she should never let him know it."

Mrs. Bell, a secretary in the legal, insurance, industrial, governmental, investment and medical fields for 26 years, described her profession this way: "The secretary is the bridge between management and personnel—the shock absorber.

"The ordinary secretary chews gum — the professional one does not," she added.

Nixon came up with another criterion:

"She may be homely," he said, "but if she has brains, she is the most beautiful girl in the office."

Girl Scout News

To be outdoors these pretty October days (we hope it's not pouring when you read this) is fun for young an dolder alike. We're glad to hear of many troops planning their first activities in the out of doors, crafts and other indoor activities for later in the season. For almost every weekend a troop has put a claim on Pine Wood for an overnight camp. Troop 44 was there Friday night; we'll hear about this trip later.

Girls of Troop 24, now in their fifth year of Scouting with Mrs. Edmund Middleton as leader, went to camp in the rain on Friday afternoon not long ago, made a fire in the fireplace, made hot cocoa to drink with their nosebag suppers, and planned a cozy evening indoors.

Planned and carried out by the girls, campfire consisted of songs and games, lively ones for a cold evening. Do you know the elephant game with the song that goes, "One elephant went out to play, out on a spider's web one day"? It's an old favorite. Warmed up by the games the girls enjoyed homemade cookies and brownies provided by Mrs. James Benton and Mrs. Norman Johnson.

Two campcraft skills that the girls had not learned before proved fascinating. First, the girls stirred up a cookie mix, dropped cookies in a pan and cooked them in reflector oven in front of the fire. Girls who had never heard of baking anything except in a gas or electric oven, were amazed that the cookies actually browned before their eyes. The other skill was that of lighting, changing a wick, filling, cleaning the chimney of a kerosene lamp and a lantern. All took a turn, with many having to practice striking a match and now these girls are prepared to handle this kind of emergency.

Sleeping on the porch while the rain drizzled all night, everyone got the nine hours sleep required of all campers Breakfast was breadtwists, of course, cooked on sticks over coals in the fireplace. The sun obliged by coming out about that time, so the girls who did not have the clean-up kaper revisited their day camp unit at Century Oak and other favorite spots on the grounds. A rather long hike over a trail these girls had not followed before, took the rest of the morning. On the hike they spent time preparing to teach a group of younger Scouts the Second Class requirements in the out of doors. There's that word "Prepared" again, linking all Girl Scout activities to the motto. After lunch of campfire stew cooked out of doors in the sunshine, going - home time came all too soon for these campers: Billie Marie Agin, Pay Ayers, Susan Benton, Becky Middleton, Robbie Hicks, Polly Johnson, Anna Margaret Miller, Barbara Suomi, Patty Powell, Mickie Varnado.

Adult meetings scheduled for this week are the second session of the pottery instruction Wednesday at 9:00, Northside Neighborhood at 10:00 at Mrs. B. O. Yeldell's, 319 K Street, College Neighborhood at Memorial Methodist Church at 1:15, another session, this one a cookout, of the training for new leaders, at 9:30 on Thursday, Program Committee on Friday at 9:30.

Job Is Letting Hubby Be The Boss At Home

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK — A working wife's toughest job is letting hubby be boss at home, says the "business woman of the year."

"A man must feel he's the head of his house. But it's difficult for the working wife to sit back and let him be boss," said Mrs. Louise W. Ilse, associate manager in charge of sales and communication for the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

She received the "Woman of Achievement" award from the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

HAS SYSTEM

Mrs. Ilse, who has no children and has spent her married life working, suggests these rules for other wives holding full-time jobs:

—Never talk shop at home, unless you tell a funny anecdote. No office gripes.

—Keep week ends strictly for the family — don't bring work home.

—Ask husband's opinion on all matters—"then go ahead and do what you want to. All wives do that."

—Always have a new outside interest to "avoid the treadmill of home and office, office and home.

A native New Yorker, Mrs. Ilse started with Equitable as a temporary steno-clerk and now heads a 14- member department.

"I was hired for three days. That was 34 years ago. I ought to own the company by now," she said in an interview before receiving the award.

In addition to running a home in Yonkers, N. Y. and a summer home near Long Beach, Long Island, she found time to attend night classes at Columbia University, majored in history, and earned bachelor's and master's degrees and a PH.D. She also dabbles in oil painting, plays the piano, takes piano - accordion lessons, cooks, and goes to the ballet and opera. An amateur photographer, she has won trophies for her slides.

MATTER OF TIME

Mrs. Ilse was the first woman to receive a Columbia University Alumni Federation Medal, and is a director of the university's General Studies Alumni Assn. and chairman of the membership committee.

"It's just a matter of organizing your time—and having an understanding husband. He helps with the dishes—we have a real partnership," said Mrs. Ilse, a small, feminine woman who radiates quiet efficiency.

Does she find her sex a handicap in the business world?

"I believe women still do the preparatory work for men—women make the bullets while the men shoot them. The time hasn't come for women to handle business deals with presidents of corporations. In fact, I've a sneaking suspicion that I could have gone farther had I been a man, but I also believe intelligence has no sex.

Look Into The Reading Habits Of Offspring

By DOROTHY ROE

Mothers who wring their hands over juvenile delinquency and wonder what the younger genera tion is coming to might find a clue by looking into the reading habits of their offspring, says Eugene Ackerman, a retired executive who has been studying this matter of late.

"If young people read such books as 'Tom Sawyer' and 'Huckleberry Finn', 'Robinson Cruso' and 'Gulliver's Travels', instead of the mawkish filth that is poured out for them, they not only would have a healthier slant on life, but would discover the excitement of good reading," says Ackerman. He has just added to the current supply of juvenile adventure literature with his first book, "Jeb and the Bank Robbers," a tale of youthful blood and thunder in a little Indiana town of the 1890's.

"Please don't regard me as a canting old goat gazing with alarm. I'm pretty serious about this. When I decided to take some of the boredom out of retirement by writing a book, I began to notice the stuff that school boys and girls were reading as they sipped their cokes in the corner drugstore in our little town.

"Most of the stuff was magazines of the kind especially numerous in drugstores that cater to the school trade. The art work, drawn and photographed, I found almost entirely devoted to violence and pornography at the lowest level. I was interested and appalled as I watched boys and girls from 10 years up giggle and blush as they leafed through the magazines and munched the candy bars displayed conveniently near the magazine stand."

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Songbirds In Center Show

By MARY M. JARDINE

Our display at the Garden Center was devoted to Songbirds in the Garden tying in with the excellent and informative program on television by Mrs. Peggy Garnett of Monroe. We have many colorful songsters with us all year in Louisiana. We are on one of the main Mississippi flyways and the time of winter migration is almost at a close. Therefore during the coming months we will see many additional birds that are not with us in our gardens on a year round basis.

When the little hummingbirds leave us we know that fall is really here. These amazing tiny birds, three and three - quarter inches at most have an uninterrupted flight of from 500 to 750 miles in migration to northwestern South America. The little ruby - throat arrives in early March and is a most welcome harbinger of spring.

COLDER

When the weather gets really cold we may see the lovely purple finches in great numbers. They swarm into our berried trees and bushes. They are about the size of a house sparrow and look as though they had been dipped in raspberry juice. Another delightful winter visitor is the little white throated sparrow. Their plaintive little song, sung in a minor key has been likened to the refrain "Old Sam Peabody, Peabody, Peabody." This is a bird of hedges and thickets and my observation is that it generally feeds on the ground. They finally leave us in mid - May to return in September and October. The energetic Towhee is another winter visitor. Known to some as the Chewink, from his call note, this colorful bird with his black cap and back, white breast and rufous sides, industriously works all winter searching for bugs and worms. His song, drawn out and wavering sounds like "Drink your teeeee—"

GOLDFINCHES

There is much excitement among local bird lovers when the goldfinches arrive. The summer plumage of the male is a bright canary - yellow which is broken only by a small black cap and the predominantly black wings and tail. One of the best aids in identification of the American goldfinch is its bounding flight and the call note that is often uttered when the flock is on the wing. Described as per-chic-o-ree. These birds have a preference for seeds of sweetgum and are often seen hanging from sweet gum balls. Both the ruby crowned and golden crowned kinglets are winter visitors in our state. They often join flocks of Carolina chickadees and the tufted titmouse to form roving bands. The two latter are permanent residents in Louisiana. The cedar waxwings are winter visitors too.

Among our permanent residents in the bird world are the blue jay with his raucous voice and bossy ways, the dainty little Carolina wren. The mockingbird with its wide musical repertoire, brown thrasher, eastern bluebird, pine warberler and the colorful cardinal. These are just a few.

With gardening in America at an all time high it is a natural consequence that interest in birds has become a national pastime. For a family hobby it cannot be equalled.

INVITATION

If you have not invited the birds to your garden you are missing a great deal of pleasure, both of sight and sound. The birds are so colorful and their habits and antics are so interesting to watch. Their songs are lovely to listen to paeons of praise to the Almighty. Birds are of great economic importance to us by eating insects and weed seeds. It is certinaly more fun and less expensive to feed the birds than to buy and apply insect poisons.

Provide food and shelter for the birds by planting berried shrubs and evergreen trees such as pines. A simple birdbath will provide water. There are many types of feeders available in the local stores. These are on display at the Garden Center. George Lowery's Book, Louisiana Birds, gives dimensions for making bird houses at home. Some suggested shrubs are hollies, pyracantha, ligustrum, nandina, French mulberry, with its beautiful purple berries, Barberry, honeysuckle, dogwood and mimosa. These are only a few.

Suggested reading: Songbirds in Your Garden by John K. Terres, Louisiana Birds, Geo. H. Lowery, Jr., Field Guide to the Birds, by Roger Tory Peterson. We are proud to report that Monroe has been officially made a Bird Sanctuary. We hope you will invite the birds to your garden today.

Save Mulches For Winter Bed Covers

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — The season for fresh - pulled corn has long gone, and the green tomatoes each wrapped in its package of torn newspapers, are ripening slowly in the cool cellar for eating next month or, with luck, even the one after that. The narcissus are in the ground, the peony and iris stalks have been cut (and burned, not composted), the perennial garden has been dug over and fed.

There are still some shrubs to plant, a couple of oak saplings to move from a nursery bed out to the border, the tulips to set in and — for perhaps another couple of weeks, the hedge to clip, the grass to mow (no lower than two inches this late) and the fallen leaves to sweep.

It is, except for maintenance chores, the end of the season, and a curious season it has been. For once, in our locale at any rate, we never lacked for rain—all the watering I did all season long was from the watering can and only when setting in and establishing transplants. For the first time within my memory, the lawn grasses never had a mid-season dormant period, the deciduous trees never once looked dry and tired.

For some reasons I've fretted about a big elm which towers over the garage. Usually it started to turn yellow early, and each year -- like all elm owners—I've worried about its health. But this year, with all the rain and the coolness, I know that at the moment at least, the elm so far has escaped the fatal beetle-spread blight.

A neighbor of mine, also an elm-worrier, has had the same experience. She, however, was so convinced that the elm was fighting a losing battle that she had a fast - growing sapling planted beside the old tree so that there would be something to take its place.

The rain and the coolness was fine for grasses, trees and shrubs but it certainly slowed up the flowers and vegetables. Our tomatoes were smaller than usual and about three weeks behind their usual schedule. The dahlias were late in blooming and so were the asters and chrysanthemums, but never have I seen such a fine display of fall roses than my hybrid teas put forth. Maybe it was better spraying, but maybe also it was the weather, but although the aphids were present on their favorite plants (roses, lupine and nasturium) there seemed less than usual. It was a light year for Japanese beetle and I didn't find a single red spider all season, even on the golden glow. But mildew turned up on the phlox, the lilacs and even touched the butterfly bush if you skipped one scheduled dusting. And, of course, the slugs — those slimy garden snails — had a wonderful summer and have a head-start on next season's garden unless they can be tempted this fall with fresh poison bait.

Mulching attachments on rotary lawn mowers come in handy at this time. They can chew up leaves so that, left to break down into rich moid, the process takes much less time than if they were merely heaped in a shady spot to let nature take its course. Best, however, not to use anything but oak leaves or evergreen needles for garden mulching, for leaves of elm, maple, and such are likely to become heavy, smothering blankets.

Incidentally, save the mulching material — whether it is leaves, peatmoss, straw or whatever—available for spreading, but don't apply the winter blanket on the garden until the ground has become deeply and thoroughly frozen. Then use it to keep the frost in the ground; to prevent the destructive heaving which winter-kills so many otherwise hardy plants by exposing their root systems.

Authorities Study Means To End Noises

By JOHN O. B. WALLACE
AP Newsfeatures

NEW YORK (AP) — "Noise," Philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer said, "is the most impertinent of all forms of interruption. It is not only an interruption, but also a disruption of thought."

Since Schopenhauer's relatively quiet era (1788-1860), life has been getting notably and noticeably noisier each year.

This is true even in the home, supposedly a secure abode of rest and tranquility, what with the din of blaring television sets and the increasing variety of automatic home appliances each with their own peculiar noise - making qualities.

The problem of noise in the home, the street and in the air is being studied by medical authorities, public officials and others. It is a vexing, increasingly worsening problem.

Martin Hirschorn, of New York, president of the National Noise Abatement Council, says:

"Under extreme conditions, noise actually causes physical damage to human hearing mechanisms. But for the majority of people, it is simply irritating, annoying or distracting. At its worst, it contributes to mental and emotional disorder, to accident proneness and to such physical manifestations as severe indigestion and headaches."

Aware, too, of the noise problem are architects, builders, designers and decorators. Industry also is creating materials to deaden and absorb sound.

Most homes need acoustical correction. Several factors are responsible: (1) increased use and variety of home appliances, (2) open planning of home interiors with fewer partitions, (3) increased use of wood, steel, plastic and masonry on interiors, creating hard, sound - reverberating surfaces, and (4) increased use of drywall partitions with higher through - the - wall sound transmission.

Stopping noise at its source can be difficult, but there are many practical ways to abate home noise. The key to acoustical correction is sound absorption — not to be confused with sound proofing.

Herman H. York, an architect of Jamaica, N. Y., exploins acoustical correction as an "effort to prevent sound waves from hitting a surface and bouncing back, re-entering the area from which it started possibly again hitting another surface and again veering off in another direction."

An effective way to achieve acoustical correction is to install acoustical materials. They can be used in practically any room.

On the other hand, York adds, "too much sound absorption in a room will result in a spongy effect."

All of the following items will aid materially in absorbing sound in the home:

Draperies, carpets and soft-cushioned upholstered furniture; resilient floor materials such as linoleum, cork or rubber in kitchens, bathrooms and playrooms; pads or casters under chair or table legs; mountings of rubber, cork or similar material under refrigerators, dishwashers and other such appliances to prevent vibration noises; and the planting of bushes and trees and the installation of fences around a house to absorb outside noises.

Buffers of resilient material also can be installed on doors, and it is advisable to weather strip doors and windows. Where possible, use double glass windows.

Try to follow as many of the above suggestions as practical. Even if you reduce the noise level in your home by just a few decibels, the result will be happily noticeable.

Myth Of White Spider Lily

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

From time to time, the column tries to answer for all its readers the most frequently asked questions in letters of enquiry. While we cannot answer all the letters we receive, we try to answer the questions in the column.

PURE WHITE

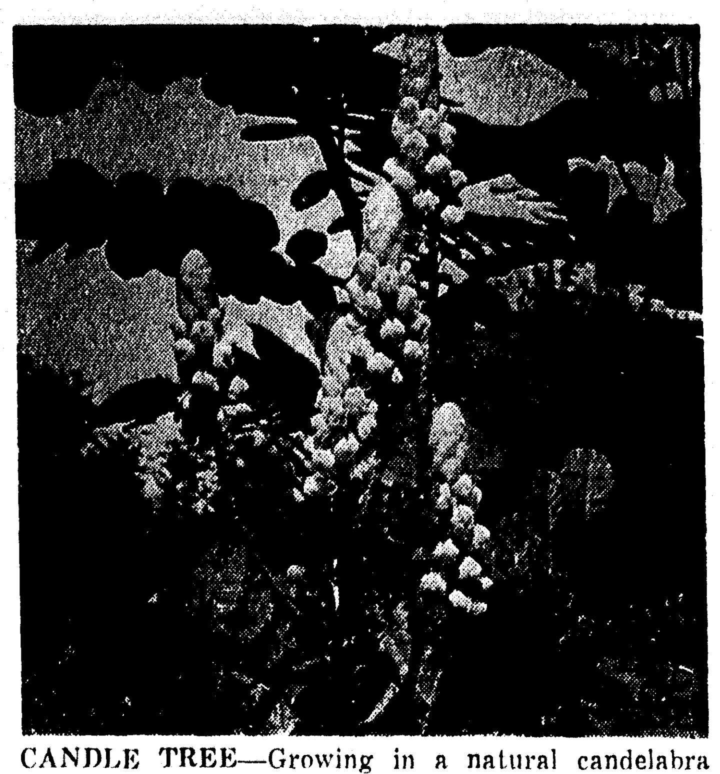
There has long been a myth about a pure white spider-lily. My gardening friends from Baltimore to San Antonio have either promised or sent me these "white" lycorises, but they always prove to be one of the creamy flowers. They are beautiful, but they are not pure white. In the catalogues of bulbs, they are listed as Lycoris albiflora. There is also in the catalogues a bulb listed as Lycoris alboflora carnea. This is just a flesh colored flower.

Of course, the other flower that is called a spider-lily is pure white. This is the spring or summer flowering native plant that has the Latin name Hymenocallis. The several different species of hymenocallis that grow wild in the South usually are found in wet places. They will, however, grow in ordinary flower gardens if you will keep them from drying out in early summer when they have leaves. The most beautiful one of these plants is the one that grows in the mountain and piedmont country. It has the long name, Hymenocallis occidentalis. These plants are closely akin to the so-called Peruvian daffodil.

April

When April rolls around again, you can order the Peruvian daffodils in white or in light yellow. The plants do not usually flower well when they are left out without a deep mulch over winter. In trying out new and strange bulbs for winter hardiness, your columnist has found that a new bulb from South America seems to flower all right after a cold winter. This bulb is called Elisena. It certainly is a spidery looking blossom! The flowers look like a daffodil whose petals had been turned into a fringe. Would you believe that this plant was named for Princess Elise, sister of Napoleon!

The information about how to make a wisteria bloom has been so many times given in gardening magazines and books that we thought almost everyone knew about it, but we still get requests for this information. At this time of the year, cut the roots of your wisteria in a circle about a foot out from the shadow of the plant at noon. Then, some time about the 4th of July next year cut the 1959 growth back to within four leaves of the previous year's growth. If you have been fertilizing your plants heavily, do not feed them at all for a season or give them only bone meal. There is no such thing as a wisteria that "does not bloom"; when conditions are right it will bloom.



CANDLE TREE—Growing in a natural candelabra arrangement is this golden, fall-blooming tree.

THE HOME SHIFT

Cool Nights Falling Leaves,

By MILDRED SWIFT

Falling leaves and cool nights! Two indications that fall is here. Remember those leaves are wonderful to make humus or to use as mulch. Also remember they'll smother your grass if they stay there too long. So get out the leaf rake. You'll sweep leaves till January and start mowing the last of February. Well! There's one month's rest in between.

SEED TO PLANT

You can get those beds well worked and pulverized for planting seed. Here's a partial list: Sweet Alyssum, Arctotis, Calendula, Candytuft, Coreopsis, Cornflower, Lobelia, Chinese - forget - me - not, African Golden Daisy, Shasta Daisy, Forget - me - not, Four o'clock, Verbena, Larkspur, Petunia, Phlox, Pinks, Poppy, Stock, Salvia (blue), Caillardia, Gypsaphila, Scabiosa, Snapdragon, Early Sweet pea, Sweet William, Queen Anne's Lace.

BEDDING PLANTS

Some bedding plants and bulbs you can buy and plant in permanent beds are: Calla, Calendula, Candytuft, Forget-me-not, Hollyhock, Pansy, Phlox - Drummond, Phlox - Perennial, Pinks Salvia (blue), Snapdragon, Stock, Dutch Iris, Daffodils, Jonquils, Madonna Lily, Regal Lily, Spanish Lily, Narcissus, Amaryllis, Hyacinth, Scilla, Speciosum Lily, Mont Bretia, Ajuga, Cally, Watsonia, Snowflakes. Some of the above you may not be able to find in the local nurseries and seed stores. It is a little early. Just get your soil ready and keep in touch with your store. When they come in you'll be ready to plant.

CRINUMS

The milk and wine crinums are blooming. My! They give you lots for a little labor. If you have a large property you'll want some of these. Any gardener who has grown the milk and wine lily for a few years will now have an overflow, they can divide with you. This is the time of year they're usually divided.

New bulbs of the fine varieties come to our stores in late winter, so you'll plant these when you can get them.

THE BLOOMS

The flowers for the most part are summer bloomers. As a rule, they don't bloom the first year. The older the clumps get, the better they are.

Crinums need full sun or filtered shade. They're planted very shallow since they are in the amaryllis family. That means the neck of the bulb is exposed when planted.

When you plant new bulbs or transplant those on hand work a little bone meal and sand with the soil before planting. Sand helps in the drainage.

CARE

These crinums will respond beautifully to a booster shot of complete fertilizer. Apply this just when the scapes start coming up. This is not necessary but the plants bloom more often with this additional food.

Another effective booster shot is a little well-rotted cow manure dissolved in water. Pour this around the plant.

By the way — Dehydrated cow manure can often be purchased in seed stores and nurseries.

If your plants are established and growing, give them a good feeding with 5-10-5, now or in early spring.

Some gardeners say the crinums of the milk and wine variety should be divided every five to six years. One gardener of many years experience says she has blooms from plants that have not been divided in 25 years.

DISEASE FREE

The crinums have no diseases, it seems. Often they are bothered by snails.

Most crinums have a delightful odor.

FOR CUTTING

Crinums are nice for cutting. There are two ways to arrange them: With a short stem which is stuck on a needle holder. This in a soup tureen I have seen, very beautiful when there are lots of blooms on the stem.

When cut with long stems they are lovely in colored bottles that pick up the color of the stamen of flowers.

Much of the above information came from Carrie McKenzie who has milk and wine lilies in her garden. Carrie says they also need water. Ellen Thompson was another source of supply, too.

OCTOBER WORK

These cool nights remind us that it is about time to dig our caladiums, before the frosts hit them. Dig with a fork so as not to cut any of the fleshy bulb. Let the tops die, then store in a dry place where they'll not freeze.

After clematis has finished blooming, prune the vine if it needs cutting back. The old fashioned white one will do this after a few years. You can cut the vine back to the root or best, cut out some of the limbs. Clematis blooms on the current year's growth so there's no danger of missing a year's blooms, if you prune now.

Transplant and divide pineapple lily bulbs, watsonia, agapanthus, oxalis, lirope, daylilies, crocus. That is — if they need dividing.

OLD ADAGE

"He who laughs last, laughs best!" Men have been amused at women's new fashions, the sack, the trapeze and others.

Well! At the 5th international men's fashion show in Germany, here's what came out: The dress suit is lilac; orange pants with the beige jacket; the wine-red suit with a silhouette like a bell.

Of course, the majority of the better designers of clothes for men are much more on the conservative side. They lean this year toward brown. They like the slim fitting pants with no cuffs. Jackets are loose, with no padding in the sloping shoulders, and a slight flare at the hips.

Tree Upkeep Suffers From Tax Cutbacks

Some of America's finest but most helpless citizens, her trees, can get along on the skimpiest budgets, but false economies on the part of their home communities are clouding their future.

Street trees certainly contribute generously to the municipal well being, offering beauty, shade, and even some dust control and noise abatement. In return, they ask for a rather modest quota of care and maintenance. According to the Davey Tree Expert Co., most American cities could conduct very adequate maintenance programs for their street tree citizens with annual appropriations of one dollar multiplied by the total number of their human citizens.

Street tree maintenance, of course, includes pruning, spraying, removals, replacement plantings, plantings for new streets and a "sinking fund" for storm damage and other unforeseen emergencies.

In the light of experience, cutbacks in tree care generally result in pyramiding problems that usually prove more costly than the regular maintenance program, say the experts.

Tree care costs usually are only a fraction of the total tax bill. In relation to its importance, tree care is one of the most inexpensive items in the budget. Yet when the city fathers are forced to go on an economy binge, this often is one of the first services to get the axe. Street and park trees are among the most valuable assets in any community — assets that make for more pleasant living besides materially increasing property values.

Cool Weather Leads To Work

By AUDREY DAWSON

With the cooler weather, you'll feel like getting out to do some of that work around the yard you have probably been putting off because of the heat. While you're working in your yard, you will want to think about providing a touch of color in your landscape during the winter and spring. Bulbs and bulbous plants will add the color you desire. Plant these bulbs in October, but prepare the soil well in advance — add sand and humus to heavy soils, and bone meal and humus to all soils.

NARCISSUS

The narcissus is one of the most popular of the bulb groups. These produce an abundance of flowers with relatively little effort. They start blooming very early in the year, and blooms can be had for a period of about eight weeks. Colors vary from so - called white to dark yellow with pink tints in some varieties. These bloom at a time of the year when other flowers are not plentiful and for this reason are especially important. They make excellent long - lasting cut flowers or may be used to add color to the landscape. They should be in all yards where flowers are considered of importance.

WHEN POWER GOES

Should a storm down the power lines and cause your food freezer to stop running, here are some practical tips on how to keep food from spoiling. First, don't open the freezer door unnecessarily, because this lets warm air in and raises the inside temperature. When the power is off, food in a freezer that is full won't thaw for two days. Dry ice is most effective to use if you saw a 50 pound chunk into smaller pieces and set them on pieces of cardboard on top of the frozen food packages. Although it isn't necessary in most freezers. A small rod, such as a pencil, put underneath the lid will allow gas from the dry ice to escape.

COLOR FASHIONS

This is news — navy makes a strong bid for all year round favor. This is a new entry for basic winter wear this year and may finally break the tradition that reserves it for spring alone. Rich reds, deep true blues, vibrant yellow and greens glow on every side to brighten the winter picture. Pale pastels and muted tones take a back seat this year. Brown continues its upward climb with many rich deep shades as well as the lighter tans and rusty tones showing high popularity. Perfect for suits and coats, brown makes a bid as a basic color this year and takes some of the play away from perennially popular black.

WATCH OUR CHILDREN

With the beginning of school, you see dozens of children along every street, road and highway waiting for the bus in the morning and getting off in the afternoon. According to the National Safety Council, about 128,000 school buses transported more than 8,000,000 pupils to school and back last year. The number of children killed in school bus accidents was kept down to 7, but 24 others were killed while crossing the highway or street to get on the bus or to leave one. So, drivers when you see a school bus on the highway, be alert and drive sensibly. Protect child - life with careful driving.

BREAKFASTS

Many recent surveys have shown that a high percentage of school children in the U. S. do not eat adequate breakfasts. Surveys show that girls tended to miss breakfast more often than boys and older children more often than younger ones. One striking fact is that children who had poor breakfasts were almost sure to have a low total daily food intake. The short comings of the breakfasts were not made up for by the other meals of the day. Mrs. Homemaker, what group will your children be placed in this year's survey — those eating an adequate breakfast, I do hope.

A THOUGHT

The more hot arguments you win, the fewer warm friends you'll have.

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI- — Darlene Gillespie, the glamor girl of the Mickey Mouse Club on TV, is a young lady with a bright future.

Her face is cast in the Sophia Loren mould and at the still-growing age of 17 she is developing into a pin-up girl. She not only is photogenic but has a pleasing TV personality and plenty of talent.

Young Miss Gillespie is cast as a singer on "Little Gems from Big Shows" (Disneyland WDL-3030), an LP containing songs from hit musicals of stage and screen.

Darlene does solo hits on "Inch Worm," "I Like You" from "Fanny" and "Shall We Dance" from "The King and I." She teams with Jerome Courtland, another Disney star, on "Can I Leave Off Wearing My Shoes" from "House of Flowers."

A couple of fellow Mouseketeers, Karen and Cubby, turn in a fine performance on "Dites Mois," the melodic opener of "South Pacific."

Young Johnny Nash, one of Arthur Godfrey's most recent discoveries, is presented in a group of 12 songs on an LP bearing only his name (ABC-Paramount ABC-244.) Johnny has learned a lot about showmanship from Godfrey and this is an excellent showcase for him. The orchestral arrangements by Don Costa are eloquent.

"Let's Get Away from It All" (Mercury MG-20387) is a relaxing 40 minutes with Patti Page and "Moments Like These" (RCA Victor LPM-1719) is an easy - going session with Dinah Shore.

Turntable Tips: All but forgotten in this rock'n'roll age, Andy Russell has a potential smash hit in "As Young As We Are" (RCA Victor 47-7335) . . . Georgia Gibbs, whose voice is so good she refuses to use sound gimmicks, takes advantage of a current craze with "The Hula Hoop Song" (Roulette R-4106) . . . The Mills Brothers have revived "Me and My Shadow" (Dot 45-15827) with the same effervescence that made "Glowworm" a comeback song a few years ago . . . Another revival that may click is Clare Nelson's version of "I'm a Big Girl Now" (Epic 5-9284).

For Teen - Agers: Best rock'n'-roll number of the week appears to be "Whispering Grass" by Sylvia Sayni with the Ernie Yard Band (United Artists UA-143 X).

Stereoscope: "Concert Modern" Les Brown (Capitol ST959- is an ideal LP for stereoset owners. Selections include excerpts from "Porgy and Bess," and "The Nutcracker Suite" as well as a magnificent version of "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue." Sound channeling is sharp.

CONCERT

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — When you compare the contents of two new records, you wonder who is kidding whom.

On one you hear the highly touted piano virtuoso, Gyorgy Cziffra, play Rimsky - Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble Bee." On the other you hear Lorin Hollander, who is 13 years old, play the same and in all truth the boy plays it as well as the man.

Cziffra's new record is like his previous ones — an exhibition of pianistic brawn and dexterity which still doesn't answer the question, is he a musician as well as a piano - player? The new one is called "Paraphrases, Transcriptions, and Improvisations," and all are circus pieces designed for ears which mistake fast or complicated finger work for the fine and subtle art of musicianly performance (Angel-35610).

Lorin's first record is "Discovering the Piano — 22 Favorites for Students of All Ages" (Camden-460).

Included are such kid pieces as the Minuet in G. But there's a sprinkling of highly adult Mozart, Chopin, Bach and Schumann which offer interpretative problems for mind and heart, as well as showy transcriptions like the "Bumble Bee" to challenge muscles and reflexes.

Philippe Entremont, another young pianist who is getting a big build - up, plays the Grieg A minor concerto and Rachmaninoff's "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini" with relaxed ease and much self - assurance. He gets from them all they have, particularly since he was playing with the Philadelphia Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting. But that's par for the course for young pianists traveling in the best professional company (Columbia-ML5282.)

An impressive piano record is one in which Artur Rubinstein takes the dated warhorse Saint-Saens' G minor concerto and makes it sound fresh and exciting by sheer musicianship. On the other side is his depths-probing playing of Franck's Symphonic Variations. His orchestra was the Symphony of the Air, Alfred Wallenstein conducting (RCA Victor-LM2234.)

'Dressatory' New Capacity For Bathroom

If you haven't already heard of "privazoning" and "dressatories," chances are you'll be quite familiar with these terms by 1960.

Privazoning calls for realigning the functions of the bedroom and bathroom by concentrating all grooming functions in a combination dressing - bathing - toilet room called a dressatory. There would be a dressatory for each member of the family to provide greater privacy within the home.

Under this plan, the bedroom assumes a new role as a lounging, living and recreation area in addition to its us for sleep. All grooming functions are concentrated in the dressatory, which adjoins the bedroom.

Privazoning has already been incorporated into many new homes, and parents report that children assume new responsibilities when they are put in charge of their own dressatory. Children sharing the same bedroom have plenty of room for their clothes, school equipment, recreational items and hobby material with individual dressatories.

Master bedrooms under this new privazoning plan have two adjoining dressatories, each equipped with a countertop lavatory, clothes closet, built - in chest of drawers and water closet. A bathtub area can be located between the two dressatories with access from either side. The private dressatory provides the homemaker with a retreat from daily chores, and permits her to complete routine grooming and makeup functions in seclusion.

The decor of the dressatory may either harmonize or contrast with the central color theme of the bedroom, according to leading interior decorators. These designers point out that dressatories should not only be tastefully decorated, but extremely easy to keep clean since they will become heavy traffic areas due to the concentration of facilities.

New Plastic Covering For Small Tables

With the return to indoor living this fall, many homemakers will become dissatisfied with the appearance of some of their furnishings. Biggest reasons for discontent, frequently, are the accessories and small tables which are serviceable but badly marred or stained. They lend a dingy look to an otherwise attractive setting.

Happily, today it isn't essential to spend lots of money or even time doing over such furnishings. With some of the interesting decorating materials that are new this season, it is easy to give a high - fashion look to scratched end tables, coffee tables, bookshelves and smaller accessories quickly and inexpensively.

For example, in keeping with the trend toward luxury fabrics in home decor, there's an attractive new covering called Stars 'n Stripes now being shown in stores. It features hair - line stripes of silver and gold thread with tiny gold stars sprinkled all over. It's a member of a well known family of decorative coverings and comes in a choice of four background colors — white, turquoise, pink and yellow to harmonize with the color schemes of the majority of homes.

The covering is washable and the metallic content won't chip or tarnish as it is laminated on extra - heavy, fiber - latex material which is then coated with plastic.

Best of all, the material is self-adhering and applying it is a simple project.

To resurface an end table, for instance, you need only scissors, tape measure and a roll of the adhesive veneer. Measure the area to be covered, then cut out the material, using the one - inch guide lines printed on the backing.

Remove the protective paper backing and simply press the adhesive firmly on the old surface, so that ends meet. Overlapping is unnecessary since the covering does not shrink or shift.

Looks 'Em Over

(EDITOR'S NOTE: With Paul Martin recuperating from an operation, Bob Anderson is pinchhitting on today's column.)

Once in a while, an incident crops up that makes all the prose and poetry about sportsmanship and fair play seem applicable in an age when phrases like "nice guys finish last" and "victory at any cost" are accepted as gospel. It's refreshing to know there are athletes around like Northeast distance runner Buddy McCullen.

McCullen corrected an official's error Friday with the unsolicited admission that a McNeese runner had beaten him and a teammate for seventh place in a cross country run. Northeast had already been announced as the winner of the meet. No one had protested the decision. McCullen could have kept silent and Northeast would have been the first Gulf States Conference team to defeat McNeese in cross country competition. Northeast would have won a victory they wanted badly and nobody wanted it more than McCullen. But he refused to accept a victory gained, not because he was faster than his opponent, but because an official made a mistake.

Victory at any price is not worth the cost. Thank God there are still athletes like McCullen and coaches like Lew Hartzog who realize it. Hartzog said after the meet that he couldn't have been more proud of McCullen if he had finished first. In losing, McCullen has won more glory for himself and his school than a hundred victories.

For years and years, the plaintive cry has come from Louisiana as it came from Brooklyn, "Wait 'til next year." It is no longer heard in Brooklyn for the Dodgers are gone and it is no longer heard in Louisiana for 1958 is "next year" for the LSU Tigers.

Tiger fans, a notoriously hard-to-please horde, are, for the moment, satisfied, awed even, by LSU's massacre of Miami. Visions of Sugar Bowls dance in their heads, Cannon is king and Dietzel is dandy.

It's a long way to the Sugar Bowl and there are no short cuts around such road blocks as Florida, Mississippi State and Ole Miss. The win over Miami has, however, proved that LSU is capable of beating any team on its schedule. They probably won't but they could. There is not a game on the schedule that, in contrast to years past, must be conceded as a probable loss.

If you insist upon looking forward to next year, it's a rosy picture. LSU loses only three players, J. W. Broadnax, Billy Hendrix and Larry Kahlden. Things are looking up in Tigertown.

Strange, we haven't heard any gripes today about "only beating Hardin Simmons 20-6."

Dave McKenzie, president of the Northeast Louisiana Basketball Officials Association, announces that their first meeting will be held Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in Room 210 of the Science Building at Northeast State College. Dave says the purpose of the meeting is to make plans for the coming year and to register. He urged all members, old members that is, to come out and register and said that any person interested in becoming an official should attend the meeting. Registration dues amount to $7 annually, he explained, with $5 going to the local association,—the Northeast La. officials assn., and $2 going to the Louisiana High School Athletic Association.

Ole Miss Drops Tulane, 19-8

Rebels Rally In 4th Period To Up Margin

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Unbeaten Mississippi's fleet of running backs slithered through Tulane's pourous defenses in the fourth period Saturday night to earn a hard-fought 19-8 Southeastern Conference victory.

Mississippi, seventh ranked in the Associated Press poll, pushed its final touchdown across in the opening minutes of the last period. But the Rebels had to squelch a bombarding Tulane passing attack to finish in front.

STATISTICS

Passing yardage	70	120

Passes	6-13	13-28

Yards penalized	75	40

Fullback Charlie Flowers and halfback Kent Lovelace set up the final touchdown with ripping runs that took the Rebels to the Tulane 12. Quarterback Bobby Franklin tossed to Lovelace on the next play for the score.

The game was less than five minutes old when Mississippi scored its first touchdown. A Franklin pass was deflected by Mississippi end Warren Jenkins into the arms of teammate Larry Grantham for the touchdown. Bob Khayat's kick put the Rebels in front 7-0.

Tulane bounced back in the second period with quarterback Richie Petitbon setting up a touchdown with his pinpoint passing. He crashed over center from the one for the tally and passed to end George McLain for a two-point conversion.

Shortly before the first half ended, Khayat booted a 29-yard field goal that sent the Rebels ahead to stay, but the decision was in doubt until the fourth period touchdown. The Rebels picked up two points in the closing minutes when tackle Hanson Churchwell tackled Tulane quarterback Phil Nugent in his own end zone.

Mississippi started with a bang as Flowers, Lovelace and halfback Cowboy Woodruff chalked up good ground gains.

But the Tulane passing attack had Mississippi rocking in the second quarter. Petitbon's first pass completion went to halfback Claude Mason on the Mississippi 21 and his short tosses had the Greenies knocking at the door. He faked the Mississippi defense out of position on his one-yard touchdown punt.

Khayat's field goal that put the Rebels ahead 10-8 came from the Tulane 29-yard line. A good breeze carried the ball just over the goal post crossbar.

The Rebels went 72 yards in eight plays for their last touchdown. Flowers, Lovelace and Woodruff all found gaping holes in the Tulane defense to set up Franklin's pass to Lovelace for the marker.

The safety in the last few minutes resulted from Tulane's desperation passing attack and Nugent was smothered in his own end zone.

TOUCHDOWN—THE HARD WAY — Ole Miss end Warren Jenkins (right) deflected this pass last night but teammate Larry Grantham (not in picture) caught it for the first Rebel touchdown last night against Tulane in New Orleans. Longhorns Rally In Fourth To Tumble Oklahoma, 15-14

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Substitute quarterback Vince Matthews led a dramatic Texas charge with only three minutes to go Saturday to fell mighty Oklahoma 15-14.

Matthews passed the Longhorns over most of 70 yards of a desperate touchdown drive and Bobby Lackey, the regular Texas quarterback, came in to pass for the touchdown—and kick the extra point that knocked down the nation's No. 2 team and give the Longhorns victory in their rivalry for the first time since 1951.

More than 76,000 fans jammed into the Cotton Bowl and watched the struggle that found Texas leading for three quarters, Oklahoma taking back the lead on the grab of a Texas handoff, fumbled in the air, by Sooner guard Jim Davis, who lumbered 24 yards to a touchdown, and then the great surge of the Longhorns as time was running out.

The deciding Texas touchdown was made on a pass from the busy Lackey to end Bob Bryant from the Oklahoma 5-yard line. The stands were hushed as the tall Longhorn quarterback stepped to the line and plunked the ball between the goal posts. Then pandemonium broke loose.

Texas scored a touchdown in the second period on a 10-yard pass from the lefthanded Rene Ramirez to George Blanch. Don Allen, Texas fullback, ran across the conversion to make the score 8-0.

Oklahoma got a touchdown on a 5-yard run by Dickey Carpenter in the third quarter. In the fourth quarter, Texas had the ball on its 24, where it had taken over. Lackey handed off to Texas fullback Mike Dowdle, who fumbled in the air when hit by Jerry Thompson, the Oklahoma left guard, and Davis grabbed the ball and ran to the touchdown. Boyd passed to Tillery for the extra points.

EIGHTH-RANKED

Clemson Thumps Vanderbilt, 12-7

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Clemson's eighth-ranked Tigers wore down Vanderbilt in the last quarter Saturday night to win a rough fumble marked game 12-7. Harvey White scored both touchdowns, the last one with nine seconds remaining.

It was a hard fought, penalty-packed battle, in which the Commodores came within seconds of upsetting the undefeated Tigers, head of the Atlantic Coast Conference. This marked their fourth victory of the season.

Underdog Vanderbilt broke a scoreless deadlock midway of the third period on halfback Tom Moore's nine-yard jaunt around left end, and appeared on the road to a major upset.

But Clemson, denied a first quarter touchdown on fullback Rudy Hayes' goal-line fumble, roared back for two final period touchdowns.

White scored the first on a one-yard plunge and the second from the 3.

The first wound up a 76-yard drive and the second one a few minutes later climaxed a march of 69 yards. The try for two points failed on each occasion.

White, Hayes and halfback George Usry ground out big chunks of yardage through the Commodore line on the winning touchdown drives. White was keeping the Commodore defense honest with a scattering of passes.

Clemson	0	0	0	12	—12
Vanderbilt	0	0	7	0	— 7

Vand—Moore 9 run (Bates kick)

Clem—White 1 run (pass intercepted)

Clem—White 3 run (run failed)

SMU Romps Over Missouri Behind Subs

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Southern Methodist Mustangs, flat and trailing by 19 points at the half, caught fire on the strong passing of two reserve quarterbacks and smacked down the Missouri Tigers, 32-19, for their first victory of the season Saturday.

It was an about face for both teams in the game played before 29,000 in bright, crisp weather.

Missouri did all its scoring in the second period. Ken Lowe and Billy Dunn then loosened their passing arms and had the Mustangs going away at the finish.

In the second quarter Missouri quarterback Bob Haas passed for two touchdowns. After intermission the Tigers lost the ball three times on pass interceptions and twice on fumbles. SMU made four of its touchdowns after those Missouri bobbles.

Dunn and Lowe handled the passing chores for the Mustangs' great Don Meredith who was left at home in Dallas with injuries suffered in SMU's loss to Notre Dame last week. Lowe passed for two touchdowns, hitting halfback Frank Jackson on a 24-yarder in the third, and connecting to end Bud Jones for 10 yards in the fourth period.

Dunn passed 22 yards to Mike Hackney in the third quarter for a touchdown.

It was the third Missouri loss in four games. SMU was edged by Ohio State and Notre Dame previously.

Tide Crowds Scoring To Beat Furman

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Alabama crowded three touchdowns into less than four minutes of the first quarter and went on to defeat outclassed Furman Saturday night 29-6.

A 52-yard scoring drive, a 14-yard touchdown pass and a 56-yard punt return to pay dirt by Gary O'Steen accounted for the opening quarter tallies.

O'Steen, a junior quarterback, also was on the receiving end of a scoring pass from halfback Bobby Smith on a play that covered 61 yards.

Cowboys Best Wildcats, 7-0

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — McNeese State capped a 40-yard first period drive with a tally and withstood a final period threat by Louisiana College Saturday night to save a 7-0 victory.

Fullback Harold Thomas stepped over from the one for the McNeese tally. Bobby Posegay kicked the extra point.

The rest of the game was a defensive battle, with LC gaining 192 yards rushing to 99 for McNeese. Louisiana College drove to the McNeese three late in the final period.

Shreveporter Paces Houston Over Wichita

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Pat Studstill, reserve sophomore quarterback from Shreveport, La., returned an intercepted pass 76 yards for one touchdown and caught a 38-yard pass for another Saturday night as the University of Houston used speed and power to crush Wichita 44-0 in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

Houston, undefeated in three games, scored in each of the first three quarters and then crashed for three more in the final period.

Wichita, held to a net gain of only 30 yards rushing, got no closer to the Houston goal than the 18-yard line.

Studstill made his interception return in the third period and climaxed the final drive by taking the 38-yard toss from fourth string quarterback Jim Rose with just 20 seconds to play.

Frosh Tie, 6-6

BATON ROUGE (AP) —Louisiana State and Mississippi freshmen fought to a 6-6 deadlock Saturday in a fumble-filled contest.

Mississippi took the lead in the first quarter after end Dexter Butler grabbed an LSU fumble on the LSU eight.

On fourth down, quarterback Jim Ragland tossed eight yards to halfback Buddy Crosby in the end zone for the score.

Bulldogs Stun Florida State Eleven, 28-13

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Georgia's bruising Bulldogs made no mistakes Saturday night and beat a scrappy, outgunned Florida State football team 28-13.

Georgia, which had fumbled its way to three straight defeats, was a poised, expert team that took advantage of a big edge in weight and manpower to whip Florida State's sophomore-studded Seminoles.

Georgia moved into the lead late in the first quarter when quarterback Tommy Lewis raced six yards on the option for a touch down and was never headed.

But the result was questionable until the final minutes when halfback Fred Brown broke away for a 62-yard run to set up a four-yard touchdown scamper by Charley Britt.

Spectacular as was Brown's long run, it did not match the thrill of Florida State's first touch down. Trailing 14-0 in the third quarter, FSU drove 65 yards to the Georgia 4. The Bulldogs halted the march and Bobby Walden punted out to the 43.

Quarterback Bic Prinzi faded back and tossed a 42-yard pass to sophomore-end Tony Romeo, who wrestled the ball away from two Georgia defenders in the end zone for the touchdown.

Georgia moved 62 yards for its first touchdown, then went 78 yards in the second period for another. Charley Britt snaked two yards for the score.

In the final period, Georgia march 63 yards for a score. The big play was Theron Sapp's 34-yard break through the middle.

FSU came back for an 86-yard advance on Prinzi's passing with Bobby Renn throwing to Bob Cavanaugh for the touchdown.

Miss. Southern Overpowers SLC

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi Southern spotted Southeastern Louisiana one touchdown Saturday night then came back to overpower the Lions 33-6.

Third - string quarterback Willie Gene Coats piloted the Southerners to victory as the two top signal - callers, Ollie Yates and George Sekul, sat out the game with broken wrists suffered in last week's clash with Memphis State.

Southeastern quarterback Larry Popham passed to end Oscar Lofton in the first period to give the visitors a brief lead over the nation's top - ranked small college team. Southern defenders broke up an attempt to pass for two extra points.

The rest of the game was a parade of Southern touchdown drives.

Halfback Charles McArthur crashed over from the two in the second period and end Hugh McInnis booted the extra point. Fullback Buddy Supple went 13 yards through the middle to climax an 85 yard drive in the third period and McInnis' kick attempt was wide.

Halfback J. C. Arban moved across from the one yard line and a pass attempt for extra points was foiled. Halfback Bobby Lance grabbed a 20 - yard pass from Coats in the final quarter to put the ball in scoring position, then scored from the one moments later. Coats ran across for two extra points.

With less than 30 seconds to play, Southern added a final marker when freshman quarterback Bobby Meadows passed to Ted Crawford. Meadows fumbled the ball on the extra point try.

TCU Downs Texas Tech In Rout, 26-0

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The passing of Hunter Enis and Don George and Marvin Lasater's running carried Texas Christian to an easy 26-0 triumph over little Southwest Conference brother, Texas Tech Saturday night.

Enis' passing set up the first touchdown, which he scored himself with a one-foot plunge, and his six-yard throw to Marshall Harris brought another. George pegged 26 yards to Bobby Murray for a third touchdown and Lasater's running led to the fourth. Lasater made it with a six-yard run.

Enis passed for 64 yards and Lasater dashed for 81 in 17 carries to feature the TCO offensive.

It was TCU's third victory in four games.

1,000 TO 1 SHOT

US Ties Aussies For Golf Crown

By STERLING SLAPPEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Bill Hyndman birdied the toughest hole in golf—the feared 17th "road hole" of St. Andrews—and finished with a brilliant 72 Saturday to put the United States into a 1,000 to 1 shot tie for the World Amateur team championship.

The tall, graying Philadelphia insurance man almost alone carried his teammates into an 18-hole playoff Monday with the Australians

Both teams needed 918 strokes for four days of golf in high winds, temperatures in the high-thirties, rain and bad light.

Until Hyndman came storming home, the Eisenhower Trophy, the symbolic silver for the world supremacy of amateur golf, was practically crated and on the way to Sydney.

Hyndman's homing nine in the wind and cold must rank as one of golf's fine finishes. It was a clutch performance, but the big Philadelphian never realized it.

Billy Joe Patton, Morganton, N.C., had shot a 79; Charlie Coe, Oklahoma City, a 78;; and Dr. Frank Taylor, Pomona, Calif., another 78.

Those scores made it look as if the United States had shot itself right ouf of this initial world tournament.

Australia's team of Doug Bachli, Barry Devlin, Bob Stevens and Peter Toogood already was in with 918. The necessity of a playoff seemed out of the question.

Then Hyndman, playing in the final threesome, came to the 17th, thinking the United States already had blown the championship.

The 42-year-old socialite hit a low screamer just over the top of the second gable of the ancient railroad track that protrudes to the right side of the fairway. The hole is par four and stretches 453 yards.

His second shot was the key shot of the week. It was a four-iron which sailed dead to the pin and dropped six feet short. He knocked in the putt for a birdie three and then headed for the 18th, knowing then that a par woid give America a tie.

His drive was straight down the middle and his approach was true to the green, leaving him a 24-foot putt to clinch the championship. He putted and the ball failed by a bare foot. But he sank for the tie.

The round brought Hyndman an additional honor. It gave him a tie at 301 with Reid Jack of Britain and Australia's Devlin for the unofficial individual title.

Hyndman's card for the four days read: 79-77-73-72—301. Coe had the second best American score, 305. Patton had 313, Taylor 314.

The tournament was a team competition, with the best three scores of each country counted daily. The same formula will be used in Monday's playoff.

Ranked behind the United States and Australia was Great Britain with 919, New Zealand 921, Argentine 940, Canada and South Africa 945, France 949, Sweden 957, Italy 9963, and Belgium 964.

Arkansas A&M Tips Delta, 13-7

CLEVELAND, Miss. (AP) — Arkansas A&M rolled to a 13-7 football victory over Delta State Saturday night.

Don Sawyer's passing and Alvin Ford's running figured in both Arkansas A&M touchdown drives. Their combination put the ball on the 10 yard line, where Robert Hyart passed to David Schwartz in the end zone for the first touchdown.

Sawyer shot an end-zone pass to Bud Dosy from 37 yards out for the other tally and Sawyer kicked for the extra point.

Sammy Kendricks ran from the five for Delta State's touchdown—its first this season—after a 28-yard pass from Kendricks to Jimmy Deakle put the ball on the 20 and a personal foul assessed against A&M moved the ball in another 15 yards. Jimmy Wade kicked for the Delta State extra point.

First Landing Cops First At Belmont Park

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Arcaro shot First Landing through a hole near the rail a half mile from home Saturday and went on to win the $151,300 Champagne Stakes at Belmont Park.

There was drama aplenty in New York's richest race as First Landing, owned by C. T. Chenery of Boswell, Va., beat the pride of California, previously unbeaten Tomy Lee, by a neck. However, there was a foul claimed by the jockey on Intentionally, who finished third.

Eldon Nelson claimed Tomy Lee bumped him as he came out at the half mile marker and allowed First Landing to get through.

After looking at the movies the stewards agreed and moved Tomy Lee from second to third place and lifted Intentionally to the runner-up spot.

Braves Sign Haney, Make Tebbetts Vice President

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves handed Manager Fred Haney a new contract Saturday and announced that Birdie Tebbetts had joined the team as executive vice president.

Haney met with Braves' President Joseph Cairnes and General Manager John Quinn. He said he was "highly pleased" with the terms of the contract and was looking forward to another top season for the National League club. Terms were not announced, but it was believed Haney received an increase of about $5,000, putting his salary near $40,000 a year.

Cairnes said that Tebbetts, former manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, was a "great addition to the executive staff of the team." Tebbetts will assume duties Cairnes will be unable to attend to because of his recent appointment as director of a Florida real estate development firm operated by Lou Perini, Braves' owner.

Tebbetts said that he and his family, which includes three daughters and a newborn son, would move to Milwaukee as soon as possible.

Haney's acceptance of a new contract for another season squelched rumors that he might retire from the club after the World Series, won by the New York Yankees. Haney led the Braves to two straight National League titles and one world championship in the last two seasons. He took over the Braves in June 1956.

Tebbetts resigned as manager of the Redlegs on Aug. 11, saying then that he did so "solely because, in my heart, I believe that it is better for Cincinnati baseball that someone succeed me."

Jimmy Dykes succeeded Tebbetts as manager. The Redlegs were in last place in the National League when Tebbetts quit.

There has been considerable talk that Haney and Tebbetts do not get along. As late as last week Tebbetts strongly denied the allegation, saying, "We've had differences at times, but that's the rule rather than the exception."

One of the most heated clashes last season occurred at Cincinnati when Haney, in an indirect slap at Tebbetts, accused Redleg pitchers of deliberately throwing at Milwaukee batters.

There also has been speculation that Tebbetts will one day succeed Haney, but Tebbetts has denied this, too, saying, "You can bet your last dime I'll never manage a major league team again."

HAVE TRAIN, WILL TRAVEL

Indian Fans To Go To McNeese

"Have train; will travel" will be the slogan of the week on the Northeast State campus as the Student Council spearheads the trip to Lake Charles for the Northeast - McNeese State football game Saturday.

Council President Lemmie Hightower announced yesterday that a train has been chartered by the organization to provide students and other grid fans opportunity to see the game which will be played at the Lake Charles High School Stadium.

Tickets will be on sale throughout the week at the Student Center on the campus and at R. and A. Jewelers. Cost of the round trip will be $6.50. Efforts are being made to secure special admission prices, Hightower said.

The train will leave the Missouri Pacific Station Saturday at 12:30 p.m. and arrive at Lake Charles at about 5:30 p.m. Leaving Lake Charles at 11:30 p.m. that night, the train will arrive in Monroe Sunday at approximately 4:30 a.m.

Busses will be provided for transportation from the Lake Charles business section to the stadium, Hightower said.

Train reservations already have been made for Northeast's 55-piece band and the cheerleaders headed by Miss Margaret Varnado.

Traveling by train to watch the Indians in action will be the first project of its kind to be sponsored in several years. With school spirit soaring after a four game winning streak by Coach Jack Rowan's team, the Student Council considered the special trip a "must" in the movement to "Keep Rowan Rolling."

Deacons Drop Wolfpack By 13-7 Margin

By KEN ALYTA

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)— A breath-taking 69-yard pass play, quarterback Charlie Carpenter to halfback Winston Futch, carried Wake Forest to a 13-7 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory over North Carolina State Saturday.

The big play, early in the fourth quarter, gave the Deacons a 13-0 lead and enabled them to withstand a late State bid that produced a touchdown and threatened to add another.

Sophomore quarterback Norm Snead, after faking a pass, ran eight yards for the first Wake Forest touchdown late in the second quarter. Three minutes after Futch's touchdown and a conversion by fullback Neil McLean had put State 13 points behind, the defending conference champions finally scored.

Quarterback Frank Cackovic passed 20 yards in the end zone to soph halfback Claude Gibson for the touchdown and tackle Larry Dixon converted.

A few minutes later State stormed back in an effort to get the tying touchdown, but Gibson fumbled and guard Hughie Lewis recovered for Wake Forest on the Deacon 47. With less than two minutes to go, State's last chance went by the board when Wake Forest center Buck Jolly intercepted a Cackovic pass near midfield.

Tech Scores 26 In 1st Half To Rout SLI

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—Louisiana Tech smashed across for 26 points while knocking out every Southwestern Louisiana effort in the first half Saturday for a 33-0 Gulf States Conference victory.

Tech sidelined its varsity during the second half while the reserves added seven more points to spoil SLI's Homecoming hopes.

Fullback Jerry Frasier walloped the SLI line twice in the opening period for two touchdowns, one from 12 yards out and the other from the one. Sophomore Jack Howard converted both times.

In the first play of the second quarter, David Williamson dashed across from the four to add another. Shortly after, James McCabe passed 21 yards to Jack Lestage for another tally.

Howard added the fifth touchdown in the final period, then converted again.

The brightest spot for SLI came when Steve Gossen kicked a 71-yard punt, a possible GSC record.

NIX TO LASTER

Auburn Scores In Fourth To Defeat Kentucky, 8-0

By JOHN G. DIETRICH

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Embattled Auburn used a perfectly executed 43-yard pass play from lefty Lloyd Nix to halfback Jim Laster to break up an old-fashioned defensive duel in the final period Saturday night and score an 8-0 victory over Kentucky.

Two more points came later in the last period when Zeke Smith tackled Kentucky's Calvin Bird in the end zone on an attempted punt return for a safety, but it was the left - handed lob from Nix to Laster that broke up the ball game.

It was a fantastic 52 - yard punt by Tommy Lorino that rolled dead on Kentucky's two - yard line to give Auburn the break it needed to score its 17th consecutive victory and its third of this season.

Doug Shievely kicked out for Kentucky to the Kentucky 43 on the first play of the final period and that's where the Auburn lightning struck.

Nix almost was trapped by charging Kentucky linemen on the next play, but he held them off while Laster broke from his flanking halfback slot and streaked through the middle of the Kentucky secondary to catch Nix's perfect throw on the 12-yard line without a defender in the neighborhood.

Kentucky drew a flicker of hope when guard Bud Spicer blocked Jerry Wilson's attempted conversion, but the Auburn defenses that went into the game with a record of holding their foes of 57 yards per game—best in the nation—held fast again.

Kentucky stopped another Auburn drive on the 38, but when Lorino kicked to the five yard line, Bird tried to run it out only to be chased into the end zone and tackled by Smith, who had played a brilliant game at guard all night.

Before the game was over Auburn was back on the Kentucky one, but Kentucky held there just as it had done once before in the third period.

Auburn Coach Shug Jordan said after the game "We felt we had to throw to win," and this proved to be the case as Kentucky's aggressive line battled Auburn yard for yard on the ground.

Auburn had passed nine times in the first half without a completion, but in the second half the Tigers completed nine of 16 for 157 yards, and that brought the victory.

In three games, Auburn now has scored a total of 51 points—and 49 of them have come in the final period.

Kentucky made the deepest first half penetration. The Wildcats reached the Auburn 37 on a 17 yard pass completion from Lowell Hughes to end Dick Mueller but Lamar Rawson intercepted Hughes' pass to break that up.

Kentucky quarterback Jerry Eisaman turned in the picture play of the first half, a 36 yard juant on a roll - out to the Auburn 33, but Kentucky drew a 15-yard penalty and Rawson hauled down an Eisaman pass as the half ended.

Score by periods:

Auburn	0	0	0	8—8
Kentucky	0	0	0	0—0

Auburn scoring: Laster 43 pass Nix (Spicer blocked Wilson's kick); a safety, Bird tackled in end zone by Smith.

Aggies Tumble Maryland, 14-10

By BOB SERLING

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI)— Improving Texas A&M flashed two long drives of single-wing football at its best to dump favored Maryland, 14-10, Saturday before 23,000.

The underdog Aggies, winning their second straight after two early season losses, came from behind in the third period to hand the heavier Terrapins their third defeat in four starts.

The winning drive covered 88 yards and included virtually every play in Coach Jim Myers' single-wing repertoire. First it was tailback Charlie Milstead on short power drives through the beefy Terp line, then a hungry third-string back named Bubba McLean who swept wide for two long key gains, and finally a 37-yard rifle-shot pass from Milstead to end Don Smith on the Maryland eight.

Another Milstead pass from the hard-to-rush tailback slot went to Dick Gay on the four and two plays later, Milstead sailed wide around Maryland's massed nine-man line for the winning score.

Milstead, a standout on defense as well as attack, pitched a two-point conversion pass to Randy Sims, and the battling Aggies then staved off one Terp drive after another to win.

Milstead intercepted a fourth-period pass from quarterback Dick Scarbath to kill one Maryland threat, while a fumble and another intercepted pass late in the game kept the Aggies' four-point margin intact.

Maryland scored first with a 65-yard first quarter march in eight plays, Bob Rusevlyan passing seven yards to end Ron Shaffer for the score. Rusevlyan place-kicked the Terps into a 7-0 lead

The Aggies drove 53 yards for their first score early in the second period, with a Milstead pass to John Tracy supplying key yardage. Milstead banged to the eight in two tries and then sent fullback Gordon LeBouef slicing through guard for a TD. A pass conversion failed and Maryland, with only 16 seconds to go before halftime, jumped into a 10-6 lead on a 16-yard field goal by Vincent Scott.

That turned out to be Maryland's last moment of glory as the Aggies' out-weighed but fast-charging line kept the Terp's offensive under control.

Score by Periods

Maryland	7	3	0	0—10
Texas A&M	0	6	8	0—14

Scoring: Texas A&M—LeBouef 8 run (pass failed); Milstead 3 run (Sims pass from Milstead). Maryland—Shaffer 7 pass from Rusevlyan (Rusevlyan kick); F. G. Scott, 16 (field goal).

Michigan State Beats Pittsburgh

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)— Michigan State scored on two short drives and one long one for hard luck Pittsburgh team that twice lost the ball within 10 yards of the Spartan goal line.

Michigan State needed to punch only 23 yards for one score and travel 34 yards for another. The final march in the closing minutes was a 50-yard drive.

The jinxed Panthers twice blew scoring chances and a third time saw what looked like a touchdown run called back by officials.

Although not as impressive as the scoring indicated, Michigan State put it in the record books and is undefeated in three games, — the only blemish being last week's 12-12 tie with Michigan.

Pittsburgh made long drives downfield in both muffed scoring chances. One march in the second period went from the Pittsburgh 30 to the MSU 8. But quarterback Bill Kaliden bobbled the ball on the 8 and Fran O'Brien recovered for Michigan State.

The Panthers started from their own 43 for another surge in the third period. Pittsburgh was down to the MSU 7 when a pass by Ivan Toncic was intercepted by Ellison Kelly of Michigan State.

Pittsburgh finally scored in the fourth quarter when Dick Haley busted through right tackle from the 9. The payoff drive went 42 yards.

In the first MSU scoring push, Mike Panitch sneaked over from the one. Dean Look scored the second on a two-yard plunge.

Badgers Take Easy Win Over Purdue, 31-6

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—Wisconsin kept its offense under wraps and bulled its way to an impressive 31-6 victory over previously unscored upon Purdue Saturday, boosting the Badgers' stock in the Big Ten title race.

Quarterback Dale Hackbart, who scored twice, got the Badgers rolling in the second period with two touchdown drives that broke a 6-6 deadlock and decided the game.

Wildcats Edge Minnesota, 7-3

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)— Northwestern's fantastic sophomore, Dick Thornton, scored a touchdown with 58 seconds to play to give the fighting Wildcats a 7-3 victory over Minnesota in the Big Ten opener for both teams Saturday.

The triple threat quarterback punched over from the 2 for the winning touchdown and kicked the extra point to make it an all-Thornton ball game.

A crowd of 56,061, including former President Harry S. Truman, watched Thornton pass and run for nearly 150 yards.

PENALTY-PLAGUED

Relentless Cadets Shock Favored Notre Dame, 14-2

By JERR YLISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Army's penalty-plagued Cadets, led by amazingly swift Pete Dawkins, relentlessly punched out a 14-2 football victory over favored Notre Dame Saturday.

Dawkins, befitting a great performance all this cloudy-windy afternoon, scored the clinching touchdown on a six-yard run with seven seconds remaining.

Neither Notre Dame nor a rash of penalties could stop unbeaten Army, a one-point underdog, from scoring its third straight victory and handing the Irish their first loss after two triumphs.

Army was rated No. 3 and Notre Dame No. 4 in the current Associated Press national rankings.

The Cadets had the game in the bag all the way, although they led only 6-2 until Dawkins' touchdown spurt. The first Army touchdown came on a 16-yard pass from quarterback Joe Caldwell to end Jack Morrison with two seconds left in the first quarter.

Notre Dame, advancing twice to Army's 19 under its own power, scored its two points when Cadet Caldwell was trapped for a safety early in the third quarter.

Army failed on a kick try after its first touchdown, but after its second, Dawkins gilded his own personal lily by taking a pitchout and southpawed a two-pointer pass to Bob Anderson.

Anderson, like Dawkins, played up to advance billing, giving Notre Dame's defense fits with his speed.

Notre Dame fumbled three times and lost the ball each occasion.

But it became apparent to a partisan record home Irish crowd of 60,564, that Army was the better team on the field. The previous top Notre Dame crowd was 60,128 at the Irish-Oklahoma game in 1956.

Notre Dame broke into the scoring column on a poor Army play just after the second half started. Army quarterback Caldwell was handcuffed by a high snap-back from center and was trapped in the end zone.

Irish end Month Stickles snagged Caldwell's Army and the Cadet quarterback flipped the ball underhand back into the playing field for an obvious intentional grounding. A two-point safety was ruled and the Irish trailed, 6-2.

The Cadets were hard hit by five penalties in the third quarter, but stopped an Irish penetration to Army's 19. The penalties kept Army neutralized.

Army's terrific team speed, hubbed around Dawkins and Anderson, a pair of 200 - pounders with mercurial eels, bewildered Notre Dame from the start.

Although the Cadets left the field at halftime, leading 6-0, it could have been a three touchdown advantage. Before Caldwells 16-yard touchdown pass to Morrison with two seconds of the first period left, Army had charged 53 yards in 11 plays to Notre Dame's 14.

Dawkins and Anderson were at their ground-chewing best in this drive which ended abruptly when Anderson's pass was intercepted by Notre Dame's Williams on the Irish 4.

In the second period, Army had the ball for 27 plays against 14 pla, for Notre Dame. At one time, the Cadets were in control for 16 consecutive plays, marching from their 31 to Notre Dame's 5.

One of the surprising things about this drive was that Army instead of electing a field goal try from favorable field position, chose to pass on fourth down from the 5.

Army 6 0 0 8—14
Notre Dame 0 0 2 0—2
Army—Morrison 16 pass from Caldwell (kick failed)
ND—Safety Caldwell tackled in end zone
Army—Dawkins 6 run (Dawkins passed to Anderson).

STILL UNDEFEATED

Buckeyes Down Illinois, 19-13

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Undefeated Ohio State, scoring twice in the third quarter, put down a last minute Illinois rally Saturday and slipped through to a 19-13 Big Ten victory.

Trailing 19-6 in the last quarter, Illinois' Bob Hickey came off the bench, tossed one touchdown pass and put on another drive in the last minute which nearly pulled Illinois ahead.

With a minute to play, Hickey threw a long pass to halfback Dick McDade, who momentarily held the ball and then dropped it on the 3 yard line for an incompletion.

Another Hickey pass was intercepted by Ohio State's Russ Bowermaster and that was the end of a hair-raising Big Ten opener for a national television audience.

Held 6-6 in the first half, the favored Buckeyes turned to ball control in the third quarter and took over the lead with a 71-yard drive in 19 plays and in a little more than 10 minutes.

Minutes later, Buckeye halfback Don Clark raced 42 yards for a touchdown.

After playing an even first half, Ohio State went to its famous ground game to take a third quarter 13-6 lead. Quarterback Frank Kremblas, gaining good yardage on rollouts, completed a key pass on a third and 8 situation to keep the drive alive. Fullback Bob White scored for a second time from the 1 to break the deadlock. Dave Kilgore kicked the extra point.

Before the crowd of 20,416 had time to cheer Illinois to a rally, Clark sprinted for what proved to be the game-winning touchdown. Hickey, who had been on the bench with a leg injury, then came into the game. A 24-yard run by Joe Krakoski set up Hickey's 36-yard touchdown aerial. Krakoski caught the pass short of the goal line and dashed for the score.

Illinois opened the game like it meant business but quickly found itself on the short end of a 6-0 score.

Ohio State won the toss, but chose to kick and take advantage of a 25 mile an hour wind. Illinois took the kickoff and after gaining a first down lost ground on a clipping penalty and Capt. Jack Delveaux kicked out to the Illinois 42. Ohio State then put its vaunted ground attack in gear, and 9 plays later White bowled over from the 1. Kremblas' kick was wide.

The Buckeyes remained in control for the rest of the first quarter despite a determied Illinois 32-yard field goal try which was wide and short.

Ohio State wasted a great opportunity in the second quarter when Illinois' Dejustice Coleman fumbled and Tom Matte recovered on the Illini 28. Illinois' 9-man shifting line forced Ohio State to go to the air but Kremblas could not click with his passes.

Late in the second quarter, Johnny Easterbrook, a 150-pound quarterback, directed a 52-yard drive which ended when L. T. Bonner rammed into the end zone from the 3. Easterbrook connected on two key passes in the drive. Don Yeazel's attempted kick was wide.

The victory was OSU's third straight, while Illinois suffered its third loss in a row.

Ohio State 6 0 13 0—19
Illinois 0 6 0 7—13
OSU—White 1 plunge (kick failed)
Ill—Bonner 3 run (kick failed)
OSU—White 1 plunge (Kilgore kick)

Ill—Krakoski 36 pass from Hickey (Yeazel kick)

Tars Bounce Gamecocks In 6-0 Triumph

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—A sturdy defense and one early touchdown were all North Carolina's Tar Heels needed Saturday for a 6-0 victory over South Carolina in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game.

The rugged Tar Heel defense stopped South Carolina from staging a single major offensive threat.

Halfback Wade Smith paced North Carolina on a 44-yard touchdown drive at the beginning of the second period. His one-yard plunge into the end zone accounted for the victory margin.

Among the defensive standouts for the Tar Heels were ends Al Goldstein and John Schroeder, tackle Phil Blazer, guard Fred Swearingen, and center Ronnie Koes.

The sturdy forward wall held the Gamecocks highly touted backfield to only 79 yards rushing and only five first downs.

South Carolina bogged down deep in its own territory late in the first quarter and was forced to punt. The kick was downed on the Gamecocks' 44 and the Tar Heels began their game-winning drive.

Smith carried to the 40 and quarterback Jack Cummings fired a 13-yard pass to Goldstein for a first down on the 27.

Fullback Ed Lipski squirmed for three yards and Smith took a handoff from Cummings and sprinted for 21 yards to the 1. On the next play, he went into the end zone.

A two-point conversion attempt failed when the left side of the South Carolina line smeared Lipski.

So. Carolina 0 0 0 0—0
No. Carolina 0 6 0 0—6
UNC—Smith 1 run (run failed)

Maroon Defeat Memphis, 28-6

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi State punched over two first period touchdowns and then coasted to an easy 28-6 victory over Memphis State Saturday.

The Maroons, bouncing back from a 13-8 Southeastern Conference loss to Tennessee, converted a Memphis State fumble in the opening minutes into a touchdown.

Memphis State's bill Loyd fumbled on his own 22 and the Maroons' Bubber Trammell recovered. It took the Maroons only eight plays to score with fullback Jack Batte going over from the one. Billy Tribble's kick failed.

Late in the first period the Maroons marched 35 yards in six plays for their second touchdown. When Gil Peterson, senior right halfback from Winona, Miss. cracked across from the two. Trammel converted by running.

Mississippi State opened the second half by driving 42 yards for its third touchdown. Quarterback Billy Stacy capped the drive by racing over from the four. A pass from Trammel to Gil Peterson was good for the conversion and two more points.

Halfback Willie Daniels raced 74 yards late in the third period for the Maroons' final touchdown. Robert Collins' run-try for the conversion fell short.

Memphis State's touchdown came midway of the fourth period when fullback Bob Lyles intercepted a Maroon pass tossed by Joe Clark and raced 99 yards untouched to score. The run try for conversion failed.

Winnsboro To Be Feted For Crowville Win

WINNSBORO, La. (Special) — The Winnsboro football squad, coaches Philip Poole and Glyn Ebarb, the high school band and director Glynn Gardner, and the pep squad and director Carrice Russell will be honored with a hot dog supper at the Wildcat football stadium Monday night at 6:30.

The supper is being sponsored by the Winnsboro Junior Chamber of Commerce, which usually picks a Wildcat player of the week. But the team played so well as a whole against Crowville Thursday night the Jaycees decided to honor the entire squad.

Joe Gravelle, Jaycee president, stated that one hundred pounds of franks, 125 packages of buns, and eight gallons of chili have been ordered for the supper. Cokes will be served with the hot dogs. The general public is invited and the 1,000 hot dogs will be served as long as they last, according to Gravelle.

A pee wee football game will provide the entertainment for the occasion.

Terriers Jolt Mountaineers In 36-30 Tilt

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP)—Inspired Boston University battled back from an eight-point deficit Saturday to upset the West Virginia Mountaineers 36-30 in a football game marked by a wild and wooly fourth period.

The invading Terriers made 23 points in the second period to seemingly put the game on ice. But they were in danger at the end until Boston reserve quarterback Emo Di Nitto picked off a West Virginia pass on his own 30 and raced for the game-clinching touchdown with 36 seconds remaining.

It was West Virginia quarterback Dick Longfellow, the same fellow who engineered the Mountaineers' to a 46-6 victory over the Terriers last year, who sparked his team in a 22-point fourth period upsurge.

The Mountaineers, behind 29-8, struck for two quick touchdowns to cut the margin to 29-24. Then, they recovered their own onside kickoff and had moved to the Boston 39 when Di Nitto made his interception.

It was the squatty Di Nitto and another reserve back, Tommy O'Connell, who were the big guns in the Boston attack. Di Nitto bombed the West Virginia pass defenses, hitting on seven of 18 attempts, including one for a touchdown.

Duke Rallies To Beat Baylor, 12-7

By REESE HART

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Twice-beaten Duke stormed 61 yards in nine plays for a fourth period touchdown to defeat Baylor 12-7 Saturday in an intersectional football thriller.

Duke halfback George Dutrow slashed off left tackle to score from the 16 with the winning touchdown. The Blue Devils, using their "lonesome end" pass plays very sparingly, had gone ahead with a first period touchdown when halfback Wray Carlton plunged over from the one to cap a 63-yard drive.

A Homecoming Day crowd of 26,000, saw Baylor, a 6-point underdog, capitalize on a break to score its touchdown in the third quarter. Duke center Ted Royal got off a bad pass from center over the head of Dutrow on fourth down, with Baylor taking over on the Duke 8.

On fourth down, quarterback Buddy Humphrey flipped a five-yard scoring pass to end Al Witcher. Halfback Arthur Beall kicked the extra point to give the Bears a 7-6 lead.

A few minutes later Duke launched its winning touchdown drive from its 39.

Dave Sime, Duke's famed sprint star, sow only brief action in the role of a "lonesome end." Only one pass was thrown to him and it was incomplete.

Baylor 0 0 7 0—7
Duke 6 0 0 6—12
Duke—Carlton 1 run (run failed)
Baylor—Witcher 5 pass from Humphrey (Beall kick)
Duke—Dutrow 16 run (run failed)

IN CONFERENCE TILT

Rice Owls Rout Razorbacks, 24-0

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—A rookie quarterback scored one touchdown and hurled a towering 36-yard pass for another to lead the Rice Owls to a 24-0 shutout over the Arkansas Razorbacks here Saturday.

Nineteen-year-old Alvin Hartman, a 6-foot-4 sophomore from Hondo, Tex., fell over the one-yard line to score the first Rice touchdown. With 50 seconds remaining in the half he arched a long pass to end Lester Veltman in the end zone for the second score.

Rice, winning its first Southwest Conference encounter of the season, had backs Pat Bailey and Larry Ducitt moving with ease through gaping holes in the Arkansas line. And through the air, Hartman and first unit quarterback John Schnable riddled the Porkers' pass defense.

Arkansas, showing no offensive power, never got closer to the Owl goal line than the 31 until the dying moments of the game when desperation passes moved them to the Rice 7 where the game ended.

Arkansas fullback Don Stone ripped off runs of 29, 20 and 18 yards for some personal luster, but the Arkansans never could sustain a drive.

The Owls began their rout midway in the first period when Bill Bucek kicked a field goal from the Arkansas 17.

Scoring ended in the fourth period when a Rice substitute back, Frank Smith, climaxed the final drive with a one-yard touchdown leap.

All of the Owls' one-point conversion kicks were good.

Rice 10 7 0 7—24
Rice—FG Bucek 17
Rice—Hartman run (Speer kick)
Rice—Veltman 36 pass (Spear kick)
Rice—Smith 1 run (Bucek kick)

Rutgers Blasts Spiders, 23-12

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—Rutgers came back bowlin' mad after a miserable first half Saturday to down Richmond 23-12.

Rutgers fumbled the ball away three times—once on the 18-inch line — in the first two periods while the Spiders corked up the Scarlets' dazzling star, halfback Bill Austin.

But Rutgers returned after the intermission with an unstopable razzle-dazzle offense to score the first three times it got the ball.

MEXICAN GRAPPLER

Viva Zapata At Kallio's Monday

Viva Zapata, no relation to Marlon Brando, blows into Kallio's Arena Monday night and pairs with Ronny Lee against Jack Curtis and Bill Barney in a tag team bout that share double main event billing with a return go between Gypsy Joe and George Curtis.

Zapata, despite his identification with the legendary Mexican hero, Emanuilo Zapata, is no hero. If he were, he would hardly be paired with such a villain as Lee, the curly-haired blonde grappler who makes enemies with a facility unmatched among local grunt-and-groaners.

Zapata is, of course, from Mexico. Whether he is going to wear his sombrero into the ring remains to be seen but he is reputed to be a fine wrestler and drawing card with or without it. He and Lee will be meeting two veterans of the trade in Barney and Curtis. Barney is the present Louisiana heavyweight champion and Curtis is a former titleholder.

Gypsy Joe set off a riot last week with his victory over George Curtis and the rioters and other fans are expected to be back tomorrow night to see him get the stuffings beat out of him. George is said to be mad enough to do it and it appears poor Gypsy is in for a tough night.

MISSISSIPPIAN

Nix Sparks Engineers To 21-7 Upset Of Tennessee

DAVID M. MOFFIT
United Press International

ATLANTA (UPI)— Frank Nix, a whizzing six-foot halfback from the Mississippi Delta country, came off the injury list Saturday to lead Georgia Tech to a 21-7 victory over Tennessee that brought back brief memories of the golden days of Tech razzle-dazzle.

Nix, a sophomore from Greenville, Miss., tight-roped 74 yards down the sidelines for the touchdown that kept Tech ahead all the way in an often-bruising defensive battle with the Volunteers from Knoxville.

The third period was Tennessee's, with sophomore tailback Billy Majors in full control. The Vols drove 18 yards after a Tech fumble for their only touchdown, then marched deep into Tech territory as the period ended. Fullback Carl Smith scored for Tennessee from the one with wingback Sam Burkoow converting.

But the fourth period was a complete reversal. Tech stopped Tennessee's drive, then struck back for two touchdowns to put the game out of reach.

Tech had nursed a mighty slim lead, helped with a first quarter field goal. Then came the last period turning point, just after the Tennessee drive was clipped.

A field goal attempt that would have given Tennessee a one-point lead was wide. Tech halfback Joe Delany quick kicked 72 yards on Tech's first play and Tech got the ball on the Tennessee 42 after the exchange.

The Yellow Jackets then drove 42 yards in five plays with sophomore halfback Ronnie Lewis going over from the 12 to put Tech ahead 15-7.

Several minutes later halfback Cal James returned a Tennessee punt 46 yards to the Vols' 17-yard-line and Tech needed just five more plays to score again with quarterback Fred Braselton sneaking across from the one.

The contest was a gruelling defensive battle between two hard charging lines. Tennessee gained only 29 yards rushing and 107 in all. Tech wasn't much better statistically with 152 yards, all but 16 on the ground.

Score by periods
Georgia Tech 3 6 0 12—21
Tennessee 0 0 7 0—7

Scoring: Tech—Field goal, Wells 24; Nix 74 punt return (kick failed); Lewis 12 run (kick failed); Brasel 1 sneak (kick failed). Tennessee—Smith 1 plunge (Burklow kick).

11TH STRAIGHT WIN

Middies Trounce Michigan, 20-14

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) —vived a sluggish Navy team in the second half and directed two brilliant touchdown drives to produce a 20-14 victory over Michigan Saturday before 82,220 fans.

The contest marked the Middies' first venture into the Big Ten since 1951 and stretched their unbeaten string to 11 games.

Tranchini, back of the week in Navy's triumph over Boston University last Saturday, used pinpoint passes and alert play-calling to pull the Midshipmen from behind with a pair of late touchdowns.

After leading a 67-yard march that pulled Navy to within two points of Michigan, Tranchini herded the Middies together for a spirited fourth quarter attack and passed to halfback Dick Zembrzuski for 36 yards and the winning touchdown.

Zembrzuski got behind two Wolverine defenders and was all alone at the Michigan 10 when Tranchini fired a perfect strike that brought a crushing defeat down on the Wolverines in their first meeting with Navy since 1948.

The touchdown pass climaxed an 85-yard drive. Michigan quick-kicked to the Navy 15 when it appeared the Wolverines were safely home with a 14-12 lead.

Tranchini got the decisive march under way with a razzle dazzle pass that gained 24 yards. He tossed to Joe Bellino who lateraled to fullback Ray Wellborn and the play got the Middies out of a hole.

Tranchini proved that his 18 for 27 passing performance against Boston was no fluke.

This was a Navy team that could not even gets its hands on the ball for most of the first half. It came to life later in the third period, driving 67 yards in 11 plays with Wellborn crashing over from the 1.

Michigan blew a chance at an insurance touchdown when the Wolverines gave up the ball on downs at the Navy 22. Later, the Wolverines chose to quick-kick and hoped their defense would contain Navy's backs.

Michigan ripped the Navy line apart in the third period, taking the kickoff and grinding off 76 yards in 10 running plays. Fred Julian, Brad Myers and Tony Rio took turns blasting the Middie defense and Myers went the final six yards for the score that dissolved a 6-6 tie. Quarterback Bob Ptacek ran over for two extra points and a 14-6 lead.

Tranchini wound up completing eight of 13 passes for 117 yards, most of the damage coming in the late going.

Navy 6 0 6 8—20
Michigan 0 6 8 0—14
Navy—Kanuch 10 pass from Tranchini (run failed)
Mich—Rio 1 run (kick failed)
Mich—Myers 6 run (Ptacek run)
Navy—Wellborn 1 run (pass failed)
Navy—Zembrzuski 36 pass from Tranchini (Zembrzuski run)

William & Mary Ties VMI, 6-6

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (UPI)—William and Mary battled back from a one - touchdown deficit Saturday and robbed Virginia Military Institute of its 11th consecutive victory by holding them to a 6 - 6 tie.

A crowd of 8,000 in the Coal Bowl saw the Keydets, defending Southern Conference champions, struggle vainly to score in the fading minutes.

Score by Periods
VMI 0 6 0 0—6
W&M 0 0 6 0—6

Scoring: WMI — Johnson 5 run (kick failed); W & M — Rubal 65 pass interception (kick failed).

Hutch Will Pilot Seattle In Coast Loop

SEATTLE (AP) — Freddie Hutchinson, fired by the St. Louis Cardinals, will return again to his old home town to manage the Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

Owner Emil Sick, for whom Hutchinson had been both schoolboy pitching star and manager in the past, made the announcement Saturday.

Sick had made a determined effort to obtain Hutchinson since the close of the coast league season, after his Seattle Rainiers finished last and Manager Connie Ryan departed by mutual consent.

Hutchinson will act as both field manager and business manager for the Rainiers, replacing Dewey Soriano in the latter capacity. Soriano, named minor league business manager of the year for 1955, took the lead in the hiring of Hutchinson and said he probably will bow out of the organization.

"I've fired a few managers, why not myself?" he said.

The salary and the time covered by Hutchinson' contract were not disclosed. When he managed the Rainiers to the coast league pennant in 1955 he held a three-year contract, from which he was released in order to accept the Cardinal job.

Sick had to compete with at least five other baseball organizations to obtain Hutchinson. It was known here he was contacted by Cincinnati, Baltimore, Detroit, the New York Yankees and Buffalo, N.Y. Not all were managerial offers.

Scheffing To Manage Cubs Next Season

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Scheffing Saturday was given a one - year contract to again manage the Chicago Cubs in 1959.

Contract terms were not disclosed but Cub Vice President John Holland said, "We all feel that Bob did a fine job in 1958 and our appreciation was shown in his 1959 contract."

Scheffing guided the club to a tie for fifth place, their highest finish in six years. He became Cub manager in 1957.

After contract signing, Scheffing, off for his home in Arizona, said, "The club made a better showing in 1958, but we won't be satisfied until we reward our fans with a pennant contender."

All four members of the Cub coaching staff, George Myatt, Freddie Fitzsimmons, Rogers Hornsby and Elvin Tappe, have been offered contracts for 1959.

Roberson organized S. and R. Gas Company, the fourth largest butane business in Louisiana, in 1944. The company now serves butane to 6,000 customers in 12 North Louisiana parishes. Headquartered in Coushatta, S. and R. has eight branch offices.

Awarded

Miss Anna Ruth Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knight, 2116 Gordon Ave., Monroe, and a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, has been awarded an honorable mention in a national contest conducted by Reed and Barton, America's oldest major silversmiths, this Spring, for high school senior girls all over the country.

In a drawing held recently in New York, her entry was selected to receive a "Spoon Pin" of her choice from Peacock's Jewelers.

Attends Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Seymour of Monroe, are attending the annual convention of the National Association of Insurance Agents in New Orleans.

Seymour is a member of the Louisiana Association of Insurance agents and the Ouachita Association of Insurance Agents.

Home Conference

George E. French of Monroe, staff manager of Life Insurance Company of Georgia, is attending a conference of staff managers at the company's home office in Atlanta this week.

He is among 30 men who have gathered from Life of Georgia's area of 11 southern states for the meeting.

RUSTON (Special) — Guy Baker, owner of the Dodge-Plymouth dealership in Ruston, has been elected a member of the Regional Advisory Committee for 1959.

Baker recently attended a preview showing of the 1959 cars at Atlanta in which more than 400 dealers attended.

Advisory Board

RUSTON (Special) — George L. Nicol, Ruston business man, has been appointed to the advisory board of the field advisers of the Small Business Association. He will represent Region 10.

Meetings of this group are held in Dallas. They have the responsibility of advising the regional director on loans and evaluating the program of the organization.

Nicol is a Ruston insurance agent, and he is chairman of the Louisiana Peach Festival, director of the Ruston State Bank and director of the Choudrant Bank.

Prize Winners

M. A. Smith and C. L. Smith, owners of the Star Shop, announced the prize winners during their formal opening in West Monroe.

The names that were drawn by Sandra Rich were: Jean Garvin, Lynn Barnett, Trois Pettigrew, Mrs. J. C. Luck, G. G. Stell, A. C. Greer, G. D. Jones, Herman Tressner, Glen A. Newcomer, Jr., and Geneva Telford.

Bonds Rebound Sharply From Week Before

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Government bonds rebounded sharply this week from 1958 lows established the week before. Trading was on the light side but solid gains of up to three full points made it the best weekly advance of the year for the government market.

The performance of treasury securities buttressed the faltering new financing markets but it did not help seasoned corporate bonds much. Investment quality issues and utilities continued to decline, although both braced somewhat on Friday. Industrials advanced while rails edged fractionally higher and foreign bonds were unchanged. The net result was a market slightly lower on balance.

Grain Shows Only Minor Price Changes

By EARL AYKROID
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Except for a few instances, grain futures on the Board of Trade finished the week with only minor price changes from a week ago.

Actual export business together with expectations of additional foreign demand attracted buying of December and March wheat deliveries and these contracts were up nearly two cents for the week. The distant new crop months ended fractionally lower.

The only other contracts to register more than fractional changes were those of rye. Except for the nearby December delivery, rye futures dipped for losses ranging up to more than two cents at the end of the week.

At the close, wheat was 1¾ higher to ⅜ lower than Friday a week ago. Corn was ¼ higher to ⅜ lower; oats ⅛ higher to ½ lower; rye unchanged to 2½ lower, and soybeans finished ¼ higher to ⅛ lower.

Prices the whole week fluctuated with traders acting mainly on daily news developments. The market had no definite trend and there was no incentive for any positive action.

BLONDIE
BY CHIC YOUNG
I DON'T HAVE TO GO TO THE OFFICE UNTIL NOON BECAUSE I WORKED LATE LAST NIGHT
IF YOU'D USE A TRAY YOU WOULDN'T HAVE TO MAKE SO MANY TRIPS TO CLEAR THE TABLE
HERE--LET ME SHOW YOU THE CORRECT WAY TO USE THAT VACUUM
NOW LET ME GIVE YOU SOME TIPS ON THE MOST EFFICIENT WAY TO MAKE A BED
YOU COULD SAVE YOURSELF A LOT OF TIME IF YOU'D IRON BOTH SLEEVES AT ONCE
WELL, IT'S TIME FOR ME TO GO BACK TO THE OFFICE
WAIT'LL I CHANGE MY DRESS--I'M GOING WITH YOU
WHAT'S THE IDEA?
YOU'LL SEE

TO BE EFFECTIVE, A MUNICIPAL POLICE FORCE MUST BE WELL-ARMED. OFFICERS, KNOW YOUR WEAPONS AND THEIR CAPABILITIES.

THANK YOU FOR SAVING ME, SEÑOR WUNBROW.
REMEMBER, MISS EGGHEAD, I DID NOT COME HERE TO PLAY HERO, BUT TO MAKE YOU MY PRISONER.
AND AS MY PRISONER, YOU WILL TAKE ORDERS FROM ME.
IF WE BOTH LIVE THROUGH THIS, YOU CAN EXPECT TO FACE THE ELECTRIC CHAIR.
I'M REMOVING THE HANDCUFFS. YOU'RE ON YOUR OWN NOW TILL CONDITIONS IMPROVE.
SEÑOR WUNBROW, WHERE CAN WE EXPECT TO GO ON THIS?
ANYWHERE FROM HERE TO THE SARGASSO SEA.
I OFTEN WONDERED WHAT GOOD PURPOSE THESE MASSIVE SPANISH DOORS SERVED. NOW, I KNOW.
MEANWHILE, DICK TRACY AND SUPT. WHITEHALL ARE BEING RELEASED FROM A CUBAN HOSPITAL—MEDICAL SERVICES
REALLY—IS THAT ME?
WHITEHALL, I FEEL WE SHOULD INTRODUCE OURSELVES ALL OVER AGAIN, NOW THAT WE'RE BOTH SHAVED.
RIGHTO.
WE'RE READY TO GO, OFFICER PAREZZ. WHAT'S THE LATEST?
THE STORM STILL RAGES, BUT I RECEIVED A PHONE CALL THAT MAY BE IMPORTANT.
A CONVER PLANE HAS BEEN WASHED UP ON A SUGAR CANE PLANTATION SOUTH OF HERE.
A CONVER?
"WHAT'S SO UNUSUAL ABOUT THAT?" ASKS TRACY.
"JUST THIS," SAYS PAREZZ, "ALL PLANES HAD BEEN ORDERED OUT OF CUBA PRIOR TO THE HURRICANE."
"FURTHERMORE, THE CUBAN AERONAUTICAL COMMISSION REPORTS THE NUMBERS ON THAT PLANE ARE PHONY."

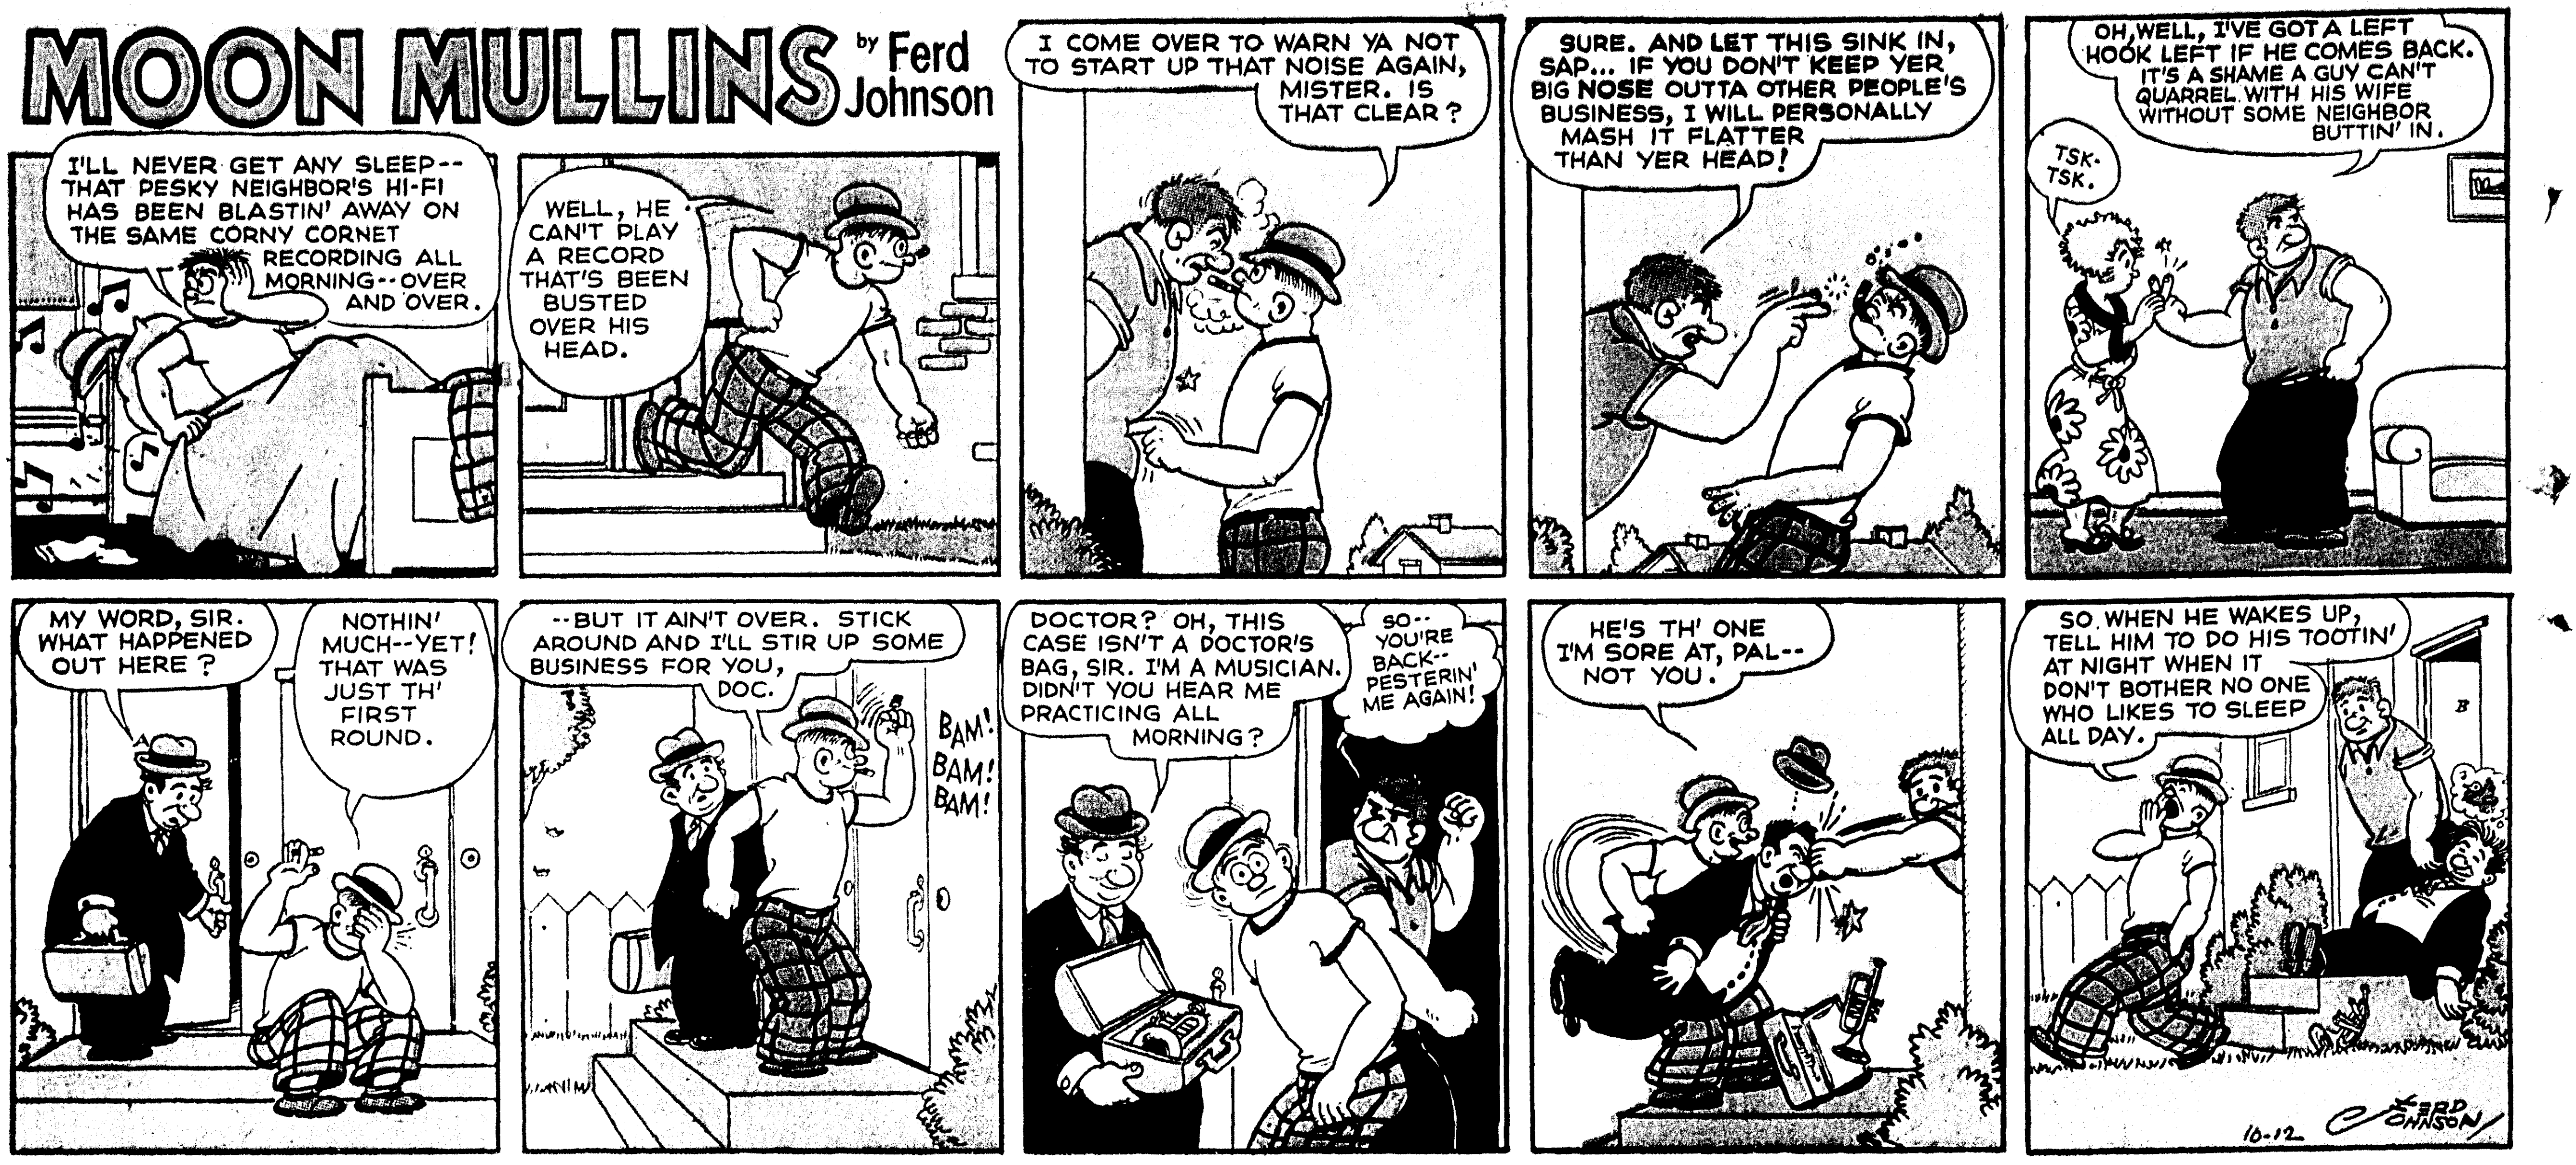
MOON MULLINS

by Ferd Johnson



I'LL NEVER GET ANY SLEEP-- THAT PESKY NEIGHBOR'S HI-FI HAS BEEN BLASTIN' AWAY ON THE SAME CORNY CORNET RECORDING ALL MORNING--OVER AND OVER.
WELL, HE CAN'T PLAY A RECORD THAT'S BEEN BUSTED OVER HIS HEAD.
I COME OVER TO WARN YA NOT TO START UP THAT NOISE AGAIN, MISTER. IS THAT CLEAR?
SURE. AND LET THIS SINK IN, SAP... IF YOU DON'T KEEP YER BIG NOSE OUTTA OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS, I WILL PERSONALLY MASH IT FLATTER THAN YER HEAD!
OH, WELL, I'VE GOT A LEFT HOOK LEFT IF HE COMES BACK. IT'S A SHAME A GUY CAN'T QUARREL WITH HIS WIFE WITHOUT SOME NEIGHBOR BUTTIN' IN.
TSK-TSK.
MY WORD, SIR. WHAT HAPPENED OUT HERE?
NOTHIN' MUCH--YET! THAT WAS JUST TH' FIRST ROUND.
--BUT IT AIN'T OVER. STICK AROUND AND I'LL STIR UP SOME BUSINESS FOR YOU, DOC.
BAM! BAM! BAM!
DOCTOR? OH, THIS CASE ISN'T A DOCTOR'S BAG, SIR. I'M A MUSICIAN. DIDN'T YOU HEAR ME PRACTICING ALL MORNING?
SO-- YOU'RE BACK-- PESTERIN' ME AGAIN!
HE'S TH' ONE I'M SORE AT, PAL-- NOT YOU.
SO WHEN HE WAKES UP, TELL HIM TO DO HIS TOOTIN' AT NIGHT WHEN IT DON'T BOTHER NO ONE WHO LIKES TO SLEEP ALL DAY.

MY STARS, BROTHER! WHERE'VE YOU BEEN? WHAT HAPPENED?
I'VE BEEN IN A FIRE.
"BUT WHERE?"... "WELL, YOU SEE, I WAS IN THE BARBERSHOP!...
ARE YOU GONNA WATCH "DARING NED AND THE CANNIBALS" ON TV TONIGHT, SAM?
NOT ME! THAT PROGRAM'S TOO CHILDISH FOR EVEN MY 7-YEAR-OLD KID.
BUT HERE COMES "SIMPLE" SIMON... HEY, SIMP, YOU EVER WATCH "DARING NED AND THE CANNIBALS" ON TV?
HIT'S MY FAVORITE PROGRAM.
And NOW, Kiddies, another thrilling adventure of Daring Ned.
OBOY, SIMP, AM I GLAD I FOUND YOU! I NEVER GET TO WATCH DARING NED AT MY HOUSE BECAUSE MY LITTLE GIRL ALWAYS WANTS TO WATCH "MY PAL POOCHIE."
AH NEVER MISS OLD NED, NO, SIREE!
SIMP, AH SMELLS SMOKE!
Bum, Biddy, Bum, Bum!
BE QUIET, WOMAN. CAN'T YOU SEE WE'RE WATCHING NED AND THE CANNIBALS.
LISTEN! THE JUNGLE DRUMS!
THE KITCHEN'S ON FIRE! COME QUICK!
Whoop! Whoop! We catchum long pig!
JUST A MINUTE, HONEY!
RUN, NED! RUN!
10-12
HELP! THE HOUSE IS BURNING DOWN!
JUST A MINUTE, I SAID! THEY'RE ABOUT TO CAPTURE NED!
OH, MY GOSH! THEY'VE GOT HIM!
Biff! Bam! Lickety Whop!
HELP! SAVE MY HUSBAND!
"FORTUNATELY, THE PROGRAM ENDED JUST BEFORE THE ROOF CAVED IN."
BUT OLD SIMP HAD THE PRESENCE OF MIND TO SAVE HIS TV SET. YOU KNOW, BABY SISTER, HE'S NOT HALF AS STUPID AS PEOPLE THINK.
IF YOU ASK MY OPINION, I THINK YOU'RE BOTH A COUPLE OF JUVENILE, ADDLEPATED IDIOTS!

STEVE CANYON
MILTON CANIFF
"LOOK, SAVANNAH, I THINK YOU'RE A GREAT ACTRESS AND A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN!
BUT I STILL HAVE AN ASSIGNMENT TO DO! TONIGHT I'M TALKING TO SOME HIGH SCHOOL BOYS IN BAYPORT ABOUT APPLYING FOR APPOINTMENT TO THE AIR FORCE ACADEMY—
MAYBE I COULD HELP YOU!
THANK YOU, BUT THIS IS NOT EXACTLY YOUR DEPARTMENT!
LATER
AND SO, GENTLEMEN, THE NEED FOR HIGHLY TRAINED REGULAR AIR FORCE OFFICERS IS OBVIOUS. THEY WILL COME FROM GROUPS SUCH AS THIS...
ARE THERE ANY QUESTIONS?
COL. CANYON, ALL OF US MUST DO OUR MILITARY SERVICE, BUT I'D PREFER A LESS AUSTERE ATMOSPHERE IN WHICH TO GET MY COLLEGE DEGREE!
ME TOO!
THAT ACADEMY SOUNDS SORTA GRIM!
STEVE! STEVE CANYON!
WHY—THAT'S SAVANNAH GAY —THE MOVIE STAR...
YOU'RE RIGHT!
COL. CANYON IS HOLDING OUT ON YOU GENTLEMEN! —HE DIDN'T TELL YOU THIS...
BEFORE THE ACADEMY WAS MOVED FROM LOWRY A.F.B. IN DENVER, THE LOCAL GIRLS WERE DRIVING UP IN THEIR OWN CARS AT 3 P.M. EVERY DAY TO MEET THE CADETS DURING THEIR FREE TIME!
THERE ARE A DOZEN GOOD GIRLS' SCHOOLS NEAR THE PERMANENT SITE...
THE CHICKS WILL BE FIGHTING TO VISIT THAT SKY-VY LEAGUE COLLEGE!
JUST TAKE THIS ACADEMY LITERATURE HOME WITH YOU AND REMEMBER WHO GAVE IT TO YOU!
I'LL LOOK FORWARD TO PINNING LIEUTENANT'S BARS ON SOME OF YOU WHEN YOU'RE COMMISSIONED IN THE AIR FORCE!
LUCKY THING THIS 'ISN'T MY DEPARTMENT,' COL. GULCH!...
... IF I WERE A GOOD RECRUITER, IT MIGHT START THE BOYS HITCHHIKING TO COLORADO SPRINGS IN THE MIDDLE OF THE NIGHT!

Moon Ship 74,750 Miles In Space

Destination Of Space Craft Is Said Uncertain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's "Pioneer" moon rocket shot into space Saturday on an epoch-making flight that broke the barrier of gravity for the first time but failed to find a path to the moon.

Less than 15 hours after its predawn launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Air Force rocket had streaked 67,830 miles into unlimited space - a new altitude record for a man - made vehicle.

But the Defense Department said the Pioneer had veered too far off course to reach the "near vicinity" of the moon and go into the hoped - for orbit. Its ultimate destination was uncertain.

MILESTONE

The Pioneer ranks with Russia's Sputnik I earth satellite as a milestone in man's attempted conquest of space.

The latest position report, almost a third of the projected 225-000 - mile trip to the moon, indicated the rocket might be slowing down or perhaps striking a course more parallel to the earth.

Shortly after it roared off the Canaveral launching pad at 4:42 a. m. EDT, the Pioneer was clocked at 25,000 miles an hour. by 7:47 p.m., it was making about 3,000 mph.

Between 4:47 p. m. and 8:09 p.m., the rocket covered some 2,830 miles.

Nevertheless, the "Pioneer" was regarded as a tremendous scientific achievement and a giant step for the United States in the race for space.

It was the first man- made object to break the bonds of gravity and it had climbed higher than any previous man made vehicle.

The history - making Pioneer was fired from its Cape Canaveral, Fla., launching pad at 4:42 a.m EDT.

After studying reports from tracking stations, the Air Force concluded the Pioneer had gone too far off course to come within 50,000 miles of the moon, the proximinity needed for a successful moon shot.

The odds were 10 to 1 against this achievement, and Air Force scientists were uncertain of the rocket's ultimate destination. They said it would depend on the still unfired fourth - stage "retro rocket" which originally was intended to give it the boost into orbit.

The projectile zoomed skyward at 25,000 miles an hour shortly after the launching, with all three rockets firing in sequence. The first stage, however, apparently flew straight up too long before

Didn't Kill Wife; Scared Dozen Women

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The man who threatened to kill his wife has announced that he never intended to carry out the threat. But he scared a dozen women.

The man originally wrote anonymously to Sheriff Owen W. Kilday early last week, saying he would call the sheriff's office at 2:30 a. m. Friday to give the victim's name and would then carry out the death threat at 3 a. m.

But nothing happened. Friday the sheriff received a letter apparently from the man, saying he had never intended to murder anyone and that he had only wanted a "witness" to his wife's infidelity.

GOOD WITNESS

"What better witness can a man have than the sheriff himself?" the man asked in his second letter.

In the first letter he had averred that his wife, the mother of his three children, had left him and was expecting a child by another man.

After a report of the letter was published, more than a dozen women inquired at the sheriff's office. Five of them said they answered the description and circumstances of the letter-writer's wife. Officers investigated four husbands but failed to find one who had made a threat.

In the second letter, the writer said, "Now you know how many men are in my position and what might happen if the law isn't enforced. I understand that adultery is a crime as well as a sin."

Nike Hercules Launchers Are Fixed In East

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — U.S. Army missilemen installed the first of their Nike Hercules launchers on a mountaintop near Taipei Saturday and began assembly of the atomic - capable ground-to-air rockets.

Across the Formosa Strait, meantime, the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu braced for an anticipated resumption of Chinese Communist attack when the Red ceasefire ends Sunday midnight.

UPI Correspondent William Miller reported from Quemoy City that soldiers and civilians will go into their underground tunnels, caves and dugouts early Sunday night.

American and Chinese military authorities said the big guns, troops and supplies which poured into Quemoy during the weeklong lull in the Red "artillery blockade" had made the islands stronger than ever.

Radio Moscow Tells Of Shot

LONDON (AP) — Radio Moscow made its first mention of the American moon rocket in a brief broadcast this afternoon, five hours after the launching.

An English-language broadcast beamed to southeast Asia said a Pentagon spokesman had announced the launching of the rocket, "which continues to fly in the direction of the moon."

GRAVEL DISPUTE

Long Warns Demo Party On Ouster

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Gov. Earl Long warned the national Democratic party Saturday it's hard enough to raise party funds in Louisiana without the fuss over national committeeman Camille F. Gravel Jr.

The committeeman without a state lost his job Wednesday when the Democratic State Central Committee booted him out for his support of the national party stand on civil rights.

National chairman Paul Butler immediately sprang to the defense of Gravel, high in party councils, saying he would remain despite the state ouster.

And Gravel insists he will not resign under any circumstances.

Long, who opened the gates for the Gravel ouster by segregationists by permitting the central committee to be called into session, broke his silence after the party action.

"If the national Democratic party is anxious to keep the party together," Long said, "it is hard to understand why it would recognize a man whose thinking is out of line with that of a majority of the Democrats in Louisiana."

Long saved the national party's face in Louisiana when the state bolted to the States Rights cause in 1948. After States Rights Democrats blocked a place on the ballot for the Truman-Barkley ticket,

Reds Extend Best Wishes On Moon Shot

LONDON (UPI) — A Soviet official in London Saturday extended "all good wishes" to the United States on the launching of a moon rocket — and promptly began discussing Soviet successes in the space field.

The spokesman, a diplomat at the Soviet embassy, said the Russians "are not particularly interested at this juncture in efforts to probe the moon's orbit.

(His remark did not jibe with comments by Soviet scientists in Moscow after the launching of Sputnik I on Oct. 4, 1957. At that time, several Russian space experts said they were working on a rocket flight to the moon.)

"The Soviet Union, having got rockets back to earth with dogs aboard," he said, "is concentrating at present on the problems of exit and re-entry into the atmosphere and the effects on metal and life."

This was a reference to the Soviet claim last August that two dogs had been fired into space and successfully returned with no ill effects.

'GREAT INTEREST'

The Soviet diplomat added that the Soviet Union was "watching the American activity with great interest."

Throughout the day, however, there was no comment from the Soviet Union itself.

The first mention of the American moonshoot by Radio Moscow came in an english-language broadcast beamed to southeast Asia at 9:30 a.m. EST.

The broadcast, not heard in Russia, quoted a United Press International report from Washington on the successful firing.

Western European scientists cheered the launching of the rocket as a milestone in man's conquest of space.

Kenneth Gatland, vice chairman of the British Interplanetary Society said a successful orbit around the moon would mark "the crowning achievement of modern science."

Prof. H. S. W. Massey, chairman of the committee which directs Britain's rocket research program called it "an extraordinary feat."

FROM MOON SHOT

Rich Dividends Will Be Reaped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The moon rocket Pioneer launched from Florida in a major scientific achievement Saturday will not come close to the moon but still may return rich dividends in space data.

The Air Force, which had hoped to put the tiny craft within 50,000 miles of the moon, confirmed Saturday night earlier indications that the rocket had strayed from the planned course.

On the basis of the latest analysis of data received from the Pioneer's position in space at 4:45 p.m. (EST), the Air Force said it will not reach "the near vicinity of the moon."

A short time earlier it had been reported that at 3:47 p.m. EST Pioneer had reached an altitude of about 65,000 miles.

MISS TARGET

The Air Force announcement did not define what it meant by the "near vicinity of the moon. But it seemed certain that the Pioneer would miss its target by more than the 50,000-mile figure which the scientists had aimed for.

The Air Force said project scientists were making analyses to determine the best time to fire the fourth stage retro rocket in the payload "to provide a final path that would continue to provide the most valuable scientific data."

If the Pioneer had been successful in reaching the vicinity of the moon it had been planned to fire this rocket so as to slow it down and perhaps enable it to go into orbit around the moon.

"By interrogation of the command communications system, position and velocity data, radiation, micrometeorite, magnetic field measurements, internal temperature levels, and Pioneer spin rate data have been received on a continuous basis," the Air Force said. "The TV camera has not yet been activated."

Lofted from Cape Canaveral, Fla. at 3:42 a.m. (EST), the 85-pound space craft electrified scientists around the world by hurtling far out on its trail - blazing trip through the celestial void.

Twelve hours after starting its flight, the moon rocket was about 65,000 miles out in space and slowing down rapidly, although that was expected. Its three-stage takeoff zoomed the rocket up to a speed of about 25,000 miles an hour to tear it loose from the earth's main gravity field.

Unemployment Compensation For Vets Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new unemployment compensation program for veterans with peacetime military service goes into effect Oct. 27.

The Labor Department announced Saturday several states have signed agreements to participate in the plan and said the others are expected to sign before the effective dat.

The program is based on a new law passed by Congress. Its purpose is to help servicemen and women adjust to civilian life by providing some money to live on while looking for a job.

Benefits will be provided for weeks of unemployment after Oct. 27 on the same basis as idled workers are paid benefits under state unemployment compensation laws. These benefits presently average about $31 a week.

To be eligible the ex-serviceman must have started military service after Jan. 31, 1955, the official end of the Korean War, or if he started service before then cannot have been discharged before Oct. 27, 1958.

States will act as agents of the federal government in distributing the benefits. They will provide jobless protection to the estimated 2,800,000 present members of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, bringing the number of workers with unemployment insurance to 45 million.

States and territories which had signed participating agreements with the federal government by last Wednesday included:

Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Texas.

Fire At Tallulah Claims 2 Lives

TALLULAH (Special) — A predawn blaze swept through a 4-room Negro home here yesterday, killing two occupants, rendering the house practically a total loss, and causing slight damage to an adjoining two-story garage apartment.

Fire Chief Whit Erwin identified the victims as Clarence Bell, Jr., 22, and his son, Flozell Doyle Bell, age 4.

Death was pronounced due to suffocation but both Negroes also suffered burns, the chief added.

Erwin said he believed the fire originated with a cigarette.

Other occupants of the flat, which was owned by Lonzo Williams, Negro, were the Cleve Stuart family, Alberta White and John Hooper.

The alarm was received at 4:20 a.m. and firemen battled the blaze until shortly after 5 a.m.

Hazy Skies Seen For Monroe Area

Hazy skies and slightly cooler temperatures are forecast for the Monroe area today and tomorrow.

Readings yesterday were 75 and 58, compared with Friday's 76 and 62. The latest pollen count available is Friday's recording of 199 grains per cubic yard of air.

Arkansans may expect cloudy skies without much change in temperature today and tomorrow.

'Fantastic' Possibilities Are Advanced

Might Hit The Moon 10 Years Later

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Pioneer, history's first moon rocket, might not even come close to the moon Monday but might hit it 10 years later.

The rocket might even orbit the moon indefinitely to welcome the first satellite of a satellite in our solar system.

Or the moon might "jar" the rocket, losing it in outer space forever.

These are but a few of the "fantastic" possibilities say scientists of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory.

Almost perfect precision in launching and timing would be needed to have the rocket circle the far side of the moon as planned, they point out.

ROCKET AIMED

Launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 3:42 (EST) Saturday morning, the rocket was aimed at a spot in space the moon will occupy in approximately 2½ days, about noon Monday.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, associate director of the Smithsonian observatory, says launching of the rocket, whether it gets near the moon, is already a "stupendous" achievement.

The rocket might orbit the moon and the earth a thousand times for the next 10 years, he says. Eventually the rocket might succumb to the web of the moon's weak gravitational pull, or the six times stronger tug of the earth.

If Pioneer travels too fast in its celestial rendezvous with the moon it could miss altogether or be deflected "back" towards the moon, circle the satellite and orbit back towards earth making a figure-eight pattern in space.

Final Hours Of Red Cease-Fire Are Waited Out

TAIPEI (AP) — Nationalist China waited out the final hours of the Communist-proclaimed seven-day cease-fire in Formosa Strait.

Under the silent Red guns, the Nationalist garrison on Quemoy has been solidly strengthened by new troops, heavy cannon and more supplies than it had before the firing began Aug. 23.

Evacuation of up to an estimated 6,000 civilians from Quemoy and Little Quemoy to Formosa was in its final stage late Saturday. The stream of refugees—mostly elderly persons and children was attempting to beat the Sunday midnight deadline, when the firing might resume.

For the third straight day cargo ships, including two merchant freighters and two LSTs—landing ships tank—stood off Quemoy beach and pumped ammunition, oil, barbed wire, blankets and foodstuffs into the island. Those waiting to be evacuated boarded the cargo ships after supplies were unloaded.

Nationalists officials have repeatedly expressed the belief the Reds will start shooting again when it suits them.

REASONS GIVEN

Why Is America Trying For Moon?

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) —Why are we reaching for the moon?

We will find no life there. On that, all scientists are agreed.

The moon has no life-giving atmosphere. It is too hot for survival on its bright side and too cold on the dark side. An eternal curtain of dust hangs over the orb.

But a trip around the moon, even by a robot satellite, would mark man's first linkup of the planets, a scientific stride rivaling the harnessing of the atom.

Furthermore, reconnaissance of the moon would unravel secrets of our own beginning.

The moon and earth have traveled in space together since the creation of the solar system as we know it. Many scientists believe that they sprang into orbit from the same solar explosion, two vast chunks hurled into perpetual juxtaposition more than 200,000 miles apart.

But the earth, due to its greater density and retention of heat, became molten at one point. The heavy metals sank to the center and hardened into an inaccessible core. A thick crust of sand and rock formed around it and the minerals found in this crust are, relatively speaking, rare.

Many astronomers, but by no means all, believe that the moon shook off its solar heat and never melted. Therefore it conceivably

'Pioneer' Veers Too Far Off Its Course To Moon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force reported Saturday night that the Pioneer moon rocket had climbed to an altitude of 74,750 miles above the earth as of 8:45 p.m. CST.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—America's moon rocket hurtled through space Saturday night on an epoch-making flight, but the Air Force disclosed the "Pioneer" payload will not reach the "near vicinity" of the moon.

Although the lunar probe is well beyond 65,000 miles from earth, the Air Force said it veered too far off course to come within 50,000 miles or less of the moon-the proximity needed for it to be a successful moon shot.

The Air Force said scientists were not seeking to determine the best time to fire off the small "retro" rocket carried by the lunar probe. This rocket, mounted ahead of the probe "package," was intended to kick the Pioneer into the moon's gravitation field.

PIONEER IS AIRBORNE

GREAT STRIDE

The television camera carried aboard the Pioneer had not been activated, the Air Force added.

Man's first great stride toward the stars was taken early Saturday when the Pioneer broke free of the earth's gravity pull and headed thousands of miles farther into the unknown between the planets than any man - made object before it.

Despite the fact the payload did not reach its goal of orbiting the moon, free flight through space was achieved for the first time in history.

The Air Force Ballistic Missile Division in Los Angeles, in the latest report on Pioneer's position, said the 75-pound payload had traveled 45,300 nautical miles from the earth. If it follows a proper course it should arrive in the vicinity of the moon late Monday afternoon.

Even in the chilly hours before dawn, when knots of observers tipped off by the "cape grapevine" began arriving on the beach there was the sense that this was to be an historic day.

Jury Trying To Decide On Liquor Case

ABERDEEN, Miss. (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury tried Saturday night to reach a verdict in the liquor conspiracy trial of six persons.

The jury returned to the courtroom for instructions three times before taking supper and going back for further deliberation. The case went to the jury at 4:14 p.m.

The government pinned much of its argument on testimony by informer Floyd Leahman and his wife, Margaret. Counsel for the defense hammered at the couple's testimony as a major part of their case.

Accused of conspiring to violate federal internal revenue liquor laws were Urmond Floyd Bond of Handsboro; Ramsey Cameron of Hancock County; Mrs. Joyce Humphries and her father, Isaac Kelly of Mobile, Ala.; Wesley Ladner of Harrison County, and Buck Wagner of Forest. They were among 14 named in an indictment.

TESTIFIED

Leahman testified under questioning by the government that he has a criminal record including attempted smuggling of aliens and theft of government prop

He claimed he became an informer for the government soon after beginning work for Al C. Roberson of Handsboro, named in the indictment but not yet on trial.

He said Roberson was a supplier of whisky and most of those named in the indictment were

Accord Reached On Commodities For Area Needy

After a final conference Friday with agricultural officials in Washington, Congressman Otto E. Passman said in Monroe, Saturday, "it was definitely agreed that surplus food commodities will be distributed to distressed families in the fifth district."

Passman pointed out that "many farm families in the district are suffering severe losses in their cotton crops as a result of recent gushing rains."

The congressman said the commodity distribution program will be put into effect on Nov. 1 or shortly thereafter.

Commodities presently available for the program are dry milk, cheese, corn meal, rice, flour and butter.

The same officials who handled the program during a previous emergency will handle it during this emergency, Passman said.

Passman declared that he would continue to work unceasingly to see that the program is effective in helping "unfortunate citizens who need this type of help." He said the program would eliminate "much hardship in the district."

Passman returned to Monroe Friday night after a round of conferences with agricultural officials in Washington. Earlier, he had completed a Far Eastern inspection tour.

READIED FOR THE MOON TRIP — The Air Force rocket bearing the satellite, Pioneer, is poised on its pad shortly before launching early yesterday from the Missile Test center to probe the area around the moon. hardware, took to the skies right on the target schedule—at 3:42 a.m. EST—the feeling grew that if couldn't fail.

Up and up, borne by a blazing gold ball of exhaust, climbed the big white moon bird. As it reached several thousand feet the deep throb of its main stage rocket engine reverberated down the beaches.

Far into the dark, clear night the glow traveled until Pioneer appeared to take a place among the stars. Then, just before it vanished after two and a half minutes of flight, a blue glow bathed the pinpoint of exhaust. This marked the ignition of the second stage, and separation of the first which fell far out at sea from a height of 50 miles.

Even the three successful Explorer satellite launchings and the one good Vanguard had not set the beach so abuzz. Veteran observers, many of them missile workers at the cape, slapped each other on the back and exclaimed, "Boy, wasn't she a beauty!"

Two hours after launching, with Pioneer already thousands of miles on its way, Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of the Air Force Missile Test Center here, had his day.

Some 120 reporters and photographers broke into spontaneous applause when the handsome general, wearing an open collar, ap- four top officials of the moon shoot.

The press remembered how Yates had stood aside when the Army scored with its Explorers and the Navy with the Vanguard. He also had been the man in the middle of some notable Air Force failures, especially the first moon rocket that exploded only 10 miles away Aug. 17.

With Yates were Brig. Gen. Ossie Ritland, deputy vice commander of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division; Dr. Robert Bennett, of the Space Technology Laboratory (STL) on the West Coast; Dr. Louis Dunn, president of the STL, and Dr. Abe Silverstein, director of the space development of the new National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which had overall control of the project.

Dunn gave the first hint that the moon rocket might not be spinning out right on course. He said that the first stage "programmed high," meaning that it did not roll over to the northeast as soon as expected, and that the desired velocity — reported to be 25,000 miles an hour — was not quite obtained at the point of escape from the earth's gravity clutch.

But, whether they reach the moon or not, the test directors showed obvious satisfaction that they had made the big breakthrough.

The rocket already had achieved one of its three main goals—"proper powered flight performance" — from its three main stages. The second stage, a modified version of the Navy Vanguard second stage, was still an "experimental device" before today. The first stage was the Air Force's oft-tested Thor intermediate range ballistic missile.

The third stage had never been flight tested, but being a solid propellant device less complicated than the volatile liquid fuel rockets, the designers were pretty sure it would work. The third stage also was from the vanguard program, an advanced version of the solid-fuel rocket that shot one tiny satellite into orbit.

Another main goal was to obtain scientific data on the 221,000-mile flight to the moon and about the moon itself. The third goal was to achieve enough control over a rocket's trajectory to place the scientific payload in the vicinity of the moon, say within 40,000 miles where it could orbit the lunar sphere.

For its faraway mission, undreamed of not so many years ago, the payload contained 39.6 pounds of instruments. These included an ion chamber to measure cosmic radiation that has become the main hazard in proposed manned space-travel; a magneometer to assess the moon's magnetic field, a crude television scanner which could send back an idea of what the moon's always hidden dark side looks like, and a device to measure the density of meteorite particles encountered on the journey.

A final punch in the payload was a so-called "retro" rocket forming the core of the doorknob-shaped robot. This was to be fired if and when the Pioneer moved close to the moon with the idea of easing it into an orbital path.

could hold vast treasures in mineral deposits close to its crater-pocked surface.

Instruments aboard a satellite approaching within even a few thousand miles of the moon could probe its dust-shield and, by taking magnetic readings, indicate the composition of the moon's surface.

If the moon, like the earth, should have put a crust around its metallic core, that crust would be more like the one originally created than the crust of the earth has been since the dawn of history. The surface of the earth has been deluged, covered by sandstorms, eroded and distorted by earthquakes over the centuries.

The moon in its eternal airlessness, has stood in space like a hothouse—or an ice house, depending on which side you look at it.

For that reason, man has taken great care in his first reach for the moon not to contaminate it. The moon rocket was not supposed to strike the moon face-on, but there was a possibility of lunar collision with the robot or its third stage. So the moon rocket got an ultra-violet ray bath to sterilize it before launching.

Hard Rains Pose Texas Flood Threat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hard rains in its watershed sent the Rio Grande on another rise Saturday and posed flood threats to Brownsville and Matamoros in the Lower Valley.

Heavy rains fell above the big Falcon Reservoir along the lower Devils River, a tributary that meets the Rio Grande near Del Rio. This water sent the boundary stream to a 15-foot noon crest at Eagle Pass.

Downstream, Laredo had 1.62 inches and Falcon itself 1.81. The Weather Bureau said high stages could be expected along the Rio Grande from Langtry to Falcon.

This prompted the International Boundary Commission to increase releases from Falcon from 23,000 to 26,600 cubic feet a second—and still the reservoir picked up 30,000 acre-feet of water Friday night.

The Brownsville Weather Bureau said the river below the dam would reach flood stage of 18 feet by Monday at Brownsville and precautions should be taken there and in neighboring Matamoros in Mexico. The river at Brownsville stood at 17.7 feet Saturday.

Rio Grande City braced for a stage of 15.1 feet Sunday and 15.6 feet Monday. Mercedes expected 21.8 feet Sunday and 22 feet, one foot above flood stage, Monday.

Falcon itself was a gargantuan lake sprawled over 96,912 acres. The reservoir held a record 3,258,280 acre-feet of water.

Elsewhere, rains fell at such scattered Texas points as Plainview, Lubbock, Midland, Waco and Brownsville.

Plainview measured only .10 inch but it stopped cotton and grain Sorghum harvest.

The cool front that had embraced all the state sent temperatures as low as 57 in the afternoon at Wichita Falls. Before dawn Saturday, the mercury dipped to 43 at Dalhart high in the Panhandle.

Other rainfall for 24 hours ending at 6 p.m. Saturday included Abilene .24 inch, Austin .69, Brownsville 1.04, Corpus Christi .14, Laredo .95, Midland .63, San Angelo 13, San Antonio .75, Waco .23, Wichita Falls .18, Beeville .01, Cotulla 1.37, Junction .34, Big Spring .20, Del Rio .14 and Llano 1.30.

Maximum temperatures Saturday ranged from 64 at Waco to 87 at Laredo.

U.S. To Have Auto Grand Prix For First Time

PARIS (UPI) — The United States will have an automobile Grand Prix like those of the European countries for the first time in 1959, the Sports Committee of the International Automobile Assn. announced Saturday.

The committee, meeting here, said that the U. S. Grand Prix using the formula No. 1 (up to two and a half liter without supercharged engines) would take place on the Sebring, Fla. race track next March 22.

The Americans will thus open the racing season since the Argentine Automobile Club has declined to organize its Grand Prix next year because of the financial side of the operation.

The second grand prix, also rating for the world driving championships, will be the Monte Carlo one on May 10. The Indianapolis 500 race, also rating for the title, will take place on May 30.

The following day the Grand Prix of the Netherlands will be run in Holland, thus preventing competitors from taking part in both races.

gravity out in space slowed the rocket down after this initial burst of speed, however, and at the 65,000 mile distance it was down to a velocity of approximately 3,000 miles an hour.

The smooth precision of the Air Force launching, after failure of the first attempt two months ago, drew cheers from scientists around the world. Prof. Alfred Lovell, in charge of the world's largest radio telescope at Jodrell Bank, England, called it "an amazing achievement" even though the rocket was off course.

The huge Jodrell Bank telescope was one of several tracking stations that zeroed in on Pioneer's epochal flight to heights never before achieved.

LAUREL, Miss. (AP) — Two Laurel men pleaded guilty to the armed robbery of a football stadium ticket booth Sept. 10 and were sentenced to seven years each in state penitentiary.

Charles Edward Webb and Denver Hickson, both in their 20s, begged the mercy of the court and circuit Judge Lunsford Casey pronounced sentence immediately.

The men were charged with holding up the ticket booth and fleeing with $145. Hickson was identified as the gunman and Webb as driver of the get-away car.

Rocket Tracking System Worldwide

By JACK LEFLER

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—A worldwide tracking system swung into feverish action today as the moon rocket shot into space.

Picking up signals from the moon-bound missile's powerful transmitter, far-flung stations relayed the information to an awesomely complex data reduction center in Inglewood.

From the center is coming the world's first lunar travelogue.

The hub of the tracking network is operated by the Air Force ballistic missile division.

Its ears are ground tracking stations at Manchester, England; Singapore; Hawaii; Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., and Millstone Mountain, N. H., and nine widely scattered minitrack stations of the Naval Research Laboratory.

The Hawaii and Singapore stations were built especially for this project.

The Manchester station uses the huge radar telescope at Jodrell Banks which recently tracked the Vanguard satellite at distances up to 2,500 miles.

These ground stations are receiving telemetry data from the rocket. They record it on magnetic tape. Information on the missile's position is transmitted to the Inglewood headquarters. Tape data will be sent by plane.

A 40-member team headed by Lt. Col. Donald Latham and Dr. G. E. Mueller mans the Data Reduction Center of Space Technological Laboratories here.

As the messages come in from the tracking stations, mathematicians take the individual reports, convert the various time designations to a standard figure and check for errors in transmission Then the figures are transferred to computer punch cards.

Now the lightning-fast IBM electronic digital computer takes over. It is the heart of the entire operation.

It digests the facts and figures and produces the answers in rows of figures.

These figures tell the experts where the rocket is in relation to earth and moon.

The data center has two-way contact with each of the five principal stations. These points communicate with each other by conference calls.

The Naval laboratory's minitrack stations are at Ancon, Peru; Antigua, Leeward Islands; Antofagasta, Chile; Cotopaxi, Ecuador; Grand Turk, Bahamas; Johannesburg, South Africa; San Antonio, Cuba, Havana, Cuba; Woomera, Australia, and Santiago, Chile.

They transmit their reports to the Air Force Missile Test Center, Cape Canaveral, Fla. The information is relayed to Inglewood.

The rocket has a small television-type, infra-red scanner to relay pictures back to earth. The five major tracking stations are equipped to receive this transmission on magnetic tapes.

Experts say it will take a lot of analysis before a picture of what the rocket "saw" can be constructed.

Everyday Life Art Elements Show Theme

COLUMBIA (Special) — Art in everyday life was the theme of the third annual Caldwell Parish Art Festival held yesterday in the Community Center here.

There were over 500 entries in the painting and crafts categories of the event as well as several entries in the seven divisions of needle work.

DISCUSSIONS

During the judging of the entries, visitors to the festival—conceded to be the largest of its kind in the state — heard talks by Miss Jeraldine Beck of Shreveport, who spoke on writing for publication; Judge V. M. Mouser —the value of libraries; Robert H. Evans of Monroe — family participation in art; Amos Lee Armstrong — compiling and illustrating family histories; Beuford Jacka, Monroe — architecture and history; a dramatic reading by Lallage Feazel, and a slide lecture on art in European travels by Miss Elizabeth Bethea, head of the Art Department at Louisiana Tech. A style show directed by Mrs. Wooten Morris and Mrs. Jim Sherman was held following the noon hour.

Using five abstract paintings as examples, Robert Evans, Monroe industrialist explained how he and his family had been brought into closer contact through the search for something pleasing to put on the walls of a new home.

Moon Rocket May Assume Earth Orbit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Scientific checks on the progress of the moon rocket indicated Saturday night that instead of flying straight out into space it may be assuming a path more in orbit to the earth.

The rocket gained only about 2,800 miles in distance from the earth between 3:47 p.m. EST and 7:09 p.m.

In midafteroon the rocket was about 65,000 miles out in space and in the latest reports its position was figured at 67,830 miles in space.

The difference of about 2,800 miles was by far the smallest gain in altitude of any of the position reports released by the Air Force.

Officials at the Pentagon speculated that this might mean that Pioneer was beginning to flatten out into a position more in orbit to the earth rather than continuing its flight directly into outer space.

Statistics On Rocket To The Moon

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Vital statistics of Saturday's moon rocket:

Total weight—52.2 tons.

Total height—88.1 feet.

First stage—Standard Air Force Thor intermediate range ballistic missile; weight more than 50 tons; thrust approximately 150,000 pounds; liquid fuel.

Second stage — Modified Vanguard second stage as used in Thor - Able tests with addition of high spin rockets. Liquid fuel ignites automatically on contact with oxidizer; weight more than two tons, thrust about 7,500 pounds.

Third stage — Advanced Vanguard third stage; solid fuel engine; stage together with payload covered by streamlined nose cone cover to be jettisoned after second stage separation; weight more than 400 pounds, thrust about 2,500 pounds.

Payload—Contains solid propellant "terminal" rocket (termed the fourth stage by the Air Force) in nose to brake vehicle when approaches lunar gravity; instrumentation package contains batteries, telementry, ion chamber to measure radiation and electronic scanner. Telementry includes measurement of meteorite density, earth and moon magnetic fields and thrust chamber of terminal rocket to determine if it fires; weight of payload 85 pounds; instruments, 25 pounds, thrust of terminal rocket 3,000 pounds.

REWARD OFFERED

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Dr. Themistocles Dervis, Greek Cypriot mayor of Nicosia, Thursday night offered a $14,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the gunmen who shot and killed an Englishwoman and wounded another in Famagusta last week. It was the first time in Cyprus' crisis that a Greek Cypriot official has appealed to the population to provide such information.

Gravel's Removal

The removal of Camille F. Gravel as national Democratic committeemen from Louisiana came as no surprise either to those who opposed him or to his supporters. The vote had been closely predicted in advance, Mr. Gravel's backers saying they would be pleased to get 32 votes for his retention. They fell two votes short of that number, the vote being 69-30 for removal.

Probably the person most hopeful that he would remain in office was Mr. Gravel himself. He made a dramatic plea and apparently was so convinced of the justness of his position that he thought he might sway enough votes to enable him to hold onto the office. There was no indication that his talk changed any votes, so firmly were the opinions of the members of the Louisiana Democratic executive committee fixed in advance.

Mr. Gravel's principal plea was that he had a right to his own beliefs on what is morally wrong or right. This contention was not challenged and in a free country such as the United States it could not well be challenged. The committeeman's right to his own beliefs was conceded but that was as far as it went.

It happened that Mr. Gravel's beliefs were directly contrary to those of a big majority of the state committee. This being true, he could hardly expect the committee members to want him to represent them on a matter considered so vital in the south. If an officeholder's opinions differ greatly from those of his electors or constituents, he faces the choice of espousing the wishes of those whom he represents or of turning that task over to some one else. He has a free choice, but he must not expect to continue to be the envoy of the people whose opinion he opposes.

Mr. Gravel contended after the vote that the ouster means nothing and that the national Democratic committee will not accept the Louisiana committee's action. Opponents dismissed this argument, asking, "If Gravel doesn't represent the Democrats in Louisiana, who can he represent?"

The showdown will come in December when Jett M. Talbot, Bernice businessman, who was elected to succeed Mr. Gravel, presents his credentials to the national committee.

The move to oust Mr. Gravel drew support from nearly all of the various political factions in Louisiana. Those supporting the ouster included:

Gov. Earl K. Long, whose supporters on the committee went almost solidly against Mr. Gravel; W. M. Rainach, segregation leader, who is almost always at odds with Gov. Long; N. B. Carstarphen, Caddo parish Democratic leader and former state committee chief, who always is on the opposite side of the political fence from Gov. Long; Leander Perez, Plaquemine parish czar and bitter enemy of Long, and Sam Jones, former governor, who also is opposed to Long.

Rep. John Sidney Garrett of Haynesville, who introduced the motion to relieve Mr. Gravel of his duties, said the committeeman "has been tried, convicted and condemned of treason by the words of his own mouth. In his integration views he does not represent the people of Louisiana. His job was to represent the people of this state, not to come back here and tell the people he represents the national Democratic party. We have given him a year to get in step with the people and defend, rather than destroy, our customs and traditions. He has not done so."

This statement about sums up most of the opinion on Mr. Gravel's position.

Russia's Joker

As usual, Russia seems to be holding a joker in its proposal for an international agreement to end atomic firing tests. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said Russia is planning to continue the tests until the number of firings made by the Soviet Union equal the number of firings made by the United States and England combined.

This is Russia's "nice way" of saying that country intends to continue its atomic advancement while the United States and England stand still. It wants an equal number of tries so that it can equal both the United States and England in atomic know-how. One trouble with this plan, however, is that if each test produces a certain amount of knowledge, Russia would know more than either the United States or England. That is the kind of agreement that nation is looking for—one that will give it an advantage.

There is the further proposition that an equal number of tests might not give an equal amount of knowledge, since Russia has the advantage of having stolen or acquired a good deal of information from the United States and England and might, therefore, be able to make better use of the tests than did those countries in the earlier stages.

The whole thing is a little like sopping up molasses with hunks of cornbread. First you have a little too much molasses and then a little too much cornbread.

If we wait until the amount of knowledge and the number of experiments on atomic power come out exactly even, we will never reach an agreement to end the tests, especially if Russia wants knowledge and tests equal to the combined total of two other countries.

There is one good thing about Russia's lion's share proposals for ending the tests. It probably means that the United States won't be lured into a tricky agreement, as it might be if Russia should offer what seemed to be a fairer proposition.

What reason is there to think that either nation would not use atomic bombs if we were to go to war?

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Conservative Republicans Are Supporting Knowland

Much depends upon the next election, for it is a forerunner of 1960 when a new President is to be elected. The Democrats believe that there is a trend toward them and that they will carry both New York State and California which in practical terms could eliminate both Richard Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller as Republican possibilities. It is now generally taken for granted that Nixon will be nominated on the Republican side, but it is also assumed that if Nelson Rockefeller is elected governor of New York in 1958, he will seek the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

Republicans are anxious to elect William Knowland as governor of California because that will arrest the trend in that state toward the Democrats. The conservative Republicans are anxious to have Knowland elected because he represents constructive thinking in the United States. Also, if Knowland is elected governor of California, there can be no question as to Nixon's nomination by the 1960 Republican convention.

The Republicans are also anxious that Senators Barry Goldwater and George Malone should be re-elected to the United States Senate because they represent the kind of Republicanism which regards New York as a warren of confusion.

Enormous sums of money are being poured into Arizona and Nevada to defeat these Republicans. Much of that money comes from New York and some from Washington. It is labor money and liberal money, often contributed by bankers who have not yet discovered that they cannot control the United States through their enemies any more than through their friends. Although occasionally they can effect a fix, the smart politician stays away from them because Wall Street is like a sieve where everybody knows what everybody else is doing. Anyhow the combination of labor racket money and Wall Street money often hurts a good man. It did Senator Pat McCarran.

The campaign in most parts is too costly and too dull. The reason is television. Party workers are not too excited about television because they like to be seen by a candidate, to shake his hand, to hope that he will remember each one. Television is cold light in a smoke-filled club room. The voter might listen to a politician on television but that depends somewhat on what else is on. Nevertheless, television is now the fashion and it is very expensive and politicians find it troublesome to raise all the money they need for it.

This not only affects the great men who are running for governorships or for the United States Senate, but also the local candidates who in the growing cities find it difficult to ring door bells and kiss babies but who nevertheless hope that they can reach the eyes and ears of their constituents.

As there are few issues to discuss, all candidates resort either to ad hominem arguments or to dodging the issue. For instance, the bankers and the big industrialists generally favor peace at any price because they fear that they will be eliminated in the next war by the ferocity of government controls. However, the course of events is so rapid and decisions have to be made so quickly that no one has the time or inclination to bother to ask their opinions. Perhaps one reason that John Foster Dulles is not too popular among the Wall Street bankers and the cafe society repeaters of "well-informed sources," is that he, who for decades professionally advised these men, has no time or inclination to listen to their advice. The Wall Street mind no longer plays a great role in American politics.

In the peculiarity of the 1958 campaign, these are factors that need to be considered. Issues have been eliminated. Of course, the South has segregation, but it also has a one-party system. It is difficult to distinguish between a so-called liberal and a so-called conservative in either party, except that when a candidate's liberalism conforms to a certain pattern, he is likely to be endorsed by the ADA (Americans for Democratic Action), a Social Democrat group that infiltrates both major parties. No great foreign issues have arisen among the parties, except that the Democrats say that the Republicans do everything all wrong and the Republicans still believe that the Democrats are responsible for Soviet Russia stealing the atom bomb.

So what is there to talk about?

Illegal Narcotics In U.S. Continue Major Problem

Despite Congressional investigations, continuous crackdowns by law enforcement agencies and new laws to curb its evils, illegal narcotics in the United States is still a major National problem.

While the dope situation may not be hopeless it is certainly desperate and shows no signs of improving.

In terms of dollars the cost of fighting the dope menace runs high. In terms of human misery the cost is incalculable. We have 60,000 drug addicts in this country — more than all the western Nations combined. And since World War II traffic in illegal narcotics has tripled.

Tragically, 13 per cent of all the addicts in the United States are under 21. Equally startling is the fact that 50 per cent of all crime in U. S. cities can be traced to drug addiction.

This vicious problem is being attacked on many fronts but the results are not too heartening. There are only two Federal hospitals for treating addicts — at Fort Worth, Texas, and Lexington, Kentucky — and they are doing all they can. But at best they can only handle about 1,500 addicts together.

There are two distinct schools of thought on how to lick addiction. One group, relatively small, believes that narcotics should be legalized. In this way the addict could come out of hiding and receive proper treatment and rehabilitation, they say. This also would eliminate the criminal aspect of the problem since the peddler would have no customers and the addict would not have to steal or commit other crimes to get money to buy drugs. But a much larger and equally vocal group feels this would only pamper the addict, simply make it easier for him to perpetuate the habit.

Federal Narcotics Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger holds no brief for the dope peddler or pusher. Only stiff prison sentences — or even the death penalty in extreme cases — will wipe out traffic in illegal narcotics, he believes. He points to a number of cities where penalties have been increased and the traffic has gone down proportionately.

Congress felt much the same as Anslinger in 1956 when it passed a bill providing a no-parole 40-year sentence as the maximum penalty for dope peddlers on their third conviction. This same bill calls for the death sentence for anyone convicted of selling narcotics to a person 18 years old or under. No one so far, however, has been handed such a sentence.

The 1,000 - bed U. S. Public Health Hospital at Fort Worth has facilities for treating about 500 addicts and as many neuro-psychiatric patients. At Lexington about 90 per cent of the 1,200 beds are set aside for treatment of addicts. Since it opened in 1935 Lexington has treated more than 55,000 addicts and Fort Worth has handled more than 11,000 in its 20-year history.

Extremely discouraging is the fact that less than 15 per cent of the addicts who have been treated at these hospitals remain free of the habit after they are discharged. One out of every three addicts returns for another "cure.' About 40 per cent of the admissions to Lexington and Fort Worth are repeaters. This is one of the disheartening aspects of the problem for it a cure can't be found in a hospital where can it be found?

About two - thirds of the addicts admitted to the two Federal Institutions go there on their own volition and the remainder are committed. But only 25 per cent of those who go voluntarily remain for the recommended minimum treatment period of four-and-a-half months. A recent study shows that 50 per cent of the remaining 50 per cent leave before a month has passed. This is hardly enough time for doctors to study their individual problems let alone help them to break the addiction. Only the one-third admitted under court order are forced to stay in the hospital for the prescribed course of treatment.

Hospital officials say many addicts have been in and out of the Fort Worth and Lexington hospitals as much as 20 and 30 times, but never staying long enough at any one time to be cured of the addiction. This is expensive for the hospital and does little for the addict or his community.

One of the shortcomings in the federal program is the absence of a follow-up system for supervising addicts after their release from the hospital. When the Senate investigated the narcotics situation it was discovered that hospital authorities know nothing of what happens to two out of three discharged addicts.

Narcotics officials believe the period immediately after an addict leaves the hospital is just as important as the time he spends in the institution. Reason for this is that the addict is subjected to the same forces which caused him to use the drugs in the first place. Improperly supervised he can easily fall back into his old habits and the vicious circle is begun all over again.

Views Of Our Readers

FAVORS MAJORITY

Editor, World:

I think the time has come for the American people to assert their right for a majority rule in government. Although the executive branch, the Senate and Congress knew that polls taken were 65 per cent of the people were against foreign aid and the mail was 10 to one against they ignored this and only gave a small cut, and, according to the Congressional Record three Louisiana Congressmen voted for foreign aid.

And again we see the majority rule ignored by the decision of the Supreme Court, the Justice Department, and the President himself by enforcing these decisions on the people. Gov. Faubus ran on a ticket against forced mixing of the races and was not against mixing them where it was found that a majority of both the white and Negroes were for it. As we all know, he was overwhelming elected, and in the Little Rock school district where a majority of both the white and Negro voters rejected forced race-mixing. The Supreme Court demands that the President enforce their decision on the people and he agrees. Heretofore we have only known of minority rule in countries ruled by dictators. This should give us a clear picture of what is to come.

And in order to get rid of this confused and dangerous situation we must remove the cause. We should demand that our government sever diplomatic relations with Russia and her satellites and abolish the UN and UNESCO, where the Communists operate unhampered under the guise of diplomatic immunity.

And we should remind the Senators and Congressmen that they are not elected by the executive branch of Government, the lobbyist or by votes of foreign nations, and that we expect them to pass some bills that will correct the present situation, with no loop holes.

Such as curbing the powers of the Supreme Court and to protect the union dues paid by the members from graft and waste by dishonest officials, also pass the bill introduced by Ralph W. Gwin, which would get the Government out of competition to private enterprise. It is estimated that the sale of surplus enterprises owned by the government would bring 50 billion dollars. This applied on the national debt, would reduce the interest on this amount, and private enterprise would pay taxes whereas we have to pay taxes to support them.

The warning flag for higher taxes has already been raised by Senator Bush, a modern Republican, and more will follow, unless we let them know that we expect them to cut out the waste in Government agencies and abolish other agencies where they duplicate others.

116 Rescued At Sea Brought To Hong Kong

HONG KONG (UPI)—The U.S. cruiser Helena, flag ship of the mighty 7th Fleet, arrived here Saturday with 116 passengers rescued in a "spectacular" helicopter airlift from a Norwegian ship that ran aground on a reef in the South China Sea.

All but one of the survivors were Chinese, en route to Singapore after visiting relatives in Communist China. The exception was an Englishman who boarded the ill-fated 3,405 - ton motorship Hoi Wong at Hong Kong before it went to Red China.

The Hoi Wong ran aground Monday on the Bombay Reef near Paracel Island about 400 miles south of Hong Kong. Hong Kong tugs made two futile attempts to free it before the skipper called for American aid.

In response, the Helena broke off gunnery practice in Subic Bay in the Phillipines to race to the rescue. Steaming at top speed, the cruiser reached the stricken ship Friday.

Vice Adm. Frederick N. Kivette, commander of the 7th Fleet, said two Navy helicopters made 27 flights to pick up the passengers and ferry them to safety aboard his flagship.

"The rescue was spectacular," he said during the Helena's four-hour stopover to disembark the passengers. "It certainly was the biggest helicopter rescue anywhere."

NYLON AND HOGS

LONDON (UPI)—The authoritative British medical journal. The Lancet, said Friday that hair brushes with nylon bristles might be one cause of baldness. It cited cases of persons losing hair who said they used brushes with nylon bristles and that hair growth returned to normal when they switched to old - style brushes with hog bristles.

BY DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Mercury Leads Road To Heaven

The relationship between mercury poisoning and pink disease (acrodynia) came to my attention recently when a 2½ year old English tot acquired the disorder from mercurized lawn sand. The material had been spread on the lawn to kill unwanted moss. Several days later, rain washed the treated sand into the earth.

Meanwhile, the child played on the lawn and naturally put everything into his mouth, including the weed killer. The youngster developed symptoms of acrodynia, a condition that is rare in this country since the use of teething powders and worm medicines containing mercury became obsolete.

Pink disease was well named because the tiny victims develop pink, painful hands and feet along with a scarlet tipped nose and red cheeks. They perspire profusely, become extremely irritable, rub their hands and feet because of intense itching, and bury the face in a pillow to shut out light that hurts their eyes.

The manifestations become progressively worse unless the disorder is brought under control. Skin ulcers form, teeth and nails loosen, and pulse and blood pressure increase. These youngsters are thoroughly miserable and, unless given help, do considerable damage to the skin and nails.

The situation may persist for months or even a year or two. This was true before mercury was suspected as the cause. Bal is a good antidote, provided treatment is started early.

The tot needs a good nurse to apply soothing lotions and encourage eating so that strength will be maintained. Sedatives foster sleep and liver extract and vitamin B hasten cure. The outlook is good and the majority recover completely, with no residual deformities or abnormalities.

MOUTH CANKERS

Mrs. R. writes: My 16 year old son has repeated canker sores in his mouth and throat. Four to five come at a time, usually the size of a dime. He tried eliminating fresh fruits from his diet but this has not helped. Have you any suggestions?

Reply

This is a stubborn problem because the cause of these lesions is not known. Neither is there a treatment that works in all cases. Two new remedies are worth trying. One is the application of an antibiotic such as tetracycline. The other is a tablet containing hydrocortisone, dissolved slowly in the mouth. The latter was used by two Oxofrd physicians on 52 patients, with encouraging results. Prescriptions will be needed for both remedies.

HYSTERECTOMY

Mrs. K. writes: Is hysterectomy done only for cancer?

No. Most women undergo the operation because of fibroids of the uterus. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on hysterectomy.

PAINTING AND PREGNANCY

Mrs. Y. writes: Are pregnant women particularly susceptible to the fumes of paint?

Reply

Yes — and to many other unpleasant odors. Pregnant women are likely to be squeamish and easily nauseated.

RAISED METABOLISM

F. T. writes: Can a plus 26 basal metabolism cause shortness of breath?

Reply

Yes, provided the increased metabolism is adding to the work load of the heart.

RUBELLA IS BETTER

Mrs. K. writes: Is three day measles the same as German measles?

Reply

Yes. The technical name of this infection — rubella — is preferred because German measles is entirely different from ordinary measles.

Two Shades Seen In Republicanism

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. — It takes all kinds, not just both kinds. Here in the green-and-golden Shenandoah Valley, the GOP is sending up two U. S. Senators — both conservative but unequally so.

Chapman Revercomb, 63, is courtly and a little ponderous. But he has a rare political appeal. It is the pleasant gift of bestowing his own sense of dignity upon every man he meets. Revercomb could be called the Leaning Tower of Fundamentalism. He believes in all the established virtues of politics and philosophy, but he bends with the prevailing winds. Once an upright and nearly inflexible conservative, he has acknowledged the strength of the left-blowing tempest and found some sound authority in it.

"I'm going to vote liberal or vote conservative, depending on what's good for the country," the Senator told me in this city. "For a man to be hidebound is not to give the best public service, and not to meet the challenges of the times."

Domestically, Revercomb thinks it is all right for the Federal Government to move in on local education, building the schools and subsidizing the teachers and students, and to take over from families and localities the care of the aged and ill. Federal spending on public works is the right way to stimulate the economy, and the Federal Supreme Court (rather than State legislatures) has the final say on eligibility to practice law. In foreign affairs, Revercomb has become a reluctant convert to entangling alliances, to emergency-always aid and to deficit spending.

Revercomb is a Modern Republican, but he is far from being immoderate in his modernity. On a number of key votes which involved aiding Communist Yugoslavia and Poland, defining the Supreme Court's jurisdictional powers, and protecting American industries in foreign trade, he voted against the Administration. There's not any doubt that he yearns for "normalcy" and would be an Old Guardsman in a different phase of history.

Jack Hoblitzell, the junior Senator at 45, is the short, spare, unyielding ramrod of conservative principles. Where Revercomb bends with the wind, Hoblitzell stands like a buffer against it. He has worked since college days on civic committees to improve schools, prisons, public financing and State responsibility. He does not love teachers, students and old folks any less than Revercomb. He has probably given more time and energy to them. But Hoblitzell is against hollering "Uncle" over every local problem. He's for every community supporting its own to the limit of its ability. Despite these strong convictions, the junior Senator is no man of malice.

"My Democratic opponent, Jennings Randolph, is a good fellow and a fine gentleman," Hoblitzell told me. "But he was a New Deal Congressman who voted for TVA, NRA and in 1946 for drafting the railroad workers. I'm against him on all these principles, and I want to stand or fall on the points I'm making. If I get licked, I want it to be on principle, because I won't fish for votes on both sides of the issues. As to Organized Labor, I don't complain about its political activities. But I complain and strongly condemn the business interests for a lack of political activity. Let's take this fight to the voters."

Both of the Senators think that President Eisenhower is dead right in his armed support of the American position in Lebanon and Quemoy. Both voted together on nuerous points of Fundamentalism in the last session.

Each is a man of the highest character. Each represents a characteristic shade of Republicanism. It would be instructive if the November results were a true measure of the public response, but no science is more inexact than politics. The election will reflect personalities as well as issues, completion as well as ideology.

Senator Revercomb, a two-time State-wide winner, is up against a Democratic stripling, Congressman Bob Byrd. Senator Hoblitzell, a fill-in appointee of young Governor Cecil Underwood (R), is a small businessman of undeniable merit but he has never been to the polls as a contestant. Against him goes a seven-term and once-defeated Congressman in Jennings Randolph, a businessman, too, and a Statewide personality.

Who can predict how the many balls will bounce?

Warning: Don't Put Your Arm Out A Car Window

BATON ROUGE (AP) —Don't stick your arm out the window of a moving auto.

Hardy Lee Branton last night found out the terrible truth of this advice.

Branton's left arm was broken off between the elbow and shoulder by a passing pickup truck last night. Police said it happened on State Route 44, 3½ miles below Gonzales.

The 38-year-old Convent man was treated at Baton Rouge general hospital.

Officers said Branton was driving south, while the truck driven by Joseph O. Cloautre, 56, Gonzales, was northbound when the two vehicles swideswiped.

Destination Of Space Ship Is Said Uncertain

tilting at an angle to the earth.

This pointed the remaining stages at too high an angle to reach the vicinity of the moon.

No one seemed able to answer a question about the fate of the rocket if it continued on into space.

The Pioneer's payload, a 39.6 pound package of scientific instruments, was equipped, among other things, to take a crude TV picture of the face of the moon always turned from the earth.

But even if it failed in its mission of orbiting the moon and scanning that body's unseen side, Pioneer had made history.

Besides escaping the strong pull of gravity and achieving a record height, its other instruments were sending back vital information that will help pave the way for space journeys by man himself.

Announcement that the rocket was definitely off course came at 3:05 p.m. The Pentagon said it might take "the next few hours" to determine its exact course.

A too - high trajectory would mean the moon already had passed the point of rendezvous when the robot arrived there.

If the course and timing were right, the rocket was to drop into an orbit around the moon when the last of its four stages — a retro - rocket — was fired late Monday by radio signal from Hawaii.

At that time the moon would be 222,250 miles from earth. It was 223,000 miles away at Saturday's launching.

The rocket payload contained 39.6 pounds of scientific instruments.

The Defense Department said some of the early data beamed back showed that the total radiation level encountered as of 11:47 a.m. had not exceeded four roentgens per hour. A roentgen is a unit of radiation. Atomic industrial workers are permitted to receive no more than three-tenths of a roentgen per week.

Launching of the moon rocket at Cape Canaveral went off without a hitch.

When Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, commander of the Air Force Missile Test Center at the Cape, appeared for a news conference some two hours after launching, some 120 reporters and photographers broke into spontaneous applause.

The 12:45 p.m. announcement said:

"The Pioneer was about 52,000 statute miles above the earth at 11:47 p.m. EST.

"Another first has been achieved in this historic flight in that scientific data is being reduced and almost simultaneously distributed for use."

But even if Pioneer failed to achieve an orbit around the moon, its history - making flight free of the earth's gravitational pull put the United States a giant stride forward in the race into space.

The achievement came one year and one week after Russia beat this country into space by launching the first earth satellite.

At Ann arbor, Mich., Prof. Sidney Chapman, head of the International Geophysical Year, hailed the feat as "a great achievement and a considerable step towards putting a man on the moon."

At the time of firing, the moon was 223,700 miles from the earth. Late Monday, when Pioneer is supposed to reach its goal, the distance would be 222,500 miles.

The Pentagon said all the scientific instruments aboard Pioneer were "operating extremely satisfactorily."

"The collection of information on the magnetic field of the earth, the number of micrometeorites being encountered in flight, the radiation intensity and the internal temperature of the Pioneer are being continually received," it said.

An hour after the rocket was launched, the Pentagon announced Pioneer had broken free of the earth's strong gravitational grip.

Five big tracking stations around the earth and nine Minitrack stations kept up with Pioneer's progress. Their data was funnelled to the space technology laboratory in California.

The tracking during the early part of the robot's flight was done by England's Jordell Bank radio telescope at Manchester and by the Millstone Hill radar station in Massachusetts.

A great feeling of exultation swept the Defense Department as it became certain the rocket had fired successfully and was on its way.

Air Force Chief of Staff Thomas D. White called the feat "this most significant milestone in man's penetration of the space frontier."

The White House said President Eisenhower, spending the weekend at his Camp David, Md., mountain retreat, was not awakened to be told of the successful launching. But press secretary James C. Hagerty said the President was kept "fully informed" later in the morning by Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, White House staff secretary.

After the launching, the Pentagon disclosed that additional instruments had been put into Pioneer to measure radioactivity along the entire course to the moon rather than only in the vicinity of the moon.

It also disclosed that the satellite was thoroughly sterilized with chemicals and radiation before firing. It said this was done "in an attempt to prevent contamination of the moon's surface" should Pioneer hit it directly.

Episcopalians Elect 'Middle Of Roader'

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The Rt. Rev. Arthur C. Lichtenberger, 58, of St. Louis, Mo., a "middle of the road churchman" Saturday was elected presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

He was elected on the third ballot at a secret session of the Episcopal House of Bishops. His election, by a majority vote of the 146 bishops, was ratified a short while later by unanimous voice vote of the House of Deputies, lower chamber of the Episcopal General Convention which is holding its triennial meeting here.

He will assume the church's highest office Nov. 15, succeeding the Most Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill of Boston, who has reached retirement age. Under church law, a presiding bishop remains in office until age 68.

MISSIONARY

Lichtenberg, a native of Oshkosh, Wis., has been Episcopal Bishop of Missouri since 1952. He previously had served as a China missionary, rector of parish churches in Cincinnati, Ohio, and Brookline, Mass., dean of Trinity Cathedral in Newark, N.J., and professor at General Theological Seminary of New York.

At a news conference following his election, he described himself as a "middle of the road churchman", meaning that he tries to steer a middle course between "high church" Episcopalians, who lean toward Catholicism in ritual and doctrine, and "low church" Episcopalians who are aggressively Protestant in orientation.

Lichtenberger was one of three bishops whose names were proposed for presiding bishops by a nominating committee. The others were the Rt. Revs. Everett Jones, 56, of San Antonio, Tex., and Harry Kennedy, 57, of Honolulu, Hawaii.

Six other candidates were listed on the ballot by nominations from the floor earlier this week. They were bishops Stephen F. Bayne, 50, of Seattle, Wash.; Austin Pardue, 59, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Richard S. Emrich, 48, Detroit, Mich.; Oliver S. Hart., 66, Philadelphia; Noble Powell, 66, Baltimore, Md.; and Henry Louttit, 55, of Miami, Fla.

Registration In Miss. Told

ATLANTA (UPI) — The U. S. Commerce Department said Saturday that about one in every three residents of Mississippi had a motor vehicle registered in his or her name this year.

The department said there were 665,000 vehicles registered in Mississippi and the state has an estimated population of 2,185,000.

on Abraham Lincoln, is author of a poem on the troubled situation in Little Rock. Here it is:

Set My Evenings Free

"As soon as I open my mouth
They know that I hail from the South
And then the fun begins.
As experts in racial relations
Who've been South for weekend vacations
Dissect my section's sins.
"With a wit that's sharp and brittle
They attack the Rock that's LITTLE—
Bring them a Faubus to slay
While a zealot loudly preaches
He knows everything ain't peaches
Away down Georgia way.
"Every drink will make them surer
That their native North is PURER—
So tolerant and good,
Till at evenings end they wander
To their houses here and yonder
In their All White neighborhood."

Recovering

Mrs. Paul Martin reports that her husband, executive sports editor of the News-Star—World who underwent a major operation last week, is making a good recovery. She wishes to thank all who have been so kind to him in his illness. They have done so much, she adds.

Also Grover Dunn, of the printing department of the same papers, is fast recovering and all have been most kind and considerate of him. Thanks are extended by his family. Both men are on the fifth floor of St. Francis Hospital.

Award

A. D. Jackson, one of several paper mill employees who received 25-year service awards recently, probably has a distinction over most other persons employed that long. Jackson, who lives 611 North Fourth street in West Monroe, worked 25 full years in the local paper industry without losing a single days work due to illness.

Jury Trying To Decide On Liquor Case

contacted by himself while working with Roberson.

Government agents and Mrs. Leahman backed various parts of his testimony.

The defense attacked Leahman's testimony as that of a man with a record whose word could not be relied upon.

Leahman claimed on the stand that he delivered whisky for Roberson and made various contacts for him.

Mrs. Leahman testified she and her husband went to Wagner's home, spent some time there and she described the house and its furnishings. She said also Mrs. Wagner sold beer in cases and cans from a storeroom to persons who called at the house.

Wagner, his wife and Wilbur Walters, who described himself as a Baptist supply pastor and Scott County native, testified for the defense.

Wagner denied he knew any of the other persons indicted, other than James Clarence Crimm, who lived nearby. He said he may have seen one of the others when the man called at his home asking directions to the Crimm home. He disclaimed any knowledge of Roberson or any contact with him.

Mrs. Wagner testified they own a light green 1955 Ford car, and denied they had a blue and cream 1956 Ford brought into testimony. Walters backed up her testimony about the car owned by the Wagners and gave character testimony for Wagner, whom he said he had known all his life.

Suffocates In Pile Of Cotton

DREW, Miss. (AP) — Jimmy Godwin, 10, suffocated in a pile of loose cotton Saturday while his parents were in New Orleans to attend the Mississippi - Tulane football game.

Coahoma County officers said the boy was dead when friends found him in the cotton pile.

Neighbors said he and his playmates were warned against playing in the loose cotton but Jimmy crawled back into the pile to retrieve money he had dropped.

Long Warns Demo Party On Ouster

Long summoned a special legislative session so the national party could be restored.

He supported Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson in 1952 and 1956.

"It takes quite a bit of money," Long said, "to keep the party going in the various states and to meet the quota of the national organization.

"This is, at best, not an easy task," he emphasized, "particularly in a state where there is no two-party system at the parish and state levels.

"Were Mr. Gravel to step aside, a committeeman in good standing probably could go a long way toward accomplishing this important goal in raising party funds."

Long reiterated he has nothing personal against Gravel, saying he had "turned against both the colored and the white people of this state, playing one against the other."

The governor cautioned national Democratic leaders, "the Democratic party ceases to be democratic when it attempts to force a state to keep as committeeman a man rejected by the majority."

Gravel was the top national party link with the state Democratic machinery. He accuses segregationists of planning to yank state machinery away from the national party.

Segregation leaders, including the new committeeman Jett M. Talbot, last week denied third party leanings.

With Gravel removel within the state, the governor, traditionally head of the state party, represents the only political power in the Louisiana party standing in the way of an all-out break with national ranks.

No Comment On Rocket By Tass

MOSCOW (AP)—The official Soviet news agency Tass Saturday distributed without comment an account of the launching of a moon rocket by the United States.

The small American colony here which long has listened to Soviet accomplishements in the field of space, was jubilant at the word of the rocket firing. The news quickly spread among the Americans after radio reports of the launching were received.

Negro Is Shot In Neck Here; Suspect Sought

A fight in the 1300 block of Thomas Street last night sent a 23-year-old man to Conway Memorial hospital with a bullet wound in the neck.

Leroy Richards, Negro of Atkinson Street, was shot in the neck by another Negro who weilded a pistol, police said.

The shooting took place shortly after 9 p.m., and Monroe police were summoned immediately.

Richards was rushed to the hospital, bleeding at the mouth, but apparently no veins or arteries were hit by the bullet.

Police said that the man who wounded Richards fled. An intensive search for him was underway last night.

Large Ship Is Launched In Mississippi

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (UPI)—One of the largest ships ever built on the Gulf of Mexico was launched here Saturday and film and shipping magnate Spyros Skouras said it would "keep the American merchant fleet the most modern on the seas of the world."

The 32,000 - ton super - tanker S S. Saroula slipped down the ways of the Ingalls Shipyard after Skouras' daughter - in - law, Mrs. Spyros S. Skouras, christened it to bear her maiden name.

Skouras said his family would "continue to build American flagships in American yards." He said the Skouras family was dedicated to do so.

An Ingalls spokesman said the Saroula was the first of two super - tankers Ingalls has under construction for Skouras shipping line.

One Killed As Car Hits Train

SPRINGHILL, La. — An auto smashed into a freight train here Saturday, killing one man in the car and severely injuring the other.

V. W. Harvard, 31, of El Dorado, Ark., an oil company employe, was killed. His brother-in-law, A. D. Ainsworth of Concord, Calif., the driver, was hurt.

Engineer W. G. Harper said he saw the auto nearing the crossing and blew a warning whistle. When the car apparently made no effort to stop, Harper said, he applied the train's brakes.

State police said there was no evidence of skid marks by the auto tires.

Injured In Try To Avoid Cops

MORRISTOWN, Tenn. (UPI)—Eugene Collins, 26, of Morristown, was injured when he jumped from a speeding automobile to avoid a police roadblock.

Collins was wanted as a suspect in a Georgia post office robbery. He was hospitalized in Knoxville with a knee and wrist fracture Friday night following his leap.

Hamblen County officers said the driver of the car apparently did not know Collins was wanted and was doing 60 miles per hour when the suspect jumped. Collins will be turned over to the FBI.

Fire Destroys Residence Of Local Family

A Negro family lost all their possessions yesterday in a fire which gutted their home at 3409 Church st., in the Booker T. addition.

Adele Gibson, her daughter, and several grandchildren were away from the house, when wiring [illegible] in the ceiling of the front bedroom which whipped through the five-room structure.

Engine Companies No. 2 and 5 were summoned at 11:28 a.m., but were unable to return to their stations until 2 p.m.

Capt. Eugene Wilhite, of No. 5 company, and Capt. W. W. Greer of No. 2 explained that firemen were kept busy checking through the entire house, after the flames were out, to make sure that no smouldering embers were left under any of the charred furniture.

Firemen said that the house was a mass of flames when they arrived.

"All the residents were away and the house was locked. Adele Gibson returned before the fire was out, and told us that the ceiling wire had caught fire two or three times before, but someone had always been home to put it out," Capt. Wilhite stated.

She carried no insurance on her possessions, and said that the owner also had no insurance.

The fire was confined to the one building, located approximately 200 feet away from other houses.

Candidate For Ala. Governor Gives Views

FAYETTE, Ala. (UPI) — Birmingham attorney William L. Longshore Jr., Republican candidate for governor, charged Saturday his election is the only way Alabama can "get really clean, honest and efficient government in Montgomery."

Longshore spoke at rallies at Fayette, Vernon and Double Springs in a three-county tour Saturday as he stepped up his campaign against Atty. Gen. John Patterson, Democratic nominee for governor, and Marvin Jackson, Montgomery former short order cook, an independent candidate.

"The only way we are ever going to get really clean, honest and efficient government in Montgomery is by making a complete change of political parties, thereby establishing the strong two-party system," he said. "It's been done in other states and I say we can do it in Alabama."

Longshore has particularly campaigned against Patterson and his suggestion of a possible tax increase and school bond issue.

"I don't believe that the people of Alabama will support a tax increase or a bond issue until they are reasonably certain that the service, for which the tax or bond proposal is to support, is necessary and that the money can't be raised by saving elsewhere in government," Longshore said.

Longshore said "everywhere I go I hear the same distressing story. People tell me they actually feel sick when they think about how our state government has degenerated over a long period of time.

"I can well understand how they feel because I get the same feeling myself."

Suicide Ruled In Ala. Death

PRATTVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — A 60-year-old cotton mill employe died Saturday of what was described as a self-inflicted bullet wound in the temple.

Coroner Carlos B. Gates ruled the death of Dewey Barber of Prattville a suicide. He said Barber died of a bullet wound from a sawed-off 12 gauge shotgun.

The coroner said the victim was found lying across the doorway of his bedroom this morning by his daughter. He was fully clothed.

Gates quoted neighbors as saying that Barber suffered from ill health and had been unable to work for several months because of a "nervous breakdown."

To Accept Bids On Construction

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The State Highway Department said Saturday it will accept bids here Oct. 28 on an estimated $5,500,000 in highway construction projects including two sections of the interstate highway system.

The two interstate sections listed called for 1.1 miles of bituminous surfacing in Hinds County on Highway 55 near Highway 51 and Meadowbrook road in Jackson and grading of six miles of the same highway in Panola County between the Yalobusha - Panola County line and Courtland.

Reds Charge Theft To U.S. Attache

MOSCOW (UPI) — The official newspaper of the Communist youth organization Saturday accused an American military attache of stealing a letter of "military significance" from a Soviet workman.

At the same time, newsmen were summoned by the Foreign Ministry to a conference and exhibition designed to prove Soviet charges that the U.S. Air Force sent balloons over Soviet territory for military reconnassiance purposes.

The alleged theft of the letter by Capt. Joseph Ulatowski, assistant military attache at the U.S embassy, occured in Tiflis Oct. 2, according to an article in the Komsomolskaya Pravda.

The newspaper said the captain made off with a letter received by Ibram Isayiev, a 25-year-old stone mason, from his brother in the army.

It said the envelope bore the stamp of a military post office and the number and location of the brother's unit.

The newspaper said Ulatowski and Col. H. A. Philips, the Canadian military attache, were in the Tiflis post office when Isayiev received the letter. The American picked up the letter and walked away while Isayiev wasn't looking, it said.

Isayiev ran after Ulatowski who refused at first to return the letter but then gave it back and said he had taken it as a joke and asked him not to report it.

When the Russian called police, Ulatowski told them he took the letter by mistake and offered to apologize. He refused, however, to sign a statement admitting the "theft," claiming diplomatic immunity, it said.

The youth organ published a letter from Isayiev denouncing the two officers as "insolent crooks," and a picture of Ulatowski "so that the people. . .can take measures to protect their property."

The U.S. embassy did not comment on the charge and there was no immediate official confirmation of the story.

COLUMBUS DAY

Observance Comes At Crucial Period

By LYNN GARRETT
Staff Writer

With the launching of the American moon rocket, the country is paving the way for exploration of unknown areas much as Christopher Columbus, less than 500 years ago today sighted land near where we now have our base of operations.

The Genoa sailor, after much work and effort, finally obtained three ships and a crew of 88 men as he set out on his voyage to the New World Aug. 3, 1492.

Criminals and "broken men" were offered indemnity to serve on the expedition, but Columbus was hard put to find enough adventurous men.

At last he had obtained 52 men for the Santa Maria, and 18 each to pilot the other two vessels, the Pinta and the Nina.

Three days after the start of the voyage the Pinta lost her rudder and by Sept. 17 the men began to murmur nervously. The variation of the compass made them confused and frightened for it was the first time they had observed the westerly variations of the magnetic needle.

DIFFICULTY

By Sept. 20, they were sure land was near but when they failed to find it Columbus had difficulty in stopping a mutiny. Five days later, and again on Oct. 7, cries of "land" went up but were proved false.

Finally, on Oct. 11, the crew of the Pinta fished up a cane and a board and the Nina spied a branch covered with berries. The excited explorer and his faithless crew were reassured that land was near.

History records the time of the official sighting of land in the New World as 2 a.m. Oct. 12, 1492. The crew kissed the ground with joy and begged pardon for their doubts.

Columbus made three other voyages before his discoveries were complete in November of 1504. He died two years later when he was 55 years old.

Only a little more than 450 years after his death — not a long time in terms of history—the land he discovered spawns the World Series, split-level homes in the suburbs, a 40-hour week, hot dogs and most importantly, a rebirth in scientific interest with Outer Space as the target.

Columbus would no doubt be surprised at the developments, tossed off here as simply part of Americana.

Crack Hanna To Head Private Schools In Ala.

MOBILE (UPI) — Brig. Gen. Walter J. (Crack) Hanna of Birmingham was named head of the private school corporation Saturday which would take over Alabama's educational system if the public schools are ordered to integrate.

Democratic Atty. Gen. nominee McDonald Gallion, who announced the group's formation Thursday, said Hanna would be chairman of the board of trustees.

The 58 - year - old Hanna, head of a steel plant, worked closely with Gallion in 1954 when he headed the Phenix City vice cleanup as adjutant general under the then Gov. Gordon Persons. He is in line for command of the National Guard's 31st (Dixie) Division.

Gallion emphasized in his statement Saturday that the corporation would be run by private individuals and state officials would have no authority over its operation. He said an endowment fund would be started soon.

"Cetainly there is no intent to "rock the boat", said the 45-year-old Gallion, "but if anyone thinks we can stick our heads in the sand and our troubles will go away, he is simply whistling in the dark."

He said other board members will be announced later and they "will represent outstanding leadership in the state."

Gallion said the private school group would be named "The Alabama Education Fund Foundation."

"There has been apparently some misunderstanding regarding the purposes of this organization," he said. "It is strictly a private citizens group having no connection with the present state administration or the forthcoming state administration."

"It is simply a means of getting together some of the best brains and talent in the state to study the situation and make whatever plans their wisdom dictates," he said.

Negro Minister Faces Charges In Tennessee

MEMPHIS (UPI) — The Rev. C. H. Mason, Negro minister here, was charged Saturday with aiding and abetting prostitution.

A warrant obtained by police charged that Mason allowed Howard S. Smith, 27, his brother-in-law, and a Chicago night club singer to unlawfully live together in his home.

The Negro singer, Edna Smith, 30, told officers she was Smith's common - law wife when she was arrested Friday on charges of forging checks worth $162 on Mason.

Smith had been arrested on forgery charges earlier and released on bond. Smith and the singer also were charged with aiding and abetting prostitution.

Mason came into the news here when he was the first Negro to move into a formerly all - white neighborhood. Mason's church was destroyed by fire of still unsolved origin, and he has reported that several crosses were burned on his front yard.

Monroe Man, 20, Is Injured In Collision Here

A 20-year-old Monroe man was hospitalized yesterday after a motorcycle he was riding was demolished in a collision with an auto.

Carl Barfield, Route 3, Milhaven Road, received arm injuries in the accident at South Second and Orange Streets at 12:33 p.m. yesterday.

He was taken to St. Francis Hospital, where X-rays were taken, and he was admitted. He was in satisfactory condition last night.

Monroe police who investigated said that Barfield, driving a motorcycle owned by Rufus Hilton, 1604 Alabama St., was going north on S. Second.

They said a car driven by A.A. Perkins, 65, of 3703 Polk St., pulled out into the street, partially blocking it and Barfield slid into the car when he attempted to turn and skidded on gravel.

Perkins was charged with reckless driving, officers added.

Extensive Grass Blaze At Selman Field Is Halted

Fire engine sirens wailed and the dogs howled, as firemen were summoned to an extensive grass fire behind the dog pound at Selman Field yesterday.

The blaze was reported at 1:55 p.m. and Engine Company No. 7 captained by Robert Hawthorne roared to the scene.

With the yipping of the dogs in back of them, and the wind fanning the flames away from the pound, firemen waited it out until the fire burned to a ditch where they were able to get it under control and extinguish it.

Court Session Cancelled Here

Tomorrow's session of West Monroe City Court has been cancelled.

Judge Jasper Jones gave notice that the Monday court would not be held this week.

Regularly, court meets on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

JAILED

Two Monroe Negroes, who told police that they were "just playing," were arrested and placed in the Monroe jail yesterday on charges of drawing and displaying dangerous weapons, and aggravated battery.

College Of Cardinals Meet Set

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The College of Cardinals will meet Saturday, Oct. 25, to begin the election of the successor to Pope Pius XII.

A group of 16 cardinals already at the Vatican decided on that time in a meeting in the Apostolic Palace.

The choice will be made in balloting behind locked doors of the Sistine Chapel by all the Roman Catholic Church's 55 cardinals able to attend. Votes of a two-thirds majority plus one are required for a decision.

Smoke signals from a chimney thrust through a window of the chapel will let the world know of their progress.

Under this ancient system, black smoke from a fire of burning ballots and damp straw tells of a round of inconclusive voting. White smoke from burning ballots and dry twigs means the election of a new pope.

The conclave will come 16 days after the death of Pope Pius and 12 days after his burial next Monday in a marble sarcophagus beneath St. Peter's Basilica.

Any one of the cardinals may be elected to succeed him. Or the papacy may go to a prelate who is not a cardinal.

He may be Italian, American, Armenian, French or one of a score of other nationalitise.

All the popes have been Italian with one exception. The exception was Holland's Adrian Cardinal Dedel, as Pope Adrian VI in 1522. But for the first time in many years Italian cardinals at the conclave will be in the minority.

Most prominently mentioned among non-Italians is bearded Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian, Russian-born patriarch of Armenia. He was chosen by Pope Pius last June to succeed the late Samuel Cardinal Stritch of Chicago as proprefect of the Congregation for Propagation of the Faith.

Also often mentioned have been Norman Thomas Cardinal Gilroy, a 62-year-old Australian; Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, 74, French-born dean of the College of Cardinals; and Crisanto Cardinal Luque, 69, archbishop of Bogota, who is Colombia's first cardinal.

The names of Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, and Paul Emile Cardinal Leger, 54, archbishop of Montreal, have cropped up too in speculation about non-Italians who might be elected.

LITTLE THEATER

Much Interest Seen In Season Opener

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

With other attractions diverting some attention in the Monroe area, there was still good attendance at Little Theatre's "first play first night" of the season Friday.

The broad — sometimes broadside — humor of Gore Vidal's "Visit To A Small Planet" met with general approval, and it appears the local live theatre is off to a good start on its 27th season.

In line with the financial success, President Julius Cahn, Jr. pointed out the memberships remaining numbered slightly more than 100, which means the organization is not far from a sellout.

The first volley in what proved to be a rather heavy-handed satire on today's tensions and basic emotions was fired by George Brian and Mel Jones, who, as military man and news analyst respectively, sized up the flying saucer situation.

The writer's lines ranged from all-too-true jabs at the military services to just such a farce as the "little people" landing at the same moment a television program was proving them a case of mass hysteria.

With such variety in the written comedy, this writer felt the lines as spoken Friday night got on a bombastic level and stayed there. New characters entering during the first act — the television-newsman's family, played by wife Kitty Smith, daughter Tavie Kenny and her boyfriend, Norman Jones—gave that portion of the play sufficient balance.

SPOOFER

The visitor, Bill Hatten, who stepped out of a flying saucer looking for the Civil War took charge of the stage for the last two acts. Was he a Shakespearean fool speaking lines on the Sgt. Bilko pattern? He had plenty which was true and funny to say about his "hobby" — the people on earth. Here again first night pressure afforded too little in the way of a change of pace. Constructive note: that "dialogue" with the cat "Rosemary" would be one spot where the audience could get to know a man from space better through more reflective underplay.

GOOD COMEDY

Bill Brodie as the military aide, Aubrey McKeithen and Don Robinson as two television technicians and Bill Haddad as Delton 4 — he finally got the space man back into space — rounded out the roster of players.

Visit to a Small Planet proved to be good entertainment on its first night, and will no doubt improve during its run on the local boards. It is a fresh play; in fact, Selman Field Playhouse is one of its first runs off Broadway, so don't miss this one.

SAUL PETT

Writer Of Book Faces Problems

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most effective ways for a newspaperman to lose grace among other newspapermen is to write a book.

The reason is simple. The rest of us talk all the time about writing a book. But being men of great talent, vivid imagination, and easy rationalization, we never do.

Thus, Dick Newcomb of The Associated Press has dismayed his old friends. He not only talked about writing a book; he actually wrote one. To make matters worse, he wrote a good book, and it was published. It is now a best-seller. How unfriendly can you get?

His book is "Abandon Ship," a taut chronicle of the sinking of the cruiser Indianapolis late in World War II.

What makes Dick's defection even more painful is that all along he had the excuses the rest of us had for not writing a book. Such as: "Too tired at the end of a working day." And: "My family demands too much of my time." And, best of all: "I got no place to write."

Dick had no place to write, but he cleared and laid claim to the starboard side of the basement of his home in Haworth, N.J. His wife Alice was told that henceforth she would be confined to the port side, the side with the oil burner, the washing machine, and surplus family junk.

"It worked out fine," Dick says, "except in the winter when she violated our territorial agreement. She hung wet clothes to dry over my desk."

His desk was a sheet of plywood stretched over two sawhorses. His filing cabinets were grocery cartons and the cinder-block basement wall where he soon spread out with huge charts of the Pacific and blueprints of the Indianapolis.

The book took 2½ years for research and writing

"Apparently," he says, "I was fated to finish it. Every spring I thought I'd have a grand excuse not to finish it. Every other spring the basement used to leak. But in the time I worked on the book it stayed dry until two weeks after I finished the final draft."

How does a man who spends eight hours a day working, two hours a day commuting, and supposedly the rest of his time appeasing a wife, two high school daughters and a house in need of repair—how does such a man write a book?

"It's easy," Dick insists. "You work nights. First you have dinner. Then you do your daughter's geometry. Then you get your wife well situated with the evening paper, a TV program, and a tall drink. Then you disappear into the basement until, hours later, a voice yells down from the master bedroom 'Hey, Zola, it's midnight!'"

Now that the book is written and selling, Dick has other problems to cope with. Most people have inflated ideas of best sellers.

The author of a best seller has a hard time convincing others that the east wing of Ft. Knox is not involved.

"The children," Dick says, "are convinced they're going to get their own cars, and my wife is convinced we're getting a new house, and I'm still worried about making payments on the old car and the old house.

"Relatives think I'm hoarding my fortune. Friends think I'm greedy for not retiring and giving my job to someone who needs the money. And every time I buy a new hedge clipper or rake, a neighbor says: 'You're smart, Dicky boy. Live it up while you can!'"

Says Columbus Couldn't Get Into U.S. Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —Christopher Columbus couldn't be admitted to the United States as a resident if the explorer were alive Rep. Hugh Scott (D-Pa) said Saturday.

The Italian immigration quota is too heavily oversubscribed said Scott, who is running for the Senate from Pennsylvania.

"Tomorrow the nation will celebrate Columbus Day," he said. "But Columbus was a native Italian. If he were alive today, we would probably welcome him as a visitor, but not as a resident.

Integration Is Hard Financial Blow To South

NEW YORK (AP) —The battle over integration is making it harder and a bit more expensive for Southern school districts to finance new buildings and improvements by selling bonds.

Investment bankers say the controversy over racial integration, and the prospect of long drawn-out and costly litigation constitute a threat to the blue chip ratings of these tax-exempt bonds. They also maintain there is a possibility sometime in the future of a refusal by citizens to pay taxes in a district where the schools are closed.

Legal experts tend to minimize the possibility of a school taxpayer strike. They point out that practically all school bonds are general obligations of the issuing community and must be paid off through taxes regardless of what happens to the schools. Many of the bonds are backed by the "full faith and credit" of their states.

Train Guns On British Policy

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The government controlled press Saturday switched its main propaganda guns from the United States to Britain and accused her of "preparing another Suez."

For months the press has attacked the United States with accusations of "conspiracy after conspiracy" in the Middle East.

The sale of two British submarines to Israel was the takeoff point for Saturday's charges.

21 La. Dairies Plan Attack On Milk Law

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Twenty-one Louisiana dairies are asking court permission to side with the state in an attack on the orderly milk marketing act.

The firms petitioned district court here Friday to intervene in the suit filed by Schwegmann Bros. Giant Supermarkets of New Orleans.

The Schwegmann suit named Agriculture Commissioner Sidney J. McCrory defendant.

The milk producers and processers argued the milk marketing act protects them from economic destruction by organizations strong enough to sell below their own costs and engage in other unfair competition for an extended period of time.

A suit similar to Schwegmann's was filed here Thursday by Food Town, Inc., of Baton Rouge, a supermarket chain.

Both suits claim the 1958 marketing act is unconstitutional and deprives them of valuable property rights.

The dairies' suit claims "large corporations have to be regulated in the manner provided" in the statute and the Legislature acted to protect small and independent processors of milk in adopting the act. The Legislature, the suit said, is right in exercising the police power "to prohibit unfair and discriminatory practices by which fair and honest competition is destroyed or prevented."

EIGHTH WEEK

Market's Record Drive Continues

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's powerful drive to record highs continued this week.

It was the eighth week of uninterrupted advance, the fourth of historic peaks.

Volume of 19,104,940 shares was just a bit below last week's 19,227,870, the biggest total in nearly a year.

The market went to new highs for the first two days then milled unevenly for two days as cross-currents of profit taking and reinvestment canceled each other out. On the final trading day the market roared ahead to another new high on the year's heaviest volume 4,610,000 shares.

The Friday session was sparked by a one-cent boost in copper prices by major United State producers, reports of surging steel production and new evidence of heavy stock purchases by mutual funds. The 250-million-dollar One William Street Fund published its holdings for the first time. Traders were drawn to buy issues favored by this huge institution.

Some concern that the Federal Reserve Board might take further restrictive action on credit was in the wind when the market stalled Wednesday and Thursday. A published unofficial report that the "fed" was not planning anything on that line for quite a spell restored confidence on Friday.

Fundamental to the market's continued strength, was that there was planty of money for investment. The mutual funds and other institutional investors were grabbing stock at the slightest sign of weakness. Those who held stock were unwilling to surrender it and pay a big capital gains tax. Those who wanted stock were eager, afraid they had "missed the boat."

Dog Wrecks Car While Owner Is In English Court

SHEFFIELD, England (AP) — Peope stopped and blinked on the sidewalks here when they saw a car apparently being driven by a dog. The car traveled 50 yards, brushed against a bus and ran into a wall. An Alsatian sat behind the wheel.

The owner, Robert Griffin, 46, told Magistrates' Court Friday he parked the car and left the dog inside. He added: "he must have seen another dog in the street and jumped, knocking off the brake."

But the magistrate fined Griffin 3 pounds ($8.40) for failing to set the handbrake.

MANY WEEP

Final Tribute Paid To Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A sorrowing, 20-foot-wide stream of humanity flowed through St. Peter's Basilica Saturday in final tribute to Pope Pius XII. Many wept at his bier.

Hundreds of thousands from many lands filed shoulder-to-shoulder past the body of Roman Catholicism's 261st supreme pontiff, to be buried late Monday in a marble sarcophagus in the grottos beneath the basilica.

The 262nd pontiff is to be elected by princes of the church in a Conclave opening Saturday, Oct. 25 at the Sistine Chapel. The 16 cardinals now at the Vatican set that date for convening all possible members of the 55-member College of Cardinals to name the successor to the man known as the pope of peace.

Draped in brilliant red, all that was mortal of Pope Pius rested on a six-foot-high catagalque surrounded by 24 lighted candles.

A golden bishop's miter on his head glinted in the candlelight and some of the sunshine that streamed through the windows of the basilica's massive dome.

The opening of the side doors at dawn to admit the public signaled the beginning of a nine-day period of mourning to include daily requiem masses in the basilica. The first was conducted by the titular archbishop of Porfireone, Peter Canisius van Lierde of Liege, Belgium. Requiem masses will be celebrated around the world Sunday.

Men, women and children filed into the cool, hushed basilica from bright, warm sunshine. Fountains played in St. Peter's Square. Souvenir shops around the square did a rushing business selling postcards picturing the late pope.

Inside there was a scarcely audible murmur — the shuffle of many feet and an occasional whispered comment.

The 16 cardinals who decided on the funeral arrangements and the date for the electoral conclave also ceremoniously broke the fisherman's ring which was the symbol of the authority of Pius XII over the world's half billion Catholics.

It was a gold band engraved with the likeness of Peter, the first pope, and the name of its wearer. It was removed from the Pope's hand in his death chamber at Castel Gandolfo Thursday.

A new fisherman's ring will be placed on the right hand of the next pope immediately after he accepts election from the Conclave of Cardinals.

With the likely exception of three in Communist countries—Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski of Poland, Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary and Alojzije Cardinal Stepinac of Yugoslavia—and a few who are too infirm for the journey, most of the 55 present cardinals are expected to be on hand. There were 15 vacancies in the college when Pope Pius died.

From the moment the conclave opens, the cardinals will be immured and isolated in the strictest of secrecy through as many ballots and for as many days as are necessary to choose a new pope.

For centuries a two-thirds vote of cardinals present was required to choose a pope. Now, in a revision introduced by Pius XII, it requires two thirds plus one additional vote.

Speakers Are For Retention Of Ark. Taxes

CROSSETT (Special) — Crossett's present educational standards depend on the retention of the present sales tax and in the success of the new assessment program, according to three speakers this week.

Speaking before three of the parent-teacher organizations, John Henry Allen, vice-president of the School Board, Herman Quinn, GACE County Chairman, and M. H. Russell, superintendent of schools, pointed out that not only the building of the new high school and the Calhoun Cafetorium, but also the progress made in the past several years are in jeopardy.

REASSESSMENT

If the taxpayers do not accept the reassessment program and do not support Act 19 in November, the school district will suffer a great financial loss, the three men said. The total estimated receipts of the Crossett School District will be $717,270.71 if the district's assessed valuation equals $15,000,000, as expected in the property reappraisal.

The estimated expenditure of the district for the next year is $699,570.00. This includes $33,600.00 for serving a bond issue of $500,000. If for some reason the assessment remains at $12,788,332, instead of $15,000,000, the income for the district will be only $648,399. It is apparent that the new buildings will be eliminated.

Should the voters of Arkansas fail to pass Act 19, it would mean that the district would lose an additional $63,282 in revenue.

Stands Trial 2nd Time On Rape Charges

LAUREL, Miss. (AP)—Theldor Lang, 55-year-old Negro school teacher sentenced to life for raping a white woman, stands trial for the crime again Monday, this time contending a fellow convict is guilty.

The State Supreme Court ordered a new trial after Lang's attorney showed that the 1954 rape could have been committed by Leroy Moody, 26-year-old Negro who resembled Lang physically.

Moody is serving life for raping another white woman. He pleaded guilty to the crime for which he was sentenced but denied the Lang rape.

After Lang was sentenced, officers found Moody's fingerprints in the home of Lang's victim and Moody's wife had a ring stolen from Lang's victim.

Dist. Atty. Grover Doggette has withdrawn from the case on grounds he believes Lang innocent.

Circuit Judge Lunsford Casey appointed Forrest County Dist. Atty. Danny Dabbs to replace him during the trial.

Judge Casey also refused to permit court-appointed atty. Ronald Brown to withdraw on grounds he represented the rape victim's husband in a lawsuit and would have conflicting interests.

Soviets Charge U.S. To Keep Troops In M-E

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The Soviet delegation to the U.N. General Assembly charged Saturday that there are plans to keep U.S. troops in Lebanon beyond the Oct. 31 deadline set for their withdrawal.

In a public statement, the delegation noted that U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge wrote U.S. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold Wednesday that the United States expected to have all American forces out of that country by the end of October—"barring unforeseen circumstances."

"This reservation," said the statement, "shows quite unequivocally that even at present there are some people in the U.S.A. who have not yet given up plans to continue the occupation of Lebanon by American troops."

Boy, 16, Admits He Killed His Father, Mother

OMAHA (AP)—The bodies of an Omaha business man and his wife were recovered from shallow graves at the rear of their home Saturday after their 16-year-old son told police he had killed them and showed officers the graves.

The victims were identified as William Arnold, 42, manager of the Watkins Products Co., here and his wife, Opel, about 40. Police said their 16-year-old son, Leslie, admitted he killed his parents Sept. 27 after an argument about the use of the family car.

He and his 11-year-old brother, James had been staying in the house since that time.

The boy was reported to have told neighbors his parents were on a vacation, but an employe of the firm, said Leslie had told him his father was called out of town unexpectedly.

CAPITOL CORRIDORS

130 La. Cities, Towns To Share In Tax Income

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana cities and towns, 130 in all, will share an extra million dollars in state tobacco tax revenues with first quarterly payments starting within 10 days.

State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell said today his staff has just completed the figures after 130 of the state's 240 municipalities hurried in with new population figures to meet an Oct. 1 deadline.

"Gov. Earl Long has certified the new population figures," he said.

Under a 1958 law, cities can submit new population totals to form the basis for a larger slice of the state revenue.

And in the first glimpse of the growing population, Lake Charles showed the largest gain with a 19,455 increase. The three largest cities—New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Shreveport—have not counted heads yet.

Big gains were spotted in the industrial areas.

All 240 municipalities are eligible for a standard share in the taxes during the currnt fiscal year which began July 1.

But the 130 rushed their census taking to benefit with the first quarterly payments. It's up to the others to count their populations later.

According to the new population figures, Tugwell said, received from the 130 municipalities, $882,616 will be added to the annual distribuiton this fiscal year. On top will be another $200,000, approximately, in expected surplus. Before the 1958 law allowed latest population figures to be used, the annual distribution had been tied to the 1950 federal census.

All municipalities shares are figured according to population categories, at the base rate of $2.50 per person for cities of 100,000 or more, $3.50 for 25,001-100,000, $4 for 10,001-25,00, $4.25 for 2,501-10,000, $4.40 for 1,000-2,500, and $4.65 for towns with less than 1,000.

After the base payments are provided, any surplus remaining in the 37½ per cent total also is distributed.

"For the first time last fiscal year," the state treasurer said, "we were able to give all municipalities the top base rate of $4.65 per person because of a surplus."

City officials will be happy to know that Tugwell estimates all should get pretty close to the higher per capita rate again this year.

The way Tugwell sees it, Baton Rouge and Shreveport, which haven't submitted new population figures but plan to, could gain an extra $45,000 each this year in an estimated $4 per capita allowance for them.

New Orleans, which hasn't indicated whether it will attempt a census, would change the entire state picture should it decide to try.

At the moment, however, Tugwell estimates Baton Rouge and Shreveport could remain in the $4 level, with municipalities in the 25,001-100,000 bracket remaining at $4.25 per capita, those in the 10,001-25,000 bracket at $4.40 and all smaller communities remaining at the top base rate of $4.65.

Alexandria, in the heart of Louisiana, reported a new population of 42,298, up 7,385. Bossier City announced 26,005, up 10,535; Lafayette 34,345, up 804; Lake Charles 60,527, up 19,455; Monroe 49,383, up 10,811, and New Iberia 27,033, up 10,566.

With these higher populations, Alexandria this fiscal year will receive a $161,366 share of the state tobacco revenues, instead of the previous $133,193; Bossier City $99,209 instead of $67,449 Lafayette $131,026 instead of $127,958; Lake Charles $230,910 instead of $157,452; Monroe $188,396 instead of $147,152, and New Iberia $103,130 instead of $71,796.

In the 10,001-25,000 bracket, Houma doubled its population to 22,680. It doubled its $50,161 share to $98,884. Crowley showed a new population of 15,434, up 2,650, becoming eligible for $67,292 a year instead of the $55,738 last year.

Other population gains: Bogalusa 24,713, up 7,005; Kenner 13,926, up 8,391; Thibodaux 12,197, up 4,467, and West Monroe 15,003, up 4,701.

In some smaller communities, Amite 3,173, up 369 in population; Baker, 3,357, up 2,595 for the fastest growth of all; Denham Springs 5,753, up 3,100; Harahan 7,485, up 5,091; Leesville 9,401, up 4,713; Rayne 8,093, up 1,485; Sulphur 9,997, up 4,001; Colfax 1,954, up 303; Gramercy 2,043 up 959; Jackson 1,723, up 723, and Oil City 1,453, up 1,031.

All reporting so far showed growth.

Gulf Oil Blasts Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gulf Oil Corporation, Pittsburgh, has branded as completely erroneous charges that a seven-company international "cartel" including Gulf, controls world oil prices.

The allegations were made recently by President O. A. Knight of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, in the AFL-CIO industrial union department's quarterly, The Digest.

Knight asserted among other things that Gulf, Standard Oil (of New Jersey), Standard of California, Socony Mobil, Texas, and two foreign companies have destroyed "free trade" in oil by manipulating world prices and dominating state production control agencies.

"It would seem by 'free trade' in this instance," a Gulf spokesman said, "he (Knight) means 'competition' because he says that oil is dominated by a worldwide cartel consisting of five American companies and two European companies. This is an old accusation which has been thoroughly discredited."

The spokesman cited a recently published study by Leonard M. Fanning, editor of World Oil Policies, listing 200 American companies searching for oil in foreign countries.

"If the so-called seven-company cartel dominated world oil, the spokesman said, "by no means would they have permitted such an enormous number of companies to enter into competition with them, mostly within the past five years . . . in the marketing of foreign oil, more recently there has been a rise of other companies, such as Petrofina, which are growing rapidly and taking a share of the world oil market, apparently without hindrance by any dominating group of companies."

To Knight's charges that price-fixing has abolished the law of supply and demand and that crude oil prices are determined by arbitrary state production controls, the spokesman replied:

"This is completely erroneous as shown by the fact that foreign crude oil prices are lower than those in the United States. If the foreign oil cartel were powerful enough to control prices, it most obviously would control the prices of foreign crude before it would be able to control the prices of U.S. crude.

"The record is open in the numerous public bids for supplying oil to foreign countries such as Argentina, that the competition between the international oil marketeers is bitter. In like manner, it is open for all to see within the United States that petroleum prices are not controlled, because every citizen sees around him the frequent gasoline price wars.

He further asserted that "oil prices respond very quickly to changes in supply and demand" and added that since the first of 1958 "we have counted in the oil journals 142 reports of decreases in crude oil prices as opposed to only 17 increases, the net result being a decrease in the overall price of crude estimated to be about 8 cents a barrel."

Says Prices are Sensitive

The spokesman said that oil product prices are even more sensitive and that "by no stretch of the imagination" could it be held that they do not respond to the forces of supply and demand.

Knight also claimed the 27-member Interstate Oil Compact Commission "coordinates the regularoty authorities of various major producing states which limit production to maintain prices."

"On the contrary," Gulf declared, "the commission is a voluntary association of state officials, authorized by Congress and investigated by the Department of Justice. Its purpose is to prevent waste of oil and to conserve these resources for the use of the American people. On Oct. 6, 1957, Attorney General Brownell reported after an investigation that there were no signs of the commission being controlled by 'dominant' industry groups."

Urban Traffic Congestion Is Topic Of Talk

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —A public transportation expert said Saturday the answer to the problem of urban traffic congestion is the balanced use of both the private automobile and public transit facilities.

Many cities, said Jesse L. Haugh of San Diego in a statement, have succeeded in speeding up transit service by designating certain street lanes for bus use.

Haugh is president of the American Transit Association which opens its 77th annual meeting here tomorrow.

He said appreciable reductions in transit running time had been shown by bus lanes in Baltimore, Atlanta, Chicago and Cincinnati.

The idea was first tried out in Nashville by Mayor Ben West and the innovation was a success from the outset, Haugh said.

"Excluse bus lanes also help speed up other vehicular traffic, thus benefitting all users of the streets," the transit leader said.

"Greater use of public transit in urban areas is the most available, practicable and least costly method of reducing traffic congestion," Haugh said "and more people will be encouraged to ride buses and street cars only if we can offer them faster service than they now get."

About 1,000 transit delegates from the U.S. and Canada and representatives of manufacturers who supply the industry are expected to attend the convention.

FIRST CANE GROUND

PLAQUEMINE, La. (UPI)—The first batch of sugar in the state kicked off the milling season here Friday. Andrew W. Dykers, executive secretary of the Louisiana Sugar Cane Exchange, said the mill is Wilbert's Myrtle Grove. Most other mills are expected to follow suit this coming week.

AND OUR FLAG WAS STILL THERE — A large American flag is hoisted on mast of landing ship dock Fort Marion as vessel enters Quemoy harbor with supplies for Chinese Nationalists. The oversized flag was flown so that American ships could be easily spotted by observers from the Chinese Communist mainland. It was on this trip by the Fort Marion that the Reds announced their cease fire. (AP Wirephoto)

To Try And Patch Up Ike, Demo Split

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will meet Sunday with Chairman Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a move to heal a split between President Eisenhower and powerful Democrats over administration Formosa policy.

Green, one of the sharpest critics of the President's military support of Chinese Nationalist forces on the embattled Quemoy and Matsu islands, is smarting under a letter from Eisenhower a week ago in which the Chief Executive asserted that attacks on his policy "embolden our enemies and make war almost inevitable."

Dulles personally asked Green to come to his home for the Sunday conference, outcome of which would have repercussions at home and abroad.

The statement was reported to have alienated Democratic members of the Senate and House Foreign Policy committees upon whom the President must depend for cooperation in the international field.

Green, in a statement to United Press International Saturday, made it clear he does not intend to hold his fire against the administration unless somebody can convince him he is wrong. He also rejected the presidential argument that criticsm heartens enemies of the United States.

"I do not see any reason why we should not criticize," he said by telephone from Providence, R.I., where he was attending a Brown University meeting. "It's one of the privileges of democracy."

The senator added, however, the administration appeared to be taking a "more realistic" attitude by indicating its willingness to try to get Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to pull some of his forces off Quemoy if the Chinese Reds put into effect a dependable ceasefire.

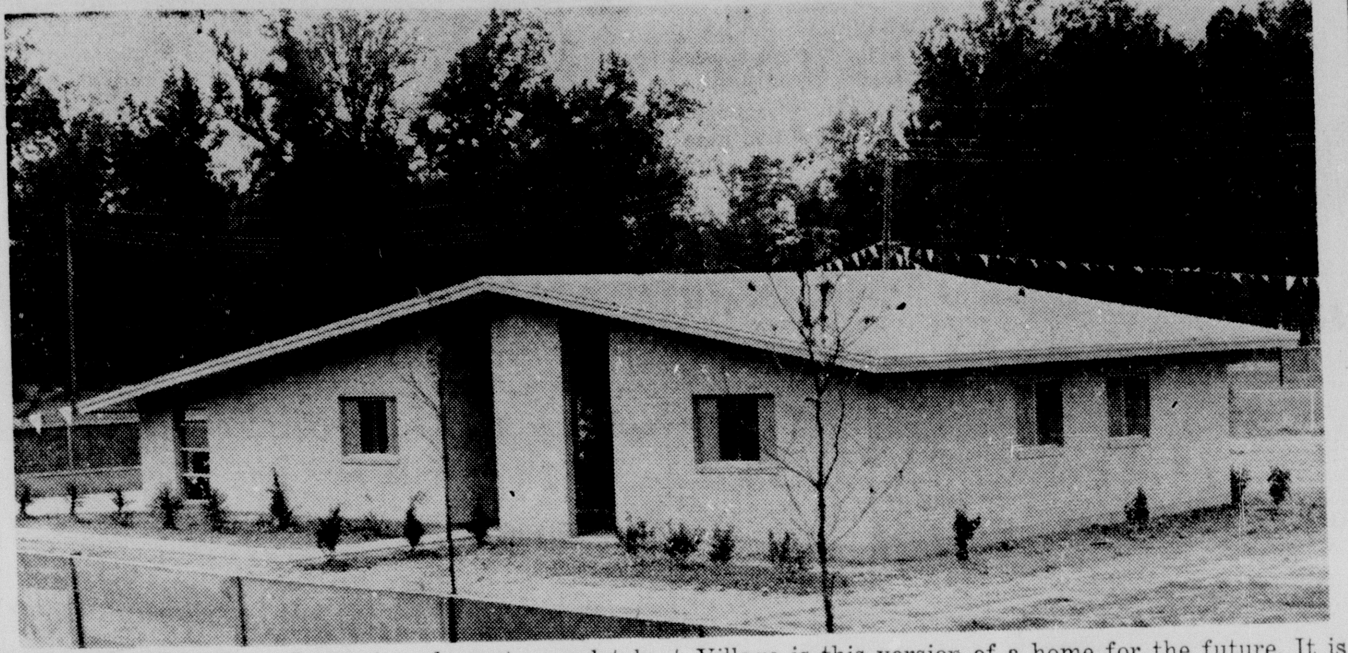
Medallion Village To Be Opened At 1 p.m. Today



THE SHAMROCK — Largest and most completely furnished in the most modern of manner at Medallion Village is this version of a home for the future. It is electrically equipped throughout.

Medallion Village, a dazzling display of five "Live Better Electrically" homes constructed by Magnolia Builders, Inc., and sponsored by radio station KNOE, will be opened formally at 1 o'clock this afternoon on Fink's Hideaway Road at a location considered to be one of the best and most attractive residential sites in the Twin Cities area.

According to Philip Duncan, vice president in charge of construction, and James Roberts, vice president of sales for Magnolia Builders, everything has been done to make this one of the most comprehensive showings of modern homes ever held in the area.

Electrical circuits and lighting plans were designed by Louisiana Power and Light Company engineers, and each house is so completed as to meet the stringent specifications for the "Medallion Home" title.

Each of the three — bedroom houses has a built-in all-electric kitchen and all have central heat and air conditioning. Nearly $1,000 worth of plants, shrubs and trees have been set out around the houses.

Each dwelling will show a minimum of three telephones, with the planning for phone locations having been done by representatives of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Kitchens in the Medallion Village homes feature such built-ins as automatic dishwashers, ice makers, laundries, ovens and ranges, many of these are included in the price of the houses, with some being offered as optional equipment.

The houses are located on Fink's Hideaway Road just off Sterlington Road, with signs directing the public to the site having been placed on Sterlington Road. There will be no charge to the public to visit the village. Free refreshments will be provided and free pony rides will be available to children. Also, a nursery has been set up for the toddlers.

Each of the houses will be carefully furnished to give visitors an idea of the extent to which the builders have gone to provide homes with the utmost in comfort and convenience.

A huge tent has been erected on the site so that visitors may see displays of brick, insulation, air conditioning equipment, electrical circuits and workmanship that went into the houses.

The houses have been given famous hotel names by the builder. Largest is the Shamrock which features a two - car garage, sheltered patio, a chain-link fence and sprinkler system. The others are the Hilton, Palmer House, Drake and Blackstone.

Registration for a new Tappan range worth $600, and an RCA Whirlpool air conditioner worth $250 starts today, along with that for a freezer full of food from the Rich Food Plan of Central Louisiana. The drawing will be held on next Sunday, October 19.

Suppliers for Medallion Village include the Appliance Center, John H. Bradley Tile Company, Sears Roebuck and Company, West Monroe Air Conditioning, Interstate Electric, Sunlighting and Fixture Company, Century Block and Brick Company, Hargus Insulation, Monroe Hardware, Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, Smith Venetian Blind Company, Letterman Painters and Decorators, Farmerville Lumber Company, Monroe Concrete, Roach Nursery.

THE LAMP IS LIT

Around 1000 B.C. someone got the right idea of adapting the wick — of vegetable fibre — to lamps. It was burned in a saucer-type vessel holding olive or nut oil. The idea caught on, and the early Jews, Greeks and Romans made good use of this method.

SHOWING TODAY

Magnolia Builds 'Home Of Future'

The first Medallion Village in the South and probably in the nation was constructed for its showing to the public here this afternoon by Magnolia Builders and Supply, Inc., a local firm specializing in providing "Live Better Electrically" home with hidden assets.

The village is located on Fink's Hideaway Road just off Sterlington Road and will be formally opened at 1 o'clock this afternoon showing the ultimate in modern medium - priced three bedroom homes. Each is specially furnished and contains all the electrical features any family could desire.

Phil Duncan, vice president in charge of construction, and Jim Roberts, vice president in charge of sales for Magnolia Builders worked in cooperation with radio station KNOE and Louisiana Power and Light Company, along with a number of suppliers and service firms.

Each of the five houses, named for famous hotels, was specially landscaped by local garden clubs with the design of each house in mind. College Heights Garden Club planned and supervised the location and planting of shrubbery for The Hilton; the Sun and Sand Garden Club, for The Shamrock; Bayou DeSiard Garden Club for the Palmer House; Patio Garden Club for The Drake, and Welcome Garden Club for The Blackstone.

Prices on the houses contained in Medallion Village range in price from $14,500 to $20,000 and any of the five can be constructed anywhere in Northeast Louisiana by Magnolia Builders, either on land already owned by the buyer, or on lots provided by the contractor.

Arrangements can be made to secure government assistance in financing for non-veterans, veterans and aged persons.

Each of the houses is of brick veneer construction and include such features as large paneled kitchens, range hoods, extra large ceramic tile baths, glass sliding tub enclosure, built - in dressing table, large carports, central heating, all - weather entrances, large storage space, 20 - year bonded roof, concrete driveways, aluminum windows and screens, attic fans, spacious closets, copper pipe throughout and terriflex floors throughout.

Although the houses are on paved streets and are provided with plenty of soft water, school bus service, Louisiana Power and Light electricity and service and United Gas Corporation service, there are no city taxes to pay.

JAMES ROBERTS

PHILIP DUNCAN

Medallion Village provides city living with a country atmosphere.

Free rides for the children and refreshments for all visitors will be provided during the showing, and a special parking lot has been arranged for the afternoon. A large circus - type tent has been erected in which are displayed many of the appliances, equipment and much of the workmanship which have gone into the Medallion Village homes.

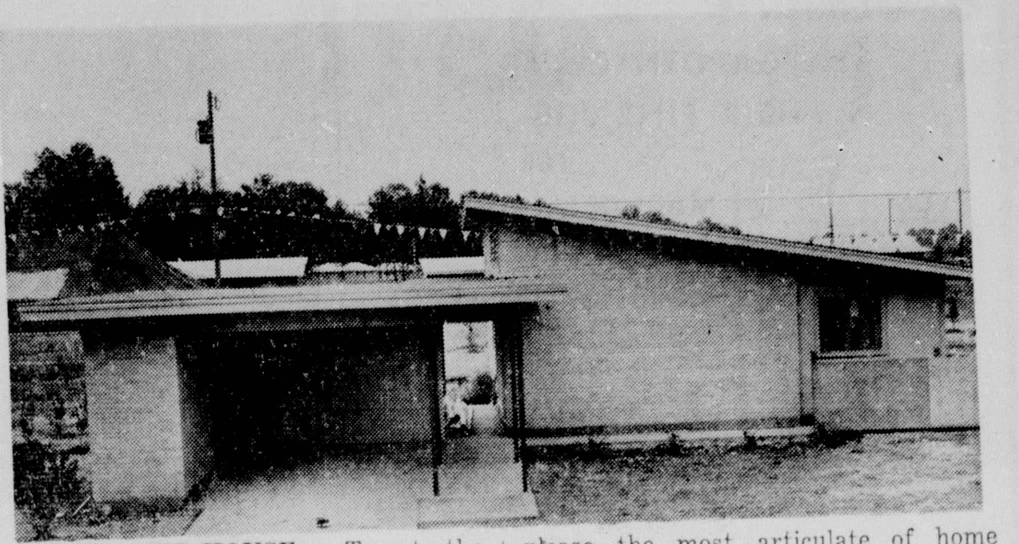
Specially trained representatives of all the participating agencies will be on hand to explain the many features and attractions of the homes.

In addition to Duncan and Roberts, other officers in Magnolia Builders and Supply, Inc., are L. M. Ray, president, and A. J. Gentry, secretary - treasurer.

Magnolia Builders has been in business for the past eighteen months or so, constructing high-type, medium priced homes throughout Northeast Louisiana and central and east Mississippi. In all their work, the officers and craftsmen of the company have done their utmost to project their thoughts into the future, trying to give the people today what they will want tomorrow. In this and other respects, Magnolia has succeeded in providing better homes for less.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

Wiring is the basis for a modern home. Once it is sound and sufficient, the rest follows naturally. Modern electrical wiring such as found in the Medallion homes is not to be confused with "code requirements." "Code" wiring is safe wiring, but it does not necessarily provide sufficient electrical capacity to serve present or future needs of the home.



THE PALMER HOUSE — True to the fame of the famous Chicago hotel for which it was named, the Medallion Village "Palmer House" is certain to please the most articulate of home buyers. (Staff photos by John Fogleman)

AT MEDALLION VILLAGE

Electric Living In Home Stressed

The days of the electric light switch and other button-type electrical control devices found in homes are numbered, and a new trend is under way to do away with this longstanding symbol of America's constant effort to live better electrically.

This is the conclusion reached after extensive study by experts in the field who have decided that one of the best ways to present their findings is through means such as cooperating in the opening of new electrically-equipped homes for public inspection and demonstration.

Such an occasion is being marked today with the showing of Medallion Village located on Fink's Hideaway Road just off Sterlington Road, and the electrical industry's "Live Better Electrically" Medallion Home program in the Twin Cities area is represented by Louisiana Power and Light Company.

Medallion Village, made up of five of the latest type new homes designed for modern living, will open at 1 p.m. today, landscaped, furnished and prepared in all respects for pleasing appearance.

Louisiana Power and Light Company, Magnolia Builders Supply Company and radio station KNOE are combining to make this presentation.

In the research to determine what makes better living in a home, the electrical industry has arrived at these basic elements:

An electric range, plus at least three other major appliances, such as refrigerator, freezer, electric washer, dishwasher and all the complimenting appurtenances.

Lighting according to standards of "Light For Living" as outlined by the American Home Lighting Institute. This includes a high level of overall illumination plus special-purpose lighting for work and recreation areas.

Wiring taking in full housepower considerations in accordance with requirements of local electric utility, to include built-in extra capacity for future needs and expansion.

The "Live Better Electrically" Medallion Home program is a nationwide promotion of new homes, the electrical contents of which are guaranteed to meet the high standards set by electric utilities. The Medallion is described as a symbol of quality — the buyer's assurance that the home contains the very best in lighting, appliances and wiring.

The extent to which Medallion Homes can make for better living is almost unlimited. Medallion Homes, according to Louisiana Power and Light Company, feature a variety of comforts almost too numerous to be listed.

Among these are electric heating for the home, living "on the beam" with the modern radio-intercom, newest electric ranges which ease cooking and cleaning chores, dishwashers amazing to behold, quiet, dependable refrigerators, and electronic ovens.

Working closely with Magnolia Builders and KNOE, Louisiana Power and Electric Company has equipped the five new homes in Medallion Village with what it thinks is the ultimate in better living facilities. In order to demonstrate the many features of electrical living will be Sandy Holt who has contacted the home economics classes in local schools, including Northeast State College, with invitations to visit the showing.

CLEVER CHINESE

The ancient Chinese took advantage of natural resources centuries before the Christian era when they brought natural gas to the surface from beds of rock salt 1,500 to 1,600 feet deep, conveyed it through bamboo pipes and used it for lighting salt mines and homes.

The American Pilgrims lighted their cabins with Betty lamps. This was a metal receptacle with a wick lying in a slot and protruding from one side. The fuel was fish oil.

West Monroe Air Conditioning Co. Is Proud To Announce That They Furnished And Installed The ALL ELECTRIC CENTRAL AIR CONDITIONING & HEATING (by LENNOX) In The All Modern Medallion Homes

YOU GET ::: OUTSTANDING ECONOMY and QUIETNESS with the LENNOX HEAT PUMP

Where others have left off, Lennox picks up and continues in heat pump design. These Lennox units bring new quietness, versatility, dependability and economy to the heat pump field.

Using only air and electricity, they produce all the delightful benefits of year around central heating and cooling.

3 UNITS TO CHOOSE FROM

The floating "Sulky" blower, acoustical lining and low resistance coil add up to whisper quietness. The basic unit consists of blower section and a matching coil section. Resistance heat section is optional. The rigid cabinet has rounded corners, handsome louvered front and pleasing two-tone gray enamel finish. Return air can be taken in through the bottom or low to the rear.

OUTDOOR UNIT

This is the outdoor unit which contains the compressor. By locating this remotely, bulk and sound are cut from the indoor unit.

With their big coils and floating blowers, these units have made a name for quietness and thrift. The discharge hood on top results in air being received and discharged on the same side of the cabinet. Thus it can be tucked in corners, "aimed" in one desired direction or easily concealed by flowers or shrubs. It can even be built into a garage or carport wall!

HORIZONTAL INSIDE UNIT

Ideal for quiet installation in attic or crawl space . . . or suspended from a ceiling! This horizontal unit consists of a blower section and a coil section. A resistance heater section is optional. An attractive diffusing head with adjustable vanes and a return air grille are available for a "free delivery" and return application. Blower is famous Lennox "Sulky" type. All moving parts are mounted on a frame which floats on rubber cushions. There's none quieter. Large "Hammock" style air filter provides twice the normal filtering capacity.

Handsome neutral gray cabinet has gold colored trim, round corners, rigid construction and acoustical fiberglass lining.

Baruch Owes Knowledge To Classical Education

Perhaps the reason that Bernard Baruch, in his 89th year, is so much wiser than most men is not that he is more experienced but that he has read more history and that his education was classical. He still sometimes reads Latin and Greek for his amusement and edification.

The man who assumes that history began when he was born will, of course, never learn that there has been a long chain of events which composed his environment, both natural and historical. Without a profound knowledge of history, it is hardly possible to grasp what is going on at this moment, certainly not what is occurring in so many different parts of the world.

Every day, one hears opinions about war and peace and what should be a good line of defense for the United States, although history teaches that there is no good line of defense and that a nation makes its stand when it has a possibility of winning and does not wait until all the advantages have accrued to its enemies. This we did in 1945 when we permitted Soviet Russia to win our war with Nazi Germany and again in 1948 when we permitted Soviet Russia to gather all the advantages of our war with Japan in which the Russians did not participate at all in any realistic way.

Our current difficulties stem from these two errors of judgment, one of which was the result of an administration seeking to please the voters, particularly the mammas who wanted their sons home as soon as possible, and the other was due to extraordinary bad judgment and an utter disregard of historical factors. A decade later, the errors stand out clearly.

Now we are capable of making another error with regard to where to resist the Soviet Universal State because politicians are more concerned with the cowardice of high standard of living people who refuse to grasp the essential historic fact that it is usual for low standard of living peoples to seek to grasp the benefits from high standard of living peoples if they can. And it is not unusual for high standard of living peoples to become soft and unpatriotic and self-centered and to seek to preserve their private fortunes at any cost. Usually, they lose their private fortunes by war or revolution.

In this congressional campaign, which is so crucial historically, there are practically no arguments, debates or discussions. This is a rare moment in our history. The nation is suffering because of an inflation which is producing a debased currency. A flight of capital is occurring which started as a form of income tax evasion and has developed into an investment in industries abroad which compete with ours to our detriment. Congressional investigations have disclosed that many labor unions which are in control of vital national industries and services have fallen into the hands of corrupt and abusive men who have used them for national harm.

These are but a few questions that should be but are not discussed in this canvass to elect a new Congress. The career of Jimmy Hoffa may have disgusted some, but it has not stirred the nation to indignation. It is true that William Knowland in California and Barry Goldwater in Arizona have raised some of these issues but most of the candidates are talking about nothing, just uttering sound, and what is more startling is that neither the people nor the press seem to care much that this election, at a time of an historical crisis that can lead to war, is a mumbling and fumbling affair about nothing that makes any sense. Are we stupid or have we lost our sense of country?

It is a question that sooner or later will need to be answered in the blood of our sons. For if we have lost our sense of country, our feel for the country, then the enemy will take full advantage of our weakness, as enemies always do of weak nations. If it is more important to protect a private fortune than it is national dignity, then we may find ourselves without dignity and without fortunes

And this election campaign, thus far, would indicate that the reason candidates avoid taking stands on issues is because the people do not take a stand. The candidates reflect the times which is an era of laissez faire, of anything goes.

To Usher In International Week At N.O.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —A public flag raising ceremony Sunday will usher in "International Week" in New Orleans — a week-long festival to promote world trade and friendship.

The flag raising ceremony will be presided over by Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison.

The celebration of mutual international flavor is a community wide endeavor supported by civic and business leaders for the week Oct. 12-18.

During the festival New Orleans' main thoroughfare, famed Canal Street, will be converted into a giant showcase of foreign goods and special exhibits in the store windows.

Also the city's central business district will be filled with public entertainment by foreign musicians, singers and dancers, performing daily in their colorful native dress from special platforms.

From street parade, display and dancing, the festivities will lead up to a luncheon on Friday, Oct. 17, honoring foreign ambassadors and a hotel dinner and formal dance Saturday evening climaxing the week of events.

Ambassadors of thirty nations have been invited.

"Our objective," said Leon Godchaux II, chairman of the festival's steering committee, "is to stimulate widespread interest in foreign goods and products and demonstrate the leadership of New Orleans in promoting the healthy, two-way trade which we believe is vital to our national economy as well as to the welfare of the friendly nations of the world with whom we trade.

"In doing so we hope to focus attention on our city as a great world port and trade center. And at the same time we feel that we shall make a contribution to the cause in international good will and understanding."

The week will mark the tenth anniversary of the International Trade Mart, a huge center for foreign nations' trade activities.

There also will be two formal dedications during the week, the new Louisiana Supreme Court Building in the Civic Center and the $65,000,000 Mississippi River bridge at New Orleans which was opened last April.

ALUMINUM BOOST

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Reynolds Metals Co. announced it plans to boost aluminum production at its San Patricio plant by two million pounds per month within the next 30 days. The increase at San Patricio will bring production there to 14 million pounds a month, or to about 90 per cent of capacity.

Tight-Lipped Silence Kept Before Firing

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Right up to the last minute, the Air Force kept a tight-lipped silence on unofficial advance reports that the second U.S. moon rocket shot would be attempted before dawn today.

But several thousand persons swarmed the beaches for miles south of the missile test center to watch the blazing take-off of man's most ambitious attempt to reach out in his universe.

Many came before midnight to stake claims on parking places from which they had unobstructed views of the 88-foot missile. Bathed in the glare of huge searchlights. The rocket was clearly visible to beach watchers eight to 10 miles distant.

By 1 a.m., nearly three hours before the appointed blast-off time, a steady stream of autos clogged the causeway road linking Coca Beach and Cape Canaveral with the mainland town of Cocoa. license tags showed they came from all parts of the nation.

Fires dotted the beaches through the night as many prepared suppers.

EXCEPTION GRANTED

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The sacred College of Cardinals Friday broke with tradition and gave extraordinary permission for the saying of funeral masses on Sunday for Pope Pius XII. Ordinarily requiem masses are not said on Sundays.

INVALID CREDENTIALS

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The death of Pope Pius XII caused considerable administrative activity and problems. Msgr. Emanuele Clarizio, the first papal internuncio (representative) to Pakistan, was unable to leave for his post in Karachi. His credentials, signed by Pius XII, no longer were valid. According to apostolic law, all acts and provisions by a pope are invalid if they are not executed before his death.

Cost Boost At Hospital Is Reported

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Board of Trustees of State Mental Hospitals reported Friday that increases in United Gas Corp. rates have boosted costs to the hospital at Whitfield by $43,320 annually.

The rate increase was put into effect by the firm in 62 communities this year. The rate increase was instituted under bond pending a decision on the request by the State Public Service Commission.

The firm sought a $1,764,000 annual increase.

Seth Hudspeth, director for the Mental Hospital Board, told Commission Chairman Norman Johnson Jr. that Whitfield patients are deprived of $86,540 worth of services because of the increase.

He said the mental board will meet Tuesday to appeal for commission rejection of the rate increase.

Hudspeth said the appropriation for the 1958-60 biennium has been made and no provisions can be made to take up the added costs during the next two years, except by reducing services.

The commission continued its hearing Friday, with company witnesses undergoing cross-examination.

E. L. Anderson of Shreveport, La., operating vice president for the Louisiana-Mississippi division of the company, testified that 16 northwest Mississippi towns pay 47½ cents per MCF for gas, while towns south of the area pay 25 cents. He said the higher rate was a result of having to buy gas from Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. at 32 cents to resell in the section.

He said industrial customers bought the gas for 40 cents per MCF.

Anderson said the rate increases cost residential users from $1 to $2.50 a month, but that this does not jeopardize small home ownership.

Anderson said that while industrial rates are 40 cents per MCF in Mississippi, they are 17, 18 and 21 cents in Louisiana. He said this would not be a decisive factor in industrial growth.

Anderson was noncommittal to a commission suggestion that rates should be raised in Louisiana and lowered in Mississippi to equalize consumer cost.

He also said company earnings for the first six months of 1958 were higher than either for the full 12 months of 1956 or 1957.

ON FAR EAST

Council Requests Action By U.N.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic Advisory Council called on the Eisenhower administration Saturday to take the Far Eastern crisis to the United Nations for a solution.

It also urged a U.N. program of self-determination for Formosa, the island bastian held by the Chinese Nationalists.

The council, set up as a between conventions voice of the Democratic Party, issued a foreign policy declaration apparently intended to bridge the varying view points expressed by such council members as former President Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson.

Both Truman and Stevenson, the twice-defeated presidential nominees, approved the statement along with such other party leaders as Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

The statement offered no judgment on the dispute — which has divided even Democratic leaders— as to whether the United States should help defend the Quemoy and Matsu islands against a Chinese Communist attack.

It did assail the administration's foreign policy, described as "six years of leaderless vacillation," and defended the right of the Democratic opposition to criticize that policy.

The 24-member council said U. S. action should not prejudice current negotiatons with Communist China over the offshore islands and should recognize treaty pledges to the Chinese Nationalists.

But then, it said, this nation "should submit the breach of peace in the Formosa area to the United Nations for action, seeking a definitive solution to the perennial threats to the peace which exist there."

The council said that after consulting other governments the United States should ask the U.N. for recommendations to:

—"Secure and stabilize the whole Formosa area in such a way as to prevent aggression from any source in any direction".

—"Secure to the people on Formosa the right to determine their own future."

The council did not detail its ideas about self - determination for Formosa or suggest how the U.N. should deal with Communist China, which is not a member.

In its attack on administration foreign policy, the council said the administration had "led us to the brink of isolation from our allies and to the brink of having to fight a nuclear war inadequately prepared and alone."

Ask Suggestions To Improve La. Election Laws

Members of the Police Jury Association will be queried next week on their suggestions for improving Louisiana election laws.

W. A. Breedlove, secretary of the Association, stated yesterday that Sen. John J. Petre of New Orleans has invited such suggestions with the idea of clarifying any conflicts and ambiguousness in the election laws.

The recommendations will be forwarded to the joint legislative committee on election laws.

Breedlove stated that letters of inquiry will be sent out to all officers of the association, members of the executive board, and secretary-treasurers of police juries, asking for their ideas on improving the election laws.

"Too liberal" absentee voting laws are being mentioned as one of the places where improvement is needed.

TEXT BOOK REVISION

BERLIN (UPI) — The Soviets are revising the principle textbook of Communism to eliminate "false" Stalinist theories, the East German news agency ADN disclosed Friday. ADN reported a speech by N. I. Shatagin, deputy director of the Institute for Marxism - Leninism of the Soviet Central Committee, at a meeting in East Berlin Thursday of representatives of Marxist institutes. Shatagin said the book, "A Short Course in the History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union" was being revised by a "collective" of writers.

Bishop Mourns Pope's Passing

POPE PIUS XII
by
MOST REV. CHARLES P. GRECO, D. D., BISHOP OF ALEXANDRIA

The passing of Pope Pius XII has cast a pall of sadness over the whole Christian world.

Pope Pius was universally loved and respected as a great churchman and world leader. When word spread that Pope Pius was gravely ill, messages of sympathy and of prayers were received at Castel Gandolfo from many heads of state, like our own President, Queen Elizabeth of England, the President of Italy and others and from people of every walk of life in practically every country of the western world.

In every Catholic Church throughout the world prayers were offered for him. The Protestant Episcopal Church convention in Miami paused in its deliberation to pray for Pope Pius.

As the news of his death was broadcast to the world from Rome flags were ordered to fly at half-mast, church bells tolled and glowing tributes poured in from all over the world. The secular press announced the Pope's passing with streaming headlines and devoted vast amount of space to the life of the great Pope who has gone to his reward. Radio and television networks carried programs of the Pope's life and accomplishments. Protestants and Jews joined Catholics in their sorrow and offered unstinted tributes to Pope Pius.

But in the church there is deeper mourning and sorrow. The Church has lost her intrepid leader, her amazing teacher, her kindly father, her divinely constituted head. He was an unrelenting fighter for the church's right to teach and carry on the work of Christ in the world, as witness his conflict with Hitler, Mussolini and atheistic communism.

His almost daily pronouncements, to audiences, conventions or in encyclical letters, on practically every subject affecting human welfare, were carried by the press and radio to all parts of the world. He has been the most quoted Pope. And his fatherly love was manifest in his messages to the church and in the audiences in which he received more than ten million people, Catholic and non-Catholic, during his reign of 19 years. He spoke to them in seven or eight different languages.

He was a truly modern Pope. He more than any other sought to suit the church's discipline and ministrations to the needs of the time, and brought Christ's teachings to the level of every man.

To make it possible in his fatherly solicitude, for the teeming millions of Catholics all over the world to assist at Holy Mass and receive Holy Communion with even greater frequency than before, as the best antidote to secularism and to foster closer union with God, he allowed evening mass and eased the fast requirements for Holy Communion.

His saintliness was evident in his daily life and remains an inspiration and example to all. He was another of our great modern saints, and we feel certain it will not be long before the process of his canonization will be instituted in the church.

As the Pope of Peace he worked indefatigably and devoted his whole lifetime to peace and to heal the wounds of war. "Opus Justitiae Pax" was his motto. "Peace is the work (or fruit) of Justice." He was the champion of the downtrodden and provided assistance to the victims of war and oppression all over the world.

He had a deep affection for America. The only Pope to have ever visited the United States, he loved America, with her freedoms, her way of life, her generosity; he showed his love in many tangible ways and he hardly held an audience with an American group without expressing this love.

But anything and everything we can say about Pope Pius XII has already been said in even more glowing terms by important people in the world, by press, radio and television.

But I like to remember Pope Pius in little things, the intimate personal glimpses of him coming out of some of the twelve audiences I had with him.

In an audience, after my official business was completed, I asked His Holiness to grant me the honor of posing with him for a picture.

"Ah," he said, "you like to have a 'pitcher'."

I must have smiled at the pronunciation and the Holy Father remarked it.

"Oh, did I say it wrong?" he asked.

"Yes, Holy Father. It's picture, not pitcher."

"Oh, picture, picture. "Now" he continued with a twinkle in his eye, "When you go back to your Diocese you can tell your people that you corrected the Holy Father."

In my last audience with Pope Pius, a few weeks ago, at the end of my ad limina report the Holy Father reached for a handful of rosaries and handed them to me. He must have seen through me with his small, deep seated, but piercing eyes and asked: "You want some more?" "Holy Father, I can use all you give me." So he picked up two more handfuls and gave them to me with a sweet angelic smile These are now precious gifts, treasured relics which came from saintly hands.

When we parted I felt that was the last time I would see Pope Pius XII alive. He had started the audience by telling me that he did not feel too well. And he looked it, exhausted from nearly 20 years of generous, unstinting service to the church and to the world, as the Head of the Catholic Church.

The great, the kindly, the genial, the saintly Pope Pius XII is now history. He was one of the greatest and holiest who sat on the chair of Peter these past twenty centuries.

Negro Girl, 4, Is Victim Of Assault Here

A four-year-old Negro girl was brutally beaten and raped early yesterday morning. Her parents were awakened from sleep to find the child crying and screaming in her bedroom.

She was rushed to St. Francis hospital, where surgery was necessary to close a laceration on her face. She had been beaten about the mouth, face and head.

By 6 last night, Monroe police had picked up and questioned eight suspects, but all were released.

The offense, which carries the death penalty upon conviction in court, occurred in the pre-dawn hours.

Police, who were summoned to the hospital when the child arrived there at 6:30 a.m., began immediate investigation. Officials said that several detectives are working on the case, and an intensive search is being carried on for the guilty man.

The little girl could not be questioned yesterday, and late last night no details on the offender were available.

Police said that the girl slept in the same room with a seven-year-old sister and a six-year-old brother.

First reports said that the youngster had grass and dirt tangled in her hair, leading to the possibility that she was taken from the house and then returned after the offense was committed.

Area Negroes said that a similar offense happened last week, and that an eight-year-old Negro girl was assaulted at that time. Monroe police, when queried, said that they had no report of any other child-rape this month.

The youngster was "doing fine' last night at the hospital.

Urge Proposal To Suspend Atomic Tests

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States and 16 other countries sponsored a formal proposal Saturday that the U.N. General Assembly urge suspension of nuclear weapons tests during the coming Geneva talks on that subject.

Their resolution, handed in here Friday night and made public Saturday, rivals Indiana and Soviet proposals whereby the Assembly would call for immediate cessation of such tests, even before the talks began.

The Indian and Soviet resolutions were submitted a week ago for consideration in the disarmament debate in the Assembly's first committee, started Friday.

But some delegates already were predicting that the U.S.-backed resolution eventually would win out over both of them. They noted that the committee had upheld its essential point in a procedural vote Thursday.

That day, the group voted 50-9 with 19 abstentions for a U.S. motion calling for it to debate disarmament, reduction in military budgets and cessation of nuclear tests all together.

The vote, with only the Soviet bloc in opposition, eclipsed a Soviet motion to have the committee put cessation of tests first on its agenda and debate that separately.

EDDIE LIEBERMAN

Revival Set At W. Monroe 1st Baptist

An eight - day revival opens today at the First Baptist Church in West Monroe, according to Dr. Jaroy Weber, pastor.

Filling the pulpit for the occasion will be the Christian Jewish evangelist, Eddie Lieberman. He will deliver his first sermon today at 10:45 a.m.

Evening services were scheduled for 7:30 throughout the period of the revival. Morning services were set for 9:30 Monday through Friday.

Special music will consist of the 90 voice choir of the church, three pianos and organ, and six trumpets and tympani for special effects. Music will be under the direction of Jack Day.

Eddie Lieberman, the evangelist was reared in an Orthodox Jewish home. He attended Jewish schools of training and was a member of a Jewish Synagogue.

At 19, Lieberman was placed behind bars of the Federal prison in South Carolina. It was here he was given a New Testament and as a result was converted to Christianity.

In 1947, he entered he evangelistic field and since that time he has been busily engaged in this larger ministry. His campaigns and Bible conferences have taken him across America, Mexico, Europe, South America and Argentina. He has been invited to preach in Japan.

Dr. Weber and members of the congregation of the West Monroe First Baptist church have extended an invitation to the public to attend the revival.

Church School May Gain In Subsidy Move

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

A potential powderkeg involving church-state relations lies almost unnoticed in the Southern moves to subsidize private education.

Authorities said the legal ramifications, striking a sensitive point in American history, could ultimately put church-run parochial schools in line for tax money.

"The situation could bring the whole church-state issue into full cry again," said the Rev. Niel McCluskey, a Roman Catholic education analyst.

"It seems obvious to me that you can't take state funds and help those in some private schools and deny it to those in others," said the Rev. Dr. Claud Nelson, a Southern-reared Protestant specialist on church-state relationships.

About 90 per cent of the approximately 5½ million private elementary pupils at present are in Catholic schools. Lutherans and some other Protestant bodies have sizable parochial enrollments.

The Very Rev. Msgr. Frederick G. Hockwalt, director of the Education Department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, said any Southern plan for supporting private schooling would bring a reassessment of parochial school status.

"Our board hasn't taken up this question officially yet, but I'm certain we'll have to review it," he said. "Whether we would accept any support is a moot point, depending on the circumstances."

In modern times, Protestants and Jews generally have opposed government aid to parochial schools, while many Catholics have favored it in limited forms. All three groups, however, include influential exceptions to the pattern.

The differences arise from varying interpretations of the First Constitutional Amendment, forbidding any law "respecting an establishment of religion"—the so-called church-state separation provision.

In this connection, the Southern maneuvers for private schools, boiling up in Arkansas and Virginia and simmering in other Southern regions, has produced some ironic twists.

The effects, if eventually successful on a long-term basis, were seen as possibly leading to more Protestant - sponsored parochial schools — perhaps with tax or related help.

Eisenhower To Dedicate Church Center

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Eisenhower will give his official blessing in person today to a major milestone in interfaith cooperation—a "United Nations of Religion" under construction in New York City.

Eisenhower will wield one of six silver trowels to be used to cement in place the cornerstone of the 29-million-dollar, 19-story interchurch center, a stone and steel building rising in the shadow of famed Riverside Church and overlooking the Hudson River.

The building is due for completion in 1960. It will house religious organizations representing more than 40 million members and activities ranging around the world.

EVEN LUNCH ROOMS

It's biggest tenant will be the National Council of Churches, representing 37 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox church bodies. There also will be office space for the foreign and home mission boards of several denominations and headquarters of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. the Hymn Society of America and various other church groups.

The building will contain 10 high-speed elevators, a 500 -seat cafeteria and a lounge, a manuscript room, a chapel-auditorium, meeting rooms and other facilities, including an underground garage and small rooms where employes of church organizations may eat lunches brought from home.

The building will be modern—and sometimes modernistic — in decor and will be air-conditioned throughout. Potted plants will be used for decoration and colors of drapes and furniture will be bright. Acoustical ceiling, fluorescent lighting, resilient tile floors and painted plaster walls will make the building cheerful and quiet.

Most of the organizations that will move into the building now occupy old, low-rent offices on lower Fourth Avenue, between 14th and 28th streets, and neighboring side streets.

ROCKEFELLER GIFT

The National Council of Churches conducts its activities in eight separate buildings. When it moves, all of it 700 employes will be under one roof for the first time, occupying four floors.

The move in 1960 Uptown to Morningside Heights will mark the culmination of a 20-year effort to establish a national headquarters for churches and a central home for their cooperative enterprises.

The interchurch center will have illustrious neighbors, in addition to Riverside Church. Among them will be Columbia University, Barnard College, Union Theological Seminary, Jewish Theological Seminary, Juilliard School of Music and International House. The Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine is not far away.

A pedestrian tunnel will connect the new building with Riverside church and its new annex across the street.

The interchurch center is being built on a block-side site between 119th and 120th streets made available by John D. Rockefeller Jr. The ground was broken at ceremonies last Nov. 1.

Rockefeller gave the non-profit Interchurch Center, Inc., a 99-year lease rent free. He also provided 2 million dollars toward the cost of the building and financed the extra expense of a limestone exterior so the center would be in harmony with the neighboring institutions.

The participating religious agencies put up 5-million dollars toward the construction and New York Life Insurance Company made a $12,650,000, 30-year first mortgage loan.

Ouachita Life Extends To Ark.

N. Mantrozos, president of Ouachita Security Life Insurance Company, has announced an expansion of the company's operations into Arkansas.

"This is an extremely important step for the company in that it opens up a very large and almost untouched market in Southeast Arkansas," Mantrozos said. "That area in particular is within easy reach of our center of operations in Monroe."

He declared that with the opening of operations in Arkansas OSLIC's expansion in the future "should be even more impressive than in the past 20 months during which we have put over $8 million in business in force in Louisiana. We already have an annualized premium income of more than a quarter of a million dollars." Mantrozos said.

Ouachita Security Life officials cited the state of Arkansas' approval of the company as added evidence of the company's soundness and honest operation. "we submitted to and passed rigid inspection in Arkansas," Mantrozos said.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: If the Lord knows our sins, why should we confess to Him? How do you confess, and how do we know if He has forgiven us?
P.F.

ANSWER: Confession of sin is not to inform the Lord. You are right, He knows about our sins before we confess them. The reason we are told to confess our sins to God is because sincere confession shows God we are truly repentant. If we just tell our sins to God, that is of no purpose. As we have said, He already is aware of the evil in our hearts. But if ni a repentant, contrite spirit, we confess our sin to God, the Bible says: "He is faithful and just to forgive our sin, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

Many are sorry for their sins, but are not sorry enough to forsake them. True confession implies the forsaking, the giving up, of any wrong in our lives. "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts", says the Bible, "and he will abundantly pardon."

Many are sorry that their sins have caught up with them, sorry that their sins have brought sadness, sorry that their reputations have been ruined by sin. But true repentance means that we are through with the practicing of sin. As a way of life, we forsake it, and turn to the Lord. When God sees that a person intends to do this, He wipes the past out, and gives a clean spiritual bill of health to the repentant ones.

AUTUMN HERALDS FEVERED OPERA WORK

Art World Sheds Summer Lethargy

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP)— The Renaissance is here again — the annual renaissance.

With summer, slowest of all the music - ballet - art - book seasons, at last out of the way, the busiest one, autumn, has arrived. The lights are out, the audience is set, the curtain rises, and New Yorkers are off on what may be their most important, most thrilling and best times since the war.

Two leading groups, the Metropolitan Opera and the New York City Ballet, are celebrating anniversaries. The Met, 75 years old, will have a birthday party and then a gala opening Oct. 27 with the famed Tebaldi in "Tosca." The ballet company, 10 years old, has just finished a short teaser session in City Center in preparation for a longer later stay.

But there is other ballet, too. American Ballet Theater has attracted its generous percentage of balletomanes to the Met. A Broadway theater has offered, too briefly, "Ballets: U. S. A.," a program of four Jerome Robbins numbers. It featured his "N. Y. Export, op. Jazz," with the Ben Shahn settings. Premiered at the summer festival in Spoleto, Italy, shown again at the Brussels fair, it is one of the most dynamic, impressive works in the entire native repertoire.

And there is other opera. New Yorkers have already seen "Murder in the Cathedral," the Ildebrando Pizzetti - T. S. Eliot work brought down from the Empire State Festival in Ellenville. They are enjoying their own New York City Opera at City Center. The company is adding two numbers to its eminent roll of works, Richard Strauss' "The Silent Woman," in an American premiere, and Britten's "Rape of Lucretia."

An innovation which the music world watches with great interest is the hopped-up Thursday night program which initiates the New York Philharmonic's weekly series. Under the direction of the new conductor, Leonard Bernstein, and later guest conductors in turn, these are informal, super-duper dress rehearsals. Bernstein may stop the whole show whenever it pleases him to explain to the audience in the hall, or the TV audience if available, what's going on, or what's going on that shouldn't, or what's not going on that should — "wrong note, can't hear that drum, put your heart in it, my score says a rest." It's a sort of new angle to the do-it-yourself fad; now the audience will listen in on the conductor as drillmaster and pedagogue.

Bernstein also inaugurates a season - long program schedule based on the works of American composers, among them Chadwick, MacDowell, Ives, Ruggles, Varese, Gershwin, Barber, Piston, Foss, Rorem. Whether it's the fresh Broadway zip, or simply the new conductor, or the survey of native composers, the Philharmonic reported a record-breaking pre - season ticket sale.

Almost before the fall curtain rose, literary honors went to two books, each by a native - born Russian, one of them Boris Pasternak for "Doctor Zhivago" and the other, Nicholas Nabokov for "Lolita." Reviewers wrote a lot about the politics in "Zhivago" and the sex in "Lolita," but in a sense all this was beside the point, which was, that these were outstanding literary achievements.

Publishers always make October and November their big months in preparation for Christmas sales, and they are already up to their eyes in the lists not for the coming winter but the spring. In all these fields, fall is the culmination of no end of hard behind-the-scenes work in the preceding spring and summer. The Philharmonic, with a week's tour mainly in New England before opening its regular New York season, began rehearsals almost a month ago. But it had no sooner ended its 1957-58 year than it lined up fund - raising drives, drew up prospectuses and arranged subscription lists to be all set when Labor Day came. This may be its last year in Carnegie Hall before the move, perhaps in two years, to the new Lincoln Square quarters.

The Metropolitan Opera's chorus has been rehearsing for a month, general manager Bing beginning his ninth year has been back at his desk for several weeks after his annual European visit, and the orchestra was alerted to start work as soon as union negotiations were completed.

The Whitney Museum of American Art started the new year under a new director, Lloyd Goodrich. The Guggenheim kept busy in temporary quarters, principally with its International Awards, but Director James Johnson Sweeney, after a signal triumph on the lecture platform in Brussels, prepared for an early move to the new egg - cup shaped building erected by Frank Lloyd Wright. The Metropolitan Museum lined up a survey of American art and Homer and Gauguin shows. The Museum of Modern Art after a summer spent rebuilding and redecorating after its disastrous fire, was going to exhibit Miro, Arp, photos, design and architecture.

A spectacular fall program was planned by impresario Sol Hurok. His "International Festival" began last month with the Grenadier and Scots Guards; and in the course of 1958-59 he will show 500 artists from abroad in the Met, Carnegie and Town Halls, the Hunter auditorium and two theaters. Among his attractions are the Chicago and Pittsburgh symphonies, the Old Vic Company, the Theatre National Populaire and Spanish and Russian ballet.

The Little Orchestra Society begins its 12th season in Town Hall with the first New York performance of an 18th century mask for dancing and singing by the English composer Thomas Arne. The works of four composers will be featured; Norman Dello Joio, Morton Gould, Ernest Bloch and Aaron Copland.

There are novels due soon from David Dempsey, John O'Hara, Nevil Shute, Han Suyin; Field Marshal Montgomery and our General Albert C. Wedemeyer are writing about their roles in the war; James F. Byrnes writes about politics; Aline Saarinen writes of art collectors.

GETTING READY—The Metropolitan Opera chorus rehearses for new season which starts with its Oct. 27 performance.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Well Into Fall Publishing Time

By FRANCIS FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

We are now well into the fall publishing season and a great variety of new books are being released each week. There are titles among our most recent additions French poet Rimbaud. His was a to appeal to every type of reader. The most significant novel of the week is "The Day on Fire" written by James Ramsey Ullman and suggested by the life of the French poet Rimbaud. His was a strange and unusual life and one that would certainly appeal to a writer of Mr. Ullman's ability. It is an arresting story and one for the discriminating reader. Josephine Lawrence has the special gift of selecting the sort of a family situation which might happen to anyone and making a good story out of it. Her people are as real as your next door neighbors, presented with humor as well as understanding. Her latest novel is called "The Ring of Truth" and deals with the adventures of a young woman who went to New York in search for adventure and love. This is Miss Lawrence's twenty - second novel and her many readers will be eagerly waiting for it. Another story of present day life is "Venus in Sparta" by Louis Auchuncloss. This is the story of a man who had made a success of his business life, but failed in his personal life. It is written with feeling and discernment and promises to be very popular.

For the mystery readers, there is a new title by Erle Stanley Gardner called "The Case of the Calendar Girl." It is another Perry Mason story and is certain to be well received.

A very fine novel of the Revolutionary War is "Brother to the Enemy" written by Bart Spicer. It is the story of Benedict Arnold and his desertion of the American cause and how it affected his men. It is also the story of one man, whom Washington sent to bring him back and how he fulfilled this mission. Another story of our past is "The Crossing" by Clay Fisher. This is the story of the great southwest at the time of the Civil War. It is also the story of young Jud Reeves and how he became a man. Martha Ostenso has written a number of very fine novels dealing with life on the farms of the midwest. Her latest book is "A Man Had Tall Son." It is the story of Luke Darr and his family. It shows how a man can make many mistakes and think he is doing the right thing. It is a powerful book which moves swiftly to the preordained climax.

In the field of non - fiction there are some very readable new books. Bellamy Partridge has written an informal and colorful story of auctions and auctioneering from Colonial times to the present, which he calls "Going, Going Gone." Anyone who has ever had auction fever will want to read this book and those who haven't will get it. One of the outstanding American humorists of our day is S. J. Perelman. A new book by him is always welcome, especially a book of 650 pages called "The Most of S. J. Perelman." If you want a good evening's entertainment, don't miss this.

One of the most literate of present day American scholars and probably the expert on the subject of American literature in Van Wyck Brooks. His latest book is called "The Dream of Arcadia" and is concerned with American writers and artists who lived in Italy in the years from 1760 to 1915.

It is well written and will appeal to many readers. A perfectly charming travel book is "Mention My Name in Mombasa" by Maureen and William McGivern. This deals with the adventures of an American family abroad and there is a laugh on every page.

Your Ouachita Parish Public Library is ready to help you— whatever your need for knowledge, pleasure or entertainment. If you are not taking advantage of our resources, you are missing a wonderful opportunity.

BEAUTIFUL STORY

Ordinary Qualities Are Replaced Here

SIDE DOOR TO HEAVEN. By Alan Gillies. Holt. $4.95.

Harley Freeman is nine when this fine first novel opens, and married, a veteran, a father and a reasonably settled man when it closes. In between, he has wonderfully grown up, fallen in love, been frustrated, learned to hate, confronted tragedy, understood his own lacks, and arrived at a workable compromise with the unpredictable adventure called life.

As a child he has a club foot, and by a course of treatments it is at last corrected. But that may have been even less of a handicap than his family — a supercilious mother who would drive a man to drink, a father who has in fact been driven and seems unlikely ever to find his way back, a brother Claude who will be his unworthy rival all his years, and a tragic sister Violet.

Regarding the mother as being unbearable as she finds him, the father has a friend named Maybelle, and one closer, Miss Lily, right across the side - yard hedge. The boy senses disturbances at the older age level though without ever understanding much about them till the family finally breaks up and he and Claude move to the country to live with relatives, among them young cousin Irene. Independent, original and entirely lovable as a girl and an adult, she remains the central figure opposite Harley, and unhappily opposite Claude, too, for the rest of the story, though the hero will take Catherine for wife.

The jealousies that split the Harley - Claude brotherhood so savagely, the petty feelings that sour Catherine and Harley's mother, the love remembered so dearly by Harley and the uneasy awareness of it that disturbs both his wife and Irene's husband, the rich, well meaning and interfering Grecca — all these attributes, emotions and personages come smash together in some final climactic pages that give this novel more scenes of action than it has had in the first four - fifths of its long course.

But this is not a novel to be cherished for action, climax, sex or any of the conventionally spectacular qualities supposed to go into the make-up of best sellers. This is, rather, an uncommonly beautiful story of steady, rich, fruitful, simple, daily living, told with the heartfelt warmth. Instead of the flashy surface attractions, this has the central essential substance — the dreams, the family talk, the picnic, the swim, the choir practice, the rooming house, the parting, the loving reunion.

BOOKS

United Press International

Exodus, by Leon Uris (Doubleday): A novel of heroic proportions about the birth of the new state of Israel. The author is most effective when he writes of the Jewish heroes and heroines who escaped from persecution in Europe and the Orient to endure further hardships in establishing their own long - dreamed - of nation. Running through the novel is the strange love story of a young Israeli leader and an American nurse who was drawn into the struggle for Israel's freedom both by curiosity and compassion.

The Hot Half Hour, by Robert L. Foreman (Criterion): The adventures of a solvent but honest advertising man in the often-explored jungle that includes the turgid rivers of Fifth, Park and especially Madison Avenues. In a way, this is also a timely how-to-do-it book showing how to rig a quiz program on TV without ever actually telling a contestant anything. The author is an executive in one of the biggest agencies and knows his way around the quiz shows.

The Land Behind God's Back, by A. Den Doolaard (Simon & Schuster): Montenegro vanished as a state when it became part of Yugoslavia at the end of World War I, but the land is still peopled by the same fiercely free men who fought Turks, Albanians and Austrians about 80 times in five centuries to preserve their independence. Vuk (Wolf) Crnojevich was one such man and this is his story — fact embellished with the poetic hyperbole common to hillfolk. A. Den Doolaard (meaning "the wanderer") is the pen name of a Dutch novelist who has lived off and on for years among the mountain people who are the characters of this story. This is an inspiring story of heroism in harshness and victory in defeat.

Russia's Niki Adopts Family

NIKI. By Tibor Dery. English version by Edward Hyams. Doubleday. $2.95.

Janos Ancsa, distinguished engineer, early Communist, and civic - minded worker in Hungary, according to this short novel, has a job in Budapest but for lack of room must live in a distant suburb. There a small female dog, mostly terrier, likes the smell of his clothes, the sound of his voice, the way he lives, and adopts him.

Of course the Ancsas think they adopt her. But recognizing the female wiles of Niki as being fundamentally common to females of all species, Mrs. Ancsa knows Niki is flattering them and acting coy out of innate wisdom, and realizes it is the dog who decides to admit the dog, its the dog herself that decides to move in.

Ancsa, in his 50s, is an uncompromisingly honest individual who is not able to cover up for a party official who cheats. In this small city apartment, he is sent to jobs less and less important and farther and farther away, and one day he does not return. He has been arrested — Dery himself is now in prison for his role in the Hungarian revolution, and this novel is about a prisoner's return home, published in this country a few months ago, was an unbearably beautiful expression of this tragic experience.

But along with Ancsa and his wife, Niki suffers. She has been free. The Ancsas believe she has as much right to freedom as man. There is a magnificent condemnation of tyranny:

"The abuse of power, baleful vice of kings, leaders, dictators, heads of departments, secretaries, shepherds, cowherds and swineherds, heads of families, pedagogues, elder brothers, of old and young in whatever, this stench, this sickness, this source of infection, peculiar to man and unknown in any other carnivore, even the bloodiest, this curse and blasphemy, this war and cholera, was a thing unknown in the Ancsas' house."

We see little Niki's happiness, we see her pine away. "It's the want of liberty that's killing her," Mrs. Ancsa believes. The dog that leaped so frenziedly, loved her master beyond all reason, chased the hare and played with the ball, at last must wait too long at the door for the familiar step she will never hear again. Dery is so unsentimental, so unintentional, a little masterpiece as a dog story, and as a legend of the liberty cherished by all living things.

PASSENGERS RESCUED

HONG KONG (UPI)—The U.S. cruiser Helena Friday helped rescue 131 Chinese passengers from the Norwegian vessel Hoi Wong which ran aground Monday on the Bombay Reef about 450 miles south of here, the ship's agents reported. The agents said they did not know whether the Helena would transfer the passengers to another freighter standing by or transport them directly to Singapore. The Hoi Wong was en route to Singapore from the Red Chinese port of Swatow.

-THE ARTS-

BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Constance Bennett has been moving profitably around the country since last October at the head of one of those touring companies of "Auntie Mame" and has found some firm opinions about a star's life on the road.

The lack of real theaters is a definite drawback, she feels. High school and college auditoriums serve in their fashion, but they are not conducive to the best presentation of a play. They don't provide the "feel of theater."

The critics west of the Hudson are quite fair, Miss Bennett reported. However, in places where where there are no established critics, the member of a newspaper staff who may be assigned to do a review often feels ht has to lean over backwards to be tough in what he imagines is the critical tradition. (The verdicts of the New York critics are always more generous over a season than the verdicts of the paying public.)

"Matinees should be abolished," said Miss Bennett.

She doesn't mean only on the road either. They place too much of a strain on the actors, she pointed out. Also she feels that many members of the women's groups which contribute much of the matinee trade attend more out of compulsion than because of any real love for the theater.

The star said she discovered that audiences outside of New York are extremely hep and will not settle for anything but the best in the matter of actors and presentation. With movies and television easily available, the people aren't going to spend their money for the mere privileges of looking at live actors.

So far, Miss Bennett has been most delighted by the audiences in Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Denver, Kansas City and Chicago.

She said her most rewarding experiences have been with students of the drama at various colleges. Often they travel many miles to see the play and then visit her backstage to discuss the possibilities of an acting career.

Miss Bennett looks forward to weekends on the road because they give her a chance to relax. To gain more time for rest, she gets into a plane after a Saturday night closing and flies to the next engagement, thus saving a lot of time that can be devoted to sleep until Monday.

The star manages to live up to her reputation as one of the nation's "best dressed women" despite the hectic life of the road.

"I had one trunk for the spring and summer seasons," she explained. "Another was recently packed for me and sent out from New York with my fall and early winter things."

The major part of her wardrobe consists of slacks and sweaters of many different materials and colors.

"They're ideal for wear while walking to and from the theater," she said, "and comfortable for lounging, as well as being smart for casual day and evening wear.

"And speaking of 'best dressed,' I have certainly seen hundreds of women in my travels who know how to buy and wear clothes."

Irish playwrights won't be able to complain about not getting a hearing in New York this season.

The latest product of the Emerald Isle to win a local sponsor is "The Heart's a Wonder," and if that doesn't ring any bells, you may know it better as J. M. Synge's world - famous "The Playboy of the Western World."

And plays by Sean O'Casey and Brendan Behan will be here soon.

"The Heart's a Wonder" is "Playboy" in a musical version arranged by Nuala and Mairin O'Farrell, Lester Osterman, playwright Lillian Hellman and Arthur W. A. Cowan have acquired an option on the American rights and hope to bring over the original Irish company for a local premiere early next year. The production is now a London success.

"The Heart's a Wonder" is not a musical in the usual sense of an original score, dance routines, etc. The Misses O'Farrell have not tampered with the Synge text; they have simply arranged for the interpolation of certain traditional Irish airs to which they have fitted special lyrics when necessary.

Incidentally, a revival of "Playboy" in its original form has been doing well in a small off-Broadway theater, the Tara, since last May.

O'Casey, who has had many lean New York years — almost a forgotten man until recently — will get three productions instead of the two anticipated earlier.

The added starter is a revival of his "The Shadow of a Gunman" one of his early works dealing with "the trouble." This is scheduled for production at the Bijou Theater Nov. 19 as an Actors Studio presentation under the guidance of Cheryl Crawford and Joel Schenker.

THE Mystery OF MUSIC is a source of endless delight to children. The magic of the keyboard holds unfailing appeal. Constant association with a fine piano in their own home will develop and maintain that interest. Dependable quality, beauty of tone, ease of action are essential to a good instrument and the Steinway is overwhelmingly endowed with these distinctions.

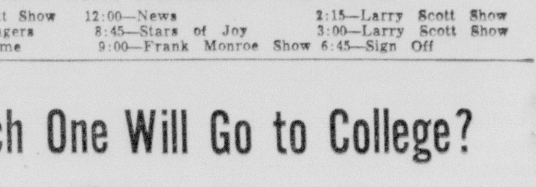
Which One Will Go to College?



They're bright kids. Many of them are qualified for a college education. Unfortunately some of them may be turned away.

Why?

Many of our colleges are overcrowded today. By 1967, when these youngsters are ready to enter, applications are expected to double. On top of that, low salaries are forcing too many gifted teachers to leave the campus for greener pastures.

It's not a very bright picture. Something must be done to change it before it's too late. Help the college of your choice today. The rewards will be greater than you think.

Published as a public service in cooperation with The Advertising Council and the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association.

TENSE DRAMA — Russ Tamblyn threatens John Drew Barrymore with a switchblade knife in a scene from "High School Confidential," controversial drama of today's youth, produced for M-G-M by Albert Zugsmith. The film starts today at the Star Drive In.

ATTILA — Violence overwhelms the screen in the giant Technicolor thrill drama, "Attila," starring Anthony Quinn as the terrible Hun and Sophis Loren as a power-hungry, pleasure-made darling of a decadent empire. The picture starts Thursday at the Jim Theatre.

$58 MISSING

DETROIT (AP) — Common Pleas Judge Harry J. Dingeman recessed his court and went to his chambers to write some checks. He discovered his checkbook and a wallet containing $58 were missing. Police were investigating the apparent theft.

PIGS EAT BETTER

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) —A Cornell University study showed the average U.S. pig of today eats better than his ancestor.

Three pigs from the same litter were fed rations commonly used in 1910, 1930 and 1958 as part of an experiment at the department of animal husbandry at Cornell.

The 1910 menu added 25 pounds to one pig during the 67-day test. The pig fed the 1930 ration gained 44 pounds, but the pig with the modern menu put on 105 pounds.

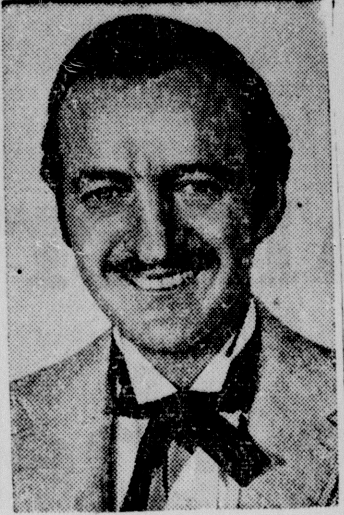
"NORTHEAST LOUISIANA'S MOST COMPLETE MUSIC STORE"



DAVID NIVEN plays Phileas Fogg, the intrepid adventurer in Michael Todd's production of "Around the World in 80 Days."

Greatest Show Is Showing At Jim Theatre

Michael Todd's Academy Award winning "Around the World in 80 Days begins a special engagement at the Jim Theatre. The Technicolor comedy adventure hit not only garnered over 80 world wide awards and honors, and five Oscars but holds a host of records in motion picture annals.

Featuring David Niven, the hilarious Mexican comic Cantinflas, Robert Newton and Shirley MacLaine, "Around The World" holds the record for the most stars — 48 — ever to appear in a picture, each playing a role germane to the show. Some of these luminaries are such favorites as Marlene Dietrich, Frank Sinatra, George Raft, Red Skelton, Ronald Colman, Charles Boyer, Fernandel, Buster Keaton and many others.

Another record for "80 Days" is the most people photographed in separate world-wide locations: 68,894 persons (all on the payroll) in thirteen different foreign countries. A record-breaking 74,685 costumes were designed, made and-or rented to clothe this spectacular cast

Also for the record, the Todd production traveled the most air miles to make the show — 4,000,000; it used the most sets — 140 actual locations as well as the stages of six Hollywood studios plus those in England, Hong Kong and Japan; and it used the most properties ever employed in a film.

To cap the list, "Around The World in 80 Days" has become the world's most honored show. No other film ever received as many awards and honors. Aside from the five Academy Awards, over eighty top-flight honors have been bestowed upon it by organizations, critics and even governments all around the world.

La. Surgeons Are Awarded

CHICAGO (AP) — Six Louisiana surgeons are among 1,100 inducted Friday night into the American College of Surgeons.

The cap-and-gown ceremonies which made them fellows in the surgeons' organization came at the close of a 5-day clinical congress.

The Louisiana fellows include: Drs. Vincent A. Culotta, William Fisher, George E. McCaskey, John E. Ray, and Winston H. Weese, all of New Orleans.

Dr. Paul B. Daron of Shreveport.

COMMIE MILITIA

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China claims to have a militia of more than 66 million men. Recent broadcasts by Peiping radio said the militia was organized "to repel American imperialist aggression."

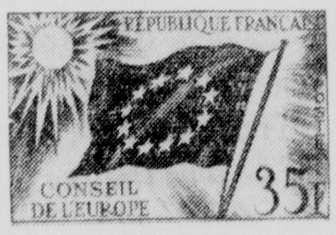
7-Cent Airmail Special Stamp To Be Released

The small sized embossed 7-cent airmail envelope will be the only one released at the ASDA Stamp Show in New York Nov. 21. The new envelope will be similar to the 7-cent "Jet" airmail stamp issued July 31 in Philadelphia.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may submit orders to the Postmaster, New York 1, N. Y., plainly indicating name and address. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 7 Cent Air Mail Envelope." The cost for each will be 8 cents. This naturally includes the price of the envelope.

France has issued a set of three new stamps dedicated to the Council of Europe. Each stamp is of the same design showing a flag with 12 stars. A bright sun shines in the upper left corner. The values are 8 franc, 20 fr and 35 fr. Also issued by France was a 15 franc depicting a view of the beautiful Chateau De Foix.

The United Nations Postal Administration has announced a tentative stamp progr 1959.



Feb. 9 — 5 cent and 7 cent airmail stamps; March 30 — 4 cent and 8 cent stamps showing the New York City Building at Flushing Meadows; May 18 — 4 cent and 8 cent stamps honoring the Economic Commission for Europe Sept. 21 — 5 cent airmail postal card and 7 cent airmail envelope; Oct. 23 — 4 cent and 8 cent stamps honoring the United Nations Trusteeship Council; Dec. 10 — 4 cent and 8 cent Human Rights Day stamp.

Reports from Hungary reveal that a set of sports stamps has been issued. Some of the designs show a table tennis player, Greco-Roman wrestlers, water polo player, high diving and a swimmer.

Haiti has issued seven new stamps dedicated to the International Geophysical Year. There will be only four designs, however, since three are repeated for airmail. Depicted will be the head of a U. S. satellite, an Antarctic scene showing penguins, a modern observatory and an ocean exploration scene.

To the Millions of Americans Who Helped Design the 1959 Ford Family of Fine Cars

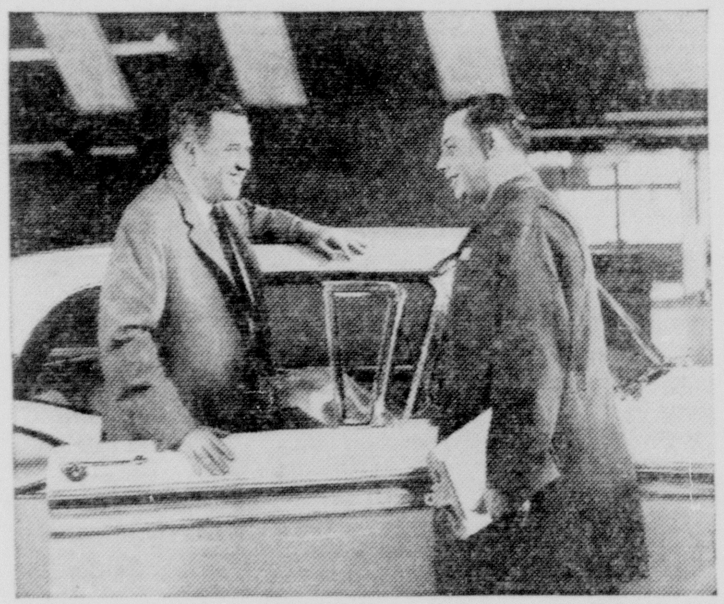
A message from Henry Ford II, Benson Ford, and William Clay Ford on the philosophy behind Ford Motor Company's 1959 models —soon to be shown by 8,972 dealers all over the country.

FOR 55 years our family has been in the business of making automobiles for the families of America.

First in our grandfather's and our father's time, and now in our own, we've been associated with the evolution of the American car. We've watched our cars and our ways of living change each other.

Through all these years we've tried to learn the simple secret of success in the car business: Give the people what they want.

Of course, when our grandfather decided to find out what people wanted, it wasn't very hard. People wanted low-priced, reliable transportation. You didn't have to do much research to learn all about it.



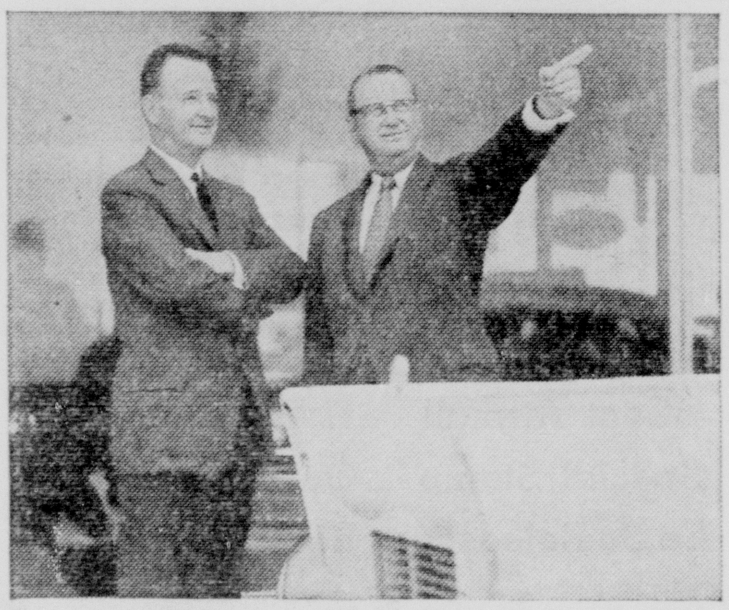
Henry Ford II, President of Ford Motor Company, talks about the '59 Ford with foreman Nicholas Metropoulos at assembly line of Rouge plant.

How things have changed!

Today, people want far more than transportation from their cars. To most of us Americans, the car is a second home.

We are the most mobile people on earth. We live in one place, work in another, send our children to school in a third, and enjoy our recreation in a fourth. We think nothing of going fifty miles to dinner, or across the country on a holiday. Is it any wonder Americans make such great demands upon our cars — or have so many ideas about them?

How do we find out what these people want — and what their ideas are? At Ford Motor Company we consider car-owner research one of our most important assignments. We do our best to find out what you like, why you like it, what you need and want, what you take for granted in a car, and what you don't care about.



Benson Ford, Vice President and Chairman of Dealer Policy Board, gets local picture from Lincoln-Mercury dealer Fred Jones, Tulsa, Okla.

We ask questions by mail, in person, and by telephone. We get suggestions from a farmer in Arkansas and a housewife on Long Island, a salesman in Arizona, and an Ohio teenager who just got his driver's license.

A host of new ideas

Our dealers across the country will soon be showing you the completely new 1959 Fords, Edsels, and Mercurys. Together with the improved 1959 Lincolns, Thunderbirds, and Mark IV Continentals, we believe they're the most beautiful cars we've ever made. Their styling is crisp, functional and well proportioned — every line with a purpose.

Our '59 cars are designed around people.

You'll find, for example, such things as wider doors to make our cars easier to get into and out of, even for ladies in the new tighter skirts; more leg room for the person in the middle, with the hump in the floor cut way down; and, you'll find all of our new cars — both V-8's and 6's — are more economical to operate.

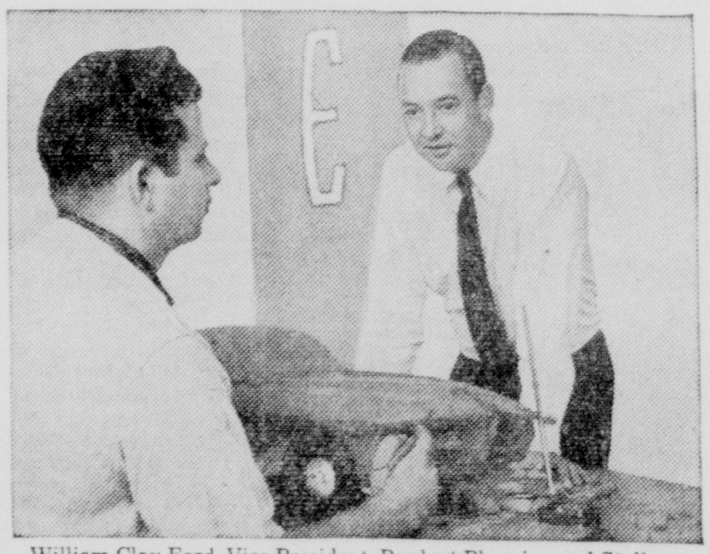
You'll notice all kinds of ideas to make riding safer and easier, more comfortable and convenient — from greatly enlarged window areas to bigger luggage compartments.

Never before has our company devoted so much time, thought, effort and money to finding out, and finding the way to give you the things you want in an automobile. And we make a car for every price range, from about $2000 to over $7000. The choice you have is almost unlimited.

6 different makes— 60 different models

In the 1959 Ford Family of Fine Cars, we will offer 6 different makes — the Ford, Thunderbird, Edsel, Mercury, Lincoln, and Mark IV Continental. In these 6 makes you get a total of 60 different cars.

And if that's not enough, you can pick from so many different colors, interiors, trims, and other choices in each model that it takes an electronic brain to count them.



William Clay Ford, Vice President, Product Planning and Styling, works here with Edsel stylist Deno Taglioli on 1962 designs.

We believe you will find, in the 1959 Ford Family of Fine Cars, the car designed for you. In a sense, it was designed by you — designed by you and millions of other Americans.

Speaking for the entire Ford Motor Company — its 273,457 stockholders, its 150,000 employees and its 8,972 dealers all over America — may we invite you to see our new cars before you buy? Watch for announcement dates in your newspaper.

Autumn is Outdoors

Winter and spring bring cold and rain, and summer makes the cool indoors attractive. But fall means outdoors in the South. What could be better than a ride, a walk, a hayride or wiener roast? Off for a canter at the H. W. McSherry place are left to right, Kathy McSherry, Paula Neal and Susan Bendel. The McSherrys often join them for a ride.

A "must" with the youngsters, come that first crisp tang in the air, is a hayride. About to depart on the first one of the season is the Beaux and Belles Club of North Monroe Junior High School. Among the obviously happy, are Janet Noland, Charlotte Berry, Sandra Cloninger, Betty Bray, Penny Nichols, Frank Eason, Kathleen Cochran, Marilyn Massey, Bobby Taylor, Herb Kilpatrick, Gretchen LaFrance, Richard Kiper, Steve Updegraff and Tommy Sparks.

At left: Fall is the time for a walk where leaves are outdoing Technicolor with every shade of gold and crimson. A path in Forsythe Park beckons to two seniors of Neville High School, Suzonne Kellogg and King Stubbs.

For October 12, what could be more suitable than these words about Columbus from Rosemary and Stephen Vincent Benet's "Book of Americans":

There are lots of queer things that discoverers do
But his was the queerest, I swear
He discovered our country in One
Four Nine Two
By thinking it couldn't be there.
It wasn't his folly, it wasn't his fault.
For the very best maps of the day
Showed nothing but water, extensive and salt,
On the West, between Spain and Bombay.
But Columbus was bold and Columbus set sail
Thanks to Queen Isabella herself
For he said "Though there may be both monster and gale,
I'd like to find out for myself."
And he sailed and he sailed and he SAILED and he SAILED,
Though his crew would have gladly turned round
And morning and evening distressfully wailed,
"This is running things into the ground!"
But he paid no attention to protest or squall,
This obstinate son of the mast,
And so in the end, he discovered
us all,
Remarking, "Here's India, at last!"

Poppyseed, Cinnamon

The finest poppyseed comes from Holland. Use it to give extra flavor to buttered noodles.

Stick cinnamon is the actual bark of a tree grown in the East Indies.

Dried Peaches

When you buy dried peaches you may be getting those from the freestone or clingstone fruit. One pound of the dried fruit represents six to seven pounds of fresh peaches!

Blueberries

Frozen blueberries, in 10-ounce packages, may be had in some food markets. Use them in recipes that call for (and have been tested) with both the fresh and frozen variety.

HOT BURGERS

NEW YORK — Chiliburgers make good eating indoors or out. Combine a can of chili con carne with beans and a cup or two of grated American cheese. Add a little burgundy wine and heat slowly until the cheese melts. Serve over grilled hamburgers on toasted buns.

CLOTHES QUIZ

Alterations — For Newest Fall Fashion

By BETH BLAIR

Making over clothes which you have worn so much you've tired of them is a time-honored hobby for some and a necessity for others. Consider the change of a neckline or sleeves in an old coat or dress for a new look. Would an old dress yield a good skirt or blouse top? Think about alterations and see if you don't come up with some good ideas. A reader writes—

Dear Miss Blair:

I have a beige cashmere coat which is a few years old but still good. It has straight lines with small shawl collar and sleeves with cuffs which they used to wear. Would it be difficult to change the sleeves so as to bring the coat up to style and how would I go about this?

Your idea to alter the sleeves in your cashmere coat would make it a little smarter and if you do not sew very well, I suggest you have a good tailor do the job. Generally, you would begin by removing the cuffs. Then decide upon the length you wish—about wrist bone is a good length for the tapered sleeve you wish. Then pin the sleeve to the narrower width you want—on inside seam—and check in full-length mirror to be certain it is right. Baste the sleeve and lining (which can be slightly narrower than the sleeve itself) and check once more. Sew by machine, press seams before turning under at the wrist and stitching by hand.

Declarer was faced with an interesting percentage problem in today's hand.

With a holding of 10 trumps but lacking the king, declarer's best play is the finesse "where all things are equal," for it will win more times than the drop. But declarer in today's hand was justified in departing from this principle because refusing to finesse offered him a better chance to fulfill his contract.

There is no clearly indicated strategy for South to follow in the auction. Normal practice with hands of this type is to preempt with a bid of four, but South decided to "walk" the hand in the hope of running into a double.

West opened a low spade and the continuation was ruffed by South. The problem of restricting his losses to but one more trick was quite involved. He could try the heart finesse and if that succeeded he would have a reasonable chance of losing only one diamond trick. Or he might abandon the finesse in hearts, relying entirely on the diamond suit.

Declarer first cashed the king of diamonds and then led the queen of hearts in the vague hope of coaxing a cover, but when West played low, he went up with the ace. If he should try to finesse and fail, a heart return would put him in a highly tenuous position because then he would have to find East with specifically th queen and two other diamonds.

Declarer then played a diamond from dummy, intending to finesse, but when the queen showed up his difficulties were over. He next cashed the jack of diamonds and whether or not East used his king of hearts he was able to ruff a diamond in dummy to bring in his contract.

The declarer had had a choice of two wagers. He could bet on the drop of the king of hearts or the diamond finesse, and he could bet on the heart finesse or Q-x-x in diamonds on the right. It will be seen that he picked the winner.

Questions And Answers

BETTY LENAHAN ANSWERS

Q—The draperies in my living room and dining room have a modern design in charcoal, rose and turquoise on a white background. One sofa is upholstered in rose, the other in a black and white tweed, two TV chairs in plastic with a pattern in black and gold on a white background and the dining room chairs in turquoise. The corner table and dining room furniture are in a blond finish and the coffee table is black lacquer. What colors would you suggest for the walls, wall-to-wall carpeting and throw pillows for the sofas?

A—Pink would be a good color for the walls of your living room and dining room and you might get the wall-to-wall carpeting in gray and the throw pillows in turquoise and charcoal.

Q—We have remodeled an attic room for a nursery for our three small boys. We have papered the ceiling with wide red and white stripes with a scalloped border to simulate a circus tent and painted the walls pale blue. The draperies are dark blue denim hung from red and white striped poles and the studio beds are grouped together and covered with dark blue denim trimmed with red fringe and heaped with pillows of various shapes and colors. All the furniture, including the toy cabinet and shelves is painted dark blue and the cabinet and drawer interiors are red. What colors would you suggest for the floor covering and bedside rugs?

A—Why not get the floor covering in your nursery in white and the bedside rugs in red?

Q.—I would like some help in choosing colors for my living room walls and a new rug? The draperies are turquoise and white, the three-piece sectional sofa is turquoise, one chair is gold and the other is raspberry red. The tables are blond and the accdssories are black, brass and white milk glass.

A.—You could achieve a cool, pleasing effect in your living room by painting the walls off-white and getting the rug in a black and gold tweed.

Q.—We are remodeling our kitchen and would like some color suggestions. We are using knotty pine paneling on the walls of one section of the room, also knotty pine cabinets and we have selected red coverings for the snack bar top and drainboards. What color would you suggest for the floor covering, and color and type curtains. There is a triple window facing south which gets a great deal of afternoon sun. On the east side and part of the kitchen, which is the old unit, the walls are plastered, which are not painted yellow, can you advise us on to another color?

A—Red would also be a good color for the floor covering as well as the snack bar top and drainboards in your kitchen. Cafe curtains would be a good idea as they can be easily arranged to shut out the sun and you might get them in an all-over provincial print in yellow, red and green. I advise painting the plastered walls a soft shade of green.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIS LAMAR MULLICAN

Mullican-Terrell Marriage Vows Are Exchanged

The marriage of Bess McCoy Terrell and Willis Lamar Mullican, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mullican of Baskin, was an event in the Riviera Room of the Penn Hotel.

The Rev. James T. Horton performed the double ring ceremony. Decorating the altar were palm leaves and cathedral candles in an arch design, and baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by Oscar Daves, the bride was dressed in a pink lace sheath model with portrait neckline and long tapered sleeves. She carried a crescent shaped bridal bouquet of orchids.

ATTENDANT

Mrs. Conley Thornhill served as the bride's only attendant. She wore a beige lace dress complemented by a corsage of brown orchids.

Miss Paula Ray and Miss Charlotte Frantom served as candlelighters. They were dressed in pastel ballerina models. Frank Parker, Jr., rendered the pre-nuptial music and served as organist for the evening. E. M. Wooten sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer." Russell Ray, Jr., served as ring - bearer.

Richard Thomas Simons served the groom as best man. Ushers were Conley Thornhill and Norman E. Foreman.

Mrs. Daves chose to wear for the wedding, a lace dress with a corsage of roses. The groom's mother chose to wear a blue lace dress with a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

After a honeymoon on the Gulf Coast the bride and groom will be at home at 1004 North Fifth Street in Monroe.

Miss Brown Is Honored At Tea In Colvin Home

Mrs. Charles Colvin was hostess at a tea Thursday in her lovely home on Bayou DeSiard, in honor of Miss Barbara Brown, bride-elect of George Brown of Crowville.

Receiving the guests along with the hostess and honoree were Mrs. Jennie Thompson and Mrs. Ray Purcell, Sr. Registering the guests was Miss Maxine Brown, sister of the honoree.

PINK

Pink, being the color scheme, was used in the flower arrangements and decorations throughout the reception rooms. A candle tree was placed beside the fireplace in the living room, and the coffee table held a mass arrangement of varied blossoms. Placed in crystal containers in the den were pink roses.

The dining table was overlaid with a white cut-work cloth and held as a centerpiece, a container of chrysanthemums, flanked by burning pink tapers. Miss Ann Edwards presided at the silver punch service.

Noted in the room where the many useful gifts were displayed, were also decorations of pink.

Miss Brown was lovely for the occasion, in a dress of red, sheath in style and accented by a corsage of white carnations, a gift of the hostess. Mrs. Colvin chose to wear a white lace model with a pink corsage at her shoulder.

Calling between the hours of eight and ten o'clock in the evening were Mrs. Geneva Thompson, Mrs. Ray Purcell, Miss Maxine Brown, Mrs. Ollie Mae Lewis, Mrs. H. F. Bryan, Mrs. John W. Brown, Mrs. M. Apple Slices

You can get canned apple slices packed with or without sugar; read the label to find out whether spices have been added when you are using hem in a recipe.

Bananas

It's a good idea to buy green-tipped bananas that are free of bruises and let them ripen—become speckled with brown — in your own home at room temperature.

MINNEAPOLIS — The nation's No. 1 secretary says a boss' effectiveness is due largely to his Girl Friday. The nation's No. 2 man agreed.

Mrs. Genevieve B. Bell of Portland, Ore., who was named the "Secretary of the Year," and Vice President Richard Nixon appeared at the annual meeting of the National Secretaries Association.

"If the boss succeeds, the secretary will, too," Mrs. Bell told her fellow office workers. "Of course," she added, "secretaries are dependent on the man behind the desk."

Nixon agreed that secretaries are "indispensable," but he warned that "a good secretary must not only be technically proficient but must have a sense of diplomacy. A good secretary can be smarter than the boss, but she should never let him know it."

Mrs. Bell, a secretary in the legal, insurance, industrial, governmental, investment and medical fields for 26 years, described her profession this way: "The secretary is the bridge between management and personnel—the shock absorber.

"The ordinary secretary chews gum — the professional one does not," she added.

Nixon came up with another criterion:

"She may be homely," he said, "but if she has brains, she is the most beautiful girl in the office."

Girl Scout News

To be outdoors these pretty October days (we hope it's not pouring when you read this) is fun for young an dolder alike. We're glad to hear of many troops planning their first activities in the out of doors, crafts and other indoor activities for later in the season. For almost every weekend a troop has put a claim on Pine Wood for an overnight camp. Troop 44 was there Friday night; we'll hear about this trip later.

Girls of Troop 24, now in their fifth year of Scouting with Mrs. Edmund Middleton as leader, went to camp in the rain on Friday afternoon not long ago, made a fire in the fireplace, made hot cocoa to drink with their nosebag suppers, and planned a cozy evening indoors.

Planned and carried out by the girls, campfire consisted of songs and games, lively ones for a cold evening. Do you know the elephant game with the song that goes, "One elephant went out to play, out on a spider's web one day"? It's an old favorite. Warmed up by the games the girls enjoyed homemade cookies and brownies provided by Mrs. James Benton and Mrs. Norman Johnson.

Two campcraft skills that the girls had not learned before proved fascinating. First, the girls stirred up a cookie mix, dropped cookies in a pan and cooked them in reflector oven in front of the fire. Girls who had never heard of baking anything except in a gas or electric oven, were amazed that the cookies actually browned before their eyes. The other skill was that of lighting, changing a wick, filling, cleaning the chimney of a kerosene lamp and a lantern. All took a turn, with many having to practice striking a match and now these girls are prepared to handle this kind of emergency.

Sleeping on the porch while the rain drizzled all night, everyone got the nine hours sleep required of all campers. Breakfast was breadtwists, of course, cooked on sticks over coals in the fireplace. The sun obliged by coming out about that time, so the girls who did not have the clean-up kaper revisited their day camp unit at Century Oak and other favorite spots on the grounds. A rather long hike over a trail these girls had not followed before, took the rest of the morning. On the hike they spent time preparing to teach a group of younger Scouts the Second Class requirements in the out of doors. There's that word "Prepared" again, linking all Girl Scout activities to the motto. After lunch of campfire stew cooked out of doors in the sunshine, going - home time came all too soon for these campers: Billie Marie Agin, Pay Ayers, Susan Benton, Becky Middleton, Robbie Hicks, Polly Johnson, Anna Margaret Miller, Barbara Suomi, Patty Powell, Mickie Varnado.

Adult meetings scheduled for this week are the second session of the pottery instruction Wednesday at 9:00, Northside Neighborhood at 10:00 at Mrs. B. O. Yeldell's, 319 K Street, College Neighborhood at Memorial Methodist Church at 1:15, another session, this one a cookout, of the training for new leaders, at 9:30 on Thursday, Program Committee on Friday at 9:30.

Job Is Letting Hubby Be The Boss At Home

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK — A working wife's toughest job is letting hubby be boss at home, says the "business woman of the year."

"A man must feel he's the head of his house. But it's difficult for the working wife to sit back and let him be boss," said Mrs. Louise W. Ilse, associate manager in charge of sales and communication for the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

She received the "Woman of Achievement" award from the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

HAS SYSTEM

Mrs. Ilse, who has no children and has spent her married life working, suggests these rules for other wives holding full-time jobs:

—Never talk shop at home, unless you tell a funny anecdote. No office gripes.

—Keep week ends strictly for the family — don't bring work home.

—Ask husband's opinion on all matters—"then go ahead and do what you want to. All wives do that."

—Always have a new outside interest to "avoid the treadmill of home and office, office and home.

A native New Yorker, Mrs. Ilse started with Equitable as a temporary steno-clerk and now heads a 14- member department.

"I was hired for three days. That was 34 years ago. I ought to own the company by now," she said in an interview before receiving the award.

In addition to running a home in Yonkers, N. Y. and a summer home near Long Beach, Long Island, she found time to attend night classes at Columbia University, majored in history, and earned bachelor's and master's degrees and a PH.D. She also dabbles in oil painting, plays the piano, takes piano - accordion lessons, cooks, and goes to the ballet and opera. An amateur photographer, she has won trophies for her slides.

MATTER OF TIME

Mrs. Ilse was the first woman to receive a Columbia University Alumni Federation Medal, and is a director of the university's General Studies Alumni Assn. and chairman of the membership committee.

"It's just a matter of organizing your time—and having an understanding husband. He helps with the dishes—we have a real partnership," said Mrs. Ilse, a small, feminine woman who radiates quiet efficiency.

Does she find her sex a handicap in the business world?

"I believe women still do the preparatory work for men—women make the bullets while the men shoot them. The time hasn't come for women to handle business deals with presidents of corporations. In fact, I've a sneaking suspicion that I could have gone farther had I been a man, but I also believe intelligence has no sex.

Look Into The Reading Habits Of Offspring

By DOROTHY ROE

Mothers who wring their hands over juvenile delinquency and wonder what the younger generation is coming to might find a clue by looking into the reading habits of their offspring, says Eugene Ackerman, a retired executive who has been studying this matter of late.

"If young people read such books as 'Tom Sawyer' and 'Huckleberry Finn', 'Robinson Cruso' and 'Gulliver's Travels', instead of the mawkish filth that is poured out for them, they not only would have a healthier slant on life, but would discover the excitement of good reading," says Ackerman. He has just added to the current supply of juvenile adventure literature with his first book, "Jeb and the Bank Robbers," a tale of youthful blood and thunder in a little Indiana town of the 1890's.

"Please don't regard me as a canting old goat gazing with alarm. I'm pretty serious about this. When I decided to take some of the boredom out of retirement by writing a book, I began to notice the stuff that school boys and girls were reading as they sipped their cokes in the corner drugstore in our little town.

"Most of the stuff was magazines of the kind especially numerous in drugstores that cater to the school trade. The art work, drawn and photographed, I found almost entirely devoted to violence and pornography at the lowest level. I was interested and appalled as I watched boys and girls from 10 years up giggle and blush as they leafed through the magazines and munched the candy bars displayed conveniently near the magazine stand."

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Songbirds In Center Show

By MARY M. JARDINE

Our display at the Garden Center was devoted to Songbirds in the Garden tying in with the excellent and informative program on television by Mrs. Peggy Garnett of Monroe. We have many colorful songsters with us all year in Louisiana. We are on one of the main Mississippi flyways and the time of winter migration is almost at a close. Therefore during the coming months we will see many additional birds that are not with us in our gardens on a year round basis.

When the little hummingbirds leave us we know that fall is really here. These amazing tiny birds, three and three - quarter inches at most have an uninterrupted flight of from 500 to 750 miles in migration to northwestern South America. The little ruby - throat arrives in early March and is a most welcome harbinger of spring.

COLDER

When the weather gets really cold we may see the lovely purple finches in great numbers. They swarm into our berried trees and bushes. They are about the size of a house sparrow and look as though they had been dipped in raspberry juice. Another delightful winter visitor is the little white throated sparrow. Their plaintive little song, sung in a minor key has been likened to the refrain "Old Sam Peabody, Peabody, Peabody." This is a bird of hedges and thickets and my observation is that it generally feeds on the ground. They finally leave us in mid - May to return in September and October. The energetic Towhee is another winter visitor. Known to some as the Chewink, from his call note, this colorful bird with his black cap and back, white breast and rufous sides, industriously works all winter searching for bugs and worms. His song, drawn out and wavering sounds like "Drink your teeeee—"

GOLDFINCHES

There is much excitement among local bird lovers when the goldfinches arrive. The summer plumage of the male is a bright canary - yellow which is broken only by a small black cap and the predominantly black wings and tail. One of the best aids in identification of the American goldfinch is its bounding flight and the call note that is often uttered when the flock is on the wing. Described as per-chic-o-ree. These birds have a preference for seeds of sweetgum and are often seen hanging from sweet gum balls. Both the ruby crowned and golden crowned kinglets are winter visitors in our state. They often join flocks of Carolina chickadees and the tufted titmouse to form roving bands. The two latter are permanent residents in Louisiana. The cedar waxwings are winter visitors too.

Among our permanent residents in the bird world are the blue jay with his raucous voice and bossy ways, the dainty little Carolina wren. The mockingbird with its wide musical repertoire, brown thrasher, eastern bluebird, pine warberler and the colorful cardinal. These are just a few.

With gardening in America at an all time high it is a natural consequence that interest in birds has become a national pastime. For a family hobby it cannot be equalled.

INVITATION

If you have not invited the birds to your garden you are missing a great deal of pleasure, both of sight and sound. The birds are so colorful and their habits and antics are so interesting to watch. Their songs are lovely to listen to paeons of praise to the Almighty. Birds are of great economic importance to us by eating insects and weed seeds. It is certinaly more fun and less expensive to feed the birds than to buy and apply insect poisons.

Provide food and shelter for the birds by planting berried shrubs and evergreen trees such as pines. A simple birdbath will provide water. There are many types of feeders available in the local stores. These are on display at the Garden Center. George Lowery's Book, Louisiana Birds, gives dimensions for making bird houses at home. Some suggested shrubs are hollies, pyracantha, ligustrum, nandina, French mulberry, with its beautiful purple berries, Barberry, honeysuckle, dogwood and mimosa. These are only a few.

Suggested reading: Songbirds in Your Garden by John K. Terres, Louisiana Birds, Geo. H. Lowery, Jr., Field Guide to the Birds, by Roger Tory Peterson. We are proud to report that Monroe has been officially made a Bird Sanctuary. We hope you will invite the birds to your garden today.

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — The season for fresh - pulled corn has long gone, and the green tomatoes each wrapped in its package of torn newspapers, are ripening slowly in the cool cellar for eating next month or, with luck, even the one after that. The narcissus are in the ground, the peony and iris stalks have been cut (and burned, not composted), the perennial garden has been dug over and fed.

There are still some shrubs to plant, a couple of oak saplings to move from a nursery bed out to the border, the tulips to set in and — for perhaps another couple of weeks, the hedge to clip, the grass to mow (no lower than two inches this late) and the fallen leaves to sweep.

It is, except for maintenance chores, the end of the season, and a curious season it has been. For once, in our locale at any rate, we never lacked for rain—all the watering I did all season long was from the watering can and only when setting in and establishing transplants. For the first time within my memory, the lawn grasses never had a mid-season dormant period, the deciduous trees never once looked dry and tired.

For some reasons I've fretted about a big elm which towers over the garage. Usually it started to turn yellow early, and each year — like all elm owners—I've worried about its health. But this year, with all the rain and the coolness, I know that at the moment at least, the elm so far has escaped the fatal beetle-spread blight.

A neighbor of mine, also an elm-worrier, has had the same experience. She, however, was so convinced that the elm was fighting a losing battle that she had a fast - growing sapling planted beside the old tree so that there would be something to take its place.

The rain and the coolness was fine for grasses, trees and shrubs but it certainly slowed up the flowers and vegetables. Our tomatoes were smaller than usual and about three weeks behind their usual schedule. The dahlias were late in blooming and so were the asters and chrysanthemums, but never have I seen such a fine display of fall roses than my hybrid teas put forth. Maybe it was better spraying, but maybe also it was the weather, but although the aphids were present on their favorite plants (roses, lupine and nasturium) there seemed less than usual. It was a light year for Japanese beetle and I didn't find a single red spider all season, even on the golden glow. But mildew turned up on the phlox, the lilacs and even touched the butterfly bush if you skipped one scheduled dusting. And, of course, the slugs — those slimy garden snails — had a wonderful summer and have a head-start on next season's garden unless they can be tempted this fall with fresh poison bait.

Mulching attachments on rotary lawn mowers come in handy at this time. They can chew up leaves so that, left to break down into rich mold, the process takes much less time than if they were merely heaped in a shady spot to let nature take its course. Best, however, not to use anything but oak leaves or evergreen needles for garden mulching, for leaves of elm, maple, and such are likely to become heavy, smothering blankets.

Incidentally, save the mulching material — whether it is leaves, peatmoss, straw or whatever—available for spreading, but don't apply the winter blanket on the garden until the ground has become deeply and thoroughly frozen. Then use it to keep the frost in the ground; to prevent the destructive heaving which winter-kills so many otherwise hardy plants by exposing their root systems.

Authorities Study Means To End Noises

By JOHN O. B. WALLACE
AP Newsfeatures

NEW YORK (AP) — "Noise," Philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer said, "is the most impertinent of all forms of interruption. It is not only an interruption, but also a disruption of thought."

Since Schopenhauer's relatively quiet era (1788-1860), life has been getting notably and noticeably noisier each year.

This is true even in the home, supposedly a secure abode of rest and tranquility, what with the din of blaring television sets and the increasing variety of automatic home appliances each with their own peculiar noise - making qualities.

The problem of noise in the home, the street and in the air is being studied by medical authorities, public officials and others. It is a vexing, increasingly worsening problem.

Martin Hirschorn, of New York, president of the National Noise Abatement Council, says:

"Under extreme conditions, noise actually causes physical damage to human hearing mechanisms. But for the majority of people, it is simply irritating, annoying or distracting. At its worst, it contributes to mental and emotional disorder, to accident proneness and to such physical manifestations as severe indigestion and headaches."

Aware, too, of the noise problem are architects, builders, designers and decorators. Industry also is creating materials to deaden and absorb sound.

Most homes need acoustical correction. Several factors are responsible: (1) increased use and variety of home appliances, (2) open planning of home interiors with fewer partitions, (3) increased use of wood, steel, plastic and masonry on interiors, creating hard, sound - reverberating surfaces, and (4) increased use of drywall partitions with higher through - the - wall sound transmission.

Stopping noise at its source can be difficult, but there are many practical ways to abate home noise. The key to acoustical correction is sound absorption — not to be confused with sound proofing.

Herman H. York, an architect of Jamaica, N. Y., exploins acoustical correction as an "effort to prevent sound waves from hitting a surface and bouncing back, re-entering the area from which it started possibly again hitting another surface and again veering off in another direction."

An effective way to achieve acoustical correction is to install acoustical materials. They can be used in practically any room.

On the other hand, York adds, "too much sound absorption in a room will result in a spongy effect."

All of the following items will aid materially in absorbing sound in the home:

Draperies, carpets and soft-cushioned upholstered furniture; resilient floor materials such as linoleum, cork or rubber in kitchens, bathrooms and playrooms; pads or casters under chair or table legs; mountings of rubber, cork or similar material under refrigerators, dishwashers and other such appliances to prevent vibration noises; and the planting of bushes and trees and the installation of fences around a house to absorb outside noises.

Buffers of resilient material also can be installed on doors, and it is advisable to weather strip doors and windows. Where possible, use double glass windows.

Try to follow as many of the above suggestions as practical. Even if you reduce the noise level in your home by just a few decibels, the result will be happily noticeable.

Myth Of White Spider Lily

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

From time to time, the column tries to answer for all its readers the most frequently asked questions in letters of enquiry. While we cannot answer all the letters we receive, we try to answer the questions in the column.

PURE WHITE

There has long been a myth about a pure white spider-lily. My gardening friends from Baltimore to San Antonio have either promised or sent me these "white" lycorises, but they always prove to be one of the creamy flowers. They are beautiful, but they are not pure white. In the catalogues of bulbs, they are listed as Lycoris albiflora. There is also in the catalogues a bulb listed as Lycoris alboflora carnea. This is just a flesh colored flower.

Of course, the other flower that is called a spider-lily is pure white. This is the spring or summer flowering native plant that has the Latin name Hymenocallis. The several different species of hymenocallis that grow wild in the South usually are found in wet places. They will, however, grow in ordinary flower gardens if you will keep them from drying out in early summer when they have leaves. The most beautiful one of these plants is the one that grows in the mountain and piedmont country. It has the long name, Hymenocallis occidentalis. These plants are closely akin to the so-called Peruvian daffodil.

April

When April rolls around again, you can order the Peruvian daffodils in white or in light yellow. The plants do not usually flower well when they are left out without a deep mulch over winter. In trying out new and strange bulbs for winter hardiness, your columnist has found that a new bulb from South America seems to flower all right after a cold winter. This bulb is called Elisena. It certainly is a spidery looking blossom! The flowers look like a daffodil whose petals had been turned into a fringe. Would you believe that this plant was named for Princess Elise, sister of Napoleon!

The information about how to make a wisteria bloom has been so many times given in gardening magazines and books that we thought almost everyone knew about it, but we still get requests for this information. At this time of the year, cut the roots of your wisteria in a circle about a foot out from the shadow of the plant at noon. Then, some time about the 4th of July next year cut the 1959 growth back to within four leaves of the previous year's growth. If you have been fertilizing your plants heavily, do not feed them at all for a season or give them only bone meal. There is no such thing as a wisteria that "does not bloom"; when conditions are right it will bloom.

CANDLE TREE—Growing in a natural candelabra arrangement is this golden, fall-blooming tree.

THE HOME SHIFT

Cool Nights Falling Leaves,

By MILDRED SWIFT

Falling leaves and cool nights! Two indications that fall is here. Remember those leaves are wonderful to make humus or to use as mulch. Also remember they'll smother your grass if they stay there too long. So get out the leaf rake. You'll sweep leaves till January and start mowing the last of February. Well! There's one month's rest in between.

SEED TO PLANT

You can get those beds well worked and pulverized for planting seed. Here's a partial list: Sweet Alyssum, Arctotis, Calendula, Candytuft, Coreopsis, Cornflower, Lobelia, Chinese - forget - me - not, African Golden Daisy, Shasta Daisy, Forget - me - not, Four o'clock, Verbena, Larkspur, Petunia, Phlox, Pinks, Poppy, Stock, Salvia (blue), Caillardia, Gypsaphila, Scabiosa, Snapdragon, Early Sweet pea, Sweet William, Queen Anne's Lace.

BEDDING PLANTS

Some bedding plants and bulbs you can buy and plant in permanent beds are: Calla, Calendula, Candytuft, Forget-me-not, Hollyhock, Pansy, Phlox - Drummond, Phlox - Perennial, Pinks Salvia (blue), Snapdragon, Stock, Dutch Iris, Daffodils, Jonquils, Madonna Lily, Regal Lily, Spanish Lily, Narcissus, Amaryllis, Hyacinth, Scilla, Speciosum Lily, Mont Bretia, Ajuga, Cally, Watsonia, Snowflakes. Some of the above you may not be able to find in the local nurseries and seed stores. It is a little early. Just get your soil ready and keep in touch with your store. When they come in you'll be ready to plant.

CRINUMS

The milk and wine crinums are blooming. My! They give you lots for a little labor. If you have a large property you'll want some of these. Any gardener who has grown the milk and wine lily for a few years will now have an overflow, they can divide with you. This is the time of year they're usually divided.

New bulbs of the fine varieties come to our stores in late winter, so you'll plant these when you can get them.

THE BLOOMS

The flowers for the most part are summer bloomers. As a rule, they don't bloom the first year. The older the clumps get, the better they are.

Crinums need full sun or filtered shade. They're planted very shallow since they are in the amaryllis family. That means the neck of the bulb is exposed when planted.

When you plant new bulbs or transplant those on hand work a little bone meal and sand with the soil before planting. Sand helps in the drainage.

CARE

These crinums will respond beautifully to a booster shot of complete fertilizer. Apply this just when the scapes start coming up. This is not necessary but the plants bloom more often with this additional food.

Another effective booster shot is a little well-rotted cow manure dissolved in water. Pour this around the plant.

By the way — Dehydrated cow manure can often be purchased in seed stores and nurseries.

If your plants are established and growing, give them a good feeding with 5-10-5, now or in early spring.

Some gardeners say the crinums of the milk and wine variety should be divided every five to six years. One gardener of many years experience says she has blooms from plants that have not been divided in 25 years.

DISEASE FREE

The crinums have no diseases, it seems. Often they are bothered by snails.

Most crinums have a delightful odor.

FOR CUTTING

Crinums are nice for cutting. There are two ways to arrange them: With a short stem which is stuck on a needle holder. This in a soup tureen I have seen, very beautiful when there are lots of blooms on the stem.

When cut with long stems they are lovely in colored bottles that pick up the color of the stamen of flowers.

Much of the above information came from Carrie McKenzie who has milk and wine lilies in her garden. Carrie says they also need water. Ellen Thompson was another source of supply, too.

OCTOBER WORK

These cool nights remind us that it is about time to dig our caladiums, before the frosts hit them. Dig with a fork so as not to cut any of the fleshy bulb. Let the tops die, then store in a dry place where they'll not freeze.

After clematis has finished blooming, prune the vine if it needs cutting back. The old fashioned white one will do this after a few years. You can cut the vine back to the root or best, cut out some of the limbs. Clematis blooms on the current year's growth so there's no danger of missing a year's blooms, if you prune now.

Transplant and divide pineapple lily bulbs, watsonia, agapanthus, oxalis, lirope, daylilies, crocus. That is — if they need dividing.

OLD ADAGE

"He who laughs last, laughs best!" Men have been amused at women's new fashions, the sack, the trapeze and others.

Well! At the 5th international men's fashion show in Germany, here's what came out: The dress suit is lilac; orange pants with the beige jacket; the wine-red suit with a silhouette like a bell.

Of course, the majority of the better designers of clothes for men are much more on the conservative side. They lean this year toward brown. They like the slim fitting pants with no cuffs. Jackets are loose, with no padding in the sloping shoulders, and a slight flare at the hips.

Tree Upkeep Suffers From Tax Cutbacks

Some of America's finest but most helpless citizens, her trees, can get along on the skimpiest budgets, but false economies on the part of their home communities are clouding their future.

Street trees certainly contribute generously to the municipal well being, offering beauty, shade, and even some dust control and noise abatement. In return, they ask for a rather modest quota of care and maintenance. According to the Davey Tree Expert Co., most American cities could conduct very adequate maintenance programs for their street tree citizens with annual appropriations of one dollar multiplied by the total number of their human citizens.

Street tree maintenance, of course, includes pruning, spraying, removals, replacement plantings, plantings for new streets and a "sinking fund" for storm damage and other unforeseen emergencies.

In the light of experience, cutbacks in tree care generally result in pyramiding problems that usually prove more costly than the regular maintenance program, say the experts.

Tree care costs usually are only a fraction of the total tax bill. In relation to its importance, tree care is one of the most inexpensive items in the budget. Yet when the city fathers are forced to go on an economy binge, this often is one of the first services to get the axe. Street and park trees are among the most valuable assets in any community — assets that make for more pleasant living besides materially increasing property values.

Cool Weather Leads To Work

By AUDREY DAWSON

With the cooler weather, you'll feel like getting out to do some of that work around the yard you have probably been putting off because of the heat. While you're working in your yard, you will want to think about providing a touch of color in your landscape during the winter and spring. Bulbs and bulbous plants will add the color you desire. Plant these bulbs in October, but prepare the soil well in advance — add sand and humus to heavy soils, and bone meal and humus to all soils.

NARCISSUS

The narcissus is one of the most popular of the bulb groups. These produce an abundance of flowers with relatively little effort. They start blooming very early in the year, and blooms can be had for a period of about eight weeks. Colors vary from so - called white to dark yellow with pink tints in some varieties. These bloom at a time of the year when other flowers are not plentiful and for this reason are especially important. They make excellent long - lasting cut flowers or may be used to add color to the landscape. They should be in all yards where flowers are considered of importance.

WHEN POWER GOES

Should a storm down the power lines and cause your food freezer to stop running, here are some practical tips on how to keep food from spoiling. First, don't open the freezer door unnecessarily, because this lets warm air in and raises the inside temperature. When the power is off, food in a freezer that is full won't thaw for two days. Dry ice is most effective to use if you saw a 50 pound chunk into smaller pieces and set them on pieces of cardboard on top of the frozen food packages. Although it isn't necessary in most freezers. A small rod, such as a pencil, put underneath the lid will allow gas from the dry ice to escape.

COLOR FASHIONS

This is news — navy makes a strong bid for all year round favor. This is a new entry for basic winter wear this year and may finally break the tradition that reserves it for spring alone. Rich reds, deep true blues, vibrant yellow and greens glow on every side to brighten the winter picture. Pale pastels and muted tones take a back seat this year. Brown continues its upward climb with many rich deep shades as well as the lighter tans and rusty tones showing high popularity. Perfect for suits and coats, brown makes a bid as a basic color this year and takes some of the play away from perennially popular black.

WATCH OUR CHILDREN

With the beginning of school, you see dozens of children along every street, road and highway waiting for the bus in the morning and getting off in the afternoon. According to the National Safety Council, about 128,000 school buses transported more than 8,000,000 pupils to school and back last year. The number of children killed in school bus accidents was kept down to 7, but 24 others were killed while crossing the highway or street to get on the bus or to leave one. So, drivers when you see a school bus on the highway, be alert and drive sensibly. Protect child - life with careful driving.

BREAKFASTS

Many recent surveys have shown that a high percentage of school children in the U. S. do not eat adequate breakfasts. Surveys show that girls tended to miss breakfast more often than boys and older children more often than younger ones. One striking fact is that children who had poor breakfasts were almost sure to have a low total daily food intake. The short comings of the breakfasts were not made up for by the other meals of the day. Mrs. Homemaker, what group will your children be placed in this year's survey — those eating an adequate breakfast, I do hope.

A THOUGHT

The more hot arguments you win, the fewer warm friends you'll have.

NEW YORK (UPI- — Darlene Gillespie, the glamor girl of the Mickey Mouse Club on TV, is a young lady with a bright future.

Her face is cast in the Sophia Loren mould and at the still-growing age of 17 she is developing into a pin-up girl. She not only is photogenic but has a pleasing TV personality and plenty of talent.

Young Miss Gillespie is cast as a singer on "Little Gems from Big Shows" (Disneyland WDL-3030), an LP containing songs from hit musicals of stage and screen.

Darlene does solo hits on "Inch Worm," "I Like You" from "Fanny" and "Shall We Dance" from "The King and I." She teams with Jerome Courtland, another Disney star, on "Can I Leave Off Wearing My Shoes" from "House of Flowers."

A couple of fellow Mouseketeers, Karen and Cubby, turn in a fine performance on "Dites Mois," the melodic opener of "South Pacific."

Young Johnny Nash, one of Arthur Godfrey's most recent discoveries, is presented in a group of 12 songs on an LP bearing only his name (ABC-Paramount ABC-244.) Johnny has learned a lot about showmanship from Godfrey and this is an excellent showcase for him. The orchestral arrangements by Don Costa are eloquent.

"Let's Get Away from It All" (Mercury MG-20387) is a relaxing 40 minutes with Patti Page and "Moments Like These" (RCA Victor LPM-1719) is an easy - going session with Dinah Shore.

Turntable Tips: All but forgotten in this rock'n'roll age, Andy Russell has a potential smash hit in "As Young As We Are" (RCA Victor 47-7335) . . . Georgia Gibbs, whose voice is so good she refuses to use sound gimmicks, takes advantage of a current craze with "The Hula Hoop Song" (Roulette R-4106) . . . The Mills Brothers have revived "Me and My Shadow" (Dot 45-15827) with the same effervescence that made "Glowworm" a comeback song a few years ago . . . Another revival that may click is Clare Nelson's version of "I'm a Big Girl Now" (Epic 5-9284).

For Teen - Agers: Best rock'n'roll number of the week appears to be "Whispering Grass" by Sylvia Sayni with the Ernie Yard Band (United Artists UA-143 X).

Stereoscope: "Concert Modern" Les Brown (Capitol ST959- is an ideal LP for stereoset owners. Selections include excerpts from "Porgy and Bess," and "The Nutcracker Suite" as well as a magnificent version of "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue." Sound channeling is sharp.

CONCERT

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — When you compare the contents of two new records, you wonder who is kidding whom.

On one you hear the highly touted piano virtuoso, Gyorgy Cziffra, play Rimsky - Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble Bee." On the other you hear Lorin Hollander, who is 13 years old, play the same and in all truth the boy plays it as well as the man.

Cziffra's new record is like his previous ones — an exhibition of pianistic brawn and dexterity which still doesn't answer the question, is he a musician as well as a piano - player? The new one is called "Paraphrases, Transcriptions, and Improvisations," and all are circus pieces designed for ears which mistake fast or complicated finger work for the fine and subtle art of musicianly performance (Angel-35610).

Lorin's first record is "Discovering the Piano — 22 Favorites for Students of All Ages" (Camden-460).

Included are such kid pieces as the Minuet in G. But there's a sprinkling of highly adult Mozart, Chopin, Bach and Schumann which offer interpretative problems for mind and heart, as well as showy transcriptions like the "Bumble Bee" to challenge muscles and reflexes.

Philippe Entremont, another young pianist who is getting a big build - up, plays the Grieg A minor concerto and Rachmaninoff's "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini" with relaxed ease and much self - assurance. He gets from them all they have, particularly since he was playing with the Philadelphia Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting. But that's par for the course for young pianists traveling in the best professional company (Columbia-ML5282.)

An impressive piano record is one in which Artur Rubinstein takes the dated warhorse Saint-Saens' G minor concerto and makes it sound fresh and exciting by sheer musicianship On the other side is his depths-probing playing of Franck's Symphonic Variations. His orchestra was the Symphony of the Air, Alfred Wallenstein conducting (RCA Victor-LM2234.)

'Dressatory' New Capacity For Bathroom

If you haven't already heard of "privazoning" and "dressatories," chances are you'll be quite familiar with these terms by 1960.

Privazoning calls for realigning the functions of the bedroom and bathroom by concentrating all grooming functions in a combination dressing - bathing - toilet room called a dressatory. There would be a dressatory for each member of the family to provide greater privacy within the home.

Under this plan, the bedroom assumes a new role as a lounging, living and recreation area in addition to its us for sleep. All grooming functions are concentrated in the dressatory, which adjoins the bedroom.

Privazoning has already been incorporated into many new homes, and parents report that children assume new responsibilities when they are put in charge of their own dressatory. Children sharing the same bedroom have plenty of room for their clothes, school equipment, recreational items and hobby material with individual dressatories.

Master bedrooms under this new privazoning plan have two adjoining dressatories, each equipped with a countertop lavatory, clothes closet, built - in chest of drawers and water closet. A bathtub area can be located between the two dressatories with access from either side. The private dressatory provides the homemaker with a retreat from daily chores, and permits her to complete routine grooming and makeup functions in seclusion.

The decor of the dressatory may either harmonize or contrast with the central color theme of the bedroom, according to leading interior decorators. These designers point out that dressatories should not only be tastefully decorated, but extremely easy to keep clean since they will become heavy traffic areas due to the concentration of facilities.

New Plastic Covering For Small Tables

With the return to indoor living this fall, many homemakers will become dissatisfied with the appearance of some of their furnishings. Biggest reasons for discontent, frequently, are the accessories and small tables which are serviceable but badly marred or stained. They lend a dingy look to an otherwise attractive setting.

Happily, today it isn't essential to spend lots of money or even time doing over such furnishings. With some of the interesting decorating materials that are new this season, it is easy to give a high - fashion look to scratched end tables, coffee tables, bookshelves and smaller accessories quickly and inexpensively.

For example, in keeping with the trend toward luxury fabrics in home decor, there's an attractive new covering called Stars 'n Stripes now being shown in stores. It features hair - line stripes of silver and gold thread with tiny gold stars sprinkled all over. It's a member of a well known family of decorative coverings and comes in a choice of four background colors — white, turquoise, pink and yellow to harmonize with the color schemes of the majority of homes.

The covering is washable and the metallic content won't chip or tarnish as it is laminated on extra - heavy, fiber - latex material which is then coated with plastic.

Best of all, the material is self-adhering and applying it is a simple project.

To resurface an end table, for instance, you need only scissors, tape measure and a roll of the adhesive veneer. Measure the area to be covered, then cut out the material, using the one - inch guide lines printed on the backing.

Remove the protective paper backing and simply press the adhesive firmly on the old surface, so that ends meet. Overlapping is unnecessary since the covering does not shrink or shift.

Looks 'Em Over

Once in a while, an incident crops up that makes all the prose and poetry about sportsmanship and fair play seem applicable in an age when phrases like "nice guys finish last" and "victory at any cost" are accepted as gospel. It's refreshing to know there are athletes around like Northeast distance runner Buddy McCullen.

McCullen corrected an official's error Friday with the unsolicited admission that a McNeese runner had beaten him and a teammate for seventh place in a cross country run. Northeast had already been announced as the winner of the meet. No one had protested the decision. McCullen could have kept silent and Northeast would have been the first Gulf States Conference team to defeat McNeese in cross country competition. Northeast would have won a victory they wanted badly and nobody wanted it more than McCullen. But he refused to accept a victory gained, not because he was faster than his opponent, but because an official made a mistake.

Victory at any price is not worth the cost. Thank God there are still athletes like McCullen and coaches like Lew Hartzog who realize it. Hartzog said after the meet that he couldn't have been more proud of McCullen if he had finished first. In losing, McCullen has won more glory for himself and his school than a hundred victories.

For years and years, the plaintive cry has come from Louisiana as it came from Brooklyn, "Wait 'til next year." It is no longer heard in Brooklyn for the Dodgers are gone and it is no longer heard in Louisiana for 1958 is "next year" for the LSU Tigers.

Tiger fans, a notoriously hard-to-please horde, are, for the moment, satisfied, awed even, by LSU's massacre of Miami. Visions of Sugar Bowls dance in their heads, Cannon is king and Dietzel is dandy.

It's a long way to the Sugar Bowl and there are no short cuts around such road blocks as Florida, Mississippi State and Ole Miss. The win over Miami has, however, proved that LSU is capable of beating any team on its schedule. They probably won't but they could. There is not a game on the schedule that, in contrast to years past, must be conceded as a probable loss.

If you insist upon looking forward to next year, it's a rosy picture. LSU loses only three players, J. W. Broadnax, Billy Hendrix and Larry Kahlden. Things are looking up in Tigertown.

Strange, we haven't heard any gripes today about "only beating Hardin Simmons 20-6."

Dave McKenzie, president of the Northeast Louisiana Basketball Officials Association, announces that their first meeting will be held Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in Room 210 of the Science Building at Northeast State College. Dave says the purpose of the meeting is to make plans for the coming year and to register. He urged all members, old members that is, to come out and register and said that any person interested in becoming an official should attend the meeting. Registration dues amount to $7 annually, he explained, with $5 going to the local association,—the Northeast La. officials assn., and $2 going to the Louisiana High School Athletic Association.

Ole Miss Drops Tulane, 19-8

Rebels Rally In 4th Period To Up Margin

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Unbeaten Mississippi's fleet of running backs slithered through Tulane's pourous defenses in the fourth period Saturday night to earn a hard-fought 19-8 Southeastern Conference victory.

Mississippi, seventh ranked in the Associated Press poll, pushed its final touchdown across in the opening minutes of the last period. But the Rebels had to squelch a bombarding Tulane passing attack to finish in front.

Fullback Charlie Flowers and halfback Kent Lovelace set up the final touchdown with ripping runs that took the Rebels to the Tulane 12. Quarterback Bobby Franklin tossed to Lovelace on the next play for the score.

The game was less than five minutes old when Mississippi scored its first touchdown. A Franklin pass was deflected by Mississippi end Warren Jenkins into the arms of teammate Larry Grantham for the touchdown. Bob Khayat's kick put the Rebels in front 7-0.

Tulane bounced back in the second period with quarterback Richie Petitbon setting up a touchdown with his pinpoint passing. He crashed over center from the one for the tally and passed to end George McLain for a two-point conversion.

Shortly before the first half ended, Khayat booted a 29-yard field goal that sent the Rebels ahead to stay, but the decision was in doubt until the fourth period touchdown. The Rebels picked up two points in the closing minutes when tackle Hanson Churchwell tackled Tulane quarterback Phil Nugent in his own end zone.

Mississippi started with a bang as Flowers, Lovelace and halfback Cowboy Woodruff chalked up good ground gains.

But the Tulane passing attack had Mississippi rocking in the second quarter. Petitbon's first pass completion went to halfback Claude Mason on the Mississippi 21 and his short tosses had the Greenies knocking at the door. He faked the Mississippi defense out of position on his one-yard touchdown punt.

Khayat's field goal that put the Rebels ahead 10-8 came from the Tulane 29-yard line. A good breeze carried the ball just over the goal post crossbar.

The Rebels went 72 yards in eight plays for their last touchdown. Flowers, Lovelace and Woodruff all found gaping holes in the Tulane defense to set up Franklin's pass to Lovelace for the marker.

The safety in the last few minutes resulted from Tulane's desperation passing attack and Nugent was smothered in his own end zone.

Longhorns Rally In Fourth To Tumble Oklahoma, 15-14

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Substitute quarterback Vince Matthews led a dramatic Texas charge with only three minutes to go Saturday to fell mighty Oklahoma 15-14.

Matthews passed the Longhorns over most of 70 yards of a desperate touchdown drive and Bobby Lackey, the regular Texas quarterback, came in to pass for the touchdown—and kick the extra point that knocked down the nation's No. 2 team and give the Longhorns victory in their rivalry for the first time since 1951.

More than 76,000 fans jammed into the Cotton Bowl and watched the struggle that found Texas leading for three quarters, Oklahoma taking back the lead on the grab of a Texas handoff, fumbled in the air, by Sooner guard Jim Davis, who lumbered 24 yards to a touchdown, and then the great surge of the Longhorns as time was running out.

The deciding Texas touchdown was made on a pass from the busy Lackey to end Bob Bryant from the Oklahoma 5-yard line. The stands were hushed as the tall Longhorn quarterback stepped to the line and plunked the ball between the goal posts. Then pandemonium broke loose.

Texas scored a touchdown in the second period on a 10-yard pass from the lefthanded Rene Ramirez to George Blanch. Don Allen, Texas fullback, ran across the conversion to make the score 8-0.

Oklahoma got a touchdown on a 5-yard run by Dickey Carpenter in the third quarter. In the fourth quarter, Texas had the ball on its 24, where it had taken over. Lackey handed off to Texas fullback Mike Dowdle, who fumbled in the air when hit by Jerry Thompson, the Oklahoma left guard, and Davis grabbed the ball and ran to the touchdown. Boyd passed to Tillery for the extra points.

Clemson Thumps Vanderbilt, 12-7

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Clemson's eighth-ranked Tigers wore down Vanderbilt in the last quarter Saturday night to win a rough fumble marked game 12-7. Harvey White scored both touchdowns, the last one with nine seconds remaining.

It was a hard fought, penalty-packed battle, in which the Commodores came within seconds of upsetting the undefeated Tigers, head of the Atlantic Coast Conference. This marked their fourth victory of the season.

Underdog Vanderbilt broke a scoreless deadlock midway of the third period on halfback Tom Moore's nine-yard jaunt around left end, and appeared on the road to a major upset.

But Clemson, denied a first quarter touchdown on fullback Rudy Hayes' goal-line fumble, roared back for two final period touchdowns.

White scored the first on a one-yard plunge and the second from the 3.

The first wound up a 76-yard drive and the second one a few minutes later climaxed a march of 69 yards. The try for two points failed on each occasion.

White, Hayes and halfback George Usry ground out big chunks of yardage through the Commodore line on the winning touchdown drives. White was keeping the Commodore defense honest with a scattering of passes.

Clemson	0	0	0	12	—12
Vanderbilt	0	0	7	0	— 7

Vand—Moore 9 run (Bates kick)
Clem—White 1 run (pass intercepted)

SMU Romps Over Missouri Behind Subs

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Southern Methodist Mustangs, flat and trailing by 19 points at the half, caught fire on the strong passing of two reserve quarterbacks and smacked down the Missouri Tigers, 32-19, for their first victory of the season Saturday.

It was an about face for both teams in the game played before 29,000 in bright, crisp weather.

Missouri did all its scoring in the second period. Ken Lowe and Billy Dunn then loosened their passing arms and had the Mustangs going away at the finish.

In the second quarter Missouri quarterback Bob Haas passed for two touchdowns. After intermission the Tigers lost the ball three times on pass interceptions and twice on fumbles. SMU made four of its touchdowns after those Missouri bobbles.

Dunn and Lowe handled the passing chores for the Mustangs' great Don Meredith who was left at home in Dallas with injuries suffered in SMU's loss to Notre Dame last week. Lowe passed for two touchdowns, hitting halfback Frank Jackson on a 24-yarder in the third, and connecting to end Bud Jones for 10 yards in the fourth period.

Dunn passed 22 yards to Mike Hackney in the third quarter for a touchdown.

It was the third Missouri loss in four games. SMU was edged by Ohio State and Notre Dame previously.

Tide Crowds Scoring To Beat Furman

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Alabama crowded three touchdowns into less than four minutes of the first quarter and went on to defeat outclassed Furman Saturday night 29-6.

A 52-yard scoring drive, a 14-yard touchdown pass and a 56-yard punt return to pay dirt by Gary O'Steen accounted for the opening quarter tallies.

O'Steen, a junior quarterback, also was on the receiving end of a scoring pass from halfback Bobby Smith on a play that covered 61 yards.

Cowboys Best Wildcats, 7-0

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — McNeese State capped a 40-yard first period drive with a tally and withstood a final period threat by Louisiana College Saturday night to save a 7-0 victory.

Fullback Harold Thomas stepped over from the one for the McNeese tally. Bobby Posegay kicked the extra point.

The rest of the game was a defensive battle, with LC gaining 192 yards rushing to 99 for McNeese. Louisiana College drove to the McNeese three late in the final period.

Shreveporter Paces Houston Over Wichita

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Pat Studstill, reserve sophomore quarterback from Shreveport, La., returned an intercepted pass 76 yards for one touchdown and caught a 38-yard pass for another Saturday night as the University of Houston used speed and power to crush Wichita 44-0 in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

Houston, undefeated in three games, scored in each of the first three quarters and then crashed for three more in the final period.

Wichita, held to a net gain of only 30 yards rushing, got no closer to the Houston goal than the 18-yard line.

Studstill made his interception return in the third period and climaxed the final drive by taking the 38-yard toss from fourth string quarterback Jim Rose with just 20 seconds to play.

Frosh Tie, 6-6

BATON ROUGE (AP) —Louisiana State and Mississippi freshmen fought to a 6-6 deadlock Saturday in a fumble-filled contest.

Mississippi took the lead in the first quarter after end Dexter Butler grabbed an LSU fumble on the LSU eight.

On fourth down, quarterback Jim Ragland tossed eight yards to halfback Buddy Crosby in the end zone for the score.

Bulldogs Stun Florida State Eleven, 28-13

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Georgia's bruising Bulldogs made no mistakes Saturday night and beat a scrappy, outgunned Florida State football team 28-13.

Georgia, which had fumbled its way to three straight defeats, was a poised, expert team that took advantage of a big edge in weight and manpower to whip Florida State's sophomore-studded Seminoles.

Georgia moved into the lead late in the first quarter when quarterback Tommy Lewis raced six yards on the option for a touch down and was never headed.

But the result was questionable until the final minutes when halfback Fred Brown broke away for a 62-yard run to set up a four-yard touchdown scamper by Charley Britt.

Spectacular as was Brown's long run, it did not match the thrill of Florida State's first touch down. Trailing 14-0 in the third quarter, FSU drove 65 yards to the Georgia 4. The Bulldogs halted the march and Bobby Walden punted out to the 43.

Quarterback Bic Prinzi faded back and tossed a 42-yard pass to sophomore-end Tony Romeo, who wrestled the ball away from two Georgia defenders in the end zone for the touchdown.

Georgia moved 62 yards for its first touchdown, then went 78 yards in the second period for another. Charley Britt snaked two yards for the score.

In the final period, Georgia march 63 yards for a score. The big play was Theron Sapp's 34-yard break through the middle.

FSU came back for an 86-yard advance on Prinzi's passing with Bobby Renn throwing to Bob Cavanaugh for the touchdown.

Miss. Southern Overpowers SLC

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi Southern spotted Southeastern Louisiana one touchdown Saturday night then came back to overpower the Lions 33-6.

Third - string quarterback Willie Gene Coats piloted the Southerners to victory as the two top signal - callers, Ollie Yates and George Sekul, sat out the game with broken wrists suffered in last week's clash with Memphis State.

Southeastern quarterback Larry Popham passed to end Oscar Lofton in the first period to give the visitors a brief lead over the nation's top - ranked small college team. Southern defenders broke up an attempt to pass for two extra points.

The rest of the game was a parade of Southern touchdown drives.

Halfback Charles McArthur crashed over from the two in the second period and end Hugh McInnis booted the extra point Fullback Buddy Supple went 13 yards through the middle to climax an 85 yard drive in the third period and McInnis' kick attempt was wide.

Halfback J. C. Arban moved across from the one yard line and a pass attempt for extra points was foiled. Halfback Bobby Lance grabbed a 20 - yard pass from Coats in the final quarter to put the ball in scoring position, then scored from the one moments later. Coats ran across for two extra points.

With less than 30 seconds to play, Southern added a final marker when freshman quarterback Bobby Meadows passed to Ted Crawford. Meadows fumbled the ball on the extra point try.

TCU Downs Texas Tech In Rout, 26-0

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The passing of Hunter Enis and Don George and Marvin Lasater's running carried Texas Christian to an easy 26-0 triumph over little Southwest Conference brother, Texas Tech Saturday night.

Enis' passing set up the first touchdown, which he scored himself with a one-foot plunge, and his six-yard throw to Marshall Harris brought another. George pegged 26 yards to Bobby Murray for a third touchdown and Lasater's running led to the fourth. Lasater made it with a six-yard run.

Enis passed for 64 yards and Lasater dashed for 81 in 17 carries to feature the TCO offensive.

It was TCU's third victory in four games.

US Ties Aussies For Golf Crown

By STERLING SLAPPEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Bill Hyndman birdied the toughest hole in golf—the feared 17th "road hole" of St. Andrews—and finished with a brilliant 72 Saturday to put the United States into a 1,000 to 1 shot tie for the World Amateur team championship.

The tall, graying Philadelphia insurance man almost alone carried his teammates into an 18-hole playoff Monday with the Australians

Both teams needed 918 strokes for four days of golf in high winds, temperatures in the high-thirties, rain and bad light.

Until Hyndman came storming home, the Eisenhower Trophy, the symbolic silver for the world supremacy of amateur golf, was practically crated and on the way to Sydney.

Hyndman's homing nine in the wind and cold must rank as one of golf's fine finishes. It was a clutch performance, but the big Philadelphian never realized it.

Billy Joe Patton, Morganton, N.C., had shot a 79; Charlie Coe, Oklahoma City, a 78;; and Dr. Frank Taylor, Pomona, Calif., another 78.

Those scores made it look as if the United States had shot itself right ouf of this initial world tournament.

Australia's team of Doug Bachli, Barry Devlin, Bob Stevens and Peter Toogood already was in with 918. The necessity of a playoff seemed out of the question.

Then Hyndman, playing in the final threesome, came to the 17th, thinking the United States already had blown the championship.

The 42-year-old socialite hit a low screamer just over the top of the second gable of the ancient railroad track that protrudes to the right side of the fairway. The hole is par four and stretches 453 yards.

His second shot was the key shot of the week. It was a four-iron which sailed dead to the pin and dropped six feet short. He knocked in the putt for a birdie three and then headed for the 18th, knowing then that a par wold give America a tie.

His drive was straight down the middle and his approach was true to the green, leaving him a 24-foot putt to clinch the championship. He putted and the ball failed by a bare foot. But he sank for the tie.

The round brought Hyndman an additional honor. It gave him a tie at 301 with Reid Jack of Britain and Australia's Devlin for the unofficial individual title.

Hyndman's card for the four days read: 79-77-73-72—301. Coe had the second best American score, 305. Patton had 313, Taylor 314.

The tournament was a team competition, with the best three scores of each country counted daily. The same formula will be used in Monday's playoff.

Ranked behind the United States and Australia was Great Britain with 919, New Zealand 921, Argentine 940, Canada and South Africa 945, France 949, Sweden 957, Italy 9963, and Belgium 964.

Arkansas A&M Tips Delta, 13-7

CLEVELAND, Miss. (AP) — Arkansas A&M rolled to a 13-7 football victory over Delta State Saturday night.

Don Sawyer's passing and Alvin Ford's running figured in both Arkansas A&M touchdown drives. Their combination put the ball on the 10 yard line, where Robert Hyart passed to David Schwartz in the end zone for the first touchdown.

Sawyer shot an end-zone pass to Bud Dosy from 37 yards out for the other tally and Sawyer kicked for the extra point.

Sammy Kendricks ran from the five for Delta State's touchdown—its first this season—after a 28-yard pass from Kendricks to Jimmy Deakle put the ball on the 20 and a personal foul assessed against A&M moved the ball in another 15 yards. Jimmy Wade kicked for the Delta State extra point.

First Landing Cops First At Belmont Park

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Arcaro shot First Landing through a hole near the rail a half mile from home Saturday and went on to win the $151,300 Champagne Stakes at Belmont Park.

There was drama aplenty in New York's richest race as First Landing, owned by C. T. Chenery of Boswell, Va., beat the pride of California, previously unbeaten Tomy Lee, by a neck. However, there was a foul claimed by the jockey on Intentionally, who finished third.

Eldon Nelson claimed Tomy Lee bumped him as he came out at the half mile marker and allowed First Landing to get through.

After looking at the movies the stewards agreed and moved Tomy Lee from second to third place and lifted Intentionally to the runner-up spot.

Braves Sign Haney, Make Tebbetts Vice President

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves handed Manager Fred Haney a new contract Saturday and announced that Birdie Tebbetts had joined the team as executive vice president.

Haney met with Braves' President Joseph Cairnes and General Manager John Quinn. He said he was "highly pleased" with the terms of the contract and was looking forward to another top season for the National League club. Terms were not announced, but it was believed Haney received an increase of about $5,000, putting his salary near $40,000 a year.

Cairnes said that Tebbetts, former manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, was a "most fortunate addition to the executive staff of the team." Tebbetts will assume duties Cairnes will be unable to attend to because of his recent appointment as director of a Florida real estate development firm operated by Lou Perini, Braves' owner.

Tebbetts said that he and his family, which includes three daughters and a newborn son, would move to Milwaukee as soon as possible.

Haney's acceptance of a new contract for another season squelched rumors that he might retire from the club after the World Series, won by the New York Yankees. Haney led the Braves to two straight National League titles and one world championship in the last two seasons. He took over the Braves in June 1956.

Tebbetts resigned as manager of the Redlegs on Aug. 14, saying then that he did so "solely because, in my heart, I believe that it is better for Cincinnati baseball that someone succeed me."

Jimmy Dykes succeeded Tebbetts as manager. The Redlegs were in last place in the National League when Tebbetts quit.

There has been considerable talk that Haney and Tebbetts do not get along. As late as last week Tebbetts strongly denied the allegation, saying, "We've had differences at times, but that's the rule rather than the exception."

One of the most heated brushes last season occurred at Cincinnati when Haney, in an indirect slap at Tebbetts, accused Redleg pitchers of deliberately throwing at Milwaukee batters.

There also has been speculation that Tebbetts will one day succeed Haney, but Tebbetts has denied this, too, saying, "You can bet your last dime I'll never manage a major league team again.'

HAVE TRAIN, WILL TRAVEL

Indian Fans To Go To McNeese

"Have train; will travel" will be the slogan of the week on the Northeast State campus as the Student Council spearheads the trip to Lake Charles for the Northeast - McNeese State football game Saturday.

Council President Lemmie Hightower announced yesterday that a train has been chartered by the organization to provide students and other grid fans opportunity to see the game which will be played at the Lake Charles High School Stadium.

Tickets will be on sale throughout the week at the Student Center on the campus and at R. and A. Jewelers. Cost of the round trip will be $6.50. Efforts are being made to secure special admission prices, Hightower said.

The train will leave the Missouri Pacific Station Saturday at 12:30 p.m. and arrive at Lake Charles at about 5:30 p.m. Leaving Lake Charles at 11:30 p.m. that night, the train will arrive in Monroe Sunday at approximately 4:30 a.m.

Busses will be provided for transportation from the Lake Charles business section to the stadium, Hightower said.

Train reservations already have been made for Northeast's 55-piece band and the cheerleaders headed by Miss Margaret Varnado.

Traveling by train to watch the Indians in action will be the first project of its kind to be sponsored in several years. With school spirit soaring after a four game winning streak by Coach Jack Rowan's team, the Student Council considered the special trip a "must" in the movement to "Keep Rowan Rolling."

Deacons Drop Wolfpack By 13-7 Margin

By KEN ALYTA

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—A breath-taking 69-yard pass play, quarterback Charlie Carpenter to halfback Winston Futch, carried Wake Forest to a 13-7 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory over North Carolina State Saturday.

The big play, early in the fourth quarter, gave the Deacons a 13-0 lead and enabled them to withstand a late State bid that produced a touchdown and threatened to add another.

Sophomore quarterback Norm Snead, after faking a pass, ran eight yards for the first Wake Forest touchdown late in the second quarter. Three minutes after Futch's touchdown and a conversion by fullback Neil McLean had put State 13 points behind, the defending conference champions finally scored.

Quarterback Frank Cackovic passed 20 yards in the end zone to soph halfback Claude Gibson for the touchdown and tackle Larry Dixon converted.

A few minutes later State stormed back in an effort to get the tying touchdown, but Gibson fumbled and guard Hughie Lewis recovered for Wake Forest on the Deacon 47. With less than two minutes to go, State's last chance went by the board when Wake Forest center Buck Jolly intercepted a Cackovic pass near midfield.

Aggies Tumble Maryland, 14-10

By BOB SERLING

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI)—Improving Texas A&M flashed two long drives of single-wing football at its best to dump favored Maryland, 14-10, Saturday before 23,000.

The underdog Aggies, winning their second straight after two early season losses, came from behind in the third period to hand the heavier Terrapins their third defeat in four starts.

The winning drive covered 88 yards and included virtually every play in Coach Jim Myers' single-wing repertoire. First it was tailback Charlie Milstead on short power drives through the beefy Terp line, then a hungry third-string back named Bubba McLean who swept wide for two long key gains, and finally a 37-yard rifle-shot pass from Milstead to end Don Smith on the Maryland eight.

Another Milstead pass from the hard-to-rush tailback slot went to Dick Gay on the four and two plays later, Milstead sailed wide around Maryland's massed nine-man line for the winning score.

Milstead, a standout on defense as well as attack, pitched a two-point conversion pass to Randy Sims, and the battling Aggies then staved off one Terp drive after another to win.

Milstead intercepted a fourth-period pass from quarterback Dick Scarbath to kill one Maryland threat, while a fumble and another intercepted pass late in the game kept the Aggies' four-point margin intact.

Maryland scored first with a 65-yard first quarter march in eight plays, Bob Rusevlyan passing seven yards to end Ron Shaffer for the score. Rusevlyan place-kicked the Terps into a 7-0 lead

The Aggies drove 53 yards for their first score early in the second period, with a Milstead pass to John Tracy supplying key yardage. Milstead banged to the eight in two tries and then sent fullback Gordon LeBouef slicing through guard for a TD. A pass conversion failed and Maryland, with only 16 seconds to go before halftime, jumped into a 10-6 lead on a 16-yard field goal by Vincent Scott.

That turned out to be Maryland's last moment of glory as the Aggies' out-weighed but fast-charging line kept the Terp's offensive under control.

Score by Periods

Maryland	7	3	0	0—10
Texas A&M	0	6	8	0—14

Scoring: Texas A&M—LeBouef 8 run (pass failed); Milstead 3 run (Sims pass from Milstead). Maryland—Shaffer 7 pass from Rusevlyan (Rusevlyan kick); F. G. Scott, 16 (field goal).

NIX TO LASTER

Auburn Scores In Fourth To Defeat Kentucky, 8-0

By JOHN G. DIETRICH

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Embattled Auburn used a perfectly executed 43-yard pass play from lefty Lloyd Nix to halfback Jim Laster to break up an old-fashioned defensive duel in the final period Saturday night and score an 8-0 victory over Kentucky.

Two more points came later in the last period when Zeke Smith tackled Kentucky's Calvin Bird in the end zone on an attempted punt return for a safety, but it was the left - handed lob from Nix to Laster that broke up the ball game.

It was a fantastic 52 - yard punt by Tommy Lorino that rolled dead on Kentucky's two - yard line to give Auburn the break it needed to score its 17th consecutive victory and its third of this season.

Doug Shievely kicked out for Kentucky to the Kentucky 43 on the first play of the final period and that's where the Auburn lightning struck.

Nix almost was trapped by charging Kentucky linemen on the next play, but he held them off while Laster broke from his flanking halfback slot and streaked through the middle of the Kentucky secondary to catch Nix's perfect throw on the 12-yard line without a defender in the neighborhood.

Kentucky drew a flicker of hope when guard Bud Spicer blocked Jerry Wilson's attempted conversion, but the Auburn defenses that went into the game with a record of holding their foes of 57 yards per game—best in the nation—held fast again.

Kentucky stopped another Auburn drive on the 38, but when Lorino kicked to the five yard line, Bird tried to run it out only to be chased into the end zone and tackled by Smith, who had played a brilliant game at guard all night.

Before the game was over Auburn was back on the Kentucky one, but Kentucky held there just as it had done once before in the third period.

Auburn Coach Shug Jordan said after the game "We felt we had to throw to win," and this proved to be the case as Kentucky's aggressive line battled Auburn yard for yard on the ground.

Auburn had passed nine times in the first half without a completion, but in the second half the Tigers completed nine of 16 for 157 yards, and that brought the victory.

In three games, Auburn now has scored a total of 51 points—and 49 of them have come in the final period.

Kentucky made the deepest first half penetration. The Wildcats reached the Auburn 37 on a 17 yard pass completion from Lowell Hughes to end Dick Mueller but Lamar Rawson intercepted Hughes' pass to break that up.

Kentucky quarterback Jerry Eisaman turned in the picture play of the first half, a 36 yard juant on a roll - out to the Auburn 33, but Kentucky drew a 15-yard penalty and Rawson hauled down an Eisaman pass as the half ended.

Score by periods:

Auburn	0	0	0	8—8
Kentucky	0	0	0	0—0

Auburn scoring: Laster 43 pass Nix (Spicer blocked Wilson's kick; a safety, Bird tackled in end zone by Smith.

Michigan State Beats Pittsburgh

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State scored on two short drives and one long one for hard luck Pittsburgh team that twice lost the ball within 10 yards of the Spartan goal line.

Michigan State needed to punch only 23 yards for one score and travel 34 yards for another. The final march in the closing minutes was a 50-yard drive.

The jinxed Panthers twice blew scoring chances and a third time saw what looked like a touchdown run called back by officials.

Although not as impressive as the scoring indicated, Michigan State put it in the record books and is undefeated in three games — the only blemish being last week's 12-12 tie with Michigan.

Pittsburgh made long drives downfield in both muffed scoring chances. One march in the second period went from the Pittsburgh 30 to the MSU 8. But quarterback Bill Kaliden bobbled the ball on the 8 and Fran O'Brien recovered for Michigan State.

The Panthers started from their own 43 for another surge in the third period. Pittsburgh was down to the MSU 7 when a pass by Ivan Toncic was intercepted by Ellison Kelly of Michigan State.

Pittsburgh finally scored in the fourth quarter when Dick Haley busted through right tackle from the 9. The payoff drive went 42 yards.

In the first MSU scoring push, Mike Panitch sneaked over from the one. Dean Look scored the second on a two-yard plunge.

Wildcats Edge Minnesota, 7-3

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Northwestern's fantastic sophomore, Dick Thornton, scored a touchdown with 58 seconds to play to give the fighting Wildcats a 7-3 victory over Minnesota in the Big Ten opener for both teams Saturday.

The triple threat quarterback punched over from the 2 for the winning touchdown and kicked the extra point to make it an all-Thornton ball game.

A crowd of 56,061, including former President Harry S. Truman, watched Thornton pass and run for nearly 150 yards.

Tech Scores 26 In 1st Half To Rout SLI

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—Louisiana Tech smashed across for 26 points while knocking out every Southwestern Louisiana effort in the first half Saturday for a 33-0 Gulf States Conference victory.

Tech sidelined its varsity during the second half while the reserves added seven more points to spoil SLI's Homecoming hopes.

Fullback Jerry Frasier walloped the SLI line twice in the opening period for two touchdowns, one from 12 yards out and the other from the one. Sophomore Jack Howard converted both times.

In the first play of the second quarter, David Williamson dashed across from the four to add another. Shortly after, James McCabe passed 21 yards to Jack Lestage for another tally.

Howard added the fifth touchdown in the final period, then converted again.

The brightest spot for SLI came when Steve Gossen kicked a 71-yard punt, a possible GSC record.

PENALTY-PLAGUED

Relentless Cadets Shock Favored Notre Dame, 14-2

By JERR YLISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Army's penalty-plagued Cadets, led by amazingly swift Pete Dawkins, relentlessly punched out a 14-2 football victory over favored Notre Dame Saturday.

Dawkins, befitting a great performance all this cloudy-windy afternoon, scored the clinching touchdown on a six-yard run with seven seconds remaining.

Neither Notre Dame nor a rash of penalties could stop unbeaten Army, a one-point underdog, from scoring its third straight victory and handing the Irish their first loss after two triumphs.

Army was rated No. 3 and Notre Dame No. 4 in the current Associated Press national rankings.

The Cadets had the game in the bag all the way, although they led only 6-2 until Dawkins' touchdown spurt. The first Army touchdown came on a 16-yard pass from quarterback Joe Caldwell to end Jack Morrison with two seconds left in the first quarter.

Notre Dame, advancing twice to Army's 19 under its own power, scored its two points when Cadet Caldwell was trapped for a safety early in the third quarter.

Army failed on a kick try after its first touchdown, but after its second, Dawkins gilded his own personal lily by taking a pitchout and southpawed a two-pointer pass to Bob Anderson.

Anderson, like Dawkins, played up to advance billing, giving Notre Dame's defense fits with his speed.

Notre Dame fumbled three times and lost the ball each occasion.

But it became apparent to a partisan record home Irish crowd of 60,564, that Army was the better team on the field. The previous top Notre Dame crowd was 60,128 at the Irish-Oklahoma game in 1956.

Notre Dame broke into the scoring column on a poor Army play just after the second half started. Army quarterback Caldwell was handcuffed by a high snap-back from center and was trapped in the end zone.

Irish end Month Stickles snagged Caldwell's Army and the Cadet quarterback flipped the ball underhand back into the playing field for an obvious intentional grounding. A two-point safety was ruled and the Irish trailed, 6-2.

The Cadets were hard hit by five penalties in the third quarter, but stopped an Irish penetration to Army's 19. The penalties kept Army neutralized.

Army's terrific team speed, hubbed around Dawkins and Anderson, a pair of 200 - pounders with mercurial eels, bewildered Notre Dame from the start.

Although the Cadets left the field at halftime, leading 6-0, it could have been a three touchdown advantage. Before Caldwells 16-yard touchdown pass to Morrison with two seconds of the first period left, Army had charged 53 yards in 11 plays to Notre Dame's 14.

Dawkins and Anderson were at their ground-chewing best in this drive which ended abruptly when Anderson's pass was intercepted by Notre Dame's Williams on the Irish 4.

In the second period, Army had the ball for 27 plays against 14 plays for Notre Dame. At one time, the Cadets were in control for 16 consecutive plays, marching from their 31 to Notre Dame's 5.

One of the surprising things about this drive was that Army instead of electing a field goal try from favorable field position, chose to pass on fourth down from the 5.

Notre Dame	0	0	2	0—2

Buckeyes Down Illinois, 19-13

By JOE MOOSHIL
Assciated Press Sports Writer

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Undefeated Ohio State, scoring twice in the third quarter, put down a last minute Illinois rally Saturday and slipped through to a 19-13 Big Ten victory.

Trailing 19-6 in the last quarter, Illinois' Bob Hickey came off the bench, tossed one touchdown pass and put on another drive in the last minute which nearly pulled Illinois ahead.

With a minute to play, Hickey threw a long pass to halfback Dick McDade, who momentarily held the ball and then dropped it on the 3 yard line for an incompletion.

Another Hickey pass was intercepted by Ohio State's Russ Bowermaster and that was the end of a hair-raising Big Ten opener for a national television audience.

Held 6-6 in the first half, the favored Buckeyes turned to ball control in the third quarter and took over the lead with a 71-yard drive in 19 plays and in a little more than 10 minutes.

Minutes later, Buckeye halfback Don Clark raced 42 yards for a touchdown.

After playing an even first half, Ohio State went to its famous ground game to take a third quarter 13-6 lead. Quarterback Frank Kremblas, gaining good yardage on rollouts, completed a key pass on a third and 8 situation to keep the drive alive. Fullback Bob White scored for a second time from the 1 to break the deadlock. Dave Kilgore kicked the extra point.

Before the crowd of 20,416 had time to cheer Illinois to a rally, Clark sprinted for what proved to be the game-winning touchdown. Hickey, who had been on the bench with a leg injury, then came into the game. A 24-yard run by Joe Krakoski set up Hickey's 36-yard touchdown aerial. Krakoski caught the pass short of the goal line and dashed for the score.

Illinois opened the game like it meant business but quickly found itself on the short end of a 6-0 score.

Ohio State won the toss, but chose to kick and take advantage of a 25 mile an hour wind. Illinois took the kickoff and after gaining a first down lost ground on a clipping penalty and Capt. Jack Delveaux kicked out to the Illinois 42. Ohio State then put its vaunted ground attack in gear, and 9 plays later White bowled over from the 1. Kremblas' kick was wide.

The Buckeyes remained in control for the rest of the first quarter despite a determied Illinois 32-yard field goal try which was wide and short.

Ohio State wasted a great opportunity in the second quarter when Illinois' Dejustice Coleman fumbled and Tom Matte recovered on the Illini 28. Illinois' 9-man shifting line forced Ohio State to go to the air but Kremblas could not click with his passes.

Late in the second quarter, Johnny Easterbrook, a 150-pound quarterback, directed a 52-yard drive which ended when L. T. Bonner rammed into the end zone from the 3. Easterbrook connected on two key passes in the drive. Don Yeazel's attempted kick was wide.

The victory was OSU's third straight, while Illinois suffered its third loss in a row.

Tars Bounce Gamecocks In 6-0 Triumph

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—A sturdy defense and one early touchdown were all North Carolina's Tar Heels needed Saturday for a 6-0 victory over South Carolina in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game.

The rugged Tar Heel defense stopped South Carolina from staging a single major offensive threat.

Halfback Wade Smith paced North Carolina on a 44-yard touchdown drive at the beginning of the second period. His one-yard plunge into the end zone accounted for the victory margin.

Among the defensive standouts for the Tar Heels were ends Al, Goldstein and John Schroeder, tackle Phil Blazer, guard Fred Swearingen, and center Ronnie Koes.

The sturdy forward wall held the Gamecocks highly touted backfield to only 79 yards rushing and only five first downs.

South Carolina bogged down deep in its own territory late in the first quarter and was forced to punt. The kick was downed on the Gamecocks' 44 and the Tar Heels began their game-winning drive.

Smith carried to the 40 and quarterback Jack Cummings fired a 13-yard pass to Goldstein for a first down on the 27.

Fullback Ed Lipski squirmed for three yards and Smith took a handoff from Cummings and sprinted for 21 yards to the 1. On the next play, he went into the end zone.

A two-point conversion attempt failed when the left side of the South Carolina line smeared Lipski.

Maroon Defeat Memphis, 28-6

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —Mississippi State punched over two first period touchdowns and then coasted to an easy 28-6 victory over Memphis State Saturday.

The Maroons, bouncing back from a 13-8 Southeastern Conference loss to Tennessee, converted a Memphis State fumble in the opening minutes into a touchdown.

Memphis State's bill Loyd fumbled on his own 22 and the Maroons' Bubber Trammell recovered. It took the Maroons only eight plays to score with fullback Jack Batte going over from the one. Billy Tribble's kick failed.

Late in the first period the Maroons marched 35 yards in six plays for their second touchdown. When Gil Peterson, senior right halfback from Winona, Miss. cracked across from the two. Trammel converted by running.

Mississippi State opened the second half by driving 42 yards for its third touchdown. Quarterback Billy Stacy capped the drive by racing over from the four. A pass from Trammel to Gil Peterson was good for the conversion and two more points.

Halfback Willie Daniels raced 74 yards late in the third period for the Maroons' final touchdown. Robert Collins' run-try for the conversion fell short.

Memphis State's touchdown came midway of the fourth period when fullback Bob Lyles intercepted a Maroon pass tossed by Joe Clark and raced 99 yards untouched to score. The run try for conversion failed.

Terriers Jolt Mountaineers In 36-30 Tilt

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP)—Inspired Boston University battled back from an eight-point deficit Saturday to upset the West Virginia Mountaineers 36-30 in a football game marked by a wild and wooly fourth period.

The invading Terriers made 23 points in the second period to seemingly put the game on ice. But they were in danger at the end until Boston reserve quarterback Emo Di Nitto picked off a West Virginia pass on his own 30 and raced for the game-clinching touchdown with 36 seconds remaining.

It was West Virginia quarterback Dick Longfellow, the same fellow who engineered the Mountaineers' to a 46-6 victory over the Terriers last year, who sparked his team in a 22-point fourth period upsurge.

The Mountaineers, behind 29-8, struck for two quick touchdowns to cut the margin to 29-24. Then, they recovered their own onside kickoff and had moved to the Boston 39 when Di Nitto made his interception.

It was the squatty Di Nitto and another reserve back, Tommy O'Connell, who were the big guns in the Boston attack. Di Nitto bombed the West Virginia pass defenses, hitting on seven of 18 attempts, including one for a touchdown.

Winnsboro To Be Feted For Crowville Win

WINNSBORO, La. (Special) — The Winnsboro football squad, coaches Philip Poole and Glyn Ebarb, the high school band and director Glynn Gardner, and the pep squad and director Carrice Russell will be honored with a hot dog supper at the Wildcat football stadium Monday night at 6:30.

The supper is being sponsored by the Winnsboro Junior Chamber of Commerce, which usually picks a Wildcat player of the week. But the team played so well as a whole against Crowville Thursday night the Jaycees decided to honor the entire squad.

Joe Gravelle, Jaycee president, stated that one hundred pounds of franks, 125 packages of buns, and eight gallons of chili have been ordered for the supper. Cokes will be served with the hot dogs. The general public is invited and the 1,000 hot dogs will be served as long as they last, according to Gravelle.

A pee wee football game will provide the entertainment for the occasion.

Nix Sparks Engineers To 21-7 Upset Of Tennessee

DAVID M. MOFFIT
United Press International

ATLANTA (UPI)— Frank Nix, a whizzing six-foot halfback from the Mississippi Delta country, came off the injury list Saturday to lead Georgia Tech to a 21-7 victory over Tennessee that brought back brief memories of the golden days of Tech razzle-dazzle.

Nix, a sophomore from Greenville, Miss., tight-roped 74 yards down the sidelines for the touchdown that kept Tech ahead all the way in an often-bruising defensive battle with the Volunteers from Knoxville.

The third period was Tennessee's, with sophomore tailback Billy Majors in full control. The Vols drove 18 yards after a Tech fumble for their only touchdown, then marched deep into Tech territory as the period ended.. Fullback Carl Smith scored for Tennessee from the one with wingback Sam Burkoow converting.

But the fourth period was a complete reversal. Tech stopped Tennessee's drive, then struck back for two touchdowns to put the game out of reach.

Tech had nursed a mighty slim lead, helped with a first quarter field goal. Then came the last period turning point, just after the Tennessee drive was clipped.

A field goal attempt that would have given Tennessee a one-point lead was wide. Tech halfback Joe Delany quick kicked 72 yards on Tech's first play and Tech got the ball on the Tennessee 42 after the exchange.

The Yellow Jackets then drove 42 yards in five plays with sophomore halfback Ronnie Lewis going over from the 12 to put Tech ahead 15-7.

Several minutes later halfback Cal James returned a Tennessee punt 46 yards to the Vols' 17-yard-line and Tech needed just five more plays to score again with quarterback Fred Braselton sneaking across from the one.

The contest was a gruelling defensive battle between two hard charging lines. Tennessee gained only 29 yards rushing and 107 in all. Tech wasn't much better statistically with 152 yards, all but 16 on the ground.

Score by periods

Georgia Tech	3	6	0	12—21
Tennessee	0	0	7	0—7

Scoring: Tech—Field goal, Wells 24: Nix 74 punt return (kick failed); Lewis 12 run (kick failed); Brasel 1 sneak (kick failed). Tennessee—Smith 1 plunge (Burklow kick).

11TH STRAIGHT WIN

Middies Trounce Michigan, 20-14

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — vived a sluggish Navy team in the second half and directed two brilliant touchdown drives to produce a 20-14 victory over Michigan Saturday before 82,220 fans.

The contest marked the Middies' first venture into the Big Ten since 1951 and stretched their unbeaten string to 11 games.

Tranchini, back of the week in Navy's triumph over Boston University last Saturday, used pinpoint passes and alert play-calling to pull the Midshipmen from behind with a pair of late touchdowns.

After leading a 67-yard march that pulled Navy to within two points of Michigan, Tranchini herded the Middies together for a spirited fourth quarter attack and passed to halfback Dick Zembrzuski for 36 yards and the winning touchdown.

Zembrzuski got behind two Wolverine defenders and was all alone at the Michigan 10 when Tranchini fired a perfect strike that brought a crushing defeat down on the Wolverines in their first meeting with Navy since 1948.

The touchdown pass climaxed an 85-yard drive. Michigan quick-kicked to the Navy 15 when it appeared the Wolverines were safely home with a 14-12 lead.

Tranchini got the decisive march under way with a razzle dazzle pass that gained 24 yards. He tossed to Joe Bellino who lateraled to fullback Ray Wellborn and the play got the Middies out of a hole.

Tranchini proved that his 18 for 27 passing performance against Boston was no fluke.

This was a Navy team that could not even gets its hands on the ball for most of the first half. It came to life later in the third period, driving 67 yards in 11 plays with Wellborn crashing over from the 1.

Michigan blew a chance at an insurance touchdown when the Wolverines gave up the ball on downs at the Navy 22. Later, the Wolverines chose to quick-kick and hoped their defense would contain Navy's backs.

Michigan ripped the Navy line apart in the third period, taking the kickoff and grinding off 76 yards in 10 running plays. Fred Julian, Brad Myers and Tony Rio took turns blasting the Middie defense and Myers went the final six yards for the score that dissolved a 6-6 tie. Quarterback Bob Ptacek ran over for two extra points and a 14-6 lead.

Tranchini wound up completing eight of 13 passes for 117 yards, most of the damage coming in the late going.

Duke Rallies To Beat Baylor, 12-7

By REESE HART

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Twice-beaten Duke stormed 61 yards in nine plays for a fourth period touchdown to defeat Baylor 12-7 Saturday in an intersectional football thriller.

Duke halfback George Dutrow slashed off left tackle to score from the 16 with the winning touchdown. The Blue Devils, using their "lonesome end" pass plays very sparingly, had gone ahead with a first period touchdown when halfback Wray Carlton plunged over from the one to cap a 63-yard drive.

A Homecoming Day crowd of 26,000, saw Baylor, a 6-point underdog, capitalize on a break to score its touchdown in the third quarter. Duke center Ted Royal got off a bad pass from center over the head of Dutrow on fourth down, with Baylor taking over on the Duke 8.

On fourth down, quarterback Buddy Humphrey flipped a five-yard scoring pass to end Al Witcher. Halfback Arthur Beall kicked the extra point to give the Bears a 7-6 lead.

A few minutes later Duke launched its winning touchdown drive from its 39.

Dave Sime, Duke's famed sprint star, sow only brief action in the role of a "lonesome end." Only one pass was thrown to him and it was incomplete.

IN CONFERENCE TILT

Rice Owls Rout Razorbacks, 24-0

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—A rookie quarterback scored one touchdown and hurled a towering 36-yard pass for another to lead the Rice Owls to a 24-0 shutout over the Arkansas Razorbacks here Saturday.

Nineteen-year-old Alvin Hartman, a 6-foot-4 sophomore from Hondo, Tex., fell over the one-yard line to score the first Rice touchdown. With 50 seconds remaining in the half he arched a long pass to end Lester Veltman in the end zone for the second score.

Rice, winning its first Southwest Conference encounter of the season, had backs Pat Bailey and Larry Dueitt moving with case through gaping holes in the Arkansas line. And through the air, Hartman and first unit quarterback John Schnable riddled the Porkers' pass defense.

Arkansas, showing no offensive power, never got closer to the Owl goal line than the 31 until the dying moments of the game when desperation passes moved them to the Rice 7 where the game ended.

Arkansas fullback Don Stone ripped off runs of 29, 20 and 18 yards for some personal luster, but the Arkansans never could sustain a drive.

The Owls began their rout midway in the first period when Bill Bucek kicked a field goal from the Arkansas 17.

Scoring ended in the fourth period when a Rice substitute back, Frank Smith, climaxed the final drive with a one-yard touchdown leap.

All of the Owls' one-point conversion kicks were good.

Rutgers Blasts Spiders, 23-12

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) —Rutgers came back bowlin' mad after a miserable first half Saturday to down Richmond 23-12.

Rutgers fumbled the ball away three times—once on the 18-inch line — in the first two periods while the Spiders corked up the Scarlets' dazzling star, halfback Bill Austin.

But Rutgers returned after the intermission with an unstopable razzle-dazzle offense to score the first three times it got the ball.

MEXICAN GRAPPLER

Viva Zapata At Kallio's Monday

Viva Zapata, no relation to Marlon Brando, blows into Kallio's Arena Monday night and pairs with Ronny Lee against Jack Curtis and Bill Barney in a tag team bout that share double main event billing with a return go between Gypsy Joe and George Curtis.

Zapata, despite his identification with the legendary Mexican hero, Emanuilo Zapata, is no hero. If he were, he would hardly be paired with such a villain as Lee, the curly-haired blonde grappler who makes enemies with a facility unmatched among local grunt-and-groaners.

Zapata is, of course, from Mexico. Whether he is going to wear his sombrero into the ring remains to be seen but he is reputed to be a fine wrestler and drawing card with or without it. He and Lee will be meeting two veterans of the trade in Barney and Curtis. Barney is the present Louisiana heavyweight champion and Curtis is a former titleholder.

Gypsy Joe set off a riot last week with his victory over George Curtis and the rioters and other fans are expected to be back tomorrow night to see him get the stuffings beat out of him. George is said to be mad enough to do it and it appears poor Gypsy is in for a tough night.

Hutch Will Pilot Seattle In Coast Loop

SEATTLE (AP) — Freddie Hutchinson, fired by the St. Louis Cardinals, will return again to his old home town to manage the Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

Owner Emil Sick, for whom Hutchinson had been both schoolboy pitching star and manager in the past, made the announcement Saturday.

Sick had made a determined effort to obtain Hutchinson since the close of the coast league season, after his Seattle Rainiers finished last and Manager Connie Ryan departed by mutual consent.

Hutchinson will act as both field manager and business manager for the Rainiers, replacing Dewey Soriano in the latter capacity. Soriano, named minor league business manager of the year for 1955, took the lead in the hiring of Hutchinson and said he probably will bow out of the organization.

"I've fired a few managers, why not myself?" he said.

The salary and the time covered by Hutchinson' contract were not disclosed. When he managed the Rainiers to the coast league pennant in 1955 he held a three-year contract, from which he was released in order to accept the Cardinal job.

Sick had to compete with at least five other baseball organizations to obtain Hutchinson. It was known here he was contacted by Cincinnati, Baltimore, Detroit, the New York Yankees and Buffalo, N.Y. Not all were managerial offers.

Scheffing To Manage Cubs Next Season

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Scheffing Saturday was given a one - year contract to again manage the Chicago Cubs in 1959.

Contract terms were not disclosed but Cub Vice President John Holland said, "We all feel that Bob did a fine job in 1958 and our appreciation was shown in his 1959 contract."

Scheffing guided the club to a tie for fifth place, their highest finish in six years. He became Cub manager in 1957.

After contract signing, Scheffing, off for his home in Arizona, said, "The club made a better showing in 1958, but we won't be satisfied until we reward our fans with a pennant contender."

All four members of the Cub coaching staff, George Myatt, Freddie Fitzsimmons, Rogers Hornsby and Elvin Tappe, have been offered contracts for 1959.

Round Table All-Time Turf Money Winner

HICAGO (AP) — Round Table won the $100,000 added Hawthorne Gold Cup Saturday and became the top money winner among all the race horses in turf history.

Round Table set a new track record of 1:59 4-5 in winning the 1¼ mile race.

Round Table's victory was worth $73,250. That boosted his earnings to a total of $1,336,364 and put him ahead of the previous holder of the No. 1 spot on the millionare horse list — Nashua, with $1,288,565.

The only other horse who has won a million or more is Citation.

William & Mary Ties VMI, 6-6

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (UPI)—William and Mary battled back from a one - touchdown deficit Saturday and robbed Virginia Military Institute of its 11th consecutive victory by holding them to a 6 - 6 tie.

A crowd of 8,000 in the Coal Bowl saw the Keydets, defending Southern Conference champions, struggle vainly to score in the fading minutes.

Roberson organized S. and R. Gas Company, the fourth largest butane business in Louisiana, in 1944. The company now serves butane to 6,000 customers in 12 North Lousiana parishes. Headquartered in Coushatta, S. and R. has eight branch offices.

Awarded

Miss Anna Ruth Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knight, 2116 Gordon Ave., Monroe, and a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, has been awarded an honorable mention in a national contest conducted by Reed and Barton, America's oldest major silversmiths, this Spring, for high school senior girls all over the country.

In a drawing held recently in New York, her entry was selected to receive a "Spoon Pin" of her choice from Peacock's Jewelers.

Attends Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Seymour of Monroe, are attending the annual convention of the National Association of Insurance Agents in New Orleans.

Seymour is a member of the Louisiana Association of Insurance agents and the Ouachita Association of Insurance Agents.

Home Conference

George E. French of Monroe, staff manager of Life Insurance Company of Georgia, is attending a conference of staff managers at the company's home office in Atlanta this week.

He is among 30 men who have gathered from Life of Georgia's area of 11 southern states for the meeting.

He is married to the former Betty Jayne Washburne of Delhi. They live with their four children at 2310 South Grand Street.

Elected Member

RUSTON (Special) — Guy Baker, owner of the Dodge-Plymouth dealership in Ruston, has been elected a member of the Regional Advisory Committee for 1959.

Baker recently attended a preview showing of the 1959 cars at Atlanta in which more than 400 dealers attended.

Advisory Board

RUSTON (Special) — George L. Nicol, Ruston business man, has been appointed to the advisory board of the field advisers of the Small Business Association. He will represent Region 10.

Meetings of this group are held in Dallas. They have the responsibility of advising the regional director on loans and evaluating the program of the organization.

Nicol is a Ruston insurance agent, and he is chairman of the Louisiana Peach Festival, director of the Ruston State Bank and director of the Choudrant Bank.

Prize Winners

M. A. Smith and C. L. Smith, owners of the Stag Shop, announced the prize winners during their formal opening in West Monroe.

The names that were drawn by Sandra Rich were: Jean Garvin, Lynn Barnett, Trois Pettigrew, Mrs. J. C. Luck, G. G. Stell, A. C. Greer, G. D. Jones, Herman Tressner, Glen A. Newcomer, Jr., and Geneva Telford.

Bonds Rebound Sharply From Week Before

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Government bonds rebounded sharply this week from 1958 lows established the week before. Trading was on the light side but solid gains of up to three full points made it the best weekly advance of the year for the government market.

The performance of treasury securities buttressed the faltering new financing markets but it did not help seasoned corporate bonds much. Investment quality issues and utilities continued to decline, although both braced somewhat on Friday. Industrials advanced while rails edged fractionally higher and foreign bonds were unchanged. The net result was a market slightly lower on balance.

Grain Shows Only Minor Price Changes

By EARL AYKROID
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Except for a few instances, grain futures on the Board of Trade finished the week with only minor price changes from a week ago.

Actual export business together with expectations of additional foreign demand attracted buying of December and March wheat deliveries and these contracts were up nearly two cents for the week. The distant new crop months ended fractionally lower.

The only other contracts to register more than fractional changes were those of rye. Except for the nearby December delivery, rye futures dipped for losses ranging up to more than two cents at the end of the week.

At the close, wheat was 1¾ higher to ⅜ lower than Friday a week ago. Corn was ¼ higher to ⅜ lower; oats ⅛ higher to ½ lower; rye unchanged to 2½ lower, and soybeans finished ¼ higher to ⅛ lower.

Prices the whole week fluctuated with traders acting mainly on daily news developments. The market had no definite trend and there was no incentive for any positive action.

BLONDIE
by CHIC YOUNG
I DON'T HAVE TO GO TO THE OFFICE UNTIL NOON BECAUSE I WORKED LATE LAST NIGHT
IF YOU'D USE A TRAY YOU WOULDN'T HAVE TO MAKE SO MANY TRIPS TO CLEAR THE TABLE
HERE--LET ME SHOW YOU THE CORRECT WAY TO USE THAT VACUUM
NOW LET ME GIVE YOU SOME TIPS ON THE MOST EFFICIENT WAY TO MAKE A BED
YOU COULD SAVE YOURSELF A LOT OF TIME IF YOU'D IRON BOTH SLEEVES AT ONCE
WELL, IT'S TIME FOR ME TO GO BACK TO THE OFFICE
WAIT'LL I CHANGE MY DRESS--I'M GOING WITH YOU
WHAT'S THE IDEA?
YOU'LL SEE
YOUR DESK DRAWERS ARE A DISGRACE--DON'T YOU EVER CLEAN THEM OUT?
WHAT'S GOING ON HERE?
AND LOOK AT THIS SLOPPY FILING SYSTEM--IT'S EASY TO SEE WHY YOU'RE ALWAYS LOSING IMPORTANT PAPERS
NO WONDER YOU BUSINESSMEN ARE ALWAYS HAVING RECESSIONS, THE WAY YOU DO THINGS--YOU SHOULD BE ASHAMED HAS SHE GONE?
CHIC YOUNG 10-12
DON'T YOU KNOW BETTER THAN TO GIVE A WIFE ADVICE ON HER HOUSEKEEPING?

THANK YOU FOR SAVING ME, SEÑOR WUNBROW.
REMEMBER, MISS EGGHEAD, I DID NOT COME HERE TO PLAY HERO, BUT TO MAKE YOU MY PRISONER.
AND AS MY PRISONER, YOU WILL TAKE ORDERS FROM ME.
IF WE BOTH LIVE THROUGH THIS, YOU CAN EXPECT TO FACE THE ELECTRIC CHAIR.
I'M REMOVING THE HANDCUFFS. YOU'RE ON YOUR OWN NOW TILL CONDITIONS IMPROVE.
SEÑOR WUNBROW, WHERE CAN WE EXPECT TO GO ON THIS?
ANYWHERE FROM HERE TO THE SARGASSO SEA.
I OFTEN WONDERED WHAT GOOD PURPOSE THESE MASSIVE SPANISH DOORS SERVED. NOW, I KNOW.

WHITEHALL, I FEEL WE SHOULD INTRODUCE OURSELVES ALL OVER AGAIN, NOW THAT WE'RE BOTH SHAVED.
RIGHTO.
WE'RE READY TO GO, OFFICER PAREZZ. WHAT'S THE LATEST?
THE STORM STILL RAGES, BUT I RECEIVED A PHONE CALL THAT MAY BE IMPORTANT.
A CONVER PLANE HAS BEEN WASHED UP ON A SUGAR CANE PLANTATION SOUTH OF HERE.
A CONVER?
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.: © 1958 by The Chicago Tribune
"WHAT'S SO UNUSUAL ABOUT THAT?" ASKS TRACY. "JUST THIS," SAYS PAREZZ, "ALL PLANES HAD BEEN ORDERED OUT OF CUBA PRIOR TO THE HURRICANE."
"FURTHERMORE, THE CUBAN AERONAUTICAL COMMISSION REPORTS THE NUMBERS ON THAT PLANE ARE PHONY."

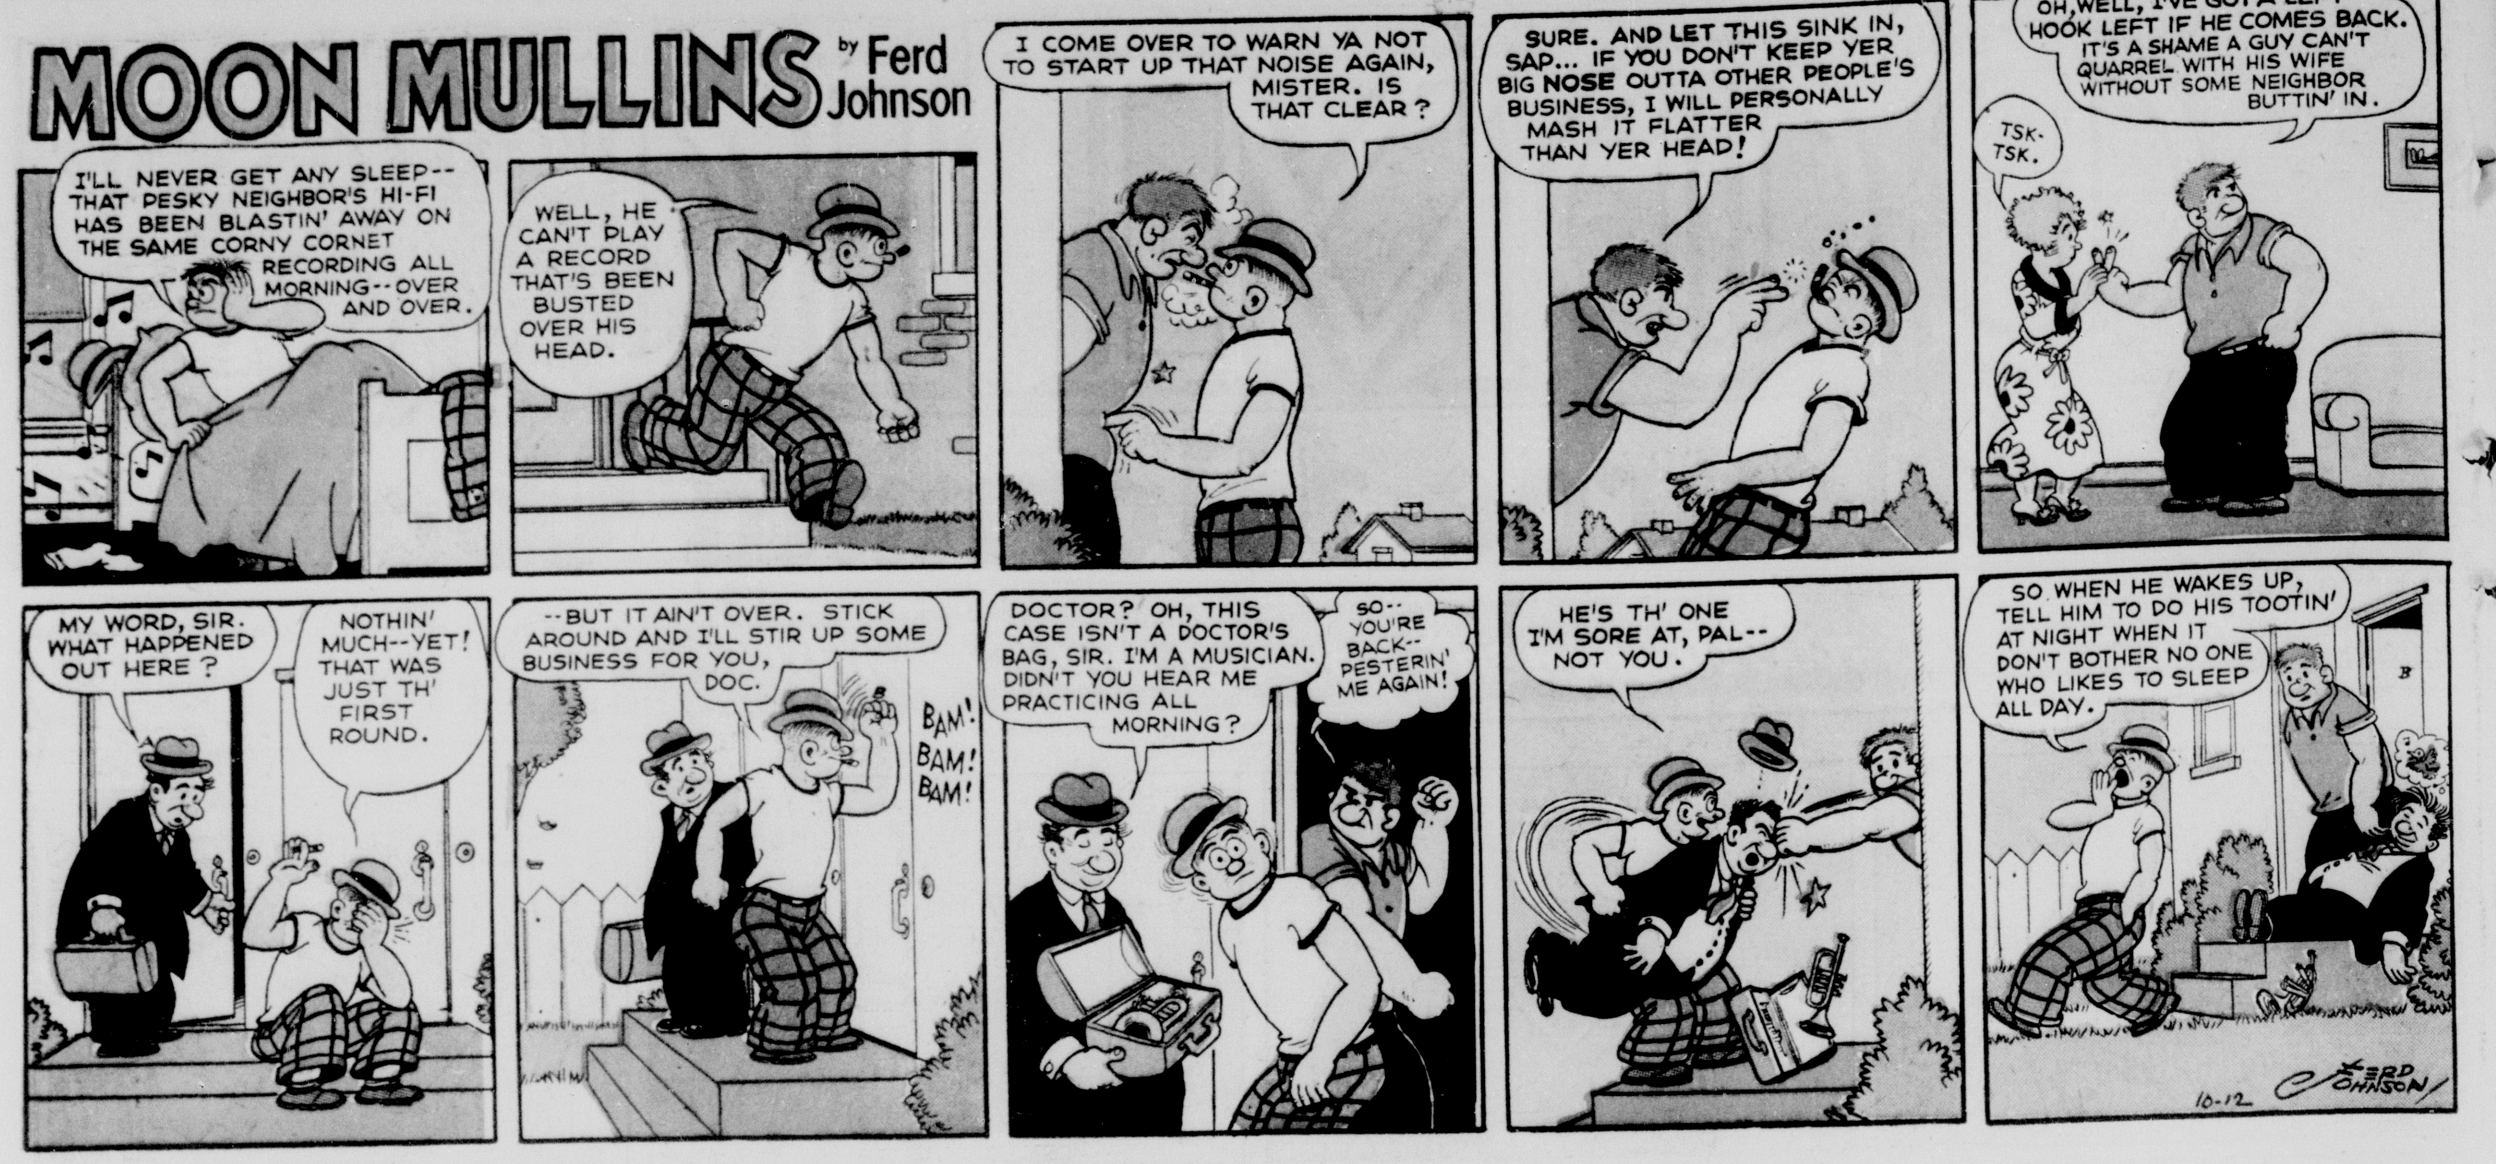
MOON MULLINS

by Ferd Johnson



I'LL NEVER GET ANY SLEEP-- THAT PESKY NEIGHBOR'S HI-FI HAS BEEN BLASTIN' AWAY ON THE SAME CORNY CORNET RECORDING ALL MORNING--OVER AND OVER.
WELL, HE CAN'T PLAY A RECORD THAT'S BEEN BUSTED OVER HIS HEAD.
I COME OVER TO WARN YA NOT TO START UP THAT NOISE AGAIN, MISTER. IS THAT CLEAR?
SURE. AND LET THIS SINK IN, SAP... IF YOU DON'T KEEP YER BIG NOSE OUTTA OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS, I WILL PERSONALLY MASH IT FLATTER THAN YER HEAD!
OH, WELL, I'VE GOT A LEFT HOOK LEFT IF HE COMES BACK. IT'S A SHAME A GUY CAN'T QUARREL WITH HIS WIFE WITHOUT SOME NEIGHBOR BUTTIN' IN.
TSK-TSK.
MY WORD, SIR. WHAT HAPPENED OUT HERE?
NOTHIN' MUCH--YET! THAT WAS JUST TH' FIRST ROUND.
--BUT IT AIN'T OVER. STICK AROUND AND I'LL STIR UP SOME BUSINESS FOR YOU, DOC.
BAM! BAM! BAM!
DOCTOR? OH, THIS CASE ISN'T A DOCTOR'S BAG, SIR. I'M A MUSICIAN. DIDN'T YOU HEAR ME PRACTICING ALL MORNING?
SO-- YOU'RE BACK-- PESTERIN' ME AGAIN!
HE'S TH' ONE I'M SORE AT, PAL-- NOT YOU.
SO WHEN HE WAKES UP, TELL HIM TO DO HIS TOOTIN' AT NIGHT WHEN IT DON'T BOTHER NO ONE WHO LIKES TO SLEEP ALL DAY.

"BUT WHERE?"... "WELL, YOU SEE, I WAS IN THE BARBERSHOP"....
ARE YOU GONNA WATCH "DARING NED AND THE CANNIBALS" ON TV TONIGHT, SAM?
NOT ME! THAT PROGRAM'S TOO CHILDISH FOR EVEN MY 7-YEAR-OLD KID.
BUT HERE COMES "SIMPLE" SIMON... HEY, SIMP, YOU EVER WATCH "DARING NED AND THE CANNIBALS" ON TV?
HIT'S MY FAVORITE PROGRAM.
And NOW, Kiddies, another thrilling adventure of Daring Ned.
OBOY, SIMP, AM I GLAD I FOUND YOU! I NEVER GET TO WATCH DARING NED AT MY HOUSE BECAUSE MY LITTLE GIRL ALWAYS WANTS TO WATCH "MY PAL POOCHIE."
AH NEVER MISS OLD NED. NO, SIREE!
SIMP, AH SMELLS SMOKE!
BE QUIET, WOMAN. CAN'T YOU SEE WE'RE WATCHING NED AND THE CANNIBALS.
LISTEN! THE JUNGLE DRUMS!
Bum, Biddy, Bum-Bum!
THE KITCHEN'S ON FIRE! COME QUICK!
JUST A MINUTE, HONEY!

Whoop! Whoop! We catchum long pig!
HELP! THE HOUSE IS BURNING DOWN!
JUST A MINUTE, I SAID! THEY'RE ABOUT TO CAPTURE NED!
OH, MY GOSH! THEY'VE GOT HIM!
Biff! Bam! Lickety Whop!
HELP! SAVE MY HUSBAND!
"FORTUNATELY, THE PROGRAM ENDED JUST BEFORE THE ROOF CAVED IN."
BUT OLD SIMP HAD THE PRESENCE OF MIND TO SAVE HIS TV SET. YOU KNOW, BABY SISTER, HE'S NOT HALF AS STUPID AS PEOPLE THINK.
IF YOU ASK MY OPINION, I THINK YOU'RE BOTH A COUPLE OF JUVENILE, ADDLEPATED IDIOTS!
